The Examiner is in very frequent receipt of complaints in regard to the inequality of the city assessment. While there is general complaint that the assessment is unduly high, the chief complaint is in regard to the unequal appraisement of property. It is argued by those complaining, that assessing two vacant lots, lying alongside, and with no perceptible difference in frontage, or value, at $300 and $150 respectively, is unjust. Instances of similar jug-handled appraisement of residential property, are given. If these complaints are justified by the facts, there should be some investigation into the matter, and a remedy provided, for, before the law, all citizens should be equal, and the burden of taxation, based upon assessment, should be fairly imposed. It may be urged in extenuation that property owners have their remedy in the Court of Revision. This may do in some cases, such as excessive assessment, but a property owner's assessment slip does not permit him to make a comparison with the assessment of other properties; he only knows the extent to which he is "soaked," as the vulgate hath it, in respect of his own property, and if he assumes, as he should do under fair assessment, that the same rate of assessment is generally imposed, he does not feel that much would be gained by an appeal. But, if the assessment roll were printed for public information, he could easily make comparisons. The city assessors are only men, and are liable to errors in judgment, in regard to values, and their appraisement might reasonably be made known to the public who are interested, with a view of affording means of comparison, and of facilitating the remedying of errors of judgment and otherwise. The assessment of property is the most difficult of civic problems. Every facility should be afforded for making it just and equitable. One of the means to this end, now lacking, is the publication of the assessment roll. This may cost a little money, but it will be paid, not by the civic authorities, but by the ratepayers, who demand it. It is not fair that one citizen should pay more taxes than another, unless his taxation is fairly represented by property. But that one of two properties, of fairly equal values, should pay from two to ten dollars more than another is so manifestly unfair that there should be no hesitation in providing the measure of remedy by a comparison that would be afforded by the printing of the assessment roll.

DON'T GIVE UP THE SITE.

There seems to be a disposition among some members of the School Board, to surrender the Collegiate Institute building site in the Central Park, for the proposed Normal School. It is understood that when Mr. Colquhoun and Dr. Seath were being shown sites yesterday, they took a great fancy to the Collegiate Institute site. They should be allowed to "take it out," as the saying goes, in admiration. This site must not be taken from the Collegiate Institute. It is secured now and is the best available site in the city for its intended purpose. While we are quite willing to provide the best possible site for a Normal School, our first consideration is due to our own. As charity is popularly conceded to begin at home, so should our first solicitude be for our own children, their interests and convenience. The large majority of Collegiate Institute pupils are, and will continue to be, our own sons and daughters; and we should not be willing to give them for educational purposes, anything but the best it is possible for us to provide. Those who will attend the Normal School will come largely from outside the city, and while there is no objection to the Government doing the best in its power for Normal School students, it is unreasonable that we should be asked to, in a certain way, sacrifice the interests of our Collegiate Institute pupils, which we will do if we surrender the site selected for an Institute building. This site is the most valuable, most eligible, and, in every way, the most desirable, in Peterborough, and, if given for a Normal School building, stands to cost the city much more than any of the other sites it is proposed to provide; so that, if we give it up, the citizens will not only incur a larger expense, but with this extra expense we shall incur the additional penalty of depriving our sons and daughters of the advantages in regard to site, central position, and other things, now represented by the Central Park site. We want the most accessible and accessible site for ourselves. The reasons are not so urgent for placing the Normal School in a central position, so long as it is placed in contiguity to, or adjacent to, a good public school. There should be no difficulty anyway in finding among the ten sites looked over yesterday a good site that would be acceptable to the Government. In any event, it is hoped that the members of the Board of Education will hold what they have. They will be amply justified in so doing, for in so doing they will not only meet public approval but escape the public condemnation which would be certain to follow a surrender of the Central Park site for a Collegiate Institute building.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Grand Trunk Pacific Railway is not permitting much prairie grass to grow under its feet. It is expected that the steels will, in the early autumn, have been laid upon the track of their new railway between Winnipeg and Edmonton, something like a thousand miles.

Another head for the Whitney guillotine basket. "Charges" have been preferred against Principal Gardner of the Ontario Institute for the Blind, at Brantford. This is doubtless the first move in the game to provide a place for some good Conservative, who is "in sympathy" with the policy of the Government. It will make little difference whether or not Mr. Gardner has done anything — it is not what he has done but what he is—a Liberal appointee—that constitutes the crime. It is about as sure death to have "charges" preferred against an official of Liberal proclivities, as it was to be "suspected" under the French Revolution.

The spoils system of the Whitney Government is not only hard upon the displaced officials, but it promises to be costly to the country. One would think that a Conservative who has been serving the cause and waiting for 32 years out of the saddle would be satisfied if he got some odious "Grit's" sit. But nothing of the kind. A few days ago was pay day at the Hamilton Asylum, and the expected increases to salary were made—in some cases. "Grit" officials who have done their work faithfully for years and won increases have been kept at the same level, while Tory officials who have necessarily been recently appointed in the stead of Grit officials have got the increases. And still some of them are not happy, they are kicking because they were not advanced still further over the heads of the "Grits." What, with bringing down the value of an Ontario dollar to ninety-six cents, and what with liberal rewards to Conservative appointees the luxury of Conservative Government is "running into money" pretty rapidly.

An Open Trench Caused Accident

Proprietor Johnston of Windsor Hotel Met With Mishap.

Last night as Mr. Arthur Johnston, proprietor of the Windsor Hotel, was driving along Water street between St. Paul's church and Dr. Jessie Hirneie's residence, his rig fell foul of an excavation on Water street. Mr. Johnston had his ankle badly sprained, being thrown out of his buggy, and the skin completely torn from his left hand. Mr. Johnston may sue the parties responsible for damages for the injuries received.

Reptile Found In Drinking Tap

Was Three Inches Long and Very Much Alive.

Is the city water alive? From a little incident which was brought to the notice of an Examiner representative it would appear so. Yesterday while Mr. Singer, of the Singer Supply Co., Simcoe street, was running off a pail of water for drinking purposes, a creature, commonly known as the leach, dropped from the tap into the pail. The reptile was three inches or more in length while lying naturally, but appeared to be composed of elastic when drawn out. It was very much alive and was on exhibition for the greater part of the afternoon.

Mr. D. Menzies Leaves Camp

Peterborough Man Who Has Been at Rosedale.

A Reidal correspondent to the Lindsay Post says: Mr. Dan Menzies breaks away from camp Wednesday evening after a 10 days' camp. He says he will return in 1907, and not alone. He will be in Peterborough for the big circus and the meeting of the Grand Lodge of the I.O.O.F., where 700 delegates will be in attendance. Peterborough will have a big time on Thursday, several excursions being run to the city on that day.

Peterboro' Boy Returns To Visit

Mr. Fred. Long Back From Park Rapids, Minn.

Mr. Fred Long, an old Peterborough boy, now of Park Rapids, Minn., is visiting his mother, Mr. Long, Sophia street, East City. Mr. Long, who left here some 14 years ago, is now secretary-treasurer of the Wilson Logging Co. This company has five camps, and last year took 14,000,000 feet of lumber to Minneapolis.

Had To Get Out Of Bed To Answer

Inquiries in Reference to House Advertisement in Examiner.

Sometimes an advertisement in The Examiner does its work too well. On Monday a condensed ad. was ordered in these columns, "House for sale." It was ordered in for three insertions, but after it appeared once it had done its work—the house was sold, and there was no further necessity for the ad. The paper had not been out an hour before there was a man around looking for the house, and two others came that evening. The next morning the advertisers had to get out of bed to answer telephone inquiry about it, and during the day seven persons called, and to one of them the house was sold.

This morning before 9 o'clock the gentleman telephoned this office giving peremptory instructions not to insert the ad. in to-day's paper. Three persons had been around before that time this morning to look at the house.

It doesn't require a sledge hammer to drive the moral of this story in, does it?

APPEARING OLD

Acts as a Bar to Profitable Employment.

You cannot afford to grow old.

In these days of strenuous competition it is necessary to maintain, as long as possible, one's youthful appearance.

It is impossible to do this without retaining a luxuriant growth of hair.

The presence of dandruff indicates the presence of a burrowing germ which lives and thrives on the roots of the hair until it causes total baldness.

Newbro's Herpicide is the only known destroyer of this pest, and it is as effective as it is delightful to use.

Herpicide makes an elegant hair dressing as well as dandruff cure.

Accept no substitute — there is none.

Excursion From Barrie In City

Under Auspices of the Triple-Linked Brethren of That Town.

Almost five hundred excursionists from the town of Barrie, on the shores of Lake Simcoe, are in the city to-day. The excursion is under the supervision of the Barrie Oddfellows, who are taking part in the big celebration. Upon their arrival at noon by a special train, the greater part of them boarded the street cars for Jackson Park, where dinner was partaken of.

A number of the local Oddfellows met their brethren at the station and informed them of the programme of the day. Most of the visitors took in the round trip on the street cars, and the voyage over the Lift Lock, and expressed themselves as delighted with the city, and, particularly, the famous lock. As they leave at seven o'clock, they were unable to hold any sports, as was their original intention, the time being too short to allow of this.

The committee in charge of the excursion, was A. W. Bell, chairman, Peter Soles, Wm. Sens, Herbert Robertson, John Penny and others.

Auto Scares An Otonabee Horse

Young Lady Thrown Violently Into The Ditch.

Miss Olive Matchett, daughter of Mr. Matchett, Otonabee, was the victim of an accident this morning, which, fortunately, was accompanied by few serious results. She was driving home from the city after completing some shopping, when she was met, by an auto in front of Mr. Kitney's residence, just beyond the locks bridge. The horse became badly frightened, turning the buggy upside down and throwing Miss Matchett into the ditch. Although badly shaken up, the young lady was not seriously injured, but the vehicle was smashed in several places.

The damage was soon repaired sufficiently to allow her to drive home.

Tea Meeting At Hiawatha School

An Interesting Function on Friday Aug. 17th.

A tea meeting will be held at Hiawatha on Tuesday, August 17th, in the grounds adjoining the school house. Tea will be served from 5 to 8 p.m. and will be followed by a sacred concert in the church by the Indian choir, assisted by other artists. A feature will be the selections in the Indian tongue. The proceeds are for the funds of the church, and since the cause is a worthy one, should be supported.

FIRE ENGINE TEST HELD LAST NIGHT

A large number of the visitors were shown the efficiency of the new Peterborough fire engine last night, in one of its tests, at the corner of Brock and Aylmer streets. The test was not at all devoid of amusing incidents, and at one time a fireman had his feet taken from under him by the runaway hose. The latter was finally caught by a couple of men who rescued the crowd from being sprinkled. Two other firemen, it is understood, had narrow escapes from drowning in the crowd, but were finally rescued from their perilous position. There was also a hydrant test at the corner of Simcoe and George streets, where the Siamese stream—two in one—was exhibited. Many of the ladies emerged from it with some crimps and tints, and complain of the carelessness of the firemen in allowing the to occur.

WHY NOT PLACARD OUT-GOING TRAINS

At the Grand Trunk station there are three outgoing trains at about the same hour in the morning—two in the same direction. In the case of the latter it is difficult for even citizens, not to speak of strangers, to decide which train to board and as related in the news columns of to-day's issue, a party took the wrong one the one for Lindsay was taken, and of course, there was great disappointment and disgust—and very properly, too, great indignation. All this inconvenience by this mishap, which is only a type of what may happen any day, could be avoided by having the several trains placarded, something that will cost little, and avoid costly mistakes on the part of passengers, the guests of the railway.

The New York Stock Market

(Furnished by J. R. Heintz & Co.)

New York, Aug. 8.—The continuance of the heat wave in New York put a damper on stock speculation today and the only movement worthy of note was the advance in Penna. It was strong from the opening and was bought in large blocks with apparent confidence.

The others were very dull, selling off during the first two hours of trading and then rallying when the strength in Penna. became so pronounced. C.P.R. made a new high figure early, then reacted easily to below last night's closing.

The afternoon dragged along and slowly worked to a lower level, closing dull, almost, at the low for the day.

LET THE FACTS BE KNOWN

One of the certainties of the season is that people are sober as they get hold of an Examiner glance at the classified advertisements. The human interest centered in these pages is an infallible attraction to all classes. This being the case don't you think it wise to make your announcements, declare your wants and express your wishes where thousands of people look every day? It's so inexpensive, too.

2,000 YEARS IN TABLEAUX.

More Than One Thousand Players Take Part in Grand Historical Pageant at Warwick Castle.

A pageant which can only be compared in point of magnificence and historical interest to the "Passion Play" at Oberammergau has just been enacted in England. There, on the green of Warwick Castle, whose like is not to be found in the Midlands, the story of 2,000 years was told in tableaux. More than a thousand players, many of them great nobles, took part in the dramatic story, and from all parts of the world came visitors to witness the unparalleled scene. From Australia and the United States 14 of the younger members of the great Warwick family were present and were a feature of the final spectacle, when the pageant was brought up to date and blended in the everyday life about the players.

Historical Moving Pictures.

The central figures in the pageant were the town and Castle of Warwick, and the idea was to re-enact scenes in which they had appeared, thus presenting what might be called historical moving pictures. One can well imagine how impressive must have been the scene, since the mere reading of an account of the pageant is like taking a special course in English history. Into 11 episodes have the designers of the fete divided the story of Warwick for the purposes of dramatic entertainment. The first three deal with the semi-historical phases, dating back to the Roman invasion, B. C. 55. At this early date Warwick ("the fortified town") was in existence, Kymbeline, a King of the Britons (Shakespeare's "Cymbeline"), and his son Caractacus figured prominently in the first episode, and the dawning of Christianity was represented.

The Bear and the Staff.

The second was devoted to the legendary wars of the first Earls of Warwick—Gwar, Arthal and Marvid. Arth, or Arthal, was the first Earl of the line, and from him and Marvid are derived the bear and the ragged staff," that are to be seen on the Warwick coat-of-arms to-day. The bear is derived from Arth, meaning bear, and the ragged staff is the result of a terrific encounter Marvid had with a giant, armed with an uprooted tree. The third scene was dedicated to a display of the deeds of Ethelfleda, daughter of Alfred the Great and wife of one of the Earls of Mercia, who won back the Midlands from the pagans. To her memory now stands a mound, or Keep, erected 1,540 years ago in Warwick Castle.

Famous Earls of Warwick.

The centre of the fourth tableau was Guy, an Earl of Warwick, who helped redeem England from the Danes, slew a gigantic boar at Windsor, the dear cow of Dunsmore, and a Northumberland dragon, crowning all these exploits by retiring to a cave, where he lived the life of a hermit and at last died. This cave may still be seen, about a mile distant from the castle at Guy's Cliffe, the seat of the Percys. Episodes five and six concerned the pious and foolish deeds of Roger, the second Norman Earl of Warwick, and Piers Gaveston, the friend of Edward II. The seventh scene introduces the greatest of the Warwicks, the Kingmaker. In the famous Wars of the Roses this earl dominated the situation, making first Lancaster King and then York, as best suited his pleasure. He was depicted as a man of remarkable craft, but of great courage and perseverance.

In Tudor Times.

Henry VIII. was introduced in the eighth episode, for he granted a charter to the town and school at Warwick. The latter had been established at an earlier period, but Henry VIII. freed it from clerical control and ordered that thereafter it should provide education free of charge to the Warwick children. Lady Jane Grey, the victim of the plottings of John Dudley, Earl of Warwick and Duke of Northumberland, was the heroine of the ninth episode, and this we can imagine to have been one of the most moving spectacles in the pageant. It was followed by the Elizabethan episode, in which Robert of Leicester figured as the Queen's favorite. Robert was a Dudley, a younger brother of Lady Grey's husband, and a son of John Dudley, Earl of Warwick and Duke of Northumberland. Elizabeth, as a sign of her favor to Leicester, created his brother, Ambrose, Earl of Warwick. After his death most of the property reverted to the Crown, and rested there until bestowed again by James I.

The Fatal Celebration.

The present start derives its connection with the house back to the time when Sir Fulke Greville obtained the castle in fee and made of it the place of strength and beauty it is to-day. The final spectacle portrayed the illomened entertainment given to William III. by Lord Brooke, at Warwick. On this occasion there was a gigantic bonfire made in the court and 180 gallons of punch were consumed by hosts and guests. A combination of intoxicated revelers and unheeded fire resulted in the burning down of most of the town and the destruction of priceless specimens of architecture. The castle itself luckily escaped with small injury, but was severely scorched in 1871. To-day it stands completely restored, and the background of the noble walls make a fitting frame for the most remarkable pageant of modern times.

Spoons.

Spoons are of nearly the same size all over the civilized world, and four tablespoonfuls make what in medical phraseology is denominated a wineglassful.

Oldest Monument in the World.

Perhaps one of the very oldest monuments is the tablet in a Berkshire church in memory of a soldier who had his left leg taken off "by the above ball," the actual cannon ball being inserted at the top.

A Mayor For the Babies.

James Broadbent, mayor of Huddersfield, England, is making the proper care of babies a leading feature of his administration. He issues instructions as to their feed and says a baby should be weighed every fortnight to keep "tab" on its nutrition. A baby weighing machine is kept at the mayoralty office for the purpose.

Decoration Of Chivalry Was Their Merited Reward

Brilliant Ceremony Conducted by Canton Toronto, No. 7, Last Night—Mrs. Ryan and Miss Preston, of Toronto, Rewarded for Their Services to the Order.

As a reward for long and faithful service, the Degree of Chivalry was last night conferred upon Mrs. L. C. Ryan, Toronto, Past President of the Rebekah Assembly, and Miss A. Preston, Past Noble Grand of Viola Rebekah Lodge, of Toronto, by Canton Toronto, No. 7, Patriarchs Militant.

This most impressive and picturesque ceremony, the most interesting, perhaps, from the view-point of the public, took place in the market hall, and was witnessed by the majority by the visiting brethren, including a large representation of the Rebekahs, as well as many Peterborough citizens.

The ceremony, which is indeed a most picturesque one, was admirably put on by Col. W. S. Johnston, Department Commander of Ontario, and his staff, assisted by Canton Toronto, No. 7, Patriarchs Militant, and a number of lady assistants.

The drill of the Canton was smartly and cleverly done, and the whole ceremony was carried out gracefully, and without a hitch, much to the delight of the large audience, who found the event interesting in the extreme. The 57th band was present, and their excellent music was greatly enjoyed.

Have Served Faithfully.

Those upon whom was conferred the signal honour last night have shown their faithfulness to Oddfellowship for many years, and the recognition of their services was something that was due to them in view of their many years' work on behalf of the Order. Mrs. Ryan was instrumental in securing a banner for Canton Toronto, and also assisted greatly in the Oddfellows' Home, at Oakville. An incident which showed the esteem in which she is held by the inmates of that institution, was the presentation to her of a handsome bouquet of flowers from the inmates.

The programme opened with a selection of old Scotch airs by the band, which was greeted with loud applause by the visitors.

The conferring of the Degree of Chivalry followed, and was viewed with great interest, especially by the large number of Oddfellows present, who fully appreciated the significance of the occasion. The ceremony was put on with all the picturesque and dramatic effects customary with the Patriarchs Militant, and the gay uniforms of the Canton, with their flashing swords, the encampment of tents as a background, and the white dresses of the ladies, formed a very striking picture.

Handsome Jewels.

At the conclusion of the degree, Mrs. Ryan and Miss Preston were presented with the jewels of the degree, a most handsome decoration. The bar is emblematic of the rising sun, in the centre of which is a diamond. The pendant, which is supported by three links, is in the shape of a Maltese cross, and is of white enamel, edged with gold. In the centre of the pendant is a red enamel heart, containing a golden crown; on the back are the words; "Be just, merciful, honourable and brave."

Clever Drill.

The Canton Toronto then went through some highly interesting and well executed manoeuvres, which demonstrated that they are a remarkably well trained body. The movements were carried out with a precision and soldierly bearing that would have done credit to a regiment of British regulars.

Col. Johnston, the department commander of Ontario, at the conclusion of the conferring of the degree, gave a short address in explanation of what had taken place. He stated that the degree was a most signal honour, and was only conferred for honourable and meritorious service on behalf of Oddfellowship. The speaker referred in warm terms of appreciation to the great assistance rendered by Mrs. Ryan and Miss Preston, the two ladies upon whom the degree had been conferred.

Boquet From Aged Oddfellows.

Mrs. Ida G. Robins, of Galt, the newly elected president of the Rebekah Assembly, on behalf of the inmates of the Oddfellows' Home at Oakville, presented Mrs. Ryan with a very handsome floral tribute, as a mark of appreciation of her services on their behalf.

Mrs. Ryan made a graceful reply, in which she stated that she had been recommended for the degree of Chivalry nineteen years ago. She referred to the presenting of a banner to Canton Toronto in Peterborough, nineteen years ago, at which time she had raised funds for a banner for the Peterborough branch which, she remarked, was still hanging in the lodge room.

Other Presentations.

In addition to the conferring of the degree several other important events took place last night. Col. Johnston and his staff were presented with a very handsome department flag, bearing the insignia of the Order, by the ladies of Rebekah Lodge, Toronto. The presentation was made by Mrs. W. J. Foster of Toronto, and an address eulogising Col. Johnston for his faithful services, was read by Mrs. F. Smith of Toronto.

Col. Johnston made a neat speech in reply, thanking the Lady Rebekahs for their splendid gift.

This, however, did not end the presentations. Capt. Deinholt, of Canton Toronto, No. 7, was called, and on behalf of the Toronto Rebekahs, was presented with a magnificent set of Patriarchs Militant colours of red, white and purple silk, for the Canton. Mrs. W. R. Pearce, Toronto, made the presentation, and Mrs. S. R. Johnston, Toronto, read an appreciative address. Captain Deinholt voiced the thanks of Canton Toronto gracefully.

This brought the ceremonies to a close and the Oddfellows proceeded to renew old acquaintances, and make new ones, in the gathering, while the band rendered enjoyable music.

The staff of the Patriarchs Militant, who conferred the degree, were Col. W. S. Johnston, Department Commander of Ontario; Captain John A. Macdonald, Commissary; Captain W. J. Foster, Assistant Adjutant-General; Captain George C. Mortimore, Quartermaster; Major J. W. Smick, M.D., Surgeon; Lieut. C. C. Cutts, Bannerst Sergt.; Major A. W. Smith and Captain H. W. Taylor, Chaplain.

The Supreme Orient Held Annual Meeting

Opened This Afternoon at 4.30 in the Market Hall—The Reports of the Supreme Monarchs and Supreme Clericus Were Presented—Past Year Was a Successful One.

This afternoon at 4.30, in the Market Hall, the annual meeting of the Supreme Orient of the Oriental Order of Humility and Perfection, opened, with a large number of the members of that degree in attendance. This session will be continued to-night, after tea, when the degrees of Perfection will be conferred on a number of candidates who are desirous of entering into this branch of the Oddfellows' Order.

Tribesman from many points in the great Sahara of Ontario, will be present to receive this distinguished mark of the Order.

The Shieks who compose the Supreme Orient, assembled in the Market Hall this afternoon at 4.30, when the Supreme Monarchist, of Toronto, opened the session, and the regular business was proceeded with the first of which was the reception of the report of the Supreme Monarchist, which was in part as follows:

Sheikha, — Our caravans have reached the oasis of Peterborough, in the great desert of Ontario, for the purpose of holding the sixth annual convocation of the Supreme Orient of this ancient and august Order, and to this exalted symposium of Sheikhs I cordially welcome you, camels are browsing and resting after your pilrimages across the desert I invite you to attend our counsels, so that you may create such laws as may be found necessary for the better government of the Sheikhs and Tribesmen of our great institution.

State of the Order.

I am pleased to report that since our last convocation our Order has made most satisfatory progress, while prospects for the future are of the most encouraging character. During the past year eight new Sanctorums have been chartered while an application for another has been received by the Supreme Clericus since the close of the term. The total number of registered tribesmen on the books of the Supreme Orient, on June 30, 1906, was 6767, as against 5599 on the same date last year, a gain of 1168 since our last gathering.

He suggests that a special session of the Supreme Orient be held at the oasis of Toronto, on Sept. 17th, for the purpose of conferring the degree of Perfection. He expressed the belief that this year would be a record breaker in this branch of the Order.

Supreme Clericus' Reports.

Abner Fraser, the Supreme Clericus, presented his report, which was of a most interesting character. In part it was as follows:

I have the honour to herewith submit for your consideration my fifth annual report. It affords me satisfaction, and I know it will be gratifying to you, to hear that our shadow is not growing less, but on the contrary it is getting broader and longer, the increase in our dimensions for the year ending June 30, 1906, being eight chartered sanctorums and 1242 registered members, making a grand total of 78 chartered sanctorums and 6767 registered members, with prospects of a very substantial addition during the coming year. Byrakus Sanctorum No. 79 has been started July 24, at Malden, Mass., and when they get going I expect them to come with a rush that will take the shine out of all our past records. It therefore behooves the sanctorums that are now well to the front to look to their laurels. Makhsamat-asar Sanctorum No. 48, of Herkimer, N.Y., now leads with a score of 344; El Mahdi Sanctorum No 50, of Winnipeg, Man., is in second place with 278; Yezidee Sanctorum No. 2, of Hamilton, Ont., is third with 265; Omar Sanctorum No. 60, of Ogdensurg, N.Y., fourth with 250, and Xerxes Sanctorum No. 1 is fifth with 216. Cyrieus Sanctorum No. 24, of Peterborough, Ont., has made a grand effort, putting 135 neophytes over the jumps since January 1, 1906.

Welcome.

I welcome you to the prosperous city of Peterborough, well known for its hospitality to the stranger. I have some recollection of the treatment meted out to myself and other odd people in the summer of 1887, and if they do to you anything like what they did 19 years ago, some of you will have to let out a few inches of slack.

The receipts for the year were $849, and the expenditures $845.69.

The business session will be continued this evening, and afterwards the Degree of Perfection will be conferred.

Last night at the close of the Decoration of Chivalry at the Market Hall, the Oriental Degree of Humility was conferred upon a number of candidates, with the usual incidents of ceremonies. At its conclusion, about 3 o'clock this morning, the moon feast was partaken of.

Cordage Company To Open A Branch Office

Mr. Howard Warnm Will be Manager of Sales Office in the Maritime Provinces—Company's Expanding Business Makes Branch Office Necessary.

The Canadian Cordage Company has decided upon an important new development of its business. It is stated that in a short time a branch office of the company will be opened at St. John, N.B., or Halifax, N.S., the city not having been definitely decided on yet, and from this branch the sales of the company in the Maritime Provinces will be handled.

Mr. Howard Warnm, who has been on the office staff of the company for the last two years, will take charge of the new branch. He will leave in a short time to size up the situation in that section, and decide in which city the branch office should be located, and as soon as a decision on this point has been reached the office will be opened.

The business of the company in the Maritime Provinces has increased rapidly during the last few years, and it has been found necessary to open a branch office in order that the business may be more expeditiously handled.

Old Peterborough Man Wins Long-Fought Suit

Mr. Theodore Ludgate Retains Dead Man's Island—His Right to Which Was Disputed by the City of Vancouver—Will Erect Factories at Once.

The suit which has remained so long unsettled between the city of Vancouver and Mr. Theodore Ludgate, an old Peterborough boy, and brother-in-law, of Mr. R. R. Hall, M. P., has at last been decided, and Mr. Ludgate wins out after years of litigation. Mr. J. J. McBain, who returned from the West last night, informed the Examiner of the result of the case, which aroused a lot of interest in Peterborough some time ago.

Mr. Ludgate some nine years ago obtained a lease on Deadman's Island, in Vancouver Harbour, on which he proposed erecting factories. His right to the property was disputed by the city of Vancouver, and the case has been in the courts ever since. A decision recently given declares the island to be the property of the Dominion Government, and hence Mr. Ludgate's claim to the property remains good.

It is understood that Mr. Ludgate will proceed with the erection of several large manufactories on the property about which there has been so much trouble.

Manitoba Wheat Crop Will Be Good Average

Mr. J. J. McBain Returns From a Trip to British Columbia and West--Marvellous Advancement and Growth in Evidence Everywhere.

Mr. J. J. McBain, the well known local real estate agent, returned to the city after a business visit of several months in British Columbia. While away Mr. McBain did considerable real estate business at the coast, disposing of some property and buying more. The trip was made by way of Detroit, Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul, Moose Jaw and Calgary, so that Mr. McBain was enabled to see a large stretch of the west country.

To an Examiner representative today Mr. McBain expressed the opinion that Western Canada was a wonderful country and was going ahead by leaps and bounds. Mr. McBain took a trip west last year and the difference in that short time was remarkable. Towns which were not in existence last year are flourishing now, and the others have grown larger and more prosperous. A vast improvement is apparent in building operations.

Speaking of the wheat conditions Mr. McBain said that the crop this year would be a good fair average. It is just colouring now and will be ready for harvest in a few weeks provided the weather conditions are favourable. The farmers were satisfied with the prospects and were sure that the crop would be as good as the average.

The trade and shipping of Vancouver, according to Mr. McBain, are enormous, and steamers have doubled the extent of the shipping at that port. Mr. McBain found many Peterborough boys in Vancouver, all of whom are doing well and satisfied that they are living in the best city in the country. Mr. Geo. C. McBain, Mr. McBain's brother, and an old Peterborough boy, is in the real estate field in Vancouver and is handling a large amount of business. Among others Mr. McBain saw Mr. Herb Kempt, formerly of Peterborough, and now manager of the British Columbia Telephone Company, who is doing well in the west. Mr. J. S. Langher, also an old Peterborough boy, who has been in Vancouver for nine years, is prosperous and well satisfied with British Columbia, and especially with the city in which he is living.

Whatever the climate of British Columbia may be in the winter, as it is just now Mr. McBain thinks it an better than the breed the Ontario weatherman hands out in the vicinity of Peterborough.

Mr. McBain is strong on his faith in the possibilities offered in the west, and at the prospects before that country.

Fire Chief Will Take Horse Back

Has Deposited Cheque for $200 With City Treasurer.

In reference to the criticism by certain members of the city council regarding the purchase of a horse for the fire hall from Chief Rutherford, that gentleman when seen today by the Examiner, said that he was not paid to, neither was he authorized to purchase horses for the department. He bought the horse in question, knowing that he was a good sound animal, for fire purposes. The horse was bought by him on his own responsibility and paid for by Mr. Rutherford's own money.

Mr. Rutherford later offered the equine to the city for $200 and the animal was examined by the chairman of the committee, the Mayor, and other authorities on good horse flesh. They decided to buy him from Mr. Rutherford and carried out the transaction.

"Now," continued Mr. Rutherford, "as Ald. Graham, Duncan and Johnston do not appear to be satisfied with the deal made, I have this morning placed in the hands of the city treasurer, a marked cheque for $200, and am anxious that the horse be returned to me at once. I am not a grafter and I want it clearly understood if Messrs. Graham, Duncan and Johnston have any charges against me as a public officer I am ready and willing to meet them."

Settlement Must Be Made First

Before Mrs. Bowman Can Get C. P. R. License.

Mrs. Bowman is not yet in possession of the C. P. R. license. The solicitor for the present license holder stated to the Examiner to-day, that as soon as Mr. Allan settled with him, the transfer would be made to Mrs. Bowman in response to the application, but, until this was done there would be no transfer. If a settlement is not effected, an injunction will probably be applied for to prevent Mr. Allen from attempting to dispose of the license.

A Church Picnic Held At Chandos

Rev. Father Phelan Will Hold One on Saturday.

Rev. Father Phelan will hold a picnic at the Church of the Purification of the Blessed Virgin, in Chandos, on Saturday next, and he expects a large gathering of his friends from that part of the county.

The usual programme of speeches and sports will be given and a pleasant day is anticipated.

"Loving" Cup Up For Competition

For a Baseball Game at the Printer's Picnic.

The feature of the Printers' picnic on Civic Holiday, to Idyl Wyld will be the baseball game which will be played between the Review and Times and Examiner teams. The Committee has decided to donate a handsome "loving" cup which will be held for the year by the team winning the game, and each year the cup will be put up for competition until won for three years in succession by one team.

This cup is a handsome piece of metal—precious of course—gold lined, and stands about 8 inches high on a pedestal, and no doubt it will be highly prized by the winners. For this game the Examiner office will play a picked team from the Review and Times, and the contest will be one for blood.

It will be worth while going to the picnic if for nothing else than to see the Examiner nine from the combined team.

American Ball Team Coming

Are Camping at Burleigh Falls —Here on Saturday.

The Black Bass Fishing Club, composed of gentlemen from different parts of the State of Pennsylvania, who are now at Burleigh Falls, are trying to arrange a game of baseball with a local team. 52nd Annual Meeting of the Grand Lodge of Ontario.

but in their homes and in their business.

His Worship the Mayor, before retiring, stated that street cars had been placed at the service of the Order, an announcement that was received with great applause.

THIS MORNING'S BUSINESS

Considerable business was transacted at this morning's session, after the opening ceremonies had taken place.

The Grand Master announced that the growth of the order in the last six months had been the greatest in its history, the figures showing a gain of over 2000 in membership.

Many Took Degrees.

The Grand Lodge Degree was conferred upon the greatest number of new representatives that ever attended a Grand Lodge meeting. The degree was conferred by Grand Warden Brett, P.G.M., of Essex.

The chairman of the Grand Committee of Entertainment for the convention of the Sovereign Grand Lodge in Toronto, during September made an appeal to the representatives present and to the members of Ontario, to unite in making this the greatest fraternal gathering ever held in Ontario.

Greetings were received by telegraph from the Grand Lodge of Alberta, now in session, and also from the Grand Lodge of the Maritime provinces, to which replies were sent. The Canadian Order of Foresters from their head office at Brantford, also sent a message of friendly greeting to the Grand Lodge.

The reports from the Grand Officers were then received and referred to the different committees.

Grand Master's Report.

Grand Master Hewett, of Listowel, in presenting his annual report, referred to the Grand Lodge meeting held last year in Brockville, when the Order fittingly celebrated its golden jubilee in the town of its birth at that time. He thanked the brethren for the honour conferred upon him last year in his election to the office of Grand Master, and referred to his visits to various parts of Ontario, which had been extremely pleasant and beneficial to himself and he trusted, helpful to the lodges and the brethren. He endeavored to pay as many visits as possible to the different districts, and he thanked the brethren for their loyalty and assistance. The Order seemed to be sharing in the general prosperity of the country, and he trusted that this session of the Grand Lodge in Peterborough might be in every way satisfactory and successful, both as regards friendships formed and the business transacted. He dwelt upon the coming session of the Sovereign Grand Lodge, which meets in Toronto in September, and thanked the members of the Order for contributions and subscriptions in reference to the coming S. G. L. session, and for the purpose of relieving the distressed ones who suffered so severely in the San Francisco earthquake.

The past year has been one of wonderful progress and prosperity to the Order in Ontario, numerically and financially, and its record had also been sustained in a similar manner for benevolence and good work. The number of lodges on December 31, 1905, was 767; reinstated since that date, 2; number of new lodges instituted since that date, 11; total number of lodges at the present time, 820.

The membership on December 31, 1904, was 30,468; membership, December 31, 1905, 32,272; net increase during the year, 1779 members.

The total amount paid out for relief during the year 1905 was $108,718.16, and the total assets of the Order over all liabilities on December 31, 1905, was $1,307,943.34.

During the first term of the year 1906 the net increase in membership is reported at 1620, bringing the membership up to 33,892 on June 30, 1906. This does not include the membership of two new lodges instituted during July and August, nor the increase that may be shown by the 50 lodges, whose reports are not yet received.

The 11 new lodges instituted during the year were at Newmarket, Odessa, Brighton, Kingston, Haileybury, Parkdale Lodge of Toronto, Blyth, St. David's, Elmvale, Rainy River and Grimsby. Lodges reinstituted were Peabody Lodge at Watford, and West Lorne.

The Grand Master then referred to a large number of official visits paid during the year, and also to visits to the Home for Aged Oddfellows, and the Widows of Oddfellows, and the Orphanage. There are eight inmates in the Old People's Home at present, all well cared for. There are no inmates in the Orphans' Home, although it is thoroughly furnished and ready for use. It was peculiar indeed that thus far there had been no applications for admission there.

The Sovereign Grand Lodge meeting in Toronto next month has so far had subscribed by the subordinate lodges of Ontario about $6,000, and $500 for the Encampment branch, and the Executive Committee feel that it is necessary to ask the Grand Lodge to contribute $1,500 or so much of that sum as may be found necessary for the proper reception and entertainment of the Sovereign Grand Lodge.

In the California catastrophe about 5000 Oddfellows were rendered homeless, and about $1,700 was sent as a subscription from the subordinate lodges of Ontario for the relief of their distressed brethren.

JOSEPH POWLEY,
Of Toronto Elected Yesterday to the Office of Grand Patriarch, Grand Encampment of Ontario.

A large number of lodges of instruction had been held during the year, and were most beneficial to Oddfellowship.

In closing, the Grand Master referred to the efficiency and worth, caution and kindness of J. B. King, grand secretary of the Order, who had been 30 years in office, and he thought it would be fitting for the Grand Lodge to recognize this fact in some tangible form. He also referred to the good work of the grand treasurer, Grand Lodge solicitor, the auditors and the "Independent Oddfellow," the official organ of the Order.

He suggested that the representatives to the Sovereign Grand Lodge be instructed to bring up for consideration the question of the Ontario Grand Lodge admitting candidates at the minimum age of 18 years, instead of 21.

Grand Secretary's Report.

The Grand Secretary, Mr. J. B. King, in his report, stated that the total expenditure for all purposes of benefits and relief, which includes every branch of the Order and its auxiliaries, had amounted to the past forty-nine years to the almost fabulous sum of $3,751,606.50. Veterans' jewels had been presented during the year to 177 Oddfellows.

The record of the Oddfellows Relief Association had established its right to rank as a grand auxiliary to the work of the Order, and fully justified the recognition bestowed upon it by the Grand Lodge. Its present membership was 20,142; mortuary rate, 6.93; total revenue in 1906, $256,543.97; death claims paid, $165,433.68. The total number of deaths in 1906 was 181.

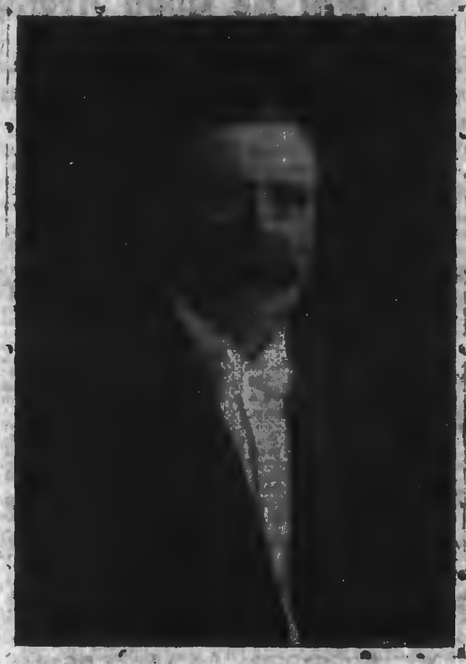
The total receipts for the Oddfellows' Home during the year ending June 30th, 1906, were $4,382.18, and the expenditure, $3,994.16.

Out of a membership in 1905 of 32,272, the total number of weeks' sickness was 28,843, or average per member of five days and four hours. In closing Mr. King referred to a number of prominent members of the Order who had passed away during the past year, and to the kindness received by him at the hands of Grandmaster Hewett, and other Grand Lodge officers. It had been given to him to enjoy the unique distinction of being in point of consecutive years of service, the senior Grand Lodge officer under the jurisdiction of the Grand Lodge. He felt it a privilege beyond his deserts to be still associated with the men who make Oddfellowship prosperous and famous, and although he could not expect to see many more years of active service he hoped to carry with him to the end of his life the confidence, esteem and loyal affection which had during these many years been bestowed upon him by his brethren.

Subjoined to the Grand Secretary's report was a table showing the rise and progress of the Order in Ontario during the last fifty years. In 1856 there were 12 lodges in the province, and on Dec. 31, 105, 307. The increase in membership had been correspondingly great. In 1856 it was 605; in 1905, 32,272. In 1856 there were initiated 171 candidates, and last year 2899. In 1856 the benefits paid out were $209, and in 1905, $106,718.17.

Grand Treasurer.

The report of W. J. McCormack, Grand Treasurer, showed that the total receipts from Jan. to Dec., 1905, was $22,986.82, and the expenditure $21,203.62, leaving a balance on hand of $1,783.20. In a later report of receipts and expenditures from Jan. 1st, to July 30th, 1906, the former was found to be $22,452.54, and the latter $9,079.91, leaving a cash balance in the Grand Treasurer's hands on July 30th, 1906, of $16,155.85; of which sum, $10,514.21 is at the credit of Grand Lodge account, and $5,-



MR. W. S. JOHNSTON,
Who Will Be Installed as Grand Master To-morrow.

641.42 to the credit of the Sovereign Grand Lodge account.

The Lodge then filed the hours of session for the remainder of the meetings, as follows: 9 a.m. to 12; and 2 to 5 p.m.

Adjournment was then made at 12 o'clock for luncheon.

At the conclusion of the afternoon session the Grand Lodge will accept the offer of the Mayor to a street car ride about the city.

NOTES OF THE GATHERING.

The parade of Canton, Toronto, headed by the 57th Band, to the Market Hall last night, was witnessed by a large number of citizens.

The playing of the 57th Band at the function last evening was magnificent and was greatly enjoyed by the visitors, who were delighted with the music. The Scotch airs proved irresistible to a number of the Lady Rebekah Lodge, evidently from the Land o' Cakes, who danced the Highland fling amid the cheers of the gathering.

The fire brigade gave an exhibition with the hose at the corner of Charlotte and George streets last night. The effect produced was that of a heavy thunderstorm, and street car passengers had to pass under the stream.

The Degree of Humility and Perfection was put through in great shape at the lodge rooms last night.

The parade to-night will take place at 7.30 sharp.

The election for Grand Warden of the Order was completed yesterday, and resulted in the election of Mr. A. B. McBride, of Waterloo, who took about 1,600 votes. Lt.-Col. Miller, of this city, who was a candidate, came 5th on the list.

Mr. Angus McIntosh will be the chief marshall in the parade this evening. He will be assisted by Messrs. Morgan, Jackson and Jobbitt.

Kidney Disease—Gravel.

"I was afflicted with kidney disease and gravel in its most severe form, having often a stoppage of water accompanied by the most dreadful agony. By using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills the disease was eradicated from my system in less than six months. I have gained in weight, sleep well and feel better than I have for twenty years."—Mr. W. Smith, Port Dalhousie, Ont.

Rebekah Assembly Elected New Officers

Mrs. Ida G. Robins, of Galt, is the New President of the Order—Reports Received Were of an Encouraging and Satisfactory Nature.

Yesterday afternoon's session of the Rebekah Assembly, was a busy one, the meeting getting through a large amount of business during the afternoon. The session was taken up with the receiving of reports, including that from the Election Committee.

Reports were received from the District Committee, Finance Committee, Memorial Committee and Judiciary Committee, all of which showed a existing in the Order. The reports were adopted.

The Election Committee reports

The Election Committee reported as follows:

President, Ida G. Robins, Hamilton.

Vice-President, Mrs. Frank Smith, Toronto.

Warden, Mrs. Ella Barlow, Galt.

Secretary, M. A. Pierce, 233 Markham street, Toronto.

Treasurer, Mrs. Nellie Dodson, Chatham.

The Assembly adjourned at 6 o'clock to meet again this morning at 10. The ladies took advantage of the opportunity afforded by this late hour to take a trip over the lift lock this morning.

The following delegates are present:

Miss Mary Pierce, Toronto.
Tonie McKay, Louden.
Mrs. E Crosby, Windsor.
Mrs. Alex Morrison, Port Edward.
Mrs. Morrill, Chatham.
Mrs. Rachel Cross, St. Thomas.
Mrs. Mary Tinsy, Gananoque.
Mrs. Christina Edwards, Bridgeburg.
Mrs. Christina Stibbs, Sault Ste. Marie.
Mrs. Ella Barlow, Galt.
Miss Nellie Sinclair, Petrolia.
Mrs. Shinne, Waterloo.
Miss Annie Murtz, Harrisville.
Mrs. Bell, Wheatly.
Mrs. Emma Gage, Florence.
Miss Anastasia Kerley, Thamesford.
Mrs. A. Pinchard, Niagara Falls, South.
Mrs. Clarence Garner, Ingersol.
Mrs. Tinkiss, Avonmore.
Mrs. Lottie Hennenessy, Toronto.
Miss Edith Fennel, Newbury.
Mr. Geo. Griffith, Milton.

This morning the members of the Rebekah Lodges enjoyed a trip over the lift lock before starting the business of the day. The steamer Water Lily carried the ladies over the famous structure. The trip was a revelation to the visitors, and the novelty was greatly enjoyed.

On returning to the hall, the only business taken up was the report of the Nomination Committee, which was as follows:

Officers nominated for 1907—

For President, Sarah Smith, Toronto.

For Vice-President, Ella Barlow, Galt.

For Warden, Ruby Bell, Ottawa; Josie Brundrage, Windsor; Alice M. Young, Thamesford; Annie Bacon, Blenheim, and Mrs. Hennenessy, Toronto.

For Secretary, Sister Pierce, Toronto.

For Treasurer, Sister Dodson, Chatham.

Officers Elected Yesterday For The Grand Encampment

Mr. D. H. Moore Welcomed to The Encampment.

The Grand Encampment of the Ontario Grand Lodge of Oddfellows closed its annual session yesterday afternoon, when all the business under consideration had been concluded. Some important matters were up for consideration, one of the most radical being the recommendation of the Legislation Committee to the effect that the constitution be amended to change the date of the annual meeting of the Encampment from the Tuesday preceding, to the Friday succeeding, the Grand Lodge meeting. This will go to the next annual meeting as a recommendation from the committee.

Another matter upon which there was some considerable discussion was the proposal to hold biannial instead of annual sessions, and this, which was taken as a notice of motion, will also be left over until the next annual meeting for decision.

Mr. D. H. Moore, P. G. P., of Peterborough, was warmly welcomed to the Encampment amid rounds of applause and a unanimous vote. A vote of thanks was also passed to the retiring Grand Patriarch, Mr George C. Mortimore, of Toronto, after which the election of officers for the coming year took place, the result being as follows:

Grand Patriarch, Joseph Powley.
Grand High Priest, R. N. Jennings Palmerston.
Grand Senior Warden, Jas. Spence Brantford.
Grand Scribe, M. D. Dawson, London.
Grand Treasurer, Ed. Baltz, London.
Grand Junior Warden, Wm. Bushell, Windsor.
Grand Representatives — Ed. C. Garbutt, Picton, and Geo. C. Mortimore, Toronto.
Representatives to I.O.O.F. Home Board—A. H. Blakeley, Kingston, and James Robertson, Toronto.
Grand Marshall, A. McDermaid, Petrolia.
Grand Sentinel, Geo. E. Jones, St. Catharines.
Grand O. Sentinel, W. F. Ashley, Stirling.

After the officers had been duly installed, the Grand Encampment was closed with the usual ceremonies at 4.30 p.m.

GRAND LODGE MEETING OVER; SESSIONS FINISHED TO-DAY; ORILLIA NEXT MEETING PLACE

52nd Annual Meeting Concluded Its Labours at One O'lock To-day After Busy Session —Installation of Officers This Morning End the Convention---Many Amendments Made.

The fifty-second annual communication of the Grand Lodge Independent tOrder of Oddfellows is over having concluded its sessions at one o'clock this afternoon after a very busy meeting. The Lodge has carried out its business quickly and much to the satisfaction of the delegates was able to adjourn at an early hour this afternoon. The greater part of the delegates will leave for home to-night, although some will remain in the city for to-morrow.

Yesterday afternoon's session was taken up with the reports from the different committees and recommendations from various members. This morning more reports were received after which the Grand Officers were installed. It was decided to hold the meeting next year in Orillia, which town made a big bid for the Grand Lodge.

Afternoon Session.

On the opening of the afternoon session yesterday, Past Grand Master Hoyle, of Cannington, submitted a report of the committees on subordinate lodge bylaws. The report stated that the committee had examined and confirmed 95 codes or parts of codes. Three points were emphasized by Chairman Hoyle—1, That the committee on legislation re-draft section 104 of the constitution providing for disability benefit for non-payment of dues and to define how far the same shall apply to widows and funeral benefit; 2, Urging the lodge to refrain from printing any clauses of the constitution in the bylaw, the same being unnecessary and expensive; 3, Complaining of the tendency of the Grand Lodge to submit bylaws which appeared to be evasions of the fundamental laws of the Order with regard to payment of benefits and carrying out of financial obligations which represent the fundamental basis of Oddfellowship.

Finance Committee.

Joseph Oliver, Toronto, on behalf of the Finance Committee, reported concurring in an appointment by the Grand Master in appointing Aliner Fraser as associate auditor; endorsing the action of the General Purposes Committee in leasing the offices of the Grand Lodge in Toronto for three years at $660 per annum; approving of Grand Lodge and Grand Encampment in the Sovereign Grand Lodge parade at $100; confirming refund of monies paid by Watford and West Lorne Lodges at installation; granting $75 for the Oddfellows' tent at the Industrial Fair; placing $500 at the disposal of the Grand Master for the extension of the work; $1500 at use of the Executive Committee for entertainment of Sovereign Grand Lodge, and $1000 at the disposition of the Oddfellows' Home Committee for the current year.

The receipts for the year were $20,752.27, and the expenditures were $21,203.62, leaving a deficit by excess of mileage and per diem of the meeting in Brockville. The excess over average was $261.20, but the event was unusual, being the semi-centennial of the Order. Necessary appropriations for the meeting similar to last year's were passed.—Adopted.

Home Committee.

Dr. Campbell, Past Grand Sire and President of the Oddfellows' Home Committee, reported. The Executive Committee showed that last year the whole board nearly presented a balance. The deficit was about $100. The Home is practically out of debt, some $200 or $300 of unpaid accounts being the only liability. The Orphanage was furnished by the Rebekah Assembly, and has accommodation for 20 or 25 orphans. The property increased in value about 10 per cent., and if the projected electric railways are completed to Oakville a still further increase in value may be expected. The Finance Committee was asked to vote $1000 to the Home to place it on a sound financial foundation. The election of officers took place at the annual meeting of the directors on Tuesday evening, and resulted as follows:

President, Dr. Campbell, P.G.S.

Vice-President, W. H. Hoyle, P.G.M.

Secretary, J. R. King, G.S.

Treasurer, J. B. McCormick, G.S.

Comparison was made between the cost of the Oddfellows' Home in Ontario and 24 homes in the United States, and the first mentioned was found the third lowest, namely, $186 per capita per annum. The lowest record was that of Lockport, N.Y., at $156 per capita per annum. The report was adopted.

A. Insserr, Paris, on behalf of his committee, fixed the mileage and per diem at 85 per mile and $3 per day.

A. H. Blackeby, Kingston, from the Committee on Legislation, submitted his report. No. 1 dealt with clauses of the Grand Master's address, that the committee considered it inadvisable to enlarge the scope of assessments. No. 2 confirmed the alterations made in the constitution, last year regarding the chartering of subordinate and Rebekah lodges. No. 3 amended clauses 37 and 747 of the constitution regarding the transfer of members from one lodge to another. Members joining new lodges pay fees, members joining old lodges admitted free.

Amendments Recommended.

Chas. E. Steele, Port Colborne, on behalf of the Committee on Legislation, reported in favour of amending the laws so that members for 25 years must share social attentions, their only deprivation being of financial benefits. The recommendation was adopted.

F. Evanson, Prescott, from the Legislation Committee, recommended that clause 104 (revised laws) be amended so that the state of members in arrears are not entitled to death benefits. This was held over for further consideration.

W. H. Moss, Dundas, from the Legislation Committee, provided that lodges must be given withdrawal cards to be given members when they join new lodges. This was adopted.

J. R. Thomson, Windsor, from the Committee on Distracts, offered many suggestions of D.D.G.M.'s regarding suspensions, reduced expenses of Grand Lodge, and work on old, but weak, lodges.—Adopted.

Mr. Stansbury, from the District Committee, reported against the making of D.D.G.M.'s members of Grand Lodge.

Col. Cole, from the Advisory Committee, submitted a flattering report from the Oddfellows' Relief Association. The membership was over 20,000 on June 30. The surplus of assets over liabilities was $52,000 for the year. The reserve fund was over $400,000, and the assets over liabilities, $440,000. The rates were raised 20 per cent., the whole year to go to the reserve fund. The usual recognition was granted by the Grand Lodge. The references of the Grand Master and Grand Secretary were warmly recommended.

Long Service Recognized.

Past Grand Master Farren, Hamilton, regarding the 40 years' service of the Grand Secretary, the incoming Grand Master, asked to make application to the Sovereign Grand Lodge for the decoration of chivalry, and that $100 be appropriated for a fund. This was adopted with hearty applause.

E. A. Mills, Sarnia, from the Official Committee, endorsed what the Executive Committee had done re

The Cigarette By-Law Is Quashed By Order Of Court At Toronto

And the Dealers are To-day Placing These Goods on Sale Again—Order Passed Yesterday Declares By-law Ultra Vires—Reason, The License Fee Was Too High.

The Cigarette Bylaw, passed by the city council early in the year, and taking effect on July 1st, is a dead letter. It has been declared ultra vires by the court, Justice McMahon presiding, and, as a result, cigarettes may now be sold by dealers without having to deposit the $200 as provided for by the bylaw.

The court held that the sum fixed as a license fee, $200, was excessive.

The Toronto Globe to-day, referring to the judgment, says:

Re William Ernest Talbot and Thomas William McDonough and the corporation of the City of Peterborough.—Judgment (L.) Motion for an order to quash a bylaw passed by the Municipal Council of Peterborough, on the 8th day of May, 1906, regulating the sale of cigarettes, on the ground (among many others) that the fee of $200 for a license, without the payment of which no owner or keeper of a store or shop, (other than taverns or shops holding licenses under the liquor license act,) could sell cigarettes, was an excessive fee, and was in effect prohibitive. The bylaw came into force on the first of July last. The affidavits of several tobacconists of the city of Peterborough, were to the effect that the profits on sales of cigarettes were not sufficient to pay the license fee. The council for the City of Peterborough in fixing $200, as a reasonable license fee, relied on the judgment of the Court of Queen's Bench in Re Neilly and the town of Owen Sound, 37 O.L.R. 1875, 298. One of the best tests in reaching a conclusion as to whether the sum required to be paid for a license is extravagant and unreasonable, is that stated by Hagarty, C.J., in the Neilly case, at p. 292: "What must be considered is whether the license fee is disproportionate to the nature and profits of the business, and so in fact amounting to a prohibition." Held that the bylaw is ultra vires, and order to go quashing the bylaw with costs. Daniel O'Connell, Peterborough, for applicants; E. D. Hall, Peterborough, for city of Peterborough.

This afternoon the local dealers, who had the cigarettes in stock, placed them on sale again, while those who had disposed of their stock, will re-order at once.

Steamer Erindale Burned; Cook Probably Perished

A Disastrous Fire at the Newcastle Wharf Last Night—Belief That Fire Was Set by Someone From Outside.

Examiner Special.

Bowmanville August. 9. — The steamer Erindale of Toronto, was burned this morning at Newcastle, five miles from here. The crew of 18, all escaped in their night clothes, except the cook Mrs. Canstine, who is missing, and is feared to have perished, either in the fire, or by drowning. The boat was valued at $14,000, and was insured for about one-half this amount. The manager of the boat, who was on board, believes that the fire was started by some persons from the outside, as spots of oil are noticed on the pier, as through cans had been dropped there.

Was Injured While Bathing

Accident to Son of Mr. R. W. Hamilton, Formerly of Peterborough.

The Fenelon Falls Gazette gives the following account of an accident to Beresford Hamilton, son of Mr. R. M. Hamilton: While bathing near the surveyors' camp at Rosedale on Tuesday, Beresford Hamilton, eldest son of Mr. R. M. Hamilton, of the Falls, had his right foot badly cut by a broken bottle, which some person had thrown into the shallow water near the lime shore. The boy, who is about 10 years of age, suffered a great deal of pain, and had to be carried to the wharf at Rosedale, and from the wharf to here when the Kawartha got home. It is certainly better for campers to deposit their broken glassware and crockery in the lake than to leave it lying about the face of the earth, but it should be taken out and sunk in deep water, where neither swimmer nor diver can possibly be injured by it.

Pope Pius X. Has Severe Attack Of Heart Failure

And as Result Physician Orders Complete Rest.

Special to The Examiner.

Rome, August 9. — Pope Pius X was seized with a severe attack of heart failure after the fatiguing ceremonies in celebration of the third anniversary of his coronation. Dr. Lapponi, the Pontiff's physician, was called, and was able to relieve the patient. He directed the Pope to have complete rest.

Serious Charge Against Hotelman

Charged With Alienating the Affections of Mrs. Waters.

G. Waters has taken out a writ against Jas. Allen, of the C.P.R. for $10,000 for the alleged alienation of his wife's affections and for having, so the writ alleges, caused her to desert the plaintiff, her husband, and for wrongfully harbouring and wrongfully enticing away the wife of the said plaintiff.

Pickpockets Are Hot On The Job

Touched a Farmer for $10 and Wallet.

The circus pickpocket is evidently getting in his work. The first report of loss of money was made at the Police Station this afternoon by a man from the country who was touched for $10 and wallet, while boarding a street car. The wallet he said, was in his inside coat pocket and he also remembered the time the money was taken. He got on the car at Hunter street, where the alleged light-fingered gent got in his work by stepping on and off the car. He missed the money at Simcoe street.

EDUCATION AND TEACHERS.

Quebec is to have hold a series of meetings in the interests of primary education, and the best feature of these meetings will be that they are not sectarian, nor partisan. They will be addressed by men of all shades of political opinion, and the aim is not to promulgate any specific remedy, but to arouse popular interest to take greater advantage of the existing educational machinery. This is needed in Ontario as well as in Quebec. Public apathy is one of the drawbacks of our own educational system. Lack of public interest accounts for the low condition of the teaching profession, as compared with what it might be made. Trustees, with a policy of false economy, which is doubtless a concession to the parsimony of school supporters, practice a scale of salaries, which discourages good teachers, and opens the gates of employment to a class willing to accept a remuneration which constitutes a fair measure of their abilities. The success of a school system depends more largely upon good teaching, than upon any one, or even many more, other conditions. Good teaching necessarily requires good teachers, and good teachers depend upon proper qualifications and experience, which comes only from a lengthened service, and depend upon a scale of remuneration which will attract the best element of the teaching profession and retain them. Remuneration sufficiently liberal, in turn depends upon the breadth of view, and judicious liberality of school trustees, and this brings us to the primary source to which we must look—the people. If public sentiment is not behind the idea of proper remuneration for teachers, sufficient to attract, and retain, teachers, there cannot be the improvement in popular or primary education which is so much to be desired. The movement in Quebec to enlist a more decided popular interest in education, is timely, in the interests of improved conditions.

GOOD IMMIGRANTS.

Much has been said of the undesirable character of immigrants which have been placed in the Canadian Northwest. Whatever force there may have once been in these objections, that is lacking now. The character of the immigrants now entering the Northwest is of the best, consisting briefly of residents of the British Isles — England, Ireland and Scotland. This is in sharp contrast to the immigration conditions in the United States, where the stream of undesirable immigration is inflowing in large volume. The chief constituents of this stream come from southern and central Europe, and consist of a class, which, in addition to being highly objectionable in itself, lends itself badly to assimulation in its new environment. While this class of immigrants to the United States is growing larger, there is a decrease of the better European elements — British, French, German and Scandinavian. On the contrary the great bulk of Canadian immigration is from the British Isles and the United States, the latter consisting largely of the better and more desirable class. Canada is now obtaining more immigrants from British sources than the United States. What we do receive are of a better class, and more likely to make good and progressive citizens, an important aid in developing and building up the country, and not liable to constitute a dangerous social or criminal element.

"How's Your Stomach"

is the way people in China say "Good Morning." The greeting of almost every nation is an inquiry after health. The Chinese have the root of the matter. A strong stomach is the foundation. Look after this organ and the general health cares for itself. Man is so constituted it cannot be otherwise. It is the mission of to keep the stomach well, the liver active and the bowels regular. They dispel sickness and create health. Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness or Constipation cannot exist when Beecham's Pills are used according to directions. For over 50 years they have cured disordered stomachs, and are now a world-famous remedy. They merit your confidence.

Sold Everywhere in Canada and U. S. America. In boxes 25 cents.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Much fun has been made, says the Montreal Herald, of the fact that the Eastern terminus of the (National Transcontinental) road, is to be at Moncton, an inland point. It is recalled, however, that when the first plans were made for the Canadian Pacific, the Eastern terminus was fixed at a point on the south shore of Lake Nipissing. Why? Because neither Montreal nor Toronto would consent to the other being named as the terminus, and, with an election on its hand, the Government of the day was in no hurry. As between the two cities, it was a case of the best man win. It is to be the same as between Halifax and St. John, no doubt, and there is no hurry for a decision.

At Young's Point Summer Resorts

Many Visitors Coming to and Going From This Popular Spot.

Examiner Special.

Young's Point, August 8.—Mr. John Green, barrister, is registered at the Lakeview House.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. McKay and party left for their home in Rochester this morning after spending two weeks at the Lakeview.

The Misses Mollie and Gertrude Young, Peterborough, accompanied by their brother Leo, of the Provincial Laboratory, Toronto, passed through on their way to Juniper, where they will pitch tent for four weeks.

Miss Kelly and Miss Donahue left for their homes yesterday after spending two weeks at South Beach.

Mr. John McFadden is rusticating at the Point for two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Lundy, Peterborough, are registered at the Lakeview.

Contractor MacPherson, Lakefield, was a guest in the village Monday evening.

Mr. W. Patterson left for his home in Rochester this morning, after spending two weeks at the Point.

Mr. Patterson says this has been the most successful fishing season in his experience of the last eight years around the Point.

Had a Bad Leg.

"For twelve years I was a great sufferer with eczema on the inside of the leg. There was a raw patch of flesh about three inches square, and the itching was terrible. Dr. Chase's Ointment completely cured me, took away the itching and healed up the sore."—Mr. Alex. McDougall, Postmaster, Broad Cove, Marsh, N.S.

Illustrated Booklet Advertising The City

Manufacturing Committee to Issue Advertising Literature —Cuts Will Show Manufacturing Districts of the City—Also Business Section.

The chairman of the Manufacturers' Committee has commenced work on the compilation of matter relative to the city of Peterborough, which, when completed, will be incorporated in a booklet which that Committee was instructed by the City Council to publish, as a part of the campaign of publicity, the object of which is to advertise Peterborough as a city specially desirable for the location of industries. In connection with this booklet a cut will be made showing a map of the city, and on the map the various sections of the city are marked. The business section, in the centre of the city, has a distinctive mark, the manufacturing districts another, and the parks still another.

The idea of the committee is to print these circulars in an attractive form and circulate them principally among prospective manufacturers who may be induced to locate here. Other cuts will be used, including one which will show the transportation facilities of the city, the Trent Canal, railway lines, etc., and a third will show the relations of Peterborough, so far as geographical position is concerned, to Buffalo and other American manufacturing cities. The committee will get to work at once in the matter, and it is expected that they will be ready with the material for publication in a short time.

Ald. Johnston Is Misrepresented

He Took no Part in the Horse Discussion.

Ald. Johnston states to the Examiner that he was misrepresented in another evening paper in connection with the discussion on the new fire horse question. At the council meeting on Monday night, Ald. Adams is quoted as having stated in response to an observation, said to have been made by Ald. Johnston, that the latter did not attend the meetings of the committee and, therefore, was not in a position to speak on the matter.

Ald. Johnston most emphatically states that he made no such remarks as reported in the paper referred to, his only observation during the whole discussion being that the members of the committee, Ald. Graham and Ald. Duncan, were objecting on principle, and he moved that the whole matter be referred to the Fire, Water and Light Committee.

The remarks made in the Fire Chief's letter do not apply to Ald. Johnston, since he did not join in the discussion at all.

Omemee Farmers' Good Harvest

Latest Intelligence From the Village Among the Hills.

Examiner Special.

Omemee, August 6.—The weather is all that could be desired for saving the bountiful harvest.

The Presbyterian garden lawn social on Friday evening last proved one of the greatest successes in this line of entertainment.

Our Pigeon Creek waters are now pretty well cleaned up between here and Pigeon Lake, and does away with the projected "boom."

A number of our young men purpose taking in the harvest excursion to the West on August 14, having received requests from parties there promising big wages.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Williamson and son, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Harton, Buffalo, are spending two weeks at Stony Lake.

Threshing has begun here and the sample of new grain is excellent.

Mr. Thos. Richards and family, of Peterborough, are spending a few days here with friends.

Mr. Melville Evans is here for a few holidays and says Peterborough is the place for our steady, industrious young men.

IRON MAKES NEW BLOOD

There is more or less mystery and doubt as to the specific action of many drugs, but it is positively and definitely known that iron forms new red corpuscles in the blood, or, in other words, makes the blood rich and nourishing.

But iron alone cannot be taken into a delicate stomach. The great secret of the success of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is in the way iron is combined with certain other restoratives so as to make a preparation that can be used with the greatest benefit by even the most weak and delicate person.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is also slightly laxative as well as tonic in influence, and while building up the system, insures the regular and healthful action of the digestive, filtering and excretory systems.

If you would enrich the blood, strengthen the nerves and replace weakness and disease with health and vigour, use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food; 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.—7.

Specialists in the Treatment of Nervous, Blood, Private and Sexual Diseases of Men and Women. 25 Years in Detroit.

No Names used without Written Consent. Cures Guaranteed.

Thousands of young and middle-aged men are annually swept to a premature grave through early abuse or later excesses. Chas. Anderson was one of the victims, but was rescued in time. He says: "I learned an evil habit. A change soon came over me. I could feel it; my friends noticed it. I became nervous, despondent, gloomy, had no ambition, easily tired, evil forebodings, poor circulation, pimples on face, back weak, dreams and drains at night, tired and weak mornings, bursing sensation. To make matters worse, I became reckless and contracted a blood disease. I tried many doctors and medical firms—all failed till Drs. Kennedy & Kergan took my case. In one week I felt better, and in a few weeks was entirely cured. They are the only reliable and honest Specialists in the country."

Lytle, Dr. Brown and Mr. Milton Ham.

Narrow Escape From The Flames

Peterborough Lumber Company's Blacksmith Shop Caught Fire.

A disastrous fire was narrowly averted yesterday afternoon at the buildings of the Peterborough Lumber Company on Burnham's Point. A spark from one of the three smokestacks on the point must have escaped in some way, alighting on the roof of the blacksmith shop. When discovered the flames were rapidly eating their way through the dry timbers. The flames were also making headway between the blacksmith shop and another building. The company's private hose were turned on and finally the flames were extinguished. Had a wind been blowing it is altogether probable that the conflagration would have been accompanied with more serious results.

PIONEER RAILWAY MEN IN THE CITY

Messrs. R. B. Leach, travelling export agent of the C.P.R.; W. H. Bigerton, travelling freight agent of the Michigan Central, and B. Carmichael, train-master of the C.P.R. are in the city to-day. Mr. W. S. Dodd, the local C.P.R. station agent, has them in charge, and the various lions of the city are all being seen.

WHY IT DOESN'T EVEN HESITATE

One of the delegates to the Grand Lodge meeting is telling a good story on a well known barrister of Millbrook. It appears that he was on the train bringing some of the delegates to Peterborough and wanted to get off at Cavanville. Going up to the porter he said, "Does this train stop at Cavanville?"

"What!" said the porter, "Stop at Cavanville? Why it doesn't even hesitate."

CANADIAN PACIFIC

On Civic Holiday, the Canadian Pacific Railway Co. will sell tickets to Toronto and return, at $2.05 for the round trip. Also to Niagara Falls and return, at $2.20 for the round trip. Tickets good going only on special train leaving Peterborough at 7:40 a.m. Toronto tickets good to return any regular train August 13th or 14th. Mr. Belcher Inspects New County Refuge

Was Called to Lakefield To-day To Visit House of Refuge.

Mr. J. E. Belcher, County Engineer, went to Lakefield this morning, where he was called on business in connection with the new County House of Refuge.

Mr. Belcher states that the work on the new building was progressing satisfactorily on the occasion of his last visit and he expects that steady progress will be made with it. He was called to Lakefield by telegraph this morning.

Big Excursion From Orillia

Elks of That Town Bring About 600 to the City.

Peterborough's already immense population was increased by 600 on the arrival of the Orillia Elks excursion before noon to-day. Nine packed coaches carried the crowd, many of which were forced to stand on the platforms. The excursion was arranged by the Orillia Elks No. 16, but many other citizens as well as some along the route accompanied them.

The Orillia Citizens' Brass Band, consisting of 26 members were also present and marched from the station to the Oriental Hotel, where a delightful impromptu concert was given, attracting a large crowd.

The prominent attraction for the excursionists was, of course, the circus and many were the enquiries made regarding the grounds and distance from the city. However, a number visited Jackson Park and the Lift Lock. The special train left Orillia this morning at 3.45 and will return this evening at 8 o'clock. The committee of Elks in charge of the excursion were Messrs. M. B. Tudhope, E. A. Wakefield, and T. W. Robins.

Cement Work Has Been Completed

Mr. G. C. Hodgins Finishes the Work at St. Joseph's Church.

The cement work at St. Joseph's Church Douro, is now completed. It is a splendid piece of workmanship and is considered by experts who have seen it, to be superior to any they have seen in Peterborough. It does credit to the contractor, Mr. G. C. Hodgins, of Peterborough, that his work is completely satisfactory to the whole parish of Douro, and that he has given them a job which they are proud of.

The New York Stock Market

(Furnished by J. R. Heintz & Co.)

New York, August 9.—The stock market drifted aimlessly along toward a lower level again to-day. Activity was confined to a few issues, Penna being strong early touching 126 3-4 and then reacting with the general market later on. The action of the U. P. directors in postponing action on the dividend again was a disappointment as the bulls have been predicting an increase. The directors evidently have something up their sleeve and are waiting for a more favourable time to announce it.

Traders sold freely all around the room in the afternoon and hammered prices wherever any weak spot was disclosed. Little disposition to support the market was shown. In the late trading heavy buying of Southern Pac., carrying that issue to the best of the day, rallied the list and closed the market quite strong.

A Circus Story.

HERE IS a circus story which will be apropos this week: Last season when a big circus was in Pittsburg a well known lawyer was standing near the entrance one afternoon when a crowd of small boys came along and peeped in with longing eyes. A smile came over the face of the lawyer and he stepped up to the man at the entrance and said: "Let those boys go in and count them as they pass." The ticket taker did as he was told, and when the last boy was in, turned to the lawyer and said. 'Twenty-six, sir." The lawyer looked up and smilingly replied: "Thanks, I guessed there were about that many," then turned and walked away.

The Pandora Thermometer

The thermometer on the Pandora range oven means precisely in accuracy to the cook what the square and compass mean to the draftsman. Without the square and compass the draftsman would have to work entirely by guess, just as you do without an accurate and reliable thermometer on your oven.

The Pandora thermometer reduces cooking to an exact science. You know precisely how much heat you have and what it will do in a given time. It is one of the small things which makes the Pandora so much different and better than common ranges.

Making Preparations For Supreme Lodge Meeting In Toronto

30,000 to 50,000 Members of the Oddfellows Order Will be in Queen City to Attend Supreme Lodge Meeting —10,000 From Ontario Alone.

Preparations are being rapidly completed for the monster International I.O.O.F., convention, which will be held in Toronto from September 15 to the 22. The last convention of this body in Toronto was held in 1880 in the old Parliament Buildings on Wellington street. This year the convention will be held in the Parliament buildings in the Queen's Park. Arrangements are being closed with the various boarding houses and the hotels for the accommodation of the visitors, and an emergency space for 400 cots has been secured in the exhibition grounds. From 30,000 to 40,000 visitors are expected. They will come from all parts of Canada and the United States. The Sandwich Islands will send a few delegates, and Ontario is expected to send about ten thousand.

Sovereign Grand Lodge Headquarters

The Headquarters of the Sovereign Grand Lodge will be located at the King Edward Hotel, the largest in Toronto. It is situated on King street East, right in the heart of the business centre, and is reached by street cars from all parts of the city. Rooms may be obtained on either the European or American plans, rates being as follows: European plan, $1.50 to $2 per day; American plan, $3.50, $4 and upward according to accommodation required.

Hotel Accomodation.

The hotel committee have compiled a list of sixty or seventy comfortable hotels, rates for which run from $1 to $4 per day, on the American plan, according to location of rooms, while others can accommodate visitors on the European plan at a cost of from $1 to $2 per day. Boarding and lodging houses of an excellent class also afford good accommodation at reasonable rates.

P.M. Compative Drills.

The schedule for competitive drills and recommendations for prizes submitted were prepared for a P.M. Committee on Military Display, consisting of Colonel W. S. Johnston, Lt.-Col. George W. Cutter, Capt. W. J. Foster, Capt. George C. Mortimore, Captain John A. Macdonald, Captain H. W. Taylor, Captain H. W. Bourne, Captain W. J. Graham, Lieut. Eugene Cutts and Chevalier Fred Hinnenkamp and approved by order of General M. A. Raney, commanding the Army of Patriarchs Militant.

The Parade.

The Grand Parade will take place through the streets of the city at 1.30 p.m., on Wednesday, September 19th, in which all the Cantons present are expected to take part.

The parade formation and other matters connected with the great event on September 19th, will be duly announced by bulletin when arrangements are fully completed. Special prizes will be offered lodges and encampments presenting the best general appearance on parade.

The following arrangements have been made with all railway and steamboat lines, included in the Eastern Canada Passenger Association for transportation, as follows:

Rate — One way first class fare, plus 25 cents for the round trip.

Going dates — Tickets will be on sale for all trains on Tuesday, September 18, and by morning trains on Wednesday, September 19.

Return Limit — All special excursion tickets will be good to return up to and including Friday, September 21.

Territory — The territory covered by the special excursion arrangements includes Montreal, Ottawa, Sudbury, Port Huron, Detroit, Buffalo, Niagara Falls, N.Y., and all intermediate points.

Bands in uniform under usual conditions, will be carried at one half first class fare, plus 25 cents.

Made Presentation To Future Local Physician

Dr. Cameron, Who Will Remove From Omemee to Peterborough Was Honoured Last Night by Omemee Masons —Past Masters' Jewels Were Presented.

Last night the members of Lorne Lodge No. 365 A. F. and A. M., Omemee, gathered to make a presentation and bid a farewell to Dr. Stewart Cameron, who is leaving that village and will in the fall remove to Peterborough, where he will open an office and practice. In the meantime Dr. Cameron intends taking a trip to the north woods and will leave Omemee in a short time.

A large gathering of Masons was held last night when a set of Past Masters' gavels was presented to Dr. Cameron by Mr. A. Laidley, Past Master, who gave a short address in which he expressed his deep regret at the removal of Dr. Cameron, who responded in a short speech. Refreshments were served and a pleasant evening was spent.

Woman Rings Door Bell Calling For Assistance

Disgraceful Conduct of a Couple Last Nigt—Bottle of Whisky Cause of the Disturbance—Still Remains a Mystery.

With a cry for assistance from the too great freedom of a youth, a young lady violently rang the door bell of a residence near the corner of Hunter and Sheridan streets last night in a great state of excitement. The circumstances of the affair do not cast the best of reflections upon either of the couple as both were loitering near the corner where the incident occurred long after the middle of the night. A bottle of whiskey was the cause of the trouble and this was supposed to have been given to the lady for some reason or other by the young man.

The latter, however, attempted to force his companion to forfeit it again, which she refused and called for assistance from one of the near-by residences and prevented what might have been a disgraceful assault.

The bottle was found shortly afterwards almost emptied of its contents and the lady was seen going home alone.

The real cause of the disturbance is, of course, a mystery as the man concerned in the affair is unknown, but at any rate the actions of the couple could not have been commendable.

Bound Over To Keep The Peace

Relations Between Messrs. Allen and Waters Not Amicable.

At the police court this morning Jas. Allen, formerly of the C.P.. hotel, was arraigned for committing an assault upon Harry Waters on August 7th. The defendant through his solicitor, Mr. Poussette pleaded guilty and explained that the cause was due to a misconception of rights. Mr. Allen, he explained, ordered the complainant out of the rotunda and because he wouldn't go shoved him.

Mr. G. Gordon appeared for Mr. Waters and said that he had been assaulted three times and driven out of the house in which he was the licensee. The complainant was afraid to return and he asked that Allen be bound over to keep the peace.

Mr. Poussette here pointed out that the relations between the two gentlemen would cease in a few hours as the license was being turned over to another party.

From Mr. Water's evidence it appears that he was badly used by the accused. On Monday, he testified, that Allen caught him by the arm to eject him and tore his coat at the same time calling him vile names and complained that he had made tremendous threats. On another occasion he followed him to another public house and struck him.

The magistrate considered that the licensee must be protected and bound him over to keep the peace for one month on $200 bail.

To a question from the magistrate, whether the peace would be kept Mr. Allen replied he would on condition that the complainant does not insult the hired help.

The case was enlarged until to-morrow when the business relations between the two gentlemen would be severed.

BILEANS CURE HEADACHE AND WEAKNESS

The following letter speaks for itself:

722 Dufferin street,
Toronto.

To the Bilean Co.,—

Gentlemen, — I wish to express my appreciation of what Bileans have done for me. I have been troubled with biliousness, wind, feelings of fullness, and a dull miserable feeling. I had headache and constipation, and was altogether run down and out of order. All the remedies that I tried failed. I tried your Bileans and am pleased to say that they have succeeded where other things had failed. They have made me well again. In gratitude for my cure I give you my full permission to use this information as you may think proper. Gratefully yours, Frank O'Neill.

For indigestion, constipation, piles, summer fag, debility, loss of appetite, wind, etc., Bileans are a certain cure. 50 cents a box. All druggists.

The Lasting Lure Of The Lift Lock

Its Power to Draw Only Equalled By Its Power to Lift.

The enterprise of the local Oddfellows is to be credited with adding increased popularity to the lift lock as the greatest attraction of Peterborough. Their courtesy in placing the Water Lily at the disposal of the visiting Oddfellows for the purpose of a voyage over the lock was very extensively taken advantage of and enthusiastically appreciated. On every one of the trips yesterday the steamer was loaded to its full capacity, and the voyage was a source of delight and wonderment. Especially of wonderment and this element was probably responsible for the most genuine enjoyment; for those who made the lift of the lock without understanding the simplicity of the principle involved, carried away a lasting source of speculation and admiration and local gossip for years to come. Those who understood the simple mechanical principle concerned in making the lift were also amazed at the stupendous character of the forces brought into docile subjection to the play of a frail lever or two.

It was most intersting to note the different ways in which the elevated passengers took in the situation. So imperceptibly does the pontoon and and its burden rise that many, when even nearing the limit of the lift nervously inquired when the lift was going to begin. There is absolutely no sensation of motion in making either the lift or descent. The lift lock is Peterborough's most valuable asset as a show feature, and the visit of the Oddfellows, through its medium will serve to widely advertise the city and its features of attraction.

Father and Son Assault Youth

Were Fined at the Police Court This Morning.

A father and son were charged this morning at the police court for committing an assault upon a young man in his own room. The latter was blamed for driving nails into the wall upon which to hang up a violin and during the melee which ensued the fighting word "liar" was uttered. The young man emerged with a mark on his face and laid a complaint before the police.

The father was ill and did not appear but the son admitted striking him after receiving the proper provocation. The father was fined $8.75 and the son $4.60 which was paid by the latter.

Grand Parade Of The Three-Linked Brethren

Procession Almost a Mile in Length—Over 800 Oddfellows Participated—Accompanied by Regimental Bands—Grand Officers in Cabs—Witnessed by the City's Population.

Probably the most tangible evidence that the city is harbouring a small army of visitors, was brought forth in the mammoth parade last night — the brilliant culmination of a day of great performances. Peterborough has contained many gatherings, has entertained many visitors, but never in its past history has there been a parallel assembly to the meeting of the Grand Lodge of the triple-linked brethren, so many of whom have made the Electric City their temporary home. For the past three days Peterborough has thrown open her doors and welcomed with outstretched arms, one of the greatest of the Dominion societies, and has extended to it a regal hospitality. But the climax to this great gathering, which is accompanied by such prominent results, was reached in the procession of Oddfellows last night, when almost eight hundred of the three linked brethren paraded the city streets.

Fully 15,000 people — a number equal to the city's population — formed a living wall of restless humanity along the thoroughfares where the Oddfellows were known to parade. The Central Park, where the members of the Order assembled prior to the procession, was more lively and gay than it has been for a long time, and it was a difficult matter to make a lane through the immense crowd.

The streets through which they passed were dressed in their prettiest attire, flags and bunting gaily hanging above the heads of the moving mass. In a word the citizens joined heartily into the spirit of the unique event and evidenced by their generosity the keen appreciation they felt in the honour extended to Peterborough by the visit of the Grand Lodge, and, incidentally, by so many prominent personages.

The festivities of the evening began a short time before eight o'clock but long before the expectant crowd assembled on the streets in eager anticipation of the largest Oddfellows' parade in the history of Peterborough. Nor were they disappointed. As soon as the band of the 57th Regiment, and the Bugle Band, arrived at the park, the marshalls formed in line the many members participating, and the big procession moved away, presenting a spectacle which will linger long in the memories of the citizens of Peterborough, and the visitors who witnessed the singular event. The strains of the martial music, the excellent marching of the men, and the brilliant illuminations all along the line of march all converged to produce the one effect—a brilliant scene.

Route of Parade.

When the procession moved off, the 57th Regimental Band was in the lead, followed by a couple of cabs, containing the Grand Lodge Officers. Next came the members of Cyzicus Sanctorum, No. 24, O.O.H., and P. in midst of which marched the goat proverbial of the initiation ceremonies, clad in the colour emblematic of this degree. Following these were long lines of Oddfellows, between which was the regimental bugle band. A number of the officers in cabs brought up the rear of the procession, which, was nearly a mile in length.

The route of the procession was from Central Park to London, London to Water, Water to Charlotte, Charlotte to Aylmer, Aylmer to Simcoe, Simcoe to George, and up George to the Park, where they dispersed.

Marshalls in Charge.

The parade and marching were ably superintended by Mr. Angus McIntosh, P. G., Marshall in charge, assisted by Messrs. H. Morgan, L. Jackson and E. Jobbitt. Every man marched in the best possible form, aware of the responsible position he was in—that of holding up the honour of the Oddfellows as a class of well instructed men. Visitors and local brethren mingled with each other and joined in making the brilliant parade probably the greatest in Peterborough's history.

For the next few hours the visitors made their presence known on the city streets and promenaded to and fro, renewing old acquaintances and forming new ones, all thoroughly enjoying the hospitality extended to them, and pronouncing the annual convention of the Oddfellows of 1906 an event long to be remembered among the beautiful pictures on memory's wall.

Eko Camp Club's Annual Outing

Members of This Club Who Will Go to McCracken's on Saturday.

On Saturday the members of Eko Camp Club will commence their annual two weeks' outing at Stony Lake. As usual they will camp at McCracken's, which has been the scene of their annual outing for a number of years, and their advent there each year is looked forward to with many pleasant expectations by the summer residents at the lakes, because the arrival of the Eko Club means that a pleasant time is in prospect for the next couple of weeks. This Club is about the most popular on the lakes, and makes the time pass very pleasantly for those who camp in this vicinity. The members of the Club will leave here Saturday on their yacht and will reach McCracken's the same night. Those who will take in the camp this year, either for the whole or part of the time are, Messrs. J. Gemmell, W Tate, H Waram, Alf. Smith, R M Glover, T H. Glover, E M Best, W Comstock, J Comstock, M Comstock, W R G Higgins, W Cochrane, McLeod, Hamilton, H Gillespie, J M Watt, R C Watt, B Canniff, S Canniff, B McCallum, J E Middleton, F Kelly, W Hillhouse, McCaughey, L Ramsden, R H Bradburn, T J Wallace, J Marks and a friend from Toronto and Dr. Tate.

Work Started On Foundation

For the New Canadian General Electric Extensions.

Yesterday morning a number of teams were set at work breaking the ground for the foundation for the new building for the Canadian General Electric Company's extensions, which will be erected at the rear of the present buildings. The new buildings will be a transformer room, and the space at present occupied for that purpose will be used for the departments which are at present cramped.

Rebekah Meeting Is Concluded

Newly Elected Officers Were Installed Yesterday Afternoon.

The Rebekah Lodge finished their labours yesterday afternoon when the installation of the newly-elected officers took place, one of the most interesting events in connection with the assembly.

The following officers were installed by the Past President, Mrs. Moore:

President, Ida G. Robins, Hamilton.
Vice-President, Mrs. Frank Smith, Toronto.
Warden, Mrs. Ella Barlow, Galt.
Secretary, M. A. Pierce, Toronto.
Treasurer, Miss Nellie Dodson, Chatham.

Record-Breaking Crowd Throngs City To-day

Circus and Grand Lodge Meeting Result in a Big Influx Into the City This Morning—Every Place for Miles Sent Contingents.

Peterborough to-day contains one of the biggest crowds that ever visited this city. The presence of Barnum and Bailey's big circus, coupled with the Grand Lodge meeting, has resulted in an almost record-breaking attendance. Since the arrival of the first trains this morning George street has been thronged, and every train brought big crowds which considerably augmented the population of the city. Every town and village within many miles has sent its quota of sight-seers, and practically the whole countryside came into town for the day. The reduced rates on trains and steamers of course helped materially in increasing the size of the crowd. The hotels and restaurants are having one of the biggest days in their history. At dinner time the crush in the hotels was terrible, and the accommodation was taxed to the utmost. It was a good-natured, jolly crowd, however, and the jostling was accepted in a philosophical spirit. The street cars have been thronged all day, and all the rolling stock was placed in commission to handle the crowds. The free exhibition at the circus grounds attracted a big crowd this morning.

Nearly every train coming into Peterborough had extra coaches on, and all had a big contingent for this city. The Lakefield train this morning was made up of seven coaches, all filled. Stony Lake's population was considerably decreased, as a large number of the cottagers came down to the city this morning. There were six coaches on the C.P.R. local this morning, 100 people getting on board at Norwood.

A special G.T.R. train will run as far as Campbellford after the circus to-night.

The Orillia Elks' excursion, which reached here by special G.T.R. train at 11 o'clock, helped to swell the numbers of the already enormous crowds. Lindsay, Havelock, Norwood, Port Hope, in fact every place for many miles sent contingents with Peterborough as the mecca.

The Supreme Orient Elects Its Officers

At the Annual Meeting Which Was Held Yesterday—The Degree of Perfection Exemplified at the Market Hall—Mr. John A. Macdonald, of Toronto, Re-elected Supreme Monarchos.

The fifth annual convocation of the Supreme Orient of the Oriental Order of Humility and Perfection was held in the Market Hall last night, when 88 pilgrims were conveyed across the hot sands of the desert and achieved the pinnacle of their aspirations. There were about 300 Sheikhs present and, while their camels were quietly browsing on the sweet grass that luxuriates in the green oasis of Peterborough, these wanderers of the great Sahara of Ontario were having a busy time instructing neophytes in the mysteries of eastern customs and manners. It was a jolly bunch, and far into the night the sound of mirth and revelry came wafted o'er the breezes from the direction of the Market Hall, which was ample evidence of the fact that the Sheikhs had "got busy" and were holding a carnival of fun. The O.O.H. and P. is an ancient and august Order, which was founded by Xerxes, the Great, and is older than the pyramids of Egypt. The chief objects of this Oriental tribe is to do good unto their fellowmen, and to make donations to worthy institutions of that other grand fraternal Order that has held its annual sessions here this week. There are 78 Sanctorums working under charters from the Supreme Orient, which has a total membership of 6767 members. The Order is planted in all of the Canadian Provinces and several of the United States, and is in popular favour wherever known. Supreme Monarchos, John A. Macdonald, of Toronto, and Supreme Clericus Abner Fraser, of Hamilton, submitted their reports in ample form. They both showed the great progress of the Order, and prophesied great success during the ensuing year.

It was decided to extend the Order still further into the United States, and it is likely that before the snow flies the caravans will be moving over the great American desert in every direction.

With their usual generosity, the Sheikhs voted $150 to the Oddfellows' Home at Oakville, and $50 to the Oddfellows' Home at Lockport, N.Y., both of which institutions received similar bequests from the Supreme Orient last year.

It was decided to hold a special session of the Orient at the Oasis of Toronto on the 18th of September next, and already their caravans are being headed that way.

Legislation was adopted which increased the cost of this high degree and it is probable that another jump will be made, as the Sheikhs fully believe in a good thing being well worth the price.

Officers Elected.

After other business of importance had been transacted, the following officers were re-elected for the ensuing year:

Supreme Monarchos — John A. Macdonald, Toronto, Ont.
Khalifah—A. H. Blackeby, Kingston, Ont.
Sheikh—W. C. Macdonald, Toronto, Ont.
Scheriff—F. H. LaMontague, Buffalo, N.Y.
Vizier—Max M. Oppenheim, Niagara Falls, N.Y.
Clericus—Abner Fraser, Hamilton, Ont.
Fiscus — R. S. Crooker, Toronto, Ont.

A Delivery Wagon And Bicycle Mix

The Wheel, However, Got the Worst of the Deal.

A Parkers Dye Works delivery rig was mixed up with a bicycle this afternoon near Central Park—result, the bicycle came out second best. Mr. Tommy Tucker, who was driving the wagon was coming down George street and at the double track near the park, crossed the tracks and before he could get out of the way, ran into a bicyclist who was going the same direction. The wheel was qualified to fill a place in the scrap heap, when it was gathered up, but fortunately the rider escaped with only a few scratches.

The Influence Of What We Eat

Young People Are Especially Susceptible To This Influence.

The nourishment taken by body and mind, the extent to which this nourishment is assimilated, the form and proportions in which it is taken into the system, the amount of food and drink consumed, and the care given to the body and its various functions—all profoundly affect the health.

Some individuals think they can abuse the laws of nature with impunity, but even generous endowments of physical vigor eventually succumb, while the great mass of people, especially the young, are peculiarly susceptible to the food they consume.

As "Good Housekeeping" in an editorial suggests, health depends not so much on the nourishment taken into the stomach as on the extent to which this nourishment is taken up by the system. Malta-Vita, the perfect malted wheat food, so rich in nourishment containing every food element necessary to the sustenance of the human body and mind, is readily assimilated even by the weakest stomach, because of the large percentage of maltose or malt sugar, which it contains. Maltose is a natural sweetening agent and forms rich, healthy blood.

Malta-Vita is especially beneficial for children, and it is so good to eat! Now for sale by all grocers, 10 cents.

Seal Islands Was Raided And Japs Killed

Five Japanese Killed By United States Guards.

MANY PRISONERS ARE TAKEN

American Agent of the U. S. Department of Commerce and Labor Leads the Attack—Large Party Caught —Killing the Animals at St. Paul, Pribiloff Islands — U. S. Will Make No Apology to Japan.

Dutch Harbor, Alaska, July 26, via Seward, Alaska, Aug. 8.—Five Japanese were shot and killed on the island of St. Paul, of the Pribiloff group, by order of the agent of the Department of Commerce and Labor on July 17, as the result of a raid by four Japanese schooners on the seal rookeries.

The revenue cutter McCullough reached here yesterday from St. Paul with twelve prisoners, two seriously wounded, who were turned over to Deputy Marshal Harmon.

The raiders were discovered lying near Northeast Point, St. Paul, by native lookouts of the North American Commercial Co., which leases the seal privilege from the Government. Word was telephoned from the patrol station near the rookery for which the raiders were aiming, and Special Agent Lempke, of the Department of Commerce, on duty in the Pribiloff Islands, arrived on the spot as the Japanese reached shore. He ordered the boat crew to surrender, which they did.

On climbing the promontory at the end of the cape, overlooking one of the larger rookeries, a schooner was seen close in shore. Looking straight down over the cliff, the patrol saw a dozen or more Japanese, skinning a great number of seal, which had been slaughtered indiscriminately.

Killed Unarmed Men.

The raiders refused to surrender when Lempke reached the scene and tried to make off with their booty in small boats, several of which were drawn up on shore. The agent then ordered his guard of natives to open fire. The Japanese offered no resistance, being without firearms.

Three of the raiders fell dead on the beach, a fourth was seen to be thrown overboard from one of the boats that escaped, and a fifth body drifted ashore later in another boat.

The men had killed more than two hundred seals, many of them cows. Those who escaped carried away about one hundred and twenty skins.

Most Serious Raid.

The raid is believed to have been a concerted effort by the Japanese, who have been hanging around the island for months and giving the revenue cutter much trouble.

The raid is the most serious that has ever occurred in the troubled history of the rookeries. The last attempt to rifle the island was made about ten years ago by a schooner flying the Mexican flag. She was intercepted by a cutter before carrying out her purpose.

The raid was supposed to have been planned by Alec McLean. He was known to be in Victoria, B. C., last winter but left there for parts unknown in the early spring.

A Most Remarkable Remedy.

Has Used it for 22 Years.

DIARRHOEA, DYSENTERY, COLIC, STOMACH CRAMPS, CHOLERA MORBUS, CHOLERA INFANTUM, SEA-SICKNESS, and in fact all BOWEL TROUBLES can be quickly cured by the use of DR. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY. It is the original Looseness of the Bowels remedy.

Be sure and accept no substitute.

Has been on the market 60 years, so you do not experiment when you buy it.

Mrs. D. Taylor, Cranbrook, Ont., writes: "For the past 22 years I have used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry as a family remedy for all kinds of summer complaints with the greatest success, in fact, I have found it a most remarkable remedy."

Synopsis Of Canadian North-West HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba or the North-west Provinces, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded upon by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section, of 160 acres, more or less.

Entry may be made personally at the local land office for the district in which the land is situate.

Homestead Duties.—A settler who has been granted an entry for a homestead is required to perform the conditions connected therewith under one of the following plans:—

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year during the term of three years.

(2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of any person who is eligible to make a homestead entry under the provisions of this Act, resides upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for by such person as a homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence prior to obtaining patent may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

(3) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead the requirements of this Act as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon the said land.

Application for patent should be made at the end of three years, before the Local Agent, Sub-Agent or the Homestead Inspector.

Before making application for patent the settler must give six months' notice in writing to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of his intention to do so.

Large Exodus Will Be Result Of Great Strike

Many Striking Toronto Carpenters Will Go to the U. S.

FIFTEEN HUNDRED ARE OUT

Quit Work Wednesday Night at 5 o'Clock—Some of Big Structures of the Queen City Which Strike Will Probably Delay — Recognition of Union Not Contemplated by the Builders. — Labor Troubles.

Toronto, Aug. 9.—With the exhibition buildings not finished, the roofs off many of the schools, several churches in the course of erection, the work on the Traders' Bank, the Continental Life, the Labor Temple, the new West King theatre, and hundreds of private residences not completed, fifteen hundred carpenters quit work last night, to remain on strike until such time as an agreement would be consummated with the Builders' Exchange. That the matter has gone farther this time than was expected is evidenced by the fact that not a single permit will be granted to any of the strikers, not even to complete the press building at the exhibition or any of the civic work now going on, until the strikers feel like going back to work. To-day will tell just how seriously the building trades of the city will be affected.

Mayor as Arbitrator.

Mayor Coatsworth has offered his services, as arbitrator.

At midnight Business Agent Saunders of the Amalgamated Association said that over 1,500 of the cream of the carpenters in Toronto were on strike.

"Within the next couple of days fully two hundred clearances will be issued to men who will leave Toronto for American cities, where the pay is better.

"The men would be only too glad to accept the kind offer of Mayor Coatsworth as arbitrator. The matter is in the hands of the builders."

No permits for the men to go to work are to be given to anyone during the strike. All the men belonging to both unions are called off until a permanent and satisfactory agreement is made. "Not a man goes to work for a contractor in this city until the agreement is sealed, signed and delivered," said Mr. Saunders.

Won't Recognize Union.

Secretary Phillips of the Builders' Exchange said emphatically yesterday that the Exchange would never recognize the union. The bosses had got along up to date without paying any attention to the demands of the unions, and they would continue to do so. There were plenty of good men outside the union. In fact, there were a lot of poor men in the union, and that was just the trouble.

Going to the States.

It was stated by an authority of one of the local branches that two hundred carpenters would leave this morning for Buffalo, Cleveland and points on the border. And further if the strike lasts more than a week hundreds of union men will leave the city as American contractors are offering big inducements to joiners.

Trouble Never Comes Singly.

Next Saturday the builders' laborers will hold a mass meeting to decide whether or not they, too, will strike. The wages paid them average 26 cents an hour, but they want 30c.

Missionary Drowned.

Vermillion, Alta., Aug. 9.—J. A. McQueen, Presbyterian missionary twenty miles from here and a student of Toronto University, was drowned while bathing. His age was 22. His parents reside at Brucefield, Ont.

Tenders For G. T. P.

Ottawa, Aug. 9.—The next tenders for construction work on the G. T. P. will be asked for in about six weeks or two months. They will probably be for extensions eastward from Lake Superior Junction and westward from La Tuque. The conditions in Winnipeg as to terminals have not as yet been finally agreed upon between the Grand Trunk, Canadian Northern and Transcontinental Railway commissioners.

Killed Near Cobalt.

Cobalt, Aug. 9.—A freight train on the T. & N. O. Railway ran over and killed a man Tuesday night near Argentite, three miles north of Cobalt. The body was discovered yesterday morning at 7 o'clock lying across the track, completely cut in two. His name was John Grier, a well digger and cement worker, who has been living in this district for several months.

Canned Meat Fatal.

Vermillion, Alta., Aug. 9.—Herbert J. Smith died after eating canned salmon at a railway construction camp. Others were taken violently ill, but will recover. He was 28 years of age and son of Rev. T. T. Smith, Ilkley, Yorkshire, England. He served with distinction in the South African war, securing the title of major, and studied medicine for three years in Canada.

Whisky Thief Gets a Year.

Galt, Aug. 9.—John Sullivan, 19 years, whose home is at Niagara Falls, was convicted of burglary yesterday morning in the Police Court, and sentenced to one year in the Central Prison. The prisoner is an ex-porter of the Hotel Imperial, and forcibly entered the premises by way of the cellar [illegible] a large quantity of liquors.

Great Panic Was Caused By A Bomb Thrown

One Man Killed and Many Others Were Wounded.

CHILDREN TRAMPLED UPON

Peasants Beat Douma Member Almost to Death—He Could Not Explain to Their Satisfaction Why He Returned Home Without Promised Land Liberty—Will the Czar Abdicate—Says He Is Autocrat.

Sosnowice, Russian Poland, Aug. 9.—A bomb was thrown yesterday into a crowded waiting-room at the railway station. One man was killed and many were wounded. A panic ensued, resulting in injury to many other persons. Women fainted and children were trampled upon. The thrower of the bomb escaped.

Beat Douma Member.

Kiev, Russia, Aug. 9.—The peasants of the Village of Gravoff have beaten almost to death M. Stefanduk, who was a member of the outlawed Parliament and who could not explain to their satisfaction why he returned home without obtaining the land and liberty he had promised them.

Terrorists Active.

Warsaw, Aug. 9.—The terrorists are continually attacking and robbing post-offices, Government spirit shops, treasuries and the mails.

A despatch from Poltava describes the destruction of an estate owned by Prince Kotchube yesterday, where a breeding stud of 250 horses and more than 600 sheep were locked in burning buildings, and wantonly left to perish.

Czar to Abdicate?

New York, Aug. 9.—A cable despatch to a morning paper from Vienna says "It is rumored that it is the Czar's intention to abdicate. The recirculation of this report is ascribed to the reactionary councillors violently opposing Premier Stolypin's reform scheme, which the Czar supports. The story adds that the Czar will appoint Grand Dukes Vladimir and Nicholas Nicholalevitch as co-regents.

Premier Goes to Peterhof.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 9.—Premier Stolypin has gone to Peterhof to secure the Emperor's approval of his appointments to the Cabinet.

Notwithstanding the improvement in the situation produced by the collapse of the strike, The Novoe Vremya announces that it is still the intention of the Emperor to place Grand Duke Nicholas Nicholalevitch in immediate command of the whole army, concentrating the direct authority over the troops composing each separate corps and division in his hands.

Czar Still Autocrat.

The Rossia, Premier Stolypin's organ, explaining the failure of Count Heyden and others to enter the Cabinet, says that the Emperor does not recognize the principle of the responsibility of the Ministry and, therefore, declines to permit candidates for portfolios to dictate terms. At the same time he admits the desirability of the co-operation of the non-bureaucratic elements in the inauguration of a policy which will have due regard for national economic and ethical interests of the whole people.

Norwood Won At Home Yesterday

Defeated Campbellford in Close Game.

Examiner Special,

Norwood, Aug. 9.—An interesting game of baseball was played yesterday afternoon in the Trent Valley league, between Norwood and Campbellford, the score at the close being 8—6 in favour of the home team, which will give them a good chance for the flag.

W. Rice, of Hastings, handled the indicator and gave good satisfaction. Pilling, who pitched for Norwood always had the game well in hand, and was practically invincible at spots.

GRAND LODGE MEETING OVER; SESSIONS WERE FINISHED TO-DAY

Past Grand Master White gave a comprehensive report on the happy relations existing between Ontario and other Grand jurisdictions.

The Grand Secretary read the resignation of Grand Representative Turner for personal reasons. Regrets were expressed by resolution of Past Grand Masters Donogh and Oliver, Toronto, and Past Grand Masters and they nominated Grand Secretary for the vacancy on the Sovereign Grand Lodge.

Special Commitee.

S. A. Popleston, Blyth, for the Special Committee, reported. No. 1 disapproved of the transfer of members under the new law, and urged its repeal. He recommended that the actual management of the Home be remitted to the Whole Committee, and that accounts for the Orphanage, farm and Home be kept separately.—Carried.

S. A. Popleston, Blyth, for the Legislation Committee, recommended providing that as to beneficiaries of deceased members under age, the lodge may administer the death benefit.

Past Grand Master Hornibrook, from the Judiciary Committee, reported on the decisions of the Grand Master, generally confirming them.

Past Grand Master Donogh, Toronto, from the State of the Order, submitted a splendid report in review of the growth of the Order in Ontario last year. It was hoped that the same rate of increase would continue and that next year there would be 35,000. Approval was expressed of the arrangement between the Grand Lodge and the Oddfellows' Relief Association with regard to missionary operations. It was recommended, as asked by resolution, that representatives of Ontario press for amendment of the law so that applicants to the Order will be eligible at 18 years of age. Regarding the Veteran's Jewel, the opinion was expressed that its purpose was not attained by the payment of members' dues ofr 25 years. Service would count for much.

Past Grand Master Turner gave notice of motion for the election of Grand Representatives so that only one member will be elected annually, the other biennially.

THIS MORNING'S SESSION.

The Grand Lodge of Ontario, I.O.O. F., resumed business punctually at 9 o'clock this morning, Grand Master F. R. Blewett presiding. There was a full attendance of representatives at roll call, and all were keenly interested in the proceedings. Past Grand Representative John A. Macdonald of Toronto, Supreme Monarchos of the Supreme Orient, Oriental Order of Humility and Perfection, made an announcement that at the annual convocation of the Supreme Orient, held last evening, the sum of $150 had been voted to the fund of the Ontario Oddfellows' Home at Oakville, and $50 to the Oddfellows' Home at Lockport, N.Y. The announcement of this generous proceeding on the part of the Sheikhs was received with great applause by Grand Lodge.

Given Veteran's Jewel.

The Grand Master announced that at the request of Vivian Lodge, No. 146, Arnprior, he had a pleasant duty to perform, in the presentation of a Veteran's Jewel to one of its oldest members, Bro. John Macdonald, P. G. R., which he did in a flattering address which was received with great warmth and concurrence by Grand Lodge.

After the minutes of yesterday had been read the matter of selecting the place of meeting for next year was taken up, and Orillia was unanimously chosen.

Bro. D. Denbyshire of Brockville reported for the committee on the Rebekah Degree. The membership is now 4,300. The finances are in a flourishing condition, having $7,000 invested and cash on hand of nearly $4,000. One new lodge was instituted at Essex Centre on July 29th. In many parts of Ontario subordinate lodges do not give that active sympathy and co-operation to the Rebekah degree which the interests of Oddfellowship demand. It is urged that this aid and co-operation be supplied in future. The Rebekahs had furnished the Oddfellows' Home at Oakville, and are doing acts of charity in every part of the country, and hope that necessary encouragement should be given.—Unanimously adopted.

The committee on Fraternal Relations reported that the action of the Executive Committee, in extending immediate and substantial aid to our brethren in San Francisco evoked expressions of gratitude and appreciation from that juriadiction.

Heavy Correspondence.

Regarding the burden of correspondence in grand bodies, it was resolved that a solution generally is to provide that no official communications be made with Grand Masters unless through the medium of the D. D. G. M.'s A further regulation might be that no legal decisions be asked from the Grand Master except on appeal from the decision of the Deputy Grand Master, to whom all legal questions should be submitted in the first instance.

Rep. A. B. McBride of Waterloo, on behalf of the committee on appeals, reported on the Moore vs. Crescent Lodge case. The committee recommended that the matter be referred to the incoming Grand Master for adjudication.

Regarding the claim of the widow of William Geron against Electric City Lodge, No. 213, for widow's benefits, the committee recommended that Clause 14 of the bylaws of the said lodge, providing for the payment of widows' benefits having been amended, the lodge is not liable for the payment of benefits.

Some notable decisions of the Grand Master were made by the judiciary committee, of which Past Grand Master John T. Hornibrook was chairman. The cases were;—

1. A lodge, by change of bylaws, altered night of meeting from Wednesday to second and fourth Fridays in each month. Question—Is it legal when meetings are semi-monthly for official term to remain semi-annual? Answer—Where meetings are semi-monthly, terms must be yearly.

A brother of A——lodge had his dues paid up to January 31st, 1906, he took sick on Feb. 4th, 1906, and on Feb. 6th, 1906, he paid his dues for the month of February and March, 1906.

Question—Is he entitled to sick benefits for such sickness commencing on the 4th February, 1906?

Answer—No, because he was in arrears for dues when he took sick. See Clause 91, Constitution of Subordinates, also clauses 101 and 102, and No. 2a of your By-laws (passed pursuant to said clause 91).

A brother engaged in the furniture business, is taken ill with blood poisoning in his right hand, and is not able to do any bodily work, such as lifting furniture, so as to load it on a sleigh or waggon, or carry it from one part of the building to another, but he is there to make a bargain or to superintend any work that is to be done. The same brother is an undertaker and is incapicitated by illness. The brother in question keeps a man employed in his store continuously: he has a cabinet, sash and door

MR. M. W. MATCHETT,
Of Peterborough, Who, at To-day's Session of the Grand Lodge, Was Appointed Grand Marshal by the Grand Master of the Lodge.

factory and also an undertaking establishment in connection with his furniture store, and our lodge looks upon him as a general superintendent over the whole; he is a practical furniture workman, picture framer and undertaker. The brother advances as a plea the fact that an accident insurance company in which he holds a policy, paid him sick benefits, and allowed him something for partial disability.

Question—Is he entitled to sick benefits? District Deputy's decision in each case was "Not entitled."

Decision—Held that the brother was not entitled to sick benefits, as he was substantially performing his usual occupation, referring to clause 93, Constitution of Subordinates, section 13, of Busbee's Digest, and section 92-4.

In Memoriam.

Past Grand Master Farewell submitted the report of the Committee on In Memoriam, in language at once choice, concise and expressive. Some of the more notable deaths were especially commented on. The total deaths in the year were 226, as compared with 254 in the year previous. The benefits given the beneficiaries were large, and included $65,000 by the Oddfellows Relief Association.

Bro. Inkaster, from Mileage and per Diem Committee, intimated that the cost of the session was 68,700.

A. E. Harley of Brantford reported on behalf of the committee on elections, announcing that A. B. McBride of Waterloo had been elected Grand Warden with a vote of 1541. Votes necessary to a choice, 1287.

Election of Officers.

The others, elected by acclamation, were as follows;

Grand Master—W. S. Johnston, Toronto.

Deputy Grand Master—R. K. Brett, Essex.

Grand Secretary—J. B. King, Toronto.

Grand Treasurer—W. J. McCormack, Toronto.

Grand Auditor—C. Packert, Stratford.

Grand Representative—E. B. Butterworth, Ottawa.

A. G. Bruce of Galt, from special committee, complimented the executive officers upon the excellent manner in which they had severally performed their duties.

A. H. Blackeby moved, seconded by P. G. Master Hoyle, that Dr. Campbell, Past Grand Secretary, be re-elected a member of the Oddfellows' Home Board, and John T. Hornibrook for the seat left vacant by the retirement of Past Grand Master White.

F. E. Evanson, from the Committee on Legislation, reported that there was a difference in numbering of clauses in the constitution for subordinates in the edition published in 1906 and those previously issued, and the Committee could find no authority for this change. The renumbering had led to difference in construing of law. To clear up misunderstanding it was recommended that clause 104a., (as it was passed by Grand Lodge in 1901,) be eliminated from constitution, and also clause 103 in constitution of 1906, and that in lieu thereof the following be substituted:—

"No member of the Lodge who shall be taken ill while in arrears for dues shall thereafter become entitled to sick benefits until four weeks from the date such arrears shall have been paid in full."

That clause 104, edition of 1906, be struck out, and the following substituted:—

"No member of this Lodge who shall have been in receipt of continuous benefits for eleven calendar months, and having recovered from such sickness (where the bylaws of the lodge provide for a reduction of sick benefits at the expiration of one year,) shall therefore become entitled to sick benefits for a recurrence of that illness, or for any other sickness within four weeks of his recovery, unless such subsequent illness shall occur from causes entirely remote from the previous illness."—Adopted.

Special Committee.

Dr. Smuck, of Toronto, from Special Committee No. 5, reported, endorsing reference of Grand Master to the efficiency of Grand Solicitor, and recognition was made of services rendered by him to the subordinate, as well as Grand Lodges. In view of pending settlement of Hillsbury Lodge property case, it is recommended that further legal proceedings be stayed. Meantime value of property will be ascertained.

Regarding the conflicting interests which are necessarily arising in lodges as to investments, property, etc., it is matter for congratulation that neither Grand nor Subordinate Lodges have been involved in litigation during the year.

As to assessment by lodges under new assessment act, Committee learned that differences of opinion on subject removed through Past Grand Master Hoyle by having amendment to act passed at last session of legislature, lodges not liable for business tax.

No Business Tax.

Committee saw no necessity for assessment of Grand Lodge for business tax, and recommended that Grand Lodge Solicitor be instructed to take all steps necessary to appeal to the fullest extent of law.

W. H. Brown, Meaford, moved a strong resolution discountenancing the use of letters and circulars by candidates for Grand offices. The motion was seconded by A. H. Blackeby, and adopted.

Past Grand Master Hoyle moved, seconded by F. S. Evanson, Prescott, that instead of calling the roll of delegates in Grand Lodge, the Grand Secretary prepare a form whereby each member shall register his name at each session before two members of the Committee on Mileage and Per Diem, and upon this report the amount accruing to each be paid.—Carried.

Moved by Past Grand Master Hoyle, seconded by Representative Meek, that the Grand Master obtain from the Grand Lodge Solicitor his opinion on the position of the mortuary benefits of the Order in relation to the laws of the Province of Ontario. —Carried.

The following nominations were then received:

For Grand Master—R. R. Brett, of Essex.

For Deputy Grand Master—A. B. McBride.

For Grand Secretary — J. B. King.

For Grand Treasurer, W. J. McCormack.

For Grand Warden—D Derbyshire, Brockville; W D Sponce, St. Marys'; A Cameron, Owen Sound; W H Moss, Dundas; W E Stevens, Aylmer; Col. Miller, Peterborough; S M Thomson, Brantford; S A Popleston, Exeter; S C Parks, Milton; B J Rothwell, Sault Ste. Marie; G F Ruttan, Napanee; F E Evanson, Prescott; C E Steele, Mt. Forest; G A Griffith, Milton; Dr. Greneck, Toronto; E B Mowry, Ingersoll.

For Grand Representative—F R Blewett, Listowel.

The officers being installed, the Grand Master appointed the following:

Grand Marshal—M. W. Matchett, Peterborough.

Grand Conductor — S A Mills, Sarnia.

Grand Guardian—J A M Jacques, Ottawa.

Grand Herald — W F Give, Stirling.

Grand Chaplain—Rev. T Dobson, Tilbury.

Grand Auditor—Ab. Fraser, Hamilton.

The newly-elected officers were installed into their several chairs, and after votes of thanks were passed to the retiring Grand Master and to the citizens and Oddfellows of Peterborough for courtesies extended, the Grand Lodge was closed in due form.

NOTES OF THE GATHERING.

Did the Oddfellows have a good time? Well—ask them.

In the account of the conferrign of the degree of chivalry on Tuesday, the name of Miss Lulah Beach, the little daughter of Mr. R. Beach, was omitted. She took an important part in the ceremony, pinning the Jewel of Chivalry on the dresses of the ladies to whom the honour was awarded.

Among the many newspaper men attending the Grand Lodge meeting, is Mr. W. H. Allen, editor and publisher of the Carleton Place Herald. Mr. Allen is greatly taken with Peterborough in fact thinks there's no place—except Carleton Place—like it.

For the benefit of the Grand Lodge delegates who were unable to see the lift lock yesterday, the steamer Water Lily was re-engaged to-day and carried a large number of people over to see the struoture. Half the delegates did not get an opportunity to make the trip yesterday and they were delighted this morning when they heard that a chance was still open to them.

The Grand Lodge delegates were prominent at the circus this afternoon, while some of them took in the trip to the lift lock. The local committee were on hand this afternoon to see that they enjoyed their visit to the city as much as possible.

One of the Grand Lodge delegates who was staying at the Oriental was awakened by a cock crowing this morning, and to the amusement of those who shared his room, exclaimed in broad Scotch, "That's the self-same rooster that woke me up here 19 years ago."

A strange incident occurred with an Oddfellow from the Santis district. Somewhere in the neighbourhood of Wiarton, a brother by the name of Wm. McEwan boarded the 6 a.m. express, ticketed for Peterborough. When about 30 miles from his home he discovered he had made a mistake by putting on a pair of boots not mates. This worked the brother up to such a pitch that when he landed at Toronto he imagined that the whole city was inspecting his foot gear, and to his surprise, when he got up town, it being Civic Holiday, all places of business were closed. It almost deranged the said brother, and he was forced to return to his lodging place until morning's Wiarton papers please copy.—Com.

READ THIS ALOUD

It's near stock-taking time again and we are going to make a strenuous effort to convert everything in summer wear into cash before inventory.

THE REASON we want to convert the remainder into cash is we don't want this season's goods left over to be offered for sale next season. It's good level-headed business to do so, even though it means a loss to us.

THE PROOF—Seeing is believing, therefore the only thing to do is to come and see. If we don't make good our claims say "Good Day" and walk out. We mean business—put us to the test.

LANG & MAHER

408-411 GEORGE STREET, - PETERBOROUGH

Charge Against Maher Was Dismissed To-day

Judgment Had Been Reserved From Last Week—Was Not Guilty Under the Statutes—Magistrate Dumble's Reasons for the Decision.

Eight days ago the police court case against Maher, whose alleged reckless driving was the cause of the death of a horse driven by Mr. Balsdon and the property of Mr. Bygott, of Lakefield, Magistrate Dumble reserved judgment on that date for time to look over the legal points in connection with the case, and to-day dismissed the charge. The following is his official statement with the reasons for dismissal:—

This is a charge of cruelty to animals under section 512, sub-section B. It appears that one Balsdon was driving with a young lady to Lakefield at about 10.30 p.m. The night was dark, Mr. Balsdon was driving at 8 or 10 miles an hour. Seeing a buggy coming at a rapid rate in the opposite direction and on the same side of the road, he drew up his horse on the extreme edge of the road and left room between his buggy and the railway for Maher to pass.

Maher says he was driving on the right side of the road and seeing a light in front, set as a warning where a sewer was being put in, he crossed to the east side of the street railway, and ran into Mr. Balsdon's horse.

There were three men in Maher's buggy and the impact was with great violence, the shaft of his buggy ran into the body of Balsdon's horse four inches, broke three or more of the horse's ribs and the shaft of Maher's own buggy, and so wounded the horse that it died early next morning.

I came to the conclusion that Maher was driving recklessly and that the injury to the horse was the result of his negligence.

The clause of the Act under which the charge is laid, reads as follows: "Every one is guilty, etc., who while driving any cattle or other animal is, by negligence or ill-usage in the driving thereof, the means whereby any mischief, damage, or injury is done by any such cattle or other animal."

A review of the authorities leaves me of the opinion that this charge is not sustained by the evidence—the offence is wholly statutory—not a common law offence, and I must be guided by the interpretation put on the statute.

Was the act of Maher wanton or unnecessary? Was there any suffering inflicted or caused by any act done, which implied an intention to inflict injury or by any failure to act implying inhumanity or wanton disregard of suffering resulting from his act or failure?

The night was dark—there was a danger signal, by lighted lantern, on the west side of the road, but far ahead of him He saw the rig coming towards him, he says at ten or twelve miles an hour, which is not, according to the evidence. He says the accident happened on the centre of the street railway track, which is not true, and altogether his evidence was such that taking it as he gave it, it shows that he crossed over to the wrong side of the road and ran into Mr. Balsdon's horse, as Mr. Balsdon stated, but admitting that in a civil action he might be liable in damages, I cannot find that there was any intention to hurt the horse, or wanton cruelty as a result of his deliberate conduct or deliberate negligence within the meaning of the act. I think Maher was perhaps as much surprised at the result as Mr. Balsdon.

After the accident Maher stopped and came back and inquired as to injury done and offered assistance.

It was wholly an unfortunate result of unpremeditated recklessness in driving—rather than a result of wanton cruelty of intention or conduct or wanton neglect such as will make him liable under the statute.

Under the circumstances I must dismiss the charge.

D. W. DUMBLE,
Police Magistrate.

The Big Circus Has Arrived In The City

Barnum & Bailey's Show, With Eighty-four Cars, Came in Early This Morning—No Parade To-day—Two Performances Will be Given at Exhibition Grounds

Peterborough is in the magnetic grasp of a circus, to-day. More than 500, men women and children awaited from early morning at the G. T. R. station the arrival of the Barnum & Bailey's great show. The twentieth century, with all its great wonders, has not yet diminished the drawing powers of the big show under canvas.

By five o'clock the first great train of twenty-one cars had arrived from Belleville, the scene of yesterday's exhibit. Loaded with the big waggons in all their garish colours, it dazzled and glittered in the rising sun. These huge waggons contained many of the wild animals and proved a mecca for the small boy—what's a circus without the "kids!" Clamouring on all sides they scrambled to the waggon tops to gain the little "air holes" for a peep. "I saw the hippopotamus and the lions," geefully screamed one young hopeful.

By 8.30 o'clock the remaining five train loads had pulled into the station—eighty-four cars in all.

The embarking was quickly over. Workmen jumped from their sleeping banks; a yawn, a stretch and they were off to their respective duty. Each knew his allotted work.

The unloading of the horses, the elephants and huge trucks was as interesting as unique, and the bumper crowd watched in admiration of the thorough system which prevailed. Not a single hitch or mishap, every duty was quickly and quietly performed.

The horses left their cars and fell into parts and marched off. It was amusing to see them stretch themselves.

As soon as they were unloaded, the horses drew off for the Fair Grounds and the work of erecting the tents and putting all into readiness was started.

The bright day brought large crowds of ruralists to the city to see the circus. There were also excursions from many points. Disappointment was felt over there being no parade as the canny people judge the worth of a circus by the street procession of wagons and animals. The tendency now is to eliminate the parade, and this is to be regretted. The usual large crowds flocked to the Exhibition Grounds, this afternoon, and witnessed the interesting and rthrilling performance. There are two days in the year that are faithfully kept by country people. One is fair day and the other circus day.

It requires a considerable outlay of money to feed the circus army, and this money is distributed among the business men where the show exhibits. Very little is carried over from day to day, except possibly canned goods. The big refrigerator on wheels, which is a necessary part of the commissary paraphernalia rarely contains at night more than sufficient meat for the next day's breakfast. The daily requirements of the cook tent average about as follows: From 1,200 to 1,500 pounds of meat, fifteen barrels of potatoes, eight barrels of beets, carrots, and turnips for soup, etc., seventy-five pounds of coffee, from thirty-five to forty pounds of tea, and two barrels of sugar. In addition to these generous supplies the daily requisition of the chef calls for four cases of canned goods, 600 loaves of bread, an immense amount of butter and from eighty to 100 gallons of milk, when it can be secured. All of these supplies have been contracted for in advance, and they will be delivered on the show lot immediately after the circus arrives.

There are 350 draught horses, 140 ring horses, and sixty horses in the equine department, and during their stay in this city they will eat several tons of hay, 300 bushels oats, forty bushels of corn, and 1000 pounds of bran. The horse tents are usually open to the public, and an inspection of the fine stock contributes a great deal to the pleasure of a visit to the show.

There are over fifty dens of animals in the menagerie, and when feeding time comes they will put away with 250 lbs. of meat, three tons of hay, 150 pounds of bran, two bushels each of apples, potatoes, carrots, onions and turnips, ten heads of cabbage and about the same amount of lettuce. The lions each get twenty pounds and the tigers sixteen pounds of meat daily, except Sundays. On that day as a preventive of distemper the "cat" animals are compelled to fast.

The Barnum & Bailey show has had five years of continual tours in Europe, performing before thirty nations. It has 87 cars, 1065 employees, twelve acres of canvas tent capacity for 14,832 people, 60 ushers, 40 property men, 14 expert bookkeepers, 27 assistant treasurers, six high salaried auditors, daily expenses $7,500, complete secret service department, Red Cross department, consisting of a doctor and four nurses, three veterinaries, an attorney, a postman, a weather forecaster, the tallest elephant in captivity, aged 74 years, the tallest man in the world, the smallest couple living, four giraffes, 216 rare animals in the menagerie, 24 performing elephants, sideshows, containing 31 freaks.

A revival of the old Roman hippodrome races on an elaborate scale is one of the interesting incidental features. A great deal of money has been expended upon it to make it as historically correct as possible, and only expert riders and drivers of long experience are employed. This is intended to accentuate the thrilling nature of the contests and at the same time to minimize the danger of accidents. The races are run on one of the longest and best prepared racing tracks ever utilized by a travelling exhibition.

The circus performance is of such an unusually high character as to create a new record in arenic achievement. There is a big aerial automobile sensation; mid-air somersaults by two daring bicycle riders; up-to-date riding, acrobatic and aerial numbers by a company of three hundred European and American artists, including Josie Demott, the only somersault equestrienne, three herds of elephants in a novel battle scene; several new trained horse acts; a new spectacle allegorically depicting the last days of Russo-Japanese war, and entitled "Peace," a complete collection of rare wild animals, and many other displays of a novel and infrequently seen character.

Canadian Cheese Prices Will Continue High

Statement Made by Mr. Derbyshire to This Effect—Reasons for the Firm Prices—Canadian Products are Better Protected and in Greater Demand Than Formerly.

Mr. Daniel Derbyshire, of Brockville, has been in the city during the past three days attending the Oddfellows' meetings. He is an enthusiastic Oddfellow, in fact he is wholehearted in all the many things he puts his mind and hand to; but probably Mr. Derbyshire is better known as one of the greatest dairy authorities in the province. He has spent considerable time in study on the question and has done a great deal to raise the standard of cheese exported from Canada and also to raise the prices of Canadian cheese, butter and bacon.

It is well known that Mr. Derbyshire a couple of years ago was the man who swerved the attention of the Dominion Government upon the way these products left the country. Prices for the best of attention were paid but yet these goods arrived in Montreal and in the Old Country in improper condition, owing to improper handling.

Mr. Derbyshire advocated searching the cars when they landed in Montreal and the vessels on arriving in the various ports in Great Britain and to watch the goods being placed in the ships.

Men were appointed by the Government to look into these conditions with the result, Mr. Derbyshire says, that in 1905 Canadian cheese was delivered in the Old Country in a better condition than ever before. He pointed out that on account of the better quality sold the products were disposed of more rapidly and better prices were obtained. The result of this was that with the opening of the season of 1906 Canadian cheese, which was eagerly sought for, could not be got so that the prices advanced to 11c. or more.

"The prospects for the butter, bacon and cheese industry which are all allied, never looked better," said Derbyshire, yesterday. These dairy products could be equalled in quality, and the Canadian dairymen may count on one of the most prosperous years in history.

The Dominion Government, he said, deserves great credit for the inauguration of the cool car system to Montreal, the refrigerator system across the Atlantic and the appointment of men to see that the railways and steamship lines gave the services they were paid for.

As the prospects for high prices in the future Mr. Derbyshire said that dairymen could all look forward to continued uniform high prices, and he predicted a great future in store for dairymen.

Two Old Residents Gone To Their Reward

Mrs. Thomas Graham, Aged Ninty-Eight, and Alfred Crawford, in His Eightieth Year, Have Passed Away.

During the last few hours the hand of death has cut off two of the oldest residents in the city in the persons of Mrs. Thomas Graham, 166 Perry street, and Alfred Crawford, 224 Edinburgh street.

MRS. THOS. GRAHAM.

One of the oldest, if not the oldest, residents of Peterborough, passed away this morning in the person of Nancy Lee, relict of the late Thomas Graham, who died at the advanced age of 98 years. Deceased was born in Connecticut in 1808 and came to Port Hope, Ont., in 1813, when but five years of age. She thus passed through all the hardships incidental to pioneer life in the early history of Ontario. She remembered Toronto when it was known as Little York and contained but a few houses, and recalled the time when the only bridges in Port Hope were composed of trees felled across the streams. Deceased lived in Port Hope all her life except for the last seven years, during which time she lived with her son, Robert Graham, 166 Perry street.

Her husband pre-deceased her 50 years ago, and only three of the family survive. They are Robert, of Peterborough; Edward, of South Monaghan, and Mrs. Henry Bidgood, of Charlotte, Port of Rochester. One sister, Mrs. John Weeks, also survives.

The deceased had been ailing for years, but was only seriously ill during the past three weeks.

The funeral will take place to-morrow at 2.30 o'clock from the residence of her son, 166 Perry street, to the Little Lake Cemetery.

ALFRED CRAWFORD.

The death occurred at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon of Alfred Crawford, one of the oldest and best known residents of Peterborough County. The deceased, who was in his 80th year, was born in the township of Whitby on April 7, 1827, and came to North Monaghan 40 years ago, living at what was from that time to the present called Crawford's Grove. The last few years of his life were spent in Peterborough, and he was well known in this city as well as in the township of North Monaghan. He was a member of the Society of Friends, and during his long illness always bore his suffering with patience and resignation.

His wife pre-deceased him some 16 years ago, and the only surviving members of the family are two daughters, Misses Annie B. and Adelia Crawford.

There will be a service at his late residence, 229 Edinburgh street, to-night, to which the friends of the deceased are invited. The funeral will take place at Mariposa to-morrow.

Will Hold Conference On Underground Wire Matter

C. T. Smith, of Bell Company, Will Meet City Council To-night to Discuss the Question—The Last Chance, Says the Company.

"The City Council will either have to put up or shut up at the meeting to-night." This is the way Mr. F. W. Doon, local manager of the Bell Telephone Company, put the matter to The Examiner to-day.

A special meeting of the Committee of the Whole will be held to-night, when the question of the underground system of wires for the Bell Telephone Company will again be taken up and a conference held with Mr. C. T. Smith, district superintendent of the Bell Company, who is in the city to-day for that purpose.

In the meantime, until the Council decides whether the Bell Company will be allowed to place their wires underground under an agreement with the city, the men have been taken away from the proposed underground section of the city, and are working in outside sections.

It appears that recently the local manager was approached by members of the Council to see if some agreement could not be arrived at, by which the wires could be placed underground. After the failure of the company and city to agree on terms before, and in response to this, Mr. Smith came to the city for the purpose of conferring with the mayor and aldermen, and if an agreement has not been arrived at to-night, the company will again put their men at work on the centre sections of the city, and there will be no underground wires.

ANOTHER SITE SUGGESTED FOR NORMAL SCHOOL BUILDING

A gentleman called at this office this morning with a new suggestion in regard to a site for the proposed Normal School building. He proposes that the building be placed upon the site upon which it is intended to build the armouries. With the Collegiate Institutute along side, we should, he says, have two splendid educational institutions occupying a prominent and central site.

He contends that a suitable site could be found for the armouries. The South Ward is not favoured with a park of any kind, and in lieu of this the armouries might be placed upon the vacant property bounded by junction portions of Reid, Park and Sherbrooke streets, which the Government could easily acquire if it gave up its present site for the Normal School. This suggestion may be a little belated, for the Government have the sites submitted on the occasion of the visit of Mr. Colquhoun and Dr. Seath, under consideration and may already have come to a decision in regard to the Normal School site.

LONDON, August 8. — Premier Whitney visited Tussaud's waxworks to-day and sat for his portrait. He will appear in a group entitled "The Fitting of Bastedo," which will be placed in "The Chamber of Horrors."

Visit Peterborough To Size City Up

With a View of Locating Industry Here.

This afternoon a meeting of the Manufacturers' Committee is being held for the purpose of meeting representatives of an important manufacturing concern from the United States, who have come to this city with a view of securing a location for the Canadian branch of their works.

Struck By Falling Tackle

Employee of C. G. E. Works Was Injured This Morning.

Jas. Dodds, an employee of the C. G. E. Works, was somewhat badly injured this morning as the result of an accident which happened to him while at work in that establishment. Dodds was working with a block and tackle, and in some manner was struck on the head by the tackle. He was taken to Nicholls Hospital in the Dan Spence Ambulance, and there his injuries were attended to by Dr. Bradd. He is suffering from concussion of the brain, but his condition this afternoon is improved, and no serious results are anticipated.

Express Rigs Had An Encounter

And One of the Dominion Express Company's Wagons Was Damaged.

The two delivery wagons of the Dominion Express Company got into a mix-up this morning at the C.P.R. station and caused a lot of excitement. One horse was frightened by the 11.38 train, smashing into the other rig. The second rig was the vanquished, coming out of the encounter with two broken straps and other damage. Horse No. 1 hit the George street trail at a lively rate, but was stopped without receiving any damage.

Premier Donates Valuable Prize

For the Otonabee River Regatta Here.

Johnson Paudash, who is one of the moving spirits in the regatta which will be held in a short time on the Otonabee River, received from Sir Wilfrid Laurier to-day a handsome prize, which will be competed for as the prize for some special event, not yet decided upon. The fact that the Premier has recognized the regatta will materially increase the public interest in it.

Water Chute At Idyl Wyld

Very Popular Form of Pleasure At The Lake.

Mr. J. W. Hutchinson, the popular proprietor of the Idyl Wyld Hotel, has constructed the only water chute on the lake. It is a never-ending source of pleasure to the tourists at the lake, and is largely patronized, no charge being made for its use. It has a shoot of 75 feet running out into the lake in shallow water with a sandy bottom. The Printers' Picnic on Monday will afford a good opportunity of testing this chute.

Valise Stolen From White House

Contained Nearly $20 Worth of Goods—Thief Known.

Mr. J. A. Connelly, a Campbellford visitor in the city yesterday, was forced to go home minus his valise containing about $20.60 worth of personal affairs. The valise is a pointed one made of brown leather and Mr. Connelly says was left at the White House. It contained papers, a rubber stamp, a parcel, night shirt, business cards, collars, photoes, maps, note book which together with the delay caused by its loss amounts, he says, to over $20.00. The party who carried off the valise is known and some trouble awaits him if it is not returned.

Horse Killed By Live Wire On George St.

Douro Man Loses a Valuable Animal in Peculiar Way.

A valuable horse belonging to Mr. Joseph Collins, of Douro, was killed in a peculiar manner on George street this afternoon. He had tied the animal to a telegraph pole in front of the Peterborough Hardware Company, on which there was an electric wire running down to the ground. It is supposed that the chain of the bit swore through the insulation of the wire and that the electric current thus found its way to the horse, which was killed instantly. Mr. Collins was about to grab the bit, but was prevented by a bystander from doing so, very fortunate for him, as he would likely have met the same fate.

A WOMAN'S ORDEAL

DREADS DOCTOR'S QUESTIONS

Thousands Write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., and Receive Valuable Advice Absolutely Confidential and Free.

There can be no more terrible ordeal to a delicate, sensitive, refined woman than to be obliged to answer certain questions in regard to her private ills, even when those questions are asked by her family physician, and many continue to suffer rather than to submit to examinations which so many physicians propose in order to intelligently treat the disease; and this is the reason why so many physicians fail to cure female disease.

This is also the reason why thousands upon thousands of women are corresponding with Mrs. Pinkham, daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. To her they can confide every detail of their illness, and from her great knowledge, obtained from years of experience in treating female ills, Mrs. Pinkham can advise sick women more wisely than the local physician.

Read how Mrs. Pinkham helped Delle. Emerentienne Montreuil, of 114 Latourelle St., Quebec, Que.

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I suffered eight months with what the doctors called prolapsus, which caused great weakness all over my system, with faint dizzy spells. I kept growing weaker and weaker. I tried several medicines which they claimed would cure my trouble, but nothing was of the least benefit until I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and this helped me so rapidly that I could hardly believe my good fortune. I would gladly have paid $25.00 for that first bottle, for it started me on the road to health, and five bottles cured me. I am most grateful for my splendid, robust health, and shall certainly recommend the Vegetable Compound in glowing terms to all my friends and acquaintances, for it is deserving of all the praise I can give it."

Mountains of proof establish the fact that no medicine in the world equals Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for restoring women's health.

GIRLS ON THE FARM IN THE CRISIS.

London Advertiser.

In various parts of the country, male labour is so scarce that girls are being employed to help in the harvest fields; it will do them no harm. Very many of their mothers and grandmothers helped to make this province what it is by engaging in many varieties of work on the farm. And they were none the less womanly or less fitted to adorn their homes because of this timely co-operation.

Through the aid of machinery, work on the farm is made much easier than it was in those days, and only an empty pride will prevent the daughter of the farm, now that there is such a great dearth of farm labour, from now lending a hand. What more healthful occupation than mounting a reaper seat, and driving the horses, while the good grain is being mowed down! This is certainly much easier work than the women of former generations, both in Canada and Great Britain, had to perform.

If the boys of to-day go off to build homes, or to look for farms in the new districts, the girls must save the old homes till they return.

Many a good girl does not mind, but, on the contrary enjoys, driving the reins over a spanker at a fall fair, and it would be no derogation from the dignity of a girl to run a reaper or binder at a time when mankind is needed for more strenuous work. A woman who runs the domestic machinery of the average farm house does a far harder day's work than the great hulking man who rides a reaper for a few hours a day. Girls might get in harness on the farm.

CHAMBERLANISM.

India affords evidence that Chamberlainism, as applied to Inter-Imperial trade relations, if ever it becomes practicable, is not so at the present time. Mr. John Morley, Indian Secretary, in the portion of his budget speech dealing with East India, showed that the exports of India last year were over 525 millions of dollars, while the imports amounted to 345 millions, and that of the exports, Great Britain took only twenty-five per cent., or a little over 100 millions, while Germany took fifty millions. In view of these figures, Mr. Morley inquired: "Why should India introduce a tariff system with the object of giving a preference to Great Britain? How could it be to India's interest to injure a good customer like Germany by discriminating in favour of English goods?" These are practical question in regard to India, which the advocates of the Chamberlain trade policy must answer before they justify its application to the Empire.

GOVERNMENT CALLED ON FOR A MINING POLICY

The easy honour of good intentions is all that can be credited to the Whitney Government in their revision of the mining laws of the province, and the recess should be devoted to the more serious preparation of a mining policy. The prospectors, the advance guard of the mining industry, know only that the printing and distribution of the new act was so neglected and delayed that they had to go out into the wilderness without knowing the law under which they were acting, and without a definite understanding of all their rights under the licenses for which they paid their fees. It is true that the Government made one of the most bulky statute books in the history of the province, and due allowance must be made for the tendency of inexperience to attempt too much, and to undertake the unnecessary. The universal explanation or excuse during the somewhat protracted session was that the Government had too much on hand, and on both sides of the House there was a tendency to accept it, and make due allowances. But now the Government have leisure to revise and finish the work hurried through last session, and there is no excuse for a further failure to meet the demand for a mining policy. It is a matter that calls for constructive statesmanship and practical common sense. The prospector must be considered and conditions must be made sufficiently favourable to tempt him to keep away from the comforts of civilization to an arduous struggle against inhospitable nature. He must be cheered on by hope, and must be made to feel that when the ever-expected strike is made he will have a chance to realize a good return for his years of searching.

The actual miners who follow the prospector, must also have a large element of the speculator in their natures. They must often pay a prospector well for his claim, and spend many thousands in development work, still taking the chance of discovering that they have not a paying mine. It is necessary to give sufficient inducement and security to attract the mining speculator as well as the prospector. The interest of the province at large must also be considered. This great heritage of natural wealth is the property of the people of Ontario, and they have a right to share in it as its worth is developed. It should lessen the burden of taxation, and in that way promote the development of every department of trade and industry. The Government have taken a course in regard to the Gillies limit that should give the province the full benefit of the mineral wealth in that important area. On the right-of-way of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway, the rights of the public are now assured. These things do not constitute a mining policy, but serve rather to show what a mining policy may accomplish. The revenue feature has been largely neglected in the mining legislation of last session, and it demands the best thought and attention of the Government. Like any other tax, it may be so unwisely adjusted as to destroy the very source from which the revenue must be derived. On the other hand the burden must be so carefully adjusted as to impose no perceptible obstacle to mining development development. There are mines that would be closed by injudicious taxation, and others that would not be obstructed in the least by a material contribution to the public revenue. It is in the revenue feature of the law that the greatest defects are apparent. The Government will be expected to come before the Legislature next session with a carefully considered and fully matured measure that will stimulate mining development and secure the interests of the public in the mineral wealth they have inherited. — Globe.

Is not the Globe a little optimistic and unreminiscent in stating that "on the right of way of the Temiskaming and Northern Railway the rights of the public are now assured?" The Ottawa concession, or rather, give-away, slightly qualifies this broad statement, which, it is hoped, will apply more aptly in the future than it has done in the past.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Ottawa wanted the Temiscamingue Railway to begin at or near the capital. Disappointed in this, Ottawa, ital. Disappointed in this, Ottawa perhaps, felt justified in felching a portion of the right of way.

The Toronto Mail and other newspapers, which defended the mining deal of the Temiskaming Railway Commission, are trying hard, the London Advertiser says, to square this defense with the Government's demand for new tenders.

Now put a paper weight on the Gillies' limit, or some fine morning the commission and Government may let a big slice of its escape into the custody of some favoured syndicate in political "sympathy" with the policy of the Government—to the victors belong the spoils.

Toronto is being troubled with the destruction or deterioration of iron pipe mains—both gas and water—by electrolytic action. The remedy proposed is an expensive one —two trolley wires instead of one, so that the electric current will not enter the ground. There is every probability that this condition of affairs will contribute to a continuation of the eternal squabble between the city and the Street Railway Company, who are held responsible for the damage done by their electric current.

The London Free Press, Conservative, says that Acting Premier Foy in cancelling the Murphy mining lease: — "Mr. Foy dares to do right." According to a moral theory ascribed to the late Sir John Macdonald, it does not require much courage to do right. It's wrong doing that requires the courage. If the Government's Mining Commission dared to do wrong, Hon. Mr. Foy, especially backed by overwhelming public opinion, did not need much courage to do the right thing.

FIX RESPONSIBILITY.

The Brockville Recorder says:—

"If Denis Murphy, ex-M.P.P., allows the Ontario Government to make heroes of themselves by making a scapegoat of him, he is not the kind of stuff out of which real Irishmen are manufactured."

If Mr. Murphy as a member of the Temiscamingue Railway Commission, is guilty of a breach of trust in dealing improperly and unfaithfully with the material interests of the Province, he should be recognized and dealt with by the Government. But he is no more guilty than the other members of the commission, and if punishment is meted out in his case his fellow members cannot escape responsibility, and should not escape whatever measure of punishment is provided. And if the commission is condemned, the Government which created it cannot escape a similar condemnation. There is no blinking the facts that the Government was aware of the manner in which the right of way mining concession was manipulated. There is reason to believe that the Government knew all about the transaction, and one of the Ministers went so far as to publicly defend it till public indignation compelled a more modest attitude. There is no defence possible, and repudiation of the contract and discipline of the commission, and a little self-chastening on the part of the Government is insistently indicated.

Referring to the oft-predicted "passing of the horse" the Trotter and Pacer says: "The proprietor of one of the largest department stores in New York is building one of the finest stables in the world for his delivery service. It is five stories high and will accommodate three hundred horses. He has tried the motor vehicles and has decided not to increase his holdings therein." He that thinks that the horse with his almost human attributes of companionship and his super-human fidelity to kind treatment, will ever be displaced by the motor doesn't know either human nature or horse nature.

Thought Dwarf Was But a Kid

Local Dealer Therefore Refused to Sell Him Cigarettes.

A good story is being told of a local cigar dealer, which loses none of its force because it is authentic. One of the four dwarfs or midgets, who were on exhibition with Barnum & Bailey's circus, was up town last night and went into a cigar store to ask for cigarettes. The little fellow is 24 years of age, but is only about four feet tall. The cigar dealer said: "No, my boy; children don't get cigarettes in this store," and despite his protests that he was long over age, the midget had to go out without his cigarettes.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube, when this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Lakefield Tells City To First Purify Itself

Before Asking That Town to Keep the Regulations—Peterborough Should First Leave Otonabee as Clean Below as Above Her Borders.

The Lakefield News this week has the following article:—

Editor Lakefield News:

Dear Sir,—Being an old resident of Lakefield and one who appreciates the many advantages to be found here as a desirable place of residence, and also its growing importance as a business centre, I have been very much shocked to read in your columns, and particularly in the columns of the Peterborough dailies, that Lakefield has been guilty of polluting the Otonabee River to such an extent that action was found necessary by the Provincial Board of Health to put a stop thereto.

Surely our Peterborough friends have been dreaming nasty things of Lakefield or drawing on their too vivid imaginations. Is it a fact that we are guilty of any wrong doing, or is it a lack of proper care, sufficient equipment, or intelligence, by our neighbours in Peterborough? The writer is convinced that the trouble is largely due to the latter.

Have they an adequate filtering basin? Has everything been done within their own borders to ensure a good supply of pure water? I have read recently of a man getting a good sized well developed leech through his tap. Did the leech come from Lakefield? Hardly so. Cleanliness, like charity, should begin at home. Let Peterborough begin there and see that she leaves the Otonabee as clean below as above the borders.

Yours truly,
LAKEFIELDER.

POST CARD CORRESPONDENCE.

In this column will be published communications upon post cards only. It will remain open for the use of readers, who are invited to contribute suggestions, inquiries or replies. Anything of a scurrilous personal nature will be prohibited.

Editor Post Card Column:

Dear Sir,—In your paper of a few days ago, I noticed a letter suggesting that the 57th Band give one of the two concerts that they owe the city, during this week when there were so many strangers in the city who would appreciate their action on the part of the band. I was very much disappointed that the suggestion was not acted upon, and I think there are many other citizens who feel the same way about it. Last night the S. A. Band gave a most delightful programme and the 600 or 700 persons who heard it, I am sure enjoyed it thoroughly. The city fathers should not forget that the 57th Band owes the citizens two concerts and those who have to pay their share of the $500 grant made to the band will look to the council to see that the number of concerts agreed upon are given.

Yours,
C SHARP.

Case Between Hotelmen Settled

Mr. Allen Assessed $5.00 and Costs for Assault.

The police court assault case of Waters against Allen, which came up yesterday, was concluded this morning. Mr. Gordon, the former's legal representative, was present, and on behalf of his client stated that he wanted Allen bound over to keep the peace so that Waters would not be bothered with him again, and also asked that, as Allen had pleaded guilty, the costs be paid by him.

As Mr. Waters has transferred the license on the approval of the Commissioners, the magistrate thought the cause of the war was gone, but imposed $5 and costs, amounting to $9.50, upon the accused in the assault case.

Only 240 newspapers are printed in the whole continent of Africa.

The New York Stock Market

(Furnished by J. R. Heintz & Co.)

New York, August 10.—Opening prices to-day were fractionally higher than yesterday and the market practically without feature in the first two hours. Trading in London was of a desultory character, although arbitrage houses bought Anaconda, Reading and Wabash here. Short covering in Con. Gas advanced it 3 points. Interboro was quite weak.

The monthly government crop report made public at 1 o'clock made the condition of the corn crop 88.1 against 87.9 last month, Spring wheat 86.9 against 91.4 and oats 82.8. It indicates a winter wheat yield of 493,444,000 or an average of 16.7 bu. per acre. This was considered very bearish on grain and bullish on the stock market.

The market rallied in the late trading under the lead of S. P. which crossed 78. The close was firm. We are told to buy Baltimore & Ohio and advise our friends to take hold of it for a good pull.

A FACT PROVEN

Should Convince Even the Most Skeptical of its Truth.

If there is the slightest doubt in the minds of any that Dandruff germs do not exist, their belief is compelled by the fact that a rabbit inoculated with the germs became bald in six weeks' time.

It must be apparent to any person therefore that the only prevention of baldness is the destruction of the germ—which act is successfully accomplished in one hundred per cent. of cases by the application of Newbro's Herpicide.

Dandruff is caused by the same germ which causes baldness and can be prevented with the same remedy—Newbro's Herpicide.

Accept no substitute. "Destroy the cause you remove the effect."

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Company, Detroit, Mich. Ormond & Walsh, special agents.

The exceptionally large sum of $50,000 was realized at Christie's (London) recently for one pearl necklace.

It is very rare indeed that so costly a jewel is put up at auction, and the price paid then has been surpassed only four or five times during the last ten years.

Mme. Humbert's pearl necklace fetched $110,000, the Dudley necklace brought in a similar amount, and the Gordon-Lennox was knocked down for $100,000.

The bidding was in the nature of a Homeric contest. Pearls of great beauty, superb brilliants, sapphires, emeralds and other jewels belonging to various ladies of title were offered for sale and dazzled the eyes of beholders.

These, however, all paled before the magnificent necklace, which was composed of five rows of 285 fine Orient pearls, having a sapphire and brilliant clasp.

The lowest offer was $25,000, and when the necklace was finally disposed of to Mr. Huntley this enormous sum had been doubled. The unsuccessful bidder was Mr. Linderbaum, who stopped short at $49,500.

For a sapphire and brilliant necklace set with ninety-five sapphires and with brilliant festoon borders, $16,750 was given, while a brilliant cluster necklace realized $14,000.

Sea Serpent Seen.

An interesting tale of a sea serpent was told to a crowded meeting of the London Zoological Society recently by Mr. Meade-Waldo and M. Nicol.

While in a yacht off the Brazilian coast to the north of Para they saw what appeared to be the fin of a great fish above the water. A large head and about seven feet of a neck of the thickness of a man's then rose above the surface. The head resembled that of a turtle, and the curious creature wriggled in a strange manner. Its fin resembled seaweed.

Mr. Waldo remarked that it looked like a submarine below the surface.

Who Is To Enforce Health Board's New Regulations?

No One Knows Here Whether Provincial Board of Health Will Do It Or The Local Board—Information is Asked For.

To whom is to be entrusted the work of seeing that the regulations respecting the disposal of sewage and other polluting substances in the river and lakes above the city are strictly enforced? This is a question which has as yet not been satisfactorily settled. No one here knows whether the Provincial Board of Health, at whose directions the notices were posted, will take upon itself the task of placing an inspector on the waters and seeing that the regulations are carried out, or whether that duty will devolve upon the local Board of Health or the City Council. It is understood that the chairman of the local Board of Health has written to the Provincial Board of Health asking for information on the question, but he has not yet been advised as to what action that body will take, and in the meantime there is no one entrusted with the work of seeing that the regulations made by the Provincial Board of Health are being carried out. It is probable that the matter will be settled in the not distant future, and that an officer will be placed in the district whose duty it will be to enforce the laws as set forth in the proclamation and personal notices.

Hay Loft Rendezvous Raided By The Police

Two Girls and Four Boys Were Found—Taken to the Police Station—Arraigned Before the Magistrate This Morning—Youths Fined and Girls Sent to Their Homes in Orillia.

Lying in a hay loft last night which the police officers raided about two o'clock were found two young girls and four youths. They were marched off to the police station where sex and sex were parted and there spent the remainder of the night behind the bars. This morning the half dozen were arrigned in police court where the prisoners' box is only built for three and their stories as to their conduct heard. They were charged with vagrancy, having no visible means of support and with loitering and sleeping in a barn without giving a satisfactory account of themselves. They pleaded not guilty to the vagrancy charge, but admitted they were in the hay loft.

The young men's names were Gorman, Black, Donald and Holmes, and the ladies' were Mary Woods and Ada Shield, of Orillia.

Mary Wood testified she came from Orillia on Monday and had been working for a party who kept a stand at the circus gate yesterday. Being invited by one of the young men she attended the circus in his company, but on emerging from the ground she discovered the people she had been working for had disappeared. With the other girl and Black and Donald, they paraded the city streets calling at several hotels looking for the vanished employers, but finally the search had to be adandoned.

Miss Wood also stated a gang of fellows were following them and made a great racket around a house in which they intended to remain for the night. They were forced to flee from there and next took refuge in a hay loft over one of the city stables. Nothing unusual occurred there, Miss Wood stated.

The magistrate fined the young men $2.00 each and ordered that the girls be locked up until the evening train left for Orillia when they were to be placed on board and advised them to keep away from gangs of fellows unknown to them as they would soon be on the rough road to destruction.

54 BUSHELS PER ACRE IS FALL WHEAT RECORD

Mr. John Riddell, who has just returned from a trip to Cold Springs, reports what is probably the record yield of fall wheat. A field of wheat was threshed, and the yield, as taken from the machine, is estimated at 54 bushels per acre. This constitutes a record for this year, at least. The fall wheat crop in the southern part of the county is reported as being very satisfactory, and threshing has been in progress about a week. A number of good yields are reported, but as yet nothing has equalled the 54-bushel yield.

Street Crossing Was Barricaded

But the Conductor Was Not to Blame.

This morning Thomas Ringland, a conductor on a G.T.R. freight train, was arraigned in police court charged with allowing cars to stand on the public highway obstructing traffic longer than the five minutes allowed. The Chief of Police laid the complaint and stated that on Sunday night the Stewart street crossing between Brock street and Hamilton's Foundry was blocked by Grand Trunk freight cars from seven minutes to seven until 13 minutes after, by his watch.

Mr. Ringland testified that it was an accident which caused the delay. He stopped at this crossing at 6.59 with a double-header consisting of 56 cars. He divided out so that signals could be reached at both ends. A stop must be made at Brock street and the crossings out. In doing this it caused a knuckle to break while the cars were on the crossing and this necessitated repairs. Mr. Ringland produced his report showing that he had reported an accident to headquarters. It took him 15 minutes to repair the break, and he added, "If you want my record for my past 10 years you may have it."

This, of course, was not necessary, and the magistrate remarked, "Nothing but the knuckle saves you," and dismissed the charge.

Few Pockets Picked On Circus Grounds

Comparatively Few Reports Made This Year to Headquarters.

There is no doubt that the Barnum and Bailey circus, which has just left the city is one of the best and cleanest on the road. Several persons have remarked that not an indecent word was heard from the men engaged with the circus during either performance. All conducted themselves admirably.

Pickpockets were very rare on the grounds yesterday, and not a single case was reported to headquarters. An Examiner representative in conversation with the Pinkerton detective and press agent on the grounds learned that circus pickpockets have been unusually scarce this year, and but few cases have been reported. Besides the Pinkerton detective, the Dominion Government has also a man travelling with the circus.

Fifty years ago the Hamburg-American line was started, with two steamers. To-day the same company has 167 ocean steamers plying on 55 different routes to parts of the world.

Miss Butler Talks Of American Experiences

Tells How a Bostonian Lost His Nerve in Doing the Wonderful Feat—A Typical American Girl.

Miss Butler, the young lady, who does the wonderful dip of death twice a day, is the only person in America, of either sex, who has accomplished this wonderful feat, which has proved such a strong magnetic force in attracting crowds wherever Barnum and Bailey's circus appears.

An Examiner reporter in an interview with Miss Butler yesterday afternoon, when she had just concluded her startling performance. A nervy Boston gentleman, she said, made up his mind to attempt the dip while the circus was showing there. He boasted that for nerve he could not be surpassed by any female in America, and was intent on steering the automobile across the broad fifty feet gap.

The necessary papers were arranged, freeing the circus company from all liability which might accompany the act, and also made his will. He ascended the rope with a steady hand, and stepped in the lofty machine, and was tied down ready to start. His nerves had then evidently been stretched to their greatest tension, and with the exclamation, "For God's sake, let me out!" he was let go.

Being asked in what condition the temperature was at the starting place Miss Butler said "The heat is suffocating up there—it is always hot."

Although she had just accomplished the daring feat she was not the least excited or nervous, and walked steadily across the grounds to the tent.

She is quite a young girl, with the typical American accent, and does not appear to be the least affected by her daring performances.

Millbrook Visitors Were Relieved Of Their Money

Mr. James Leitch of That Village Lost $50 From His Pocket at the Corner of George and Charlotte Street —Other Losses Reported.

Stories are being told to-day of visitors to the city yesterday who were "touched" for their rolls of money. Mr Jas. Leitch, of Millbrook, was one of the unfortunates. He and his wife had come to the city to attend the circus and were standing at the corner of Charlotte and George streets, when his roll of bills containing about $50 was extracted from his pocket.

Mr. Leitch appreciated the fact that it would be practically impossible to recover it and took the matter philosophically, borrowing some from a friend, and still took in the show.

Mr. Grandy, also of Millbrook, and Mr. Porter of Cavanville, were also among those who had their pockets picked of their contents at the corner of Charlotte and George streets during the rush hours.

Heaviest Traffic In History Of The Company

Street Cars Carried 13,000 People Yesterday—Big Crowd Was Handled Admirably—Many Compliments for the Service.

The street railway traffic yesterday was the heaviest in the history of the road. During the day 13,000 people were carried, by far the largest number that has ever used the cars in one day.

The service rendered by the company was the subject of much complimentary comment. The enormous crowd was handled splendidly, and when the comparatively small number of cars at the disposal of the company is considered, great credit should be given to the company. Even at the time of the biggest crowds, cars were soon obtainable.

The press agent of the circus is responsible for the statement that the service was the best he had seen in any city of Peterborough's size.

S.A. Band Concert Was Much Enjoyed

Good Programme Given at the Victoria Park Last Night.

In spite of the fact that there was a circus showing in the city last night, the attendance at the concert given in Victoria Park by the Salvation Army Band was good, about 700 persons, men, women and children, enjoying the programme which was given by the band under the direction of Bandmaster J. M. Greene.

WEDDING BELLS

WESTGATES—BETTES.

A very interesting event took place at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bettes on Wednesday evening, when their daughter, Miss Lily Vivian, was united in marriage to Dr. S. S. Westgate. The ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. John Bedford, in the presence of about sixty guests, took place in the drawing room, the bridal party standing under a pretty arch of white water lilies, ferns and evergreens. The room was prettily decorated in pink and white. The wedding march was played by Miss Mabel Bettes. The bride was charmingly attired in white silk, with the customary veil, and carried a bouquet of white roses. Miss Lou Copethwaite, of Peterborough, acted as bridesmaid, and wore a pretty dress of persian lawn, and carried a bouquet of pink roses. The groom was assisted by Dr. Steel of Cuba. After the ceremony the guests sat down to a sumptuous wedding repast. The happy couple drove to Peterborough, and from there will go to Chicago, Ill., where they will spend the honeymoon. The bride's going away dress was of navy blue with fawn jacket and hat to match. The presents were both numerous and costly, and the happy couple have the best wishes of a large number of friends for their future happiness and prosperity.—Lakefield News.

57th Band At Monday's Regatta

Will Render Music During the Afternoon and Evening.

Stony Lake should be popular with Peterborough people on the Civic Holiday, in view of the attractions billed for that day, and the arrangements made for the accommodation of those spending the day at the Lake.

The 57th Battalion band has been engaged for the occasion, and will render music during the afternoon and evening. The big regatta, with a programme of eighteen aquatic events, will be the star attraction.

In the evening there will be the presentation of prizes by Hon. J. R. and Mrs. Stratton, after which there will be a great concert and dance, the band furnishing the music for the latter event.

The steamer Stoney Lake will leave Lakefield with the band on board, on the arrival of the morning train from the city and return in time for the last evening train, giving those on board a chance to see the regatta. For those who wish to remain for the dance special arrangements have been made, by which the Stoney Lake will leave the Juniper Island store at 11.30 for Lakefield, where a special train will be waiting.

Lengthy List Of Pockets Picked

Over $200 Watch and Chain Reported Gone.

The list of pockets picked in the city yesterday is growing larger. The light-fingered money-extractors, although rather scarce on the circus grounds, got in some practical demonstrations of their work up town. Samuel Armstrong, of Otonabee, was the man referred to in yesterday evening's issue as having lost a $10 bill and wallet while on a street car. A Sutton man lost $80, all the money he had, and a Lindsay visitor was touched for half a hundred "bucks." On the circus grounds a gentleman reported to the police that he had lost all his money, watch and chain. A shirt with an inside pocket is evidently the thing for circus day—or better, spend the money the day before.

Good Programme At Victoria Park

Eyes Worth Having

Did you ever stop to think that with the exception of the heart, the eye is the hardest worked part of the body.

As long as you are awake and your eyes are open they are working in your service.

Three pairs of muscles control the movement of each eyeball.

The two eyeballs move exactly together. Would you know the effect of their not working together—press your finger against one, so that it's position does not exactly correspond with the other.

How important it is that if these muscles tire and you have headaches and require Glasses, that your Glasses suit your eyes—our long experience makes us experts and able to fit you correctly.

Russian Guards Have Returned; Emporer Away

The Czar Goes to Tsarskoe-Selo For Five Days.

ASSAIL A PEASANT LEADER

Continued Arrests of Agitators Lands Principal Members of Trades Unions In Custody—Patrol Fired Upon From Ambush, and One Man Killed and One Wounded—Moscow Expels Active Workmen.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 10.—In view of the improvement in the situation a number of the guard regiments have already returned to their summer camp at Tsarskoe-Selo. The Emperor has arranged to go there Saturday and spend five days. The Empress' yacht Alexandra which has been under repairs for two years, steamed to Peterhof last night, leading to the belief that the Imperial family will soon make their postponed visit to Finnish waters. Court circles are greatly relieved by the prospect of a period of calm which will give the Government an opportunity to innaugurate its program.

Rifles and Pistols Captured.

Moscow, Aug. 10.—The police have captured a store of mauser rifles and automatic pistols and many revolutionary proclamations and posters issued by the Revolutionary Fighting Legion. Several members of a new Revolutionary Committee also were captured, and 36 suspects have been expelled from the city.

Seven Hundred Casualties.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 10.—The afternoon papers report that seven hundred persons have been killed or wounded during renewed fighting between Tartars and Armenians in the Shusha district of Caucasia.

Peasant Leader Assailed.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 10.—Two unknown men yesterday attacked M. Manniky, who was one of the peasant leaders in the outlawed Parliament in a street at Terjioki, Finland, near where M. Herzenstein, the Constitutional Democrat leader, was murdered. In response to his cries passers-by hurried up and M. Manniky's assailants decamped.

It was announced from St. Petersburg, June 30, that M. Manniky and Alladin, the peasant leaders in the outlawed Parliament, had received warnings from the League of the Salvation of Russia, of Odessa, that they had been sentenced to death.

Some bombs seized in a suburb of St. Petersburg were each found to be charged with 6 pounds of dynamite.

Arrests are being made in ever-increasing numbers. It is stated that the principal members of all the trade unions are now in custody.

Fired From An Ambush.

Riga, Livonia, Russia, Aug. 10.—A police patrol guarding the railroad was fired upon from ambush yesterday. One man was killed and one was wounded.

Workmen Expelled.

Moscow, Aug. 10.—The resumption of work here was complete yesterday, but arrests of agitators and chiefs of workmens' organizations continue. Many of the more active of the workmen have been expelled from the city.

Cashier Hering Arrested.

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 10.—Henry W. Hering, cashier of the Milwaukee avenue State Bank, which closed its doors three days ago, was arrested here yesterday. He will be refused bail until his connection with the disappearance of nearly $1,000,000 of the banks funds is cleared up. Paul O. Stensland, president of the institution, still is a fugitive, and, although nearly 100 detectives are searching for him his whereabouts is a mystery. Hering denied responsibility for the failure of the bank. Hering maintained that if he was guilty of breaking the banking laws of Illinois, President Stensland was responsible for his actions. Hering declared he never had benefited one dollar by President Stensland's system of banking.

Big Fire at Niagara Falls.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Aug. 10.—A fierce fire is raging at Niagara Falls, N. Y., in the Schoelkopf milling district at the foot of Main street. The fire started in the large factory of the Waterproofing Manufacturing Co., which is a mass of flames. The entire fire department of the city has been called out and are battling hard to keep the flames from spreading to the adjacent property. The fire started at 9 p. m. yesterday and was still burning fiercely early this morning. The loss will go up to $75,000.

Held For Manslaughter.

Victoria, B. C., Aug. 10.—Capt. Griffin, commander of the C. P. R. crack steamer Princess Victoria, was yesterday committed for trial for manslaughter in connection with the collision between the Princess and the tug Chehalis about a fortnight ago, which sent the smaller craft to the bottom with a loss of ten lives. Bail in $10,000 was accepted.

To Maintain Civil Rights.

Madrid, Aug. 10.—The Cabinet yesterday discussed the protest of the papal nuncio against the Government's action in denying the right of the clergy to refuse burial in consecrated ground to those married civilly. It was decided by the Ministers to maintain absolutely the rights of the civil authority.

C. P. R. to Extend In Quebec.

Montreal, Aug. 10.—Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, announced yesterday that as a result of a conference with Premier Gouin, the C. P. R. would at once send out surveyors with a view of having a line constructed through the Quebec section of the Temiskaming district.

Charge Attempted Murder.

St. Thomas, Aug. 10.—The charge against Newton Stonehouse, who was arrested last Thursday after the discovery of a new-born child in an outhouse on his premises, was changed to attempted murder before Magistrate Glenn. The mother, who is still in the hospital, was not well enough to appear and the case was adjourned for a week. Stonehouse was sent back to jail.

Situation On Toronto Strike From Both Sides

Toronto Carpenters Were Jubilant At End of First Day.

BOSSES ARE GETTING MEN

Mayor Says Strike Will Be Serious If It Lasts, as Trade Is In a Precarious Condition — Builders' Exchange Says It Was Never Asked For an Agreement, But This the Carpenters Deny—New Exchange.

Toronto, Aug. 10.—Over sixteen hundred carpenters in this city are on strike.

It is estimated that between seven and eight hundred carpenters worked yesterday.

The strikers say that they cannot imagine where the bosses are going to get men.

But the bosses are getting men.

At midnight the carpenters were jubilant over the situation at the end of the first day.

Another mass meeting will be held this morning.

Pickets will be posted all over the city before to-night.

Strengthening the Union.

Organizers are busy gathering non-union men into the fold. Many non-union men became members of both unions last night.

"Beat the bosses" is the watchword. "We are going to win; that is certain."—Secretary Saunders.

Only three union men have violated the trade rules by working.

One thousand five hundred and ninety-seven strikers registered yesterday morning. It is expected that two hundred will register to-day.

Union men say only seven carpenters are working at the exhibition building.

New Exchange Mooted.

It was rumored quite freely in labor circles last night that there was a strong possibility of several hundred independent employers getting together and forming an exchange, with the idea of taking the striking carpenters under their wing under the conditions they name. As many of the contractors could not be reached last night, the rumor was not verified.

The Exhibition Buildings.

Last night C. R. S. Dinnick stated emphatically that the work on the exhibition buildings was going along as fast as ever.

"The strike won't trouble us at all," he said; "I have all the men I want."

"Have you any union men on the job?" was asked.

"I don't know whether they are union men or not. But the strikers cannot stand in the way of the completion of the buildings; that is one thing sure."

Mayor Coatsworth said last night, "The strike is bound to be serious if it lasts. Trade at present is in a precarious condition."

The school board found that many men were off the job, and the work practically at a standstill.

No Agreement Asked.

The Builders' Exchange stated yesterday that the exchange had never been asked for an agreement. This the strikers, through their executive, absolutely deny. An agreement was given them in black and white last January, and Dinnis himself was notified that the carpenters would pull out the first of May if the agreement was not given. Is the statement made. It was also positively stated that every union man working for Dinnis was on strike.

Montreal Lithos Strike.

Montreal, Aug. 10.—The lithographers went out on strike yesterday morning having met an absolute refusal from the employers to decrease the week from 54 to 48 hours, and for recognition of the union.

Railroad Tug Fleet Tied Up.

New York, Aug. 10.—A strike of several hundred men employed as dockhands, oilers and firemen on railroad tug boats in this harbor badly tied up the railroad tug boat fleet yesterday. This in turn prevented the movement of a large amount of freight from the railroad terminals. All of the men have been receiving on an average of $55 a month and they demand an increase of $5 a month.

Sheriff Seizes Slocan City.

Victoria, B. C., Aug. 10.—The collapse of a boom following the contraction of heavy liabilities by an ambitious and sanguine community has brought Slocan City, this province, into the unfortunate position of being a corporation in the hands of the sheriff. Sheriff Tuck yesterday seized it to satisfy judgments. The mayor and council have added to the complications by solemnly mailing their resignations to themselves officially. There is no one to open the letters and deal with the resignations.

No Details of Poaching.

Tokio, Aug. 10.—The Japanese Government does not yet possess any details of the Aleutian seal poachers incident and it is not therefore in a position to express its views.

The news is generally received with regret and the hope is expressed that no unpleasant complications will develop.

Cement Works Burned.

Calgary, Alta., Aug. 10.—Calgary Cement Co.'s plant, which just commenced operations ten days' ago, was entirely destroyed by fire Wednesday night, entailing a loss of $350,000. The works' cost the company $350,000, and there was an insurance of only $34,000.

Mrs. Constantine Loses Her Life In Burned Steamer

In Burning of Str. Erindale At Newcastle Wharf.

SOME STRANGE FEATURES

Strong Suspicion That the Steamer Was Set on Fire — Presence of Oil and Tar Lends Corroboration to the Idea—Erindale Was Burned to the Water's Edge and Is a Total Loss—The Crew Escapes.

Bowmanville, Aug. 10.—The steamer Erindale was burned to the water's edge at the wharf at Newcastle at 1.30 yesterday morning. Considerable mystery surrounds the disaster. The cook, Mrs. Constantine, was aroused by the smell of smoke and gave the alarm to Thomas G. Jackman, the manager. He jumped out of bed and told her to hurry off the boat while he aroused the crew.

The Cook Burned.

She has not been seen since, so it is supposed she was suffocated in the smoke or lost bearings on the boat and fell into the lake.

The boat was valued at $15,000, and was insured for about half that amount. The manager believes the Erindale was set on fire by some persons from the outside, as spots of oil are noticed on the pier as though cans had been dropped there.

Escape In Night Clothes.

The crew of 15 all escaped in their night clothes, except Mrs. Constantine. The crew were all in bed before 12 o'clock, and it was 1.30 when the fire was discovered. It is reported here that a quantity of tar has been found hidden on the east side of the dock.

The Erindale was insured for $7,500, divided between two companies, as follows: Angle-American, 2,500; London and Lancashire, $5,000. Lloyds' rate the boat at a value of $20,000.

The Erindale was 120 feet in length over all, and 48 feet wide. It had a carrying capacity of 250 persons.

The boat was formerly known as the City of Owen Sound, and plied between Owen Sound and the Soo.

Two Fatalities.

St. Thomas, Aug. 10.—Robert Kitchen, retired farmer, dropped dead Wednesday evening in the street while taking a walk. Death was the result of heart trouble. The deceased was 73 years of age, and had lived in this city for 21 years.

Clarence Rolf of St. Thomas, while assisting at a barn-raising on the 10th concession of Yarmouth, fell a distance of fourteen feet and had his left leg broken, and his right ankle badly sprained.

Roy Kelley, a young man of twenty-two years of age of Bookton was kicked in the head Wednesday night by a vicious horse and killed instantly.

Drowning at Quebec.

Quebec, Aug. 10.—A drowning accident took place Wednesday afternoon in the vicinity of the Island Wharf near Flanagan's booms at Cape Blanc whereby a young Englishman named Nolte, about 21 years of age, employed as a waiter at the Chateau Frontenac met his death.

Hit by M. C. R. Train.

St. Thomas, Aug. 10.—T. Crowley and Alex Erskine of Coyne's Corners were driving home after attending the funeral of Francis Crowley when their rig was struck by a M. C. R. train on a crossing, and they both had a miraculous escape from death. The horse was killed and the rig demolished. Mr. Crowley was badly injured.

Dies From Injuries.

St. Thomas, Aug. 10.—Martin Braun of West Lorne, who was run over by a binder three days ago, died yesterday of his injuries.

Girl Suicides.

Brockville, Aug. 10.—Wednesday at Phillipsville, a village near Brockville, Emma Carr, a pretty country girl of 19 summers, deliberately took her own life. The girl took carbolic acid at the residence of James Crapp and then ran home, a distance of ten rods, falling on the doorstep of her father's home. Death ensued in a few minutes after the fatal drug was taken. Things had not been running smoothly in the love affairs, and it is thought from remarks she made that this was at the bottom of the rash act. No inquest was held.

Wins Grand Handicap.

Hamilton, Aug 10.—At the Dominion of Canada Shooting Association's tournament yesterday, W. P. Thompson, Hamilton, won the Grand Canadian Handicap of fifty targets with a score of 49. Harry Scane and W. Hewing had the high average of the day, each getting 100 out of 200.

Synopsis Of Canadian North-West HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba or the North-west Provinces, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded upon by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section, of 160 acres, more or less.

Entry may be made personally at the local land office for the district in which the land is situate.

Homestead Duties.—A settler who has been granted an entry for a homestead is required to perform the conditions connected therewith under one of the following plans:—

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year during the term of three years.

(2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of any person who is eligible to make a homestead entry under the provisions of this Act, resides upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for by such person as a homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence prior to obtaining patent may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

(3) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon the said land.

Application for patent should be made at the end of three years, before the Local Agent, Sub-Agent or the Homestead Inspector.

Before making application for patent the settler must give six months' notice in writing to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of his intention to do so.

FAVORED BY MINISTERS.

A Sensational Statement by Mr. John P. Dickson, One of the Members of the Ottawa Syndicate.

Toronto, Aug. 10.—(Globe Special.)—The mystery and suspicion which for weeks have surrounded the proposed granting of the Temiskaming & Northern Ontario Railway right of way mining lease to the Right of Way Mining Co. of Ottawa, a proposition favored by the Railway Commission and the Government, will be greatly increased by a sensational statement issued last night by one of the members of the syndicate. This statement, which was handed out by Mr. John P. Dickson, charges that in the negotiations with the Government following the public outcry against the proposed concession the syndicate were asked to withdraw their tender, whereupon new tenders were to be called for, with the understanding that even though a new tenderer might offer up to $10,000 more than the Ottawa syndicate's offer of $50,000, the latter were still to get the concession.

This proposal, Mr. Dickson charged, first came from Mr. Cecil B. Smith, chairman of the commission, and was afterwards supported by Hon. Frank Cochrane when the members of the syndicate waited on the Ministers in Council and discussed the whole question. "This statement," Mr. Dickson adds, "was endorsed by the Hon. Provincial Secretary, Mr. Hanna, and no member of the Government present in the room offered any objection to the proposed arrangement." The syndicate refused to entertain that proposition, and are now asking that their original offer be accepted.

When the charges made by Mr. Dickson were laid before Acting Premier Foy and Hon. Mr. Matheson, the only Ministers who could be found last night, they denied the statement regarding $10,000, but admitted there had been an expression that in face of only a nominal increase by a new tenderer, the Ottawa syndicate's offer should be favorably considered, in view of the heavy expenditures they had made.

Will Not Tender Again.

Mr. Dickson shewed The Globe reporter the cheque for $50,050, the amount deposited by the syndicate in connection with the right of way mining case, which had been returned by the commission yesterday. He, together with Mr. T. A. Beament of Ottawa and Mr. J. E. Barnet of Renfrew, who were also in the city yesterday, announced that they would not send in another tender to the commission.

Mr. Dickson, in a letter which he wrote to Mr. Cecil B. Smith yesterday, on behalf of the syndicate withdrew the offer which had been made, and added: "We consider the actions of the Government and commission throughout the transaction most remarkable. We further wish to add that it is the intention of the syndicate to call upon the commission to reimburse them for expenses incurred to date in the matter."

Back to Pittsburg.

Toronto, Aug. 10.—Clinton B. Wray, the $125,000 embezzler from Pittsburg, declared before Judge Morgan yesterday his willingness to go back to Pittsburg without fighting extradition. The young man, who was in blithesome mood, left for Pittsburg yesterday afternoon in charge of Private Detectives Ray and Donley.

Bridant-Miller Case.

Toronto, Aug. 10.—For five minutes Edmund Bridant and Lillian Miller faced the court yesterday morning in the investigation into the charge of murdering Mrs. Agnes Bridant on July 20. Then the case was adjourned until next Monday owing to the absence of the exhibits presented at the inquest.

Morency Is In the Toils.

Toronto, Aug. 10.—On the complaint of medical men and others, that certain individuals were taking orders for a family "Encyclopaedia of Health," called "Medicology," and representing that the medical faculty of Toronto endorsed the distribution of the book, which was false, W. W. Morency, the agent for the book, was yesterday arrested by Detective Sockett, and is being held on a nominal charge pending the investigation of his enterprise.

Stationary Engineers' Officers.

Galt, Aug. 10.—The Canadian Association of Stationary Engineers concluded their three days' session last evening. Officers elected were: President, Jos. Ironsides, Hamilton; vice-president, E. R. Grandbois, Chatham; secretary, W. L. Outhwaite, Toronto; treasurer J. M. Dixon, Toronto; conductor, Chas Kelley, Chatham; doorkeeper, W. McGhie, Toronto. A new Galt lodge with 27 members was instituted.

Deserter Arrested.

Kingston, Aug. 10.—The police have run down Batteryman O'Connor, who deserted from Petawawa camp, went to Pembroke, broke into a convent there after midnight, and was in the servants' quarters when an alarm was raised. The military authorities sent out telegrams for his arrest and Wednesday O'Conner was located near Portsmouth. He will go back for trial.

Standard Oil on Knees.

Oyster Bay, L. I., Aug. 10.—President Roosevelt was appealed to by the Standard Oil Co. yesterday in the matter of its controversy with the Department of the Interior regarding oil leases in the Indian territory.

To Meet Next at Orillia.

Peterboro, Aug. 10.—The fifty-second grand lodge of the Independent Order of Oddfellows closed yesterday afternoon. It was unanimously decided to meet next year in Orillia.

Turks Surround Bulgarians.

Salconica, Aug. 10.—Turkish troops at Kukilitch near Strumitza have surrounded the late Chief Tchernoeyeff's large Bulgarian band, killing three of them. The troops hope to destroy the entire band.

Wealthy Man Suicides.

St. John, N. B., Aug. 10.—James N. Brown, a wealthy resident of St. Martin's, suffering from cancer, committed suicide on Wednesday by throwing himself into the mill pond.

DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

BANWELL AFTERMATH.

Bank After Guarantee Company For Some Redress.

Toronto, Aug. 10.—The Crown Bank has instituted proceedings against the London Guarantee and Accident Co. to recover $11,000, under two policies, one for $5,000 on Edward G. Banwell, and the other for $6,000 on Francis M. Mansell by which the Guarantee company promised to make good to the bank any loss they might suffer through the dishonesty, negligence or disobedience of instruction on the part of the above employes.

The bank claims that the embezzlement of $40,000 by E. S. Banwell, for which the latter is serving a five-years' term in Kingston Penitentiary, was only rendered possible by Mansell's disobedience of instructions and neglect, and that the Guarantee company should therefore be responsible for the amount disbursed by the bank to effect the capture of Banwell as well as to make good the difference between amount embezzled and that recovered.

A PROPOSED TREATY.

Great Britain and U. S. Get Together re Pelagic Sealing.

Victoria, B. C., Aug. 10.—The proposed pelagic sealing treaty will be negotiated between Great Britain and the United States in October, according to advices from Washington. Whether Canada will be a party is unknown. Preliminary arrangements were carried out some months ago.

Edwin W. Sims, solicitor of the Department of Commerce and Labor of the United States, who has been despatched to the Pryblioff Islands to make a special report for use in connection with the negotiations, has been instructed to visit Victoria and report concerning sealing fleet and local sealing conditions.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

Nov. 22 Set as the Date of Opening—Conservative Scandal-Mongering.

Ottawa, Aug. 10.—(Globe Special.)—The expectation here is that Parliament will be called to meet on Nov. 22, and that the session will last until June. It is not thought that the Government will propose any sweeping tariff changes.

It is no secret that the Opposition are ransacking the country in order to find material for scandal charges. They have committees at work in every locality, who report from time to time to headquarters.

WANTS TO BREAK WILL.

Walter C. MacKay Alleges Wife Was Unduly Influenced.

Ottawa, Aug. 10.—Walter C. MacKay yesterday entered suit to break the will of his late wife, Annie MacKay, who died some months ago in Jamaica, and who willed $120,000 to various members of her own family.

MacKay, during his lifetime, placed his property in his wife's control, and on her death it developed that she had left his own money to her relatives. He charges undue influence and misrepresentations.

FINLAYSON IS WANTED.

He Is Charged With Aggravated Assault in a Lacrosse Match.

Toronto, Aug. 10.—A warrant was issued at police headquarters yesterday for the arrest of George Finlayson of the Montreal lacrosse team, on a charge of aggravated assault on Charlie Querrie of the Tecumseh team in a recent match here. Finlayson will be brought back for trial.

Woolen Mills Burned.

Guelph, Aug. 10.—At 5 o'clock yesterday morning Cartlege's woolen mills were totally destroyed. The building destroyed was a landmark of the city, and belonged to the Peter Gow estate. About $10,000 will be the loss on it, while Messrs. Cartlege place their loss on machinery and stock at about $30,000, a quantity of which is covered by insurance.

New Bridge Over St. Lawrence.

Montreal, Aug. 10.—A new cantilever bridge, to connect Montreal with the south shore of the St. Lawrence, is announced for commencement next week, and completion in two years. The bridge will have a main span of 1,500 feet and a clear heading of 150 feet, while actual bridge length will be about two and one-half miles.

Pope Pius Celebrates.

Rome, Aug. 10.—There was a brilliant celebration in the Sistine chapel of the Vatican yesterday of the third anniversary of the coronation of Pope Pius X. Cardinal Merry Del Val, the papal secretary of state, celebrated mass in the presence of the pontiff, the cardinals, bishops, diplomats and members of the nobility.

Young Wife Suicides.

Toronto, Aug. 10.—Despondent because she felt that her husband was not her affinity, Katie Bingley, the 18-year-old wife of Mert Bingley, a cake baker in the employ of Tompkins & Co., Queen street, residing with his mother at 355 Spadina avenue, at 5 o'clock last evening took a quantity of carbolic acid, which resulted in her death two and a half hours later. Coroner Orr held an examination at the residence, and decided an inquest would not be necessary.

Life For Killing Trapper.

Winnipeg, Aug. 10.—Alex. McKenzie, a native of Prince Edward Island, whose relatives reside there, has been sentenced to life imprisonment at Rossean, Minn., being found guilty Wednesday on circumstantial evidence of killing John Stewart, a trapper, near the boundary line.

Mail Matter Destroyed.

Dutton, Aug. 10.—Yesterday morning fire destroyed the post office and general store of John A. McGugan at Cowat. The loss is estimated at $3,000, partially covered by insurance. A mail bag containing important mail, including one registered letter, was destroyed. The cause of the fire is as yet unknown.

Wiggins Is Located.

Ottawa, Aug. 10.—Anxiety as to the fate of Malcolm Wiggins, broker, and his office boy, C. E. Pamphlin, was relieved last night by information that he was all right Wednesday and was about to start on the return trip to the city.

The Indian state tax board has increased the valuations of railroad property about $12,000,000 over the total for last year.

THE LATEST SPORTS

Exhibition Game At Murray Street

Shamrocks and Athletics Will Play To-morrow.

There will be no game in the City League to-morrow, but the Shamrocks and Athletics will play an exhibition game at the Murray street grounds at 2 o'clock.

These two teams played a close game last Saturday and the contest to-morrow should be well worth seeing.

Final Lacrosse Game To-morrow

Peterborough and Port Hope Teams Play at Oshawa.

To-morrow the game to decide the District Championship in the Junior C. L. A. will be played at Oshawa between the Peterborough Shamrocks and the Port Hope team. On the showing of the two teams this season the local team should win and there is little doubt that they will come home victorious. The team will leave here at 11.45 and will return the same night by way of Lindsay.

Lively Contest In T.V. League

Havelock Standard Says That Club is Only One That Keeps Rules.

There is a merry war, both on the field and off it, in the Trent Valley League. The Havelock Standard this week says:—

The Havelock Club is the only one in the Trent Valley League that has fulfilled the rules of the League, and because of their success so far this season, a determined effort is being made to do them at any cost. The action of Campbellford (which cost them $150.00) and Roseneath in playing so many outsiders will not avail them much when the Executive meets to decide the protested games, and it is not very sportsmanlike either. Such conduct will kill legitimate sport quicker than any other method and will soon wind up the Trent Valley League.

Havelock Releases Catcher Rattray

Former Peterborough Player Let Out by Havelock Club.

Rattray, who has caught for Havelock all summer, has been released, as a result of his poor work at Roseneath. He is now employed on survey work at Healey's Falls.—Havelock Standard.

READ THIS ALOUD

It's near stock-taking time again and we are going to make a strenuous effort to convert everything in summer wear into cash before inventory.

THE REASON we want to convert the remainder into cash is we don't want this season's goods left over to be offered for sale next season. It's good level-headed business to do so, even though it means a loss to us.

THE PROOF—Seeing is believing, therefore the only thing to do is to come and see. If we don't make good our claims say "Good Day" and walk out. We mean business—put us to the test.

Miss Butler Lives After Daring Dip Of Death

The Greatest Feat Ever Performed at a Peterboro' Circus —Magnetic Attraction—Tremendous Crowd Attended the Afternoon Show—Everything Accomplished in Systematic Order—The Greatest Show on Earth.

There are many special attractions with the Barnum & Bailey circus, but it was the "Dip of Death" which was probably the drawing card. With a rush and a whirl, a daring young girl automobilist hurls down a steep—almost perpendicular—incline in a heavy car, turns upside down, shoots through the air and lands safely. The act is a thriller and Peterborough citizens turned out in swarms to see it.

It appeared as if all of Peterborough had been waiting with their half-dollar or dollar salted down for the arrival of the circus. To say that there was a very large attendance is putting it mildly indeed. Yesterday afternoon and evening over 18,000 persons saw the show. And moreover, every one of those eighteen thousand did see the show. The Barnum and Bailey management are kindly disposed persons and they endeavour to give everyone something for the shekels he passes in at the ticket wagon. Yesterday no one was admitted for whom there was no seat, and consequently there was no one crowded into a corner where it was impossible to see. In the afternoon the tent was filled to its capacity, and last evening close on to eight thousand people travelled down to the grounds.

Strong on Menagerie.

Following—or rather carried along by—the surging crowd through the main entrance one cannot fail to be much impressed by the variety and immensity of the menagerie. In this feature Barnum & Bailey's circus has introduced many new departures which tend to increase the enjoyment of its patrons. The spick-and-span appearance of the large tent is particularly noticeable. The care which is taken and the perfect cleanliness which is observed in the handling of the ark-like collection of beasts is, however, but a part with the entire household arrangements of the denizens of the white city.

The most striking feature of the menagerie is, perhaps, the collection of elephants, of which there are in all 24. They vary in size from the baby variety to the mammoth, which gazes at the passing crowd over a pair of brass-mounted tusks. The collection of camels also affords a varied interest. Twenty of them are grouped in a small enclosure presided over by a number of turbaned gentlemen. In an adjacent corral stand three giraffes—scarcest of animals—whose elastic necks tower above the crowd. The collection is one of the most remarkable in the world, and the management of the circus recently declined an offer of $40,000 for the four specimens. In another den is a splendid specimen of the double-horned African rhinoceros, which is aptly described as a "bad animal to fool with." The menagerie is one which is certain to interest both the wondering child and the speculating adult.

The unbroken sea of faces which stretched around the huge inner tent in the afternoon carried with it convincing proof of the perennial popularity of the circus. Though almost every available inch of space was filled, not the slightest crowding was apparent in any quarter.

The performance opens with a rather brilliant allegorical spectacle symbolizing the conclusion of peace between Russia and Japan. Groups of uniformed soldiers represent each of the warring nations, but the interest of the spectators naturally centres in a gorgeously equipped float, drawn by gaily caparisoned horses and containing many white-robed figures bearing symbolic olive branches.

One Tremendous Thrill.

The programme of the circus abounds in new and surprising features. Startling feats of daring succeed one another with such rapidity that the spectator eventually sinks back in his seat impressed with the hopelessness of trying to watch more than a small portion of what is transpiring in every quarter of the huge tent. Spirited horses whirling about in three rings, whirlwind trapeze stunts, each furnishing the newest variety of thrill—and clowns everywhere—it is at such a moment—that one most realizes the perfection of the system which obtains in the management of so stupendous an attraction.

The sequence of the dare-devil exploits reaches its climax in the "Dip of Death," which is generally conceded to be the most spectacular feat of human daring which the fertile mind of the inventor of circus thrillers has yet been able to devise.

Isabel Butler—extremely comely in appearance and a young lady with a charming personality withal, is the party of the second part in the audacious flirtations with the grim monster.

Stationed aloft on the platform from which the terrific plunge is made, the red automobile looms up large in the centre of the tent; it is of ordinary design externally. It naturally forms a centre of attraction even amid the succession of hair-raising feats which precede the fearful plunge.

Drawn up in a swing-like device, Miss Butler appears perfectly self-possessed as, smiling, and chatting, with the attendants, she climbs into the machine. She leans back nonchalantly, coaxing into place a few stray locks of hair, as the straps which hold her firmly to the seat are fixed. A moment later and the front of the huge 2,000-pound device slides over the brink formed by the junction of the loop and the platform.

Hark the Horrid Horn!

The familiar honk-honk of the auto horn breaks in with a positive jar upon the otherwise unbroken silence of the huge tent. The device which holds the machine is loosened by the attendants and in the smallest fraction of a second the red devil shoots downward as if to certain destruction; with a rattle it whizzes round the circular track on its death-defying flight; a bang proclaims that the wide gap has been cleared and the machine shoots to safety in a device operated by attendants. The whole occupies much less time than is required to give even the most meagre description.

The fearful exploit was first performed in Paris by Madame De Tiers, who after a number of successful trips met her death in a fall which resulted from the machine shooting through the gap instead of alighting upon the track beyond. The deviation from its proper course was the result of too great an impetus. Miss Butler, the charming American girl who now performs the thrilling act, twice a day, was at the time the understudy of the French performer, and she, undaunted by the fatality, continued the performance.

Another feature of the circus is an aerial act which probably eclipses anything of the kind ever put on in Peterborough. It is filled with the most startling surprises in the way of mid-air acrobatic work and is performed by ten artists, of whom five are ladies. Music is liberally supplied during the entire performance. Carl Clair's military band is a rather notable organization. Its programme, necessarily, is largely of a popular nature.

The animal acts, particularly one by performing seals, are both interesting and amusing. Ninety horses take part in the ring performances. They are superb animals and are for the most part faultlessly trained.

The Wonders of Organization.

Out of many wonders probably the most wonderful thing in connection with the show is the system by which such an immense organization is ruled so that there is not the slightest friction or hitch from the time it arrives at a town until the last car leaves. By this system everyone connected with the circus is ruled, from Miss Butler, who receives the modest salary of $1,200 per week for risking life daily in a flying automobile, down to the smallest peanut vendor. When the size of the circus is taken into consideration, the perfection of its organization and the rapidity with it moves are more marvellous even than the famous "Dip of Death." There are no less than 1,065 people connected with the show; 690 horses, 24 elephants and 20 camels; as well as many cages of wild animals to look after and feed; the tents are thirty-one in number and when set up occupy twelve acres of ground; the circus requires 87 cars to move it from place to place. And yet it appears in a town in the morning, gives two performances in the day, and disappears late at night, with less fuss and confusion than the ordinary citizen with a family of four or five causes in moving to the seaside for the summer.

During the performance everything runs like clockwork. Every man, whether performer or ring hand, knows exactly what he has to do and is in his proper place at the proper time. There is never a minute's pause—one act is off and the next on in a flash.

By no means the least interesting part of the performance is the work of the ring hands who set and take away the apparatus used by the performers. An equestrian act has just concluded in the centre ring. The manager rings a bell, the ring hands jump to their places and in a few seconds an immense net is set over the ring and tightened. Meanwhile the performers have climbed up to the trapezes near the roof of the tent. The bell rings and the next act is on. As soon as the act is finished, as the last performer drops to the net, the bell rings and the net drops to the ground, is rolled up and the ring arranged for what follows. From beginning to end there is no confusion or needless hurry and the performance continues without a pause.

Inflammatory Muscular RHEUMATISM

Sciatica and Neuralgia are Cured by

"Bu-Ju"

Uxbridge, Aug. 31st, 1904.

"It is with much pleasure that I send you this testimonial, regarding the wonderful benefit I have derived from the use of Bu-ju Kidney Pills. Have been an invalid for nearly 3 years, with Inflammatory Rheumatism, and was bed-fast until about 6 months ago, when an old friend of the family called to see me, and left me some of your Pills. I began to feel the benefit of them after taking one box. I have continued using them and am now able to get out of bed and dress myself and can go without crutches. Before taking the Pills I was as helpless as an infant and had to be taken care of like one."

JOHN McCULLOUGH.

Sick, weak kidneys are responsible for Rheumatism, Sciatica and Neuralgia. When the kidneys are not well, they won't filter out uric acid from the blood. It is this poison, remaining in the blood and carried to joints, muscles, nerves, that causes the pain. The only way to permanently cure Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sciatica—is to cure the CAUSE of the trouble—the Kidneys. The only safe, certain way to make sick kidneys well is to take

"Bu-Ju"

"Bu-Ju" never fails—never disappoints. It takes away every trace of the trouble. 3c. a day will cure you if you take Bu-Ju.

Record Crowd Emphasizes Necessity For New Station

Probably the Greatest Crowd in City's History at G.T.R. Station Last Night—Extra Coaches Had to be Procured for Port Hope Train—More Modern Station Facilities Needed.

Probably the greatest crowd which the G. T. R. has ever been called upon to handle here at one time was that which congregated at the station last night, at the hour of the departure of the trains for Lindsay and Port Hope at nine p.m.

The Port Hope train pulled in with the usual number of coaches, which were partly filled when it reached Peterborough. Some few passengers alighted, and then there was a mad rush to scramble on board on the part of at least five hundred persons. One gentleman who was there and who has done considerable travelling, and seen a good many crowds stated that he had never seen anything to equal it in his life. In a few minutes the two coaches were filled to overflowing, the aisles being literally packed, and the platforms and the steps filled, and still there were hundreds who could not get on the train. The engine was detached from the train and sent after more coaches, and when all that were available had been attached, they were still crowded, but no particular discomfort was experienced, once the passengers were on board.

This condition, which is occurring with increasing frequency in Peterborough, serves as an evidence of the fact that there is a necessity for larger station facilities at Peterborough. The G.T.R. despatches a large number of trains from this city, and the number of passengers taken on or discharged at this station is in all probability greater than at any other station in Ontario, except Toronto.

Considering the facilities the trains are despatched and the crowds handled well, but there is a growing necessity for a larger station and for the installation of more modern equipment for handling crowds, for Peterborough is bound to grow considerably in the next few years, and the number of persons travelling to and from the city is sure to increase, and there is no denying the fact that it is very difficult to handle crowds with the present facilities.

Montreal Gets Peoples' Bank

Another Amalgamation Effected by Bank of Montreal.

A Montreal despatch says: The contest between the Bank of Montreal and the Royal Bank of Canada for the control of the People's Bank of New Brunswick, has been now given out by the Bank of Montreal.

The official announcement to-day from the Bank of Montreal occasioned considerable surprise in financial circles, as it has been regarded as almost certain for some days past that the Royal Bank would win.

The deal will give the Bank of Montreal a much stronger position in the Maritime provinces, where the Royal, the Bank of Commerce, and the Bank of Montreal, have been competing very keenly for business.

The Stony Lake Waters Claim Another Victim

Mr. James K. Erb, of Chicago, Ill., Drowned Near Boschink on Saturday Night—Unfortunate Man Took Cramps While Swimming Ashore From Overturned Canoe—Particularly Sad Circumstances of the Accident.

Special Staff Correspondence.

Stony Lake, Aug. 4.—Three unfortunate accidents each of which has resulted in the loss of a human life have occurred at Stony Lake this season. The last one probably the saddest of all happened on Saturday afternoon at Boschink when Jas. K. Erb, of Chicago, met a watery grave, a death which has cast a gloom upon the whole lake and particularly on that portion where the young man was spending a brief holiday.

The immediate cause of the untoward affair was similar to those of the former two, the young man taking cramps while swimming. The original cause, however was an upset while sailing in a canoe. It appears that Mr. Erb in company with his cousin, Mr. Jno. Mackenzie, left Glenwood, cottage in the afternoon in the canoe to enjoy a pleasant sail across the lake. In making a tack the sail caught and a sudden squall turned it over within half a mile of Glenwood and in the neighbourhood of Black Rock.

Mackenzie, being a strong swimmer, started for shore and asked his companion, a more frail man than he, to remain with the boat until he returned with assistance. The distance did not look far and Erb followed. But he had misjudged his powers and had only gone about half way when he was forced to call to his friend ahead for help. He had then gone down twice and was in such a state of excitement when Mackenzie arrived that the latter was almost dragged beneath the surface himself. He finally broke away and discovering that a rescue could not be effected by pursuing this course again swam to shore which was not more than 50 feet distant.

By this time the drowned man had ceased to appear at the surface and an alarm was given which brought a large number in the Mayflower yacht, who laboured hard in the hopes that the body might be speedily found and resuscitated. Diligent search until the lake became too rough to navigate in light crafts, failed to locate the missing body. Next morning the search was resumed at daybreak and at seven o'clock Mr. MacKenzie located the body by means of grappling irons about the spot where he had disappeared in about 15 feet of water.

The Mayflower was placed at the disposal of Mr. MacKenzie and the body taken to Young's Point. It was there met by Comstock's undertaking conveyance and taken to Peterborough from where it was sent to Chicago, his home, on the early C.P.R. train on Monday morning.

The late Mr. Erb lived at 6,955 Perry avenue, Chicago, with his mother and younger brother, who at the time of the accident were in Toronto, guests of the parents of Mr. MacKenzie, at Deer Park. His father predeceased him but a few months ago which fact only makes the unlucky incident particularly sad on account of the bereaved mother whose burden is now made doubly hard to bear.

The young men had only come to Glenwood on the Monday night previously, intending to spend a couple of weeks on the lake. They had made themselves popular among the other guests by their geniality and courtesy, and it was an unusually impressive scene to see them depart from the midst of gayety in such a manner.

Junior Matriculation Examination Results

The Names of the Successful Students of the Peterboro' Collegiate Institute—Those Who Passed in Junior and Senior Teachers' Examinations.

The results of midsummer examinations held by the Educational Department, Toronto, in the Peterborough Collegiate Institute have been received in the city, and in the absence of the principal, the names of the successful candidates have been handed out to the press for publication by Mr. J. WEDDING BELLS

LEITH—REDPATH.

A pleasing event took place at the home of Mr. Thomas Leith, Millbrook, August 8th, when Miss Clara Redpath became the wife of Mr. Robert Leith, of Redlands, California.

The bride was handsomely attired in a gown of white silk, and carried a shower bouquet. The bride was attended by Miss Murton of Fraserville, while the groom was supported by Mr. Fred Redpath. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. C. Allen of Millbrook.

The happy couple left on the five o'clock train for their future home in Redlands, Cal. Among the guests present we noticed several from Hamilton City, Port Hope, Perrytown, Bailieboro, and Minga, Man.

The presents were numerous and costly, showing the high esteem in which the bride was held by her many friends.

The Sturgeon Point Regatta

Excursion From Chemong Park on Thursday, August 16th.

The excursion to the Stony Lake regatta, under the auspices of the Chemong Park Association, proved a very successful and pleasant outing, being largely attended by parties from the city and park.

This association has arranged for another excursion per steamer Ogemah, to Sturgeon Point regatta, on Thursday, August 16th, leaving the park at 9.30 a.m., and returning about nine p.m. Bus and auto connection both ways can be arranged for by Peterborough parties wishing to attend. Return fare from Chemong to Sturgeon Point, 75 cents. This should afford a delightful outing as well as of seeing the best regatta of the season. 1d

The Hibernians Report A Most Successful Year

At Annual Meeting of the Provincial Division A. O. H. Which Opened To-day in the T.A.S. Rooms—Attended High Mass at St. Peter's This Morning—Trip Over the Lift Lock.

This morning the annual meeting of the Provincial Division of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, opened in the T. A. S. Hall, with about 125 officers and delegates in attendance.

This morning at nine o'clock the visitors paraded to St. Peter's Cathedral, where high mass was celebrated by Rev. Father McColl, and Rev. Father Kelly, who is chaplain of the local division, preached an appropriate sermon. His Lordship, Bishop O'Connor, Rev. Dr. O'Brien, and Rev. Father Galvin, were also present.

After the return from the Cathedral the meeting was formally opened, and Rev. Father McColl extended a hearty welcome to the visitors and expressed the hope that their stay here would be a pleasant one.

The Credential Committee then went into session and sat until noon.

At one o'clock the afternoon session was opened and officers' reports presented, after which the meeting adjourned to accept the invitation of the local Division for a trip over the lift lock and down the river on the steamer Water Lily, after which it was proposed to take a ride around the city on the street cars. An evening session will be held to-night and it is expected that the meeting will conclude on Thursday.

The past year has been a most successful one for this Order. Eight new divisions have been organized, and a large number of new members have been added. Reports from different parts of the province, indicate the fact that the Order is in a most flourishing condition.

About fifty members of the Ladies' Auxiliary are also present at this session.

The Provincial Officers, who are in attendance at this meeting, are as follows:

Pres.—J. J. Lynch, Peterborough.

Secretary—Thos. O'Dowd, Hamilton.

Treasurer — Ralph J. Slattery, Arnprior.

Provincial Insurance Secretary — Frank J. Walsh.

Board of Directors. — C. J. Foy, Perth; W. A. O'Mara, Pembroke, H. Lowry, St. Thomas, Dr. C. E. Coughlin, Peterborough, and Frank Slade, Toronto.

Prof. Millner Appointed To Important Position

Will Leave on September 1st to Take Charge of St. Mary's Cathedral Choir and Organ at Kingston—A Recognition of His Superior Musical Ability.

Prof. Milner, at present choirmaster of St. Peter's Cathedral, has been offered, and accepted, the position of choirmaster and organist of St. Mary's Cathedral, Kingston. He assumes charge of his new duties the first Sunday in September. In his departure, the city loses one of her foremost musicians, as well as an excellent citizen. Although in this country only about two years, Prof. Milner has made a host of friends, not only on account of his splendid musical ability, but also by his courtrous and genial manner. That St. Mary's Cathedral has been fortunate in securing so gifted a musician may be judged from Prof. Milner's splendid record. He graduated from Trinity College School of Music, London, England, with distinction, in 1883, having studied counterpoint and harmony under the celebrated Dr. Saunders. At the same time he successfully tried, and became associate of the Royal College of Organists, London, England. For three years he was organist in St. Michael's church, Bowes Park, London; for 18 years organist and choirmaster of St. Margaret's church, Lostwithiel, Cornwall, Eng., after which he came to America. On coming here he became organist in George street Methodist church, and latterly has ably filled the position of choirmaster of St. Peter's Cathedral. Prof. Milner has also a large and successful class of pupils in all grades of music. In the loss of Prof. Milner a vacancy has been created in the higher music circles in Peterborough, but at the same time it is a compliment to Peterborough that one of her citizens has been appointed to such an important position. The organ in St. Mary's Cathedral is a new one, installed a little over a year ago, and is one of the finest in Canada, costing about $14,000.

Will Run A Special Train

Shamrocks and Beaverton to Play Sudden-Death Game In Lindsay.

On Saturday afternoon next in Lindsay, the Shamrocks and the Beavertons will play the third game in the semi-finals for the Junior C. L.A. championship. A special train will be run from Peterborough on Saturday afternoon for the game, and the locals will undoubtedly be accompanied by a large aggregation of rooters. Be a sport; buy a ticket; help the boys out financially; and give them your moral and vocal support in Lindsay.

SOMEBODY'S BLUNDER.

Whoever steered the representatives of the Ontario Government sent to Peterborough to consider and decide upon several available sites for the proposed Normal School, have mixed matters badly, inasmuch as they showed a site that is not available, and led to, or did not prevent the Deputy Minister and Superintendent from considering the Collegiate Institute available, which it is not, and should not be made available for a Normal School site. In this regard, the Government's representatives cannot consider that they have been treated in the best of good faith. If regard is had to what should be the interests of the future Collegiate Institute pupils of Peterborough, the Collegiate Institute site will not be surrendered, and will not be considered available, though selected by the Government. Under these circumstances, the guides of the Government might as consistently have pointed out St. John's, or St. Paul's, or St. Peter's Church grounds as desirable and available sites. Somebody is responsible for a tremendous muddle in addition to the complications that have beset the attempt to fix the the Collegiate Institute site, which has come up to its present condition through great tribulation.

TRADE IMPROVEMENT.

It is pleasing to be able to note that Sir Wilfreid's Laurier's British preference is a preference that prefers and develops and stimulates Canadian trade with the Mother Country, for what amounts to the same thing—British trade with Canada. The vast increase of 17 per cent. of Canada's total trade—$180,703,957—over that of last year, was represented by an encouragingly large increase in trade with the mother Country. The total imports from Great Britain amounted to $69,298,000, as against $60,538,811 the preceding year. Of this amount, the dutiable goods amounted to $52,748,623, a gain of $7,334,814 over the previous year. The imports free of duty totalled $16,550,138, a gain of $1,435,126 over the previous year. The exports of Canadian merchandise to Great Britain amounted to $97,114,869. To show how the preference has contributed to the betterment of the trade take British imports from Canada, Take British imports from Canada, of $69,176,189, and compare them with those of 1897, when the preference came into force, when they totalled $29,412,188, and it will be seen that the improvement under the preference has amounted to nearly 140 per cent.—138 per cent. The pessimistically inclined are wont to regard the imports from the United States as something to be deplored. It is to be noted that the imports of free goods from the United States is much greater than from Great Britain. The explanation—and it is a satisfactory one, too—is that the bulk of imports from the United States consist largely of raw materials for Canadian manufacturers to use, materials that cannot, owing to distance, etc., be imported as advantageously from the Mother Country. Still this feature is to be remarked, that while the imports from both Britain and the United States into Canada showed a large increase over the preceding year, the gain in British goods was 24 per cent., and that of United states goods only eight per cent. A preference which increases our trade with the Mother Country, and a revised tariff that makes the conditions of manufacturing more favourable, are two things to be pleased with, and two things which this thriving country owes to a Liberal Government.

OTTAWA.

The Ottawa Journal defends the capital city against the insinuation of outside journals that Ottawa is living on the Dominion Government, and points out that the Government now spends yearly about $60,000 in improving Ottawa, and asks: "How much should the Government pay Ottawa for fire and water protection? If the land covered by the main government buildings were covered by business blocks, how much would Ottawa be in pocket in extra taxes? If the Government paid Ottawa the just taxes it owes, how small would the $60,000 Improvement Commission money look beside the money due the city? If the books were balanced the Government would, we believe, need to start another Improvement Commission to even things up. Another point is that if the Government paid its taxes directly to the city, the city would have the spending of the money."

Would not the erection of Ottawa into a separate district spoil most promising commercial city? Would not the effect be to make the capital a moss-grown burg analagous, from an urban point of view, to immuring a clever man in the civil service?

EDITORIAL NOTES.

A November session and a tariff revision amounting practically to a mere revision of schedules and removal of anomalies are promised. The first part of the programme, says the Ottawa Journal, will suit everybody. The second part will be padded out by a few things that the opposition will have a say.

A change that the Legislature might make next session, says the Bobcaygeon Independent, is to have the assessment roll printed in pamphlet form somewhat similar to the voters list. The whole statistics need not be given, just the value of the property, business and income. This would certainly bring about a more equitable assessment, and it is of much more importance than the publication of the accounts.

Mr. Goldwin Smith, "The Grange," Toronto, has entered upon his eighty-fourth year in, for that age, hale bodily condition and with an intellect, in brilliant and active operation for three-quarters of a century, undimmed and active. Mr. Smith has been a large factor in the intellectual life of the world. His opinions, vigorously and eloquently enforced through his writings, have not always met with universal acceptance, but they have had sincerity and honesty of purpose behind them. Mr. Smith's heart is in the right place, though, to the thinking of some, his head goes wrong. His unostentations, but abundant charity covers a multitude of what some may consider intellectual sins. May the grand old man measure many more days.

The fine, ivy-mantled, moss-grown method of sending the results first to the Collegiate Institute principals at their temporary address is a piece of annoying tomfoolery unworthy of a progressive province.—Toronto Telegram.

"It is. But, says the Hamilton Times, it was what Tory papers clamoured for; and as a concession to their clamour Hon. Mr. Harcourt gave it a trial and speedily found it as unpopular as it deserved to be. There is no excuse for continuing it."

We know it gives a great deal of unnecessary anxiety to candidates, who are naturally anxious to know the results upon which depend the making of preparation to further pursue their studies or arranging for accepting positions for which they are qualified as a result of passing the examination.

Lindsay Wants More Excursions

A Merchant Thinks Too Many Come to Peterborough.

The Lindsay Post says: A Kent street merchant raised a kick this morning when we informed him that a large excursion had passed through town to Sturgeon Point. "Why can't Lindsay secure its share of excursions as well as Peterborough, Port Hope, Orillia, Barrie, and other places?" he asked. "Excursions pass through Lindsay almost every day, but none stop here." He went on to say that it was a big mistake to make the excuse that Lindsay had no park. Lindsay's park was good enough—excursionists going to the above-mentioned and other towns didn't go to see the park and sit in the shade all day. They went to see what they could see—the attractions of the town and its fine residences.

OBITUARY.

MRS. JOHN BRADSHAW.

The Lindsay Watchman-Warder has the following reference to the death of Mrs. John Bradshaw, mother of Mrs. John Browne, 525 George street: One of Lindsay's oldest and most respected residents, the widow of the late John Bradshaw, died on Tuesday, July 31. She was born in Dublin, Ireland, in March, 1808, and her maiden name was Mary Douglass. The late Mrs. Bradshaw's father was a prominent figure in the suppression of the Irish rebellion of 1798, and and her mother belonged to an old English family. Deceased lived to the great age of 98 years and about five months. Her memory was wonderfully retentive. She could remember the return of the British troops from the American war of 1812-15, and the return of many of her relatives from the Battle of Waterloo; the death of George III.; the coronation and death of William IV.; the coronation and death of George IV.; the birth and death of Queen Victoria. She lived many years in Canada, coming to Lindsay in the fifties. Her husband held a commission in the Royal Irish Constabulary. They had a family of nine children, four girls and five boys, all of whom are living. Her surviving relatives here are Mrs. John Browne an Messrs. George, Robert, James and Frederick, city, and Archie, in Chicago, and Mrs. Seymour, Mrs. Hood and Miss Jennie, city. Mr. Bradshaw died about 30 years ago. Mrs. Bradshaw was a staunch member of the Church of England, and a member of St. Paul's. Rev. C. H. Marsh, the rector, ministered to her in her last illness.

The funeral took place from the late residence, 34 William street, to Riverside Cemetery, on Saturday, August 4, at 3 p.m.

Deceased was the mother of Mr. Archie Bradshaw, Inspector of Fisheries, and of the family there were five generations living, as she had great-great-great grandchildren.

QUEEN VICTORIA'S HAIR

Its Great Profusion Was Always a Cause of Wonder.

Even at the age of 80 years, Queen Victoria's hair was a marvel of luxuriance. The court physician, following Prof. Unna's discovery, undoubtly, treated her Majesty's scalp with a germ destroying preparation, that was not made public. It is now known, however, that the remedy for dandruff, the germ destroying element, is embodied in New bro's Herpicide, the only hair preparation on the market that does destroy the dandruff germ. Without dandruff, hair will grow profusely, and falling hair will be stopped. "Destroy the cause, you remove the effect." Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Ormond & Walsh special agents.

WELCOME HOME OF REV. MR. ARMITAGE

A Picton despatch says that on Friday evening last an enthusiastic meeting of the congregation of St. Mary Magdalene's Anglican Church of Picton was held at the parish house, the occasion being an informal reception and presentation tendered to Rev. Mr. Armitage and his bride on their return from their honeymoon. An address was presented by the churchwardens on behalf of the congregation, accompanied by a beautiful and massive cabinet of silver. Mr. Armitage made a touching reply on behalf of himself and Mrs. Armitage. The choir also presented an address and suitable souvenir.

The King of England has in Asia more than 300,000,000 subjects; in America, 7,500,000; in Africa about 5,000,000, and in Europe over 42,000,000. Classifying them broadly by religions, there are 208,000,000 Hindus, 94,000,000 Mohammedans, 53,000,000 Christians, 12,000,000 Buddhists and 23,000,000 of various pagan or non-Christian religions.

A Health Rule Of Importance

Medical doctors are probably unanimous in the opinion that the most important rule of health is that which relates to the regularity of the bowels and would put it something like this. "There should be at least one motion of the bowels every day."

Parents can inculcate no more valuable rule into the minds of their children, and when difficulty comes in living up to this motto, the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills should be resorted to.

By use of this treatment prompt relief is obtained and the whole system of filtration and excretion is set right because of the action of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills on the liver and kidneys as well as the bowels.

The very cause of indigestion, biliousness, headache, liver complaint, kidney disease and backache is removed when Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are used, and the benefit is not only thorough but lasting. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Land Comes High In Edmonton, Alt.

Dr. W. A. McFall Returns From West and Tells About The Country.

Dr. W. A. McFall returned yesterday morning from Edmonton, Alta., and the West, where he has spent the past six weeks. Dr. McFall has the same optimistic story to tell of the progress and prosperity of the great Canadian heritage. He states that while the yield of wheat per acre in the West this year will not be as great as last year, the larger acreage under crop will mean a considerably increased aggregate yield. The wheat harvest had commenced before Dr. McFall left the West, and with good weather will continue as rapidly as the limited help will permit.

Edmonton is described as a most prosperous city, a place where real estate prices have assumed remarkable proportions, as much as $650 per foot having been paid for land on one of the principal streets of the city.

While he was away, Dr. McFall visited a number od different sections in the West, and everywhere he saw evidences of abounding prosperity.

Army Immigrants Being Looked After

Staff Capt. Creighton Here From Kingston on Official Business.

Staff-Captain Creighton of Kingston, who succeeds Adjt. Jennings as head of the Salvation Army Immigration Department in Eastern Ontario, is in the city to-day on his first official visit to this section, since his appointment to that position. Staff-Captain Creighton is here looking up some men who have been sent here by the Army, and he will look over the general condition of the work here. He states that the Army is still bringing a number of desirable immigrants to the city and there is a brisk demand for good men. A large number of men, too, are being sent to the West, where where they will likely take a hand in handling the grain crop.

Brig. Howell is in England at the present time laying plans for next year's work, and it is reported that Col. Lamb, the head of the Immigration Department of the Army, will be in Canada this month.

Moving Picture Lamp Burned

By Hoodlums in Jackson Park on Sunday Evening.

"All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," may be an adage all right in its place, but there is a limit to everything, and this old time saw is given a very liberal interpretation by many Peterborough youths, so liberal in fact that their generous acceptance of its meaning leads to hoodlumism and in fact actual crime.

On Sunday night at Jackson Park the arc lamp of the moving picture machine of the Peterborough Radial Railway Company was destroyed by some miscreants who, by their meddlings and tampering with matters that did not in the least concern them wrought the destruction above mentioned. They turned on the lights at the Park and otherwise made their presence objectionable.

Mr. Larmoth wishes it understood that special vigilance will be exerted at the park and any offenders will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law. Fortunately the moving mechanism of the picture machine is removed each evening after the pictures are shown so the damage done was restricted to the lamp which has been replaced by another one, however, and everything is in good working order again.

PROF. KYLIE MAY GIVE A LECTURE

Prof. E. G. Kylie of Lindsay, of the staff of Toronto University, was in the city yesterday, visiting his uncle, Mr. J. A. Kylie, East City. Prof. Kylie, who is but 22 years of age, has distinguished himself greatly by his success in examinations, and is known as one of the rising young men in educational circles.

Arrangements are being made by which Mr. Kylie will lecture in Peterborough before long. He left today to spend a vacation in Quebec.

Do Away With Food Adulteration

The People Have a Right to Know What They Are Eating.

Too great attention cannot be given to the food we eat. The health of our families depends on this food. Are we to submit to the atrocities of the food adulterators? No. We must have laws to protect us and those laws must be enforced.

It is of interest to note that there is at least one article of food about which we can know everything. This is Malta-Vita, popularly called "The Perfect Food," the pure, all-grain product, in which every element of food necessary to the proper nutrition of the human body is found.

In the manufacture of Malta-Vita the whole of the wheat is thoroughly cleaned, cooked in the purity of absolute cleanliness and then mixed with the finest malt extract, made from specially selected barley. The cooking and steaming of the wheat gelatinizes the starch, and the malt extract, a powerful digestive agent, converts this starch into Maltose, or malt sugar, in which Malta-Vita is very rich. Maltose is of great food value, sweetens the wheat sufficiently to make unnecessary the use of any foreign sweetening agent and the weakest stomach digests and assimilates it without effort. Rolled into wafer-like flakes and baked under intense heat, Malta-Vita comes from the ovens crisp and brown, positively the most delicious food in the world. All grocers - 15 cents.

A General Exodus for the Civic Holiday—All of Many Excursions Well Patronized—Delightful Weather Conditions and Attractive Outings Were Responsible for Large Crowds Which Spent the Day Outside the City—Some Interesting Statistics.

Peterborough's Civic Holiday was a great success. Everything combined to this end. The weather was simply perfect, warm and genial, without being oppressively hot — a suggestion of autumn days, with a slightly cloud-shaded sky, and a delightful breeze blowing. Business was almost entirely suspended, except a small staff at some of the great manufacturing establishments, and a few builders, with time contracts staring them in the face. Apparently everybody who could get out of town, did so, by rail, boat, vehicle or street car,, and it is safe to say that the population of Peterborough of Peterborough was reduced by about, or more than, one-third. Not counting the regular summer dwellers at the surrounding summer resorts fully five thousand people went out of the city yesterday.

The Grand Trunk ation was the grand starting point of the hegira, six or seven trains leaving during the early morning — about sixty coaches, each having a capacity of 65 sittings, and all were filled to their capacity, drawn by nine engines. Early in the morning the regular trains, the flyer, and the local C. P. R. trains, took out large contingents.

The Independent Foresters to Desoronto was made up of fourteen coaches, drawn by two engines, and carried between 800 and 900 passengers.

The Canadian Foresters' train to Niagara Falls and Buffalo, made up of eleven coaches drawn by two engines carried seven hundred pleasure-seekers; and the excursion train to the same points by the C.P.R., carried about 200 passengers.

The Iron Moulders' excursion train to Cobourg with eleven coaches drawn by two engines, was responsible for a jolly passenger list of about 700.

The Catholic Order of Foresters, and Ancient Order of Hibernians, were joined by about 400 on their excursion to Sturgeon Point.

The train for Stony Lake was composed of seven coaches, well laden carrying about 400, which, added to four coaches filled with passengers for the Lakes on Saturday night made the Civic Holiday's contribution to Stony Lake's population for the day about 650, though large numbers gained the lakes by other sources, to the extent, that it is estimated that there were 2,000 spectators of the regatta.

The Printers' Excursion to Idyl-Wild, the only aquatic excursion of the day, was responsible for a depletion of population of about 350.

The regular morning train for Belleville, carried three coach loads about 175, to Keene, Hastings, and other points down the line.

This makes the exodus by rail about 4,100. The auto bus carried about 200 in the eleven trips it made to Chemong Park, and if we add the number who got out of the city by vehicle, street cars, canoes, skiffs, launches, etc., we have to add about 1,000 to the total, making fully 5,000 people who spent the Civic Holiday out of Peterborough, one of the greatest outpourings of citizens ever known in our history.

C. O. F. EXCURSION TO NIAGARA FALLS ATTRACTED MANY

Court Littlejohn C. O. F. annual excursion yesterday to Niagara was one of the most enjoyable in the history of the Order, and the outing was a delightful one to all on board.

About three hundred and fifty people took in the trip which was via G. T. R. to Toronto and across the lake via Niagara Navigation Company's steamers. At Queenston the excursionists boarded electric cars for the trip to the Falls. The day was most pleasantly spent in viewing the many points of interest around the Falls. There was no trouble experienced in passing away the time, and the majority were wishing that the day was longer. Peterborough was reached at an early hour this morning with a tired, but happy crowd on board.

INDEPENDENT FORESTERS' HAD ENJOYABLE TRIP

One of the most enjoyable of the many excursions that helped to diminish Peterborough's population yesterday was that held under the auspices of Court Chemong, No. 530, I.O.F., to Forester Island Park, via Belleville and Deseronto. Over 500 people were on the special G. T. R. train at 7.30 o'clock. Belleville was reached at 10 o'clock and the steamer Aletha of the Lake Ontario and Bay of Quinte Navigation Company's line was board immediately after. At Belleville the excursionists were met by the Inspector of Organizers of the I.O.F., who welcomed them to Belleville and accompanied them on their journey.

The trip through the beautiful Bay of Quinte was thoroughly appreciated by the excursionists. The boat went directly to Forester Island Park where those who wanted to picnic disembarked while the remainder went to Deseronto. On the return of the boat after dinner, several hours were spent in inspecting the magnificent I.O.F. Orphans' Home and in viewing the curios in the museum. Bro. J. C. Morgan, Superintendent of the Home, in a neat speech extended a welcome to the excursionists. An interesting feature of the afternoon was a foot ball match between Hoards and Peterborough, which was won by the former easily by 5—0.

Belleville was reached on the return trip at 6.45 and Peterborough at 10.45 o'clock. A most enjoyable outing was the verdict of all who took in the excursion.

To the following committee who made all the arrangements, a great deal ofer edit is due:—D. Wallace, Chairman; G. W. Powell, Treas.; J. M. Buyers, Secretary; Wm. Miles, H. Moore, E. Gray, H. Baker.

THE MOULDERS' HELD ENJOYABLE ANNUAL OUTING YESTERDAY

The Iron Moulders' Union, No. 191, held their second annual excursion yesterday (civic holiday), to Cobourg.

The excursion left the G.T.R. station here yesterday morning on a special train, consisting of about a dozen coaches and a double-header. The coaches were all packed, and not a few were compelled to stand. There must have been a thousand persons on board.

When the special arrived in the lake town about 9.50 o'clock, the picnickers wended their way to Victoria Park, which is situated right on the shores of Lake Ontario. Here the most of the holiday seekers spent the day, amusing themselves in various ways.

The excursionists left by the special, departing from Cobourg about 7.30 o'clock, and arriving here at nine o'clock. R. Stockdale was chairman, and Hugh Robertson, secretary, of the energetic committee of the picnic.

The excursion was accompanied by the Peterborough ball team, who played an exhibition game on Victoria Park with the fast Cobourg nine, and were defeated by a score of nine runs to two.

The game, barring the first innings, when Cobourg scored seven of their nine runs, was a good exhibition of ball.

The stars of the locals were Parnell, behind the bat, and Trainor, who played the difficult corner to perfection. Parnell carried off the batting honors, getting two good hits, one of which was good for two cushions.

The teams lined up as follows:—

Roddy, p; Parnell, c; Heaslip, 1b; Whitcroft, 2b; Trainor, 3b; Callaghan, ss; Fitzpatrick, lf.; Derocher, cf; Pilling, rf.

Cobourg—Downs, p. and ss.; Turpin, c; Roney, 1b; Bulger, 2b; McKinnon, 3b; J. Bulger, ss. and p; Payne, rf; Harcourt, cf; Burge, cf.

ANCIENT HIBERNIANS AND FORESTERS GO TO STURGEON POINT

The joint excursion of the Ancient Order of Hibernians and the Catholic Order of Foresters to Sturgeon Point was a big success.

About 300 holiday seekers left here on the 8.25 train for Lindsay, where the steamer Esturian was boarded and Sturgeon Point reached in good time after a delightful sail. At the Point a choice dinner was partaken of at Mrs. Walkey's restaurant, the service and menu being first class. After dinner a baseball match was the order of the day, nines being chosen from the Hibernians and the Foresters. The game was, it is said, a tie but the Foresters claim a victory by 16 runs to 13. Rev. Father Kelly for the Hibernians and Rev. Father Galvin for the Foresters did great slab work, and both took a turn at pitching. Rev. Father Galvin for the Foresters made some several sensational catches, which were loudly applauded.

Rev. Father Frank O'Sullivan of Lindsay was on the grounds for a while. The sports in the afternoon resulted as follows;

Boys' race, 16 years and under—Jas O'Brien, baseball mit; Joseph Eano, baseball bat.

Boys' race, 16 years or over—James O'Brien, pair cuff buttons; Joseph Eano, pair of braces.

Girls' race, 12 years and underr—Annie Keneally, pair of slippers; Ellen Leahy, fancy stick pin.

Dancing was also enjoyed during the afternoon, excellent music being furnished by Messrs. Napoleon Trombley and P. Kane. The excursionists reached Peterborough shortly after nine o'clock, all voting the day one of delight.

Mr. Napoleon Trombley was chairman of the excursion committee, Mr. James Drain, secretary, and Mr. John Halpin, treasurer. They did their work faithfully and well.

The drink bill of Ireland is reputed to reach $70,000,000 per annum. The Irish Times suggests that by reducing the consumption to the extent of 2 cents in the quarter the Irish Roman Catholics would provide more than $5,000,000 (for a university to their own liking.

Jackson Park An Attractive Spot

Many Holidayers Visited This Beautiful Resort Yesterday.

The street car line did a good business yesterday, but hardly as large as was anticipated previous to the holiday, owing to so many people leaving the city on various excursions. Jackson Park was however, well favoured by pleasure seekers, and extra cars were run on that line. At night a big crowd was on hand for the moving pictures, but as the band was at Stony Lake their services were missed. Owing to the burning out of the arc lamp on the moving picture machine a good many were of the opinion that there would be no pictures last night, but a new lamp has been installed and the machine is now in good working order. To-night there will be moving pictures and the band will also be in attendance.

Thanks To The Auburn Company

And to Mr. Kendry for the Excursion on Saturday.

The Examiner has been supplied with the following:

The employees of the Auburn Woollen Company, take this opportunity to thank Mr. Kendry and the Auburn Woollen Company for their generosity in providing the excursion to Orillia.

It was a day of all-round enjoyment, the ample train accommodation, the beautiful spot chosen, Mr. Kendry's genial kindness during the day, combined to make the occasion a memorable one. Robt. Mann, chairman committee; Jas. Burnett, secretary-treasurer.

Buoys Should Be Re-painted At Once

Stony Lake Yacht Owners Are Vigorously Complaining.

Owners of power boats at Stony Lake are complaining that the buoys should be re-painted. As they are now they are almost useless, as they cannot be seen any distance. The steamboat men do not mind this so much as they know the lake well enough to get through without buoys. To the owners of pleasure craft, who are not as well acquainted with the lake, however, the the condition of the buoys causes danger, and they urge that the matter should be attended to at once.

Had a Bad Leg.

"For twelve years I was a great sufferer with eczema on the inside of the leg. There was a raw patch of flesh about three inches square, and the itching was terrible. Dr. Chase's Ointment completely cured me, took away the itching and healed up the sore."—Mr. Alex. McDougall, Postmaster, Broad Cove, Marah, N.S.

Battery Firing Train Off To Camp

Under Command of Major Young They Went to Petawawa.

The 24th Peterborough Battery's firing team left on Saturday night, for Petawawa, where they will go into camp for three days, during which time they will receive instruction on firing, gun setting, etc. In this camp actual warfare, as far as the firing is concerned, is practiced, and the benefits of such training are not easily over-estimated.

The firing team, under the command of Major Young, with Lieut. Gerald Hall, acting captain, and Sgt. T. W. McDonough, acting lieutenant, left on the 9.05 G.T.R. train for Cobourg Saturday night, where they remained until Sunday morning, and then resumed their journey, arriving at the camp early Monday morning. They will spend three days there, and will return on Thursday or Friday.

This is the first trip of the 24th to the Petawawa camp.

Auburn Employees Annual Excursion

Was Run on Saturday—The Objective Point Being Orillia.

The Annual excursion of the Auburn Woolleg Company's employees to Orillia on Saturday was well patronized about 350 taking in the trip, which was made under ideal conditions, the weather being practically perfect. The special G. T. R. train which carried the excursion, left at 8.50 and reached Orillia at 11 o'clock, after an uneventful run. Upon arrival at the pretty lake Simcoe town the excursionists separated, many going to visit friends. After dinner the crowd again gathersd at the park and the afternoon spent there. The steamer "Geneva" had been engag-for the day and during the afternoon made a number of trips into Lake Simcoe, each of which was taken advantage of by large numbers.

The committee in charge of the event did all in their power to give those who participated in the excursion a good time ,and that they succeeded was given ample evidence to.

The return trip was again made in fast time, the city being reached early in the evening.

Praises Beauties Of Our Scenery

Mr. Curry, of Springfield, Ill., Says Otonabee is the Best.

Mr. J. S. Curry, of Springfield, Ill., who has been in the city visiting his father, Mr. W .A. Curry, McDonald street, was one of those who took in the printers' picnic yesterday to Idyl Wyld, and he was enthusiastic in his praises of the beautiful scenery along the Otonabee River and around Rice Lake. He stated that in all his travels he had seen no place where the beauties of nature were present in such abundance as in this vicinity.

Commemorated Relief Of Derry

Prentice Boys Attended Service at George Street Church.

Jubilee Lodge of Prentice Boys commemorated the raising of the Gates of Derry and the relief of the garrison by attending service at George Street church Sunday evening. A special sermon was preached by Rev. Dr. Crothers who dealt at some length with the crucial time in the history of Protestantism in Ireland in 1688-89, and the gallant struggle of the Protestants against the forces of James II.

The lodge assembled at the Orange Hall, Simcoe street, and marched in a body to the church where the central section of seats had been reserved for them. They were headed by the 57th regiment band. Splendid music was also furnished by the fife and drum band of Nassau Loyal Orange Lodge.

In commencing his discourse Dr. Crothers said that the word of God, taught us to use our common sense. The gathering he was called on to address was one that had the interests of Protestantism at heart. Protestantism was a word which should be dear to every one of us and one of which we should not be ashamed. In this fair land we enjoy many blessings. We have freedom of speech, a free press, and freedom to worship God according to the dictation of our conscience. It was not always thus, however. These liberties were dearly bought in days that have passed away. "Would that we could forget those disputes of the past" continued the speaker, "but at the present time I do not see how we can do so without being untrue to our trust and unfaithful to our God. The foundations of Protestantism must be guarded and the principles of Protestantism held fast."

"As part of the great Orange order, your motto is equal rights to all. You claim not for yourselves anything that you would not grant to others. That is a splendid principle and may God help you in living up to it."

Dr. Crothers then reviewed the events that had led up to the siege of Derry and the gallant defence of the Protestants beleaguered there.

The army of James II. completely surrounded the town and prevented assistance by either land or water. The siege lasted for 105 days and was raised by the ships of the relieving party breaking through the boom which had been thrown across the river and landing provisions and troops in the city. The Prentice Boys were chiefly instrumental in preventing the city from surrendering to the besiegers. It was most important that Derry should not captivate. If it had fallen Enniskillen would have fallen and that would have meant the downfall of Protestantism in the north of Ireland. The defence of these cities enabled William of Orange to overcome the arm of James and free England from the tyranny of the Stuarts.

The speaker also touched on several other points regarding the uplifting influences of Protestantism and showed wherein lay its strength.

At the conclusion of the service the procession reformed and marched back to their hall, returning by way of George, Hunter, Aylmer, Charlotte, Water, Hunter and George streets. Many of the Orangemen of the city joined in with the Prentice Boys and the turnout was an unusually large one.

On the return to the hall the customary votes of thanks were passed.

Mr. Noble Visits In Peterborough

Former Resident Returns to City For a Visit.

James E. Noble, chief engineer at Toronto Asylum, and his two sons, left Peterborough to-day, after a two weeks' visit to his mother, who resides in this city. Jimmie says that he hardly knew the old town; new streets, new houses and everything on the go all over the city. He called on many of his old friends who all gave him the glad hand and told him he should have stayed in town and he would have been an Alderman, as he has an ideal shape to fill a large chair. Toronto must agree with James as his weight has increased considerably since he left Peterborough.

The Steamer Water Lily

Many Holiday Guests At The Lake Resorts

Peterborough Residents by Hundreds Went to Stony Lake for Sunday and Yesterday—Friday's Storm Was One of the Worst of the Season—Masquerade Ball for Thursday Night.

Special Staff Correspondence.

Stony Lake, August 14.—Civic Holiday in Peterborough was responsible for the great host of visitors that visited the lake yesterday and over Sunday. The regatta, of course, did its share also, and all roads seemed to converge on Stony Lake yesterday and all channels on Juniper Island. The lake throughout the day was alive with hundreds of crafts, varying in size and proportions, and the gala-day of the season was certainly witnessed.

Last Friday's storm at the lake, as was reported before, was one of the most severe that has visited here this season. Lightning has left its ravages on many an island and shore of the lake, but only one dangerous case is reported. A ball of the electric fluid struck a large pine tree near Mr. B. Shortly's cottage, knocking it over and endangering the lives of two Peterborough boys, Messrs. Harry Mann and Fred Haskill, who are tenting there. The tree fell within a few feet of them, and both felt a rather severe shock for a short time, but further than this no other damage was done on that island.

Messrs. Louis and Graham Hallaran, Cleveland, who are guests at the Victoria House, are having much success at fishing. One day recently they made a trip to White Lake, accompanied by Mr. Jack Hunter, and returned with 19 bass of large dimensions, and three lunge.

Miss Nina Foster and Mr. Albert May, who have been guests at Edithova, returned to Toronto on Saturday.

Mr. D. W. Dumble was at Ballyregit for Sunday and the holiday.

Messrs. R. S. Paddock and Jas. McAuliffe, Rochester, who are at Viamede for a couple of weeks, went to Loon Lake on Friday for a few days' fishing.

Mr. and Mrs. K. G. Lech, Misses Helen and Madge Davidson, city, and Mr. Kane, of Oklahoma Territory, who were at Kenmore for the holiday, returned to the city last evening.

Mr. J. Fraser, city, was on the lake for the holiday.

Mr. Lloyd Stratton, Hamilton, is a guest at Forest Home.

Mrs. Geo. McDonald, Toronto, is a visitor at Sloanmoll.

Mrs. E. D. Goldey, Toronto, and Miss Ada Miller, city, are guests at Fern Rock.

Dr. Perry Goldsmith, Toronto, is holidaying at Oakdene Cottage.

Miss Ella Baker Ford, Washington, Pa.; Misses Lillian E. and Edith K. Hugell, Detroit; Mr. H. E. Ford, of Washington, Pa., and Mr. E. S. Ford, Norwood, are at Killarney.

Misses Eva and Alta Bradd, city, spent the holiday with friends on the lake.

Miss Ola Cavanah, Miss Louise Stanley and Miss Lillie Cox, Peterborough, were guests at Strathormond-on-the-lake for the holiday.

Messrs. W. D. Carey, Hamilton, and E. T. Rathbone, Toronto, are at Kill Kare.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Watt, Toronto, are spending a few days at Edithena.

Mr. J. J. Speirs, Mrs. Speirs and Messrs. Clifford, Clarence and Rupert Speirs, Toronto, who have been at the Victoria, returned home on Saturday.

Miss Loomis, Pittsburg; Mr. Sullivan, New York; Mrs. DeLaney and Mr. Chute, Cleveland, are guests at Ivanhoe. Mr. Roy Harris returned to Cleveland Saturday.

Mr. Arthur Mann came up to the lakes on Saturday night and will spend a couple of weeks a guest at Mr. B. Shortly's cottage.

Mr. D. McCrae, of The Review, spent yesterday at Juniper Island.

Miss M. Heffernan is a guest at Dulce Domum.

Mr. Melville Hartley spent Sunday at the lake.

The Victoria House at McCracken's is fast becoming popular. The Eko boys arrived there on Saturday night and are making their presence known in that section of the lake. On Saturday evening over 90 guests sat down to supper at the Victoria, and that number was even eclipsed last night.

During the dance at the pavilion last night a masquerade ball was announced for Thursday evening of this week.

St. George's tea at McCracken's will be held to-morrow evening.

The New York Stock Market

(Furnished by J. R. Heintz & Co.)

New York, Aug. 14.—Stocks were quiet but firm all day to-day. Opening prices were fractionally higher except for B R T which opened off half a point and C P R a point lower. B R T declined a point, while C P R was inclined to rally later. Americans were fairly steady in London, with the exception of C P R, in which there was some selling on account of the failure of the directorate to declare a bonus yesterday. Baltimore and Ohio touched a new high level; it sells ex-dividend 3 points to-morrow. Mo Pac was strong and Atch was well bought. Fluctuations in general were narrow and the trading confined to professionals.

Lilies Defeated The Night Owls

In a Close Game of Baseball at Driving Park.

In an interesting exhibition of baseball at the exhibition grounds on Saturday afternoon, the Lilies defeated the Night Owls by 11 runs to 8. Both teams played good ball and the result was in doubt right up to the end of the last innings. The teams were:

Lilies — Ryan p; Hillier c; Chambo 1b; Price 2b; Grose 3b; Bartley ss; Dickson cf; Moore rf; Dumfries lf.

Night Owls — Pilling p; Billington c; Menzies 1b; Holland 2b; J Henderson 3b; R Pilling ss; Russell lf; Kennesley cf; Henry rf.

Both of the pitchers showed up strong and the work in the field was also good.

Mr. Price Adamson gave satisfaction as referee.

OBITUARY NOTICE.

LEO PETER BURNS.

The death occurred last night of Leo Peter, the 15-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Burns, Hunter street. Burial will take place this afternoon at St. Peter's Cemetery.

MARION PINKHAM.

This morning the death occurred of Marion Pinkham, aged three months and 21 days, daughter of Mr. and Mr. and Mrs. M. Pinkham, 344 Aylmer street. Funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

CATHERINE ROACH.

The sad intelligence was received in the city to-day of the death of Mrs. Catherine Roach, of Cobourg, formerly of Keene, at the residence of her daughter, at the age of 72 years. The deceased lady had a family of 14 children, ten of whom are still alive. She resided in Keene nearly all her lifetime, moving to Cobourg about a year ago. The body of the late Mrs. Roach will come to the city this afternoon from Cobourg on the 5.30 train and will be conveyed to St. Peter's Cathedral thence to St. Peter's Cemetery for interment.

Col. Edwards Was Honoured

"Suit Cased" by Members of Peterboro' Bowling Club.

Saturday night the office of R. E. Woods, the former office of Col. E. B. Edwards, was the scene of a manifestation of the good will of the members of the Peterborough Curling Club towards the above mentioned gentleman, who was presented with a very handsome suit case by Mr. T. F. Matthews, Vice-President, as representative of the curlers. Mr. Matthews in making the presentation referred to Col. Edwards' long connection with curling in Peterborough and spoke of the loss the club sustained in his taking up residence in the West. Col. Edwards gracefully acknowledged the gift and spoke of his pleasant association with curlers and curling matters in this city.

The committee in charge of the presentation were, Messrs. T. Brightman, President; T. F. Matthews, Vice-President, and Dickson Davidson.

Col. Edwards has had the distinction of being always the representative of the Peterborough Curling Club at the annual meeting of the Ontario Curlers' Association, Toronto, during his long connection with curling in Peterborough.

NOTED AUTHORESS DEAD.

"John Oliver Hobbs," Mrs. Craigie, Passes at Age of 39 Years.

London, Aug. 14.—Mrs. Pearl Mary Teresa Craigie (John Oliver Hobbs), the authoress and dramatist, died in her sleep yesterday morning of heart failure.

Her death was totally unexpected, she having been apparently perfectly well when she retired Sunday night. Mrs. Craigie had been spending a fortnight at her home, Steophill Castle, Ventnor, Isle of Wight, which she left Sunday afternoon to keep an engagement in London. She was 39 years of age.

Sketch of Her Life.

Mrs. Craigie was a native of Boston, Mass., her father being John Morgan Richards. She was married when 19 years of age to Reginald Walpole Craigie, by whom she had one son, now 16 years of age. Though of Protestant parentage, Mrs. Craigie joined the Roman Catholic Church in 1892. Her interest in the land of her birth continued throughout her life, and she made several visits to the United States after her marriage, the last one being in November of last year, when she lectured on literary subjects. After her return to England she lectured there on "American Worship of Wealth."

CHIEF CAPILANO SEES KING.

Make Gifts to Queen and Say They Have No Complaints.

London, Aug. 14.—(C. A. P.)—A large crowd of people, many with cameras, assembled yesterday afternoon in front of the Canadian Government offices in Victoria street, the rumor having got about that Lord Strathcona was to leave for Buckingham Palace accompanied by three Canadian Indian chiefs, at present in London, but the crowd was disappointed. Lord Strathcona did not go to the palace.

The Indian chiefs were received by the King, to whom they presented a document owning allegiance to the late Queen, and not to His Majesty. They presented three beautiful Indian workbaskets to Queen Alexandra, one basket containing the picture of the son and daughter of Chief Koe Capilano.

The chiefs were delighted with their reception by the King. The C. A. P. asked Capilano what he thought of the King:

"Oh, he's a good man; he speak so softly."

The chiefs had no grievance whatever to put before the King.

Minister of the Interior Oliver had an interview yesterday which lasted several hours with Lord Strathcona.

Belligerents Burn Town.

Sofia, Aug. 14.—Advices were received here yesterday from Ahioulu, where the Greeks and Bulgarians have been fighting, to the effect that a large part of the town has been destroyed by fire. The Greek metropolitan is said to have perished in the flames.

Many Fast Runners Are Training For Road Race

Prospects Are That There Will be a Large Number of Entries—English Runners Now Living in the City Interested—Thanksgiving Day Race Bound to be Popular.

Great interest is being taken in the approaching Examiner Road Race from Lakefield to this city, and the present prospects are that there will be a large number of entries. The Examiner learns that already many runners have commenced training. Mr. Edwin Burton, an English runner living in the city, on Saturday declared his intention of being a contestant, and he stated that there were a number of other young Englishmen in the city who had had considerable experience in this line of sport, and who were preparing to enter the race, which will be run on Thanksgiving Day from Lakefield to this city, finishing at the Examiner office. The prizes, a valuable silver shield and a gold ring, are evidently proving attractive enough to induce many to try for them. In the course of a few days the trustees will issue the regulations under which the race is to be run, and copies will be sent to anyone interested, and who sends to the Sporting Editor of the Examiner for one.

This race should prove a decided attraction for Thanksgiving Day, the intention being to make it an annual event.

Biggest Aquatic Event Ever Held At Stony Lake

Annual Regatta Yesterday Was Marked by the Attendance of the Biggest Crowd and the Largest Number of Craft Ever Seen at Juniper Island—Fine Afternoon's Sport.

Favoured by magnificent regatta weather, with a bright and not too hot sun and just enough wind to be agreeable for all events, the annual Stony Lake regatta held yesterday off the course off Juniper Island, must be classed as one of the most successful ever seen at that popular summer resort. In point of attendance, in point of good races and in fact of every other way the aquatic event has never been equalled by any of its predecessors in the past. Never before, perhaps, in the history of Stony Lake has there been such a gathering of small boats as were seen yesterday. Certainly more power yachts were never on hand and the scene presented was a brilliant and inspiring one. The course was lined by power yachts and small boats. Sail boats darted everywhere and on the shore of Juniper Island was gathered an enormous crowd of spectators who watched the events with interest and cheered their favourites vigorously. The Stony Lake crowds were augmented by the arrival of the steamer Stoney Lake with a large number of Peterborough people on board, followed by the Ogemah, which brought a big contingent from Chemong, whose Indian yell was never found lacking when their entries won, which was certainly the case in the sailing race.

Gayety was added to the scene by the arrival of the 57th Band, who came on the Majestic and rendered an enjoyable programme during the afternoon. Their music was much appreciated.

The races were marked by many close finishes and on the whole were warmly contested and afforded a splendid afternoon's sport. While the entries in some classes were not as numerous as in other years, in other contests, especially in the sailing races there was a bigger field than ever before. The committee in charge ran off the races in good style and there were few delays.

Great interest centred in the sailing events of which there were three on the programme. There has been a revival in sailing on the Kawartha Lakes during the last two years and as a result ten dinghies were entered in the race for that class while eight craft contested the open event.

To Chemong went first and second prizes in the dinghy event and the big crowd from the Park were naturally elated over their success. Milne Hamilton was the winner by a considerable margin over his nearest competitor, A. A. Hollingshead, of Chemong. Fred. Starr, of Toronto, was third. The course was a triangle one, six miles in length, and there was a good breeze from the north-west. Mr. Hamilton sailed his boat beautifully and easily earned the victory.

In the open sailing race there was a big surprise in store. J. S. Knapman's "Cygnet" had been selected by most of the knowing ones as a winner but a sudden squall upset the craft on the second round and all chance of her winning was gone. She was well in the lead at the time. The race was won by the Hoschink boat sailed by Graham Ferguson and Ross Cameron, who won by several lengths. The race for second prize was exciting, Mr. Hates' boat beating out F. D. Roxborough's east end craft by a nose.

Mr. Knapman's second boat, sailed by Hubert Eakins, was first at the finish, but the judge's instructions as to the finish past the judge's stand were not understood and the leading boat stood off instead of crossing the proper line.

There were only two entries in the canoe sailing event, Hubert McBain and M. Shaw. The latter met with an accident to his sail and Mc-Bain carried off the honours.

The boys' tandem canoe race, 15 years and under, was captured by Frank Rice and John Davidson in easy fashion from Cyril Lech and Sherman McCracken. The winners paddled steadily and were winning the event on their merits.

Miss Gwen Hall won the ladies' single rowing race easily with Miss Pearl Lundy. The only other entry, Miss Elsie Bell, did not finish.

The swimming race had only a small field, but was marked by a very close finish. Dr. Shaw, of Chemong, won by a foot from Cyril Lech. The boy, though defeated, swam a very strong race and was always a strong factor. Jack Mann was the only other entry.

A big bevy of girls entered the ladies' swimming race and the contest was exciting. The first place was assured but there was allvely struggle for second place. Miss Gwen Hall got first place, Miss Leonne Sanderson was second and Miss Delaney third. The other entries were Misses Marion Denne Lillian Dean, Mildred Bull, Phyllis Denne and Miss Guillet.

The men's single canoe race was one of the big events of the day and caused great excitement. The championship of Stony Lake was at stake. A dark horse won in the person of Bob. Blackburn of the Toronto Canoe Club. The Queen City man trailed half way, but pulled out in front at the turn and won easily with Norman Bell second, and Harry Simpson of Lakefield, third. Other entries were Bert Stock, P. Gilbert, Peterborough, and Chas. Gordon, Lakefield.

Three pairs entered in the boys' tandem skiff race which was a close contest throughout. Henderson and Lech who pulled steadily and together were the winners with Layfield and Wallis second and Rice and Davidson third.

Miss Gwen Hall and Miss Pearl Lundy were the only entry in the ladies' tandem canoe race and got the honours by default.

The tilting contest, always one of the most interesting, was stubbornly fought affording the spectators plenty of amusement. Five pairs were entered.. H. Eakins and Norman Bell disposed of Fred. Collins and Hon. Lawrence Graham in the first round easily, while Watson and R. Hall upset Blackburn and Moffatt, of the Toronto Canoe Club. Hopkins and Wilson, of Lindsay, in turn disposed of Watson and Hall, and Eakins and Bell. The last pair were disqualified.

The finish in the men's fours was a magnificent one, not half a canoe length separating the two boats at the finish. The two events paddled magnificently all the way. The winners were a crew composed of Messrs. H. Simpson and C. Gordon, of Lakefield, and Moffatt and Blackburn, of Toronto. The other four were Basil Hall, Fred. Collins, Hubert Eakins and Hon Lawrence Graham.

The Indian race was easy for Jack Jacobs, who paddled over the line a winner by thirty yards. Taylor was second and McHugh third

The men's double canoe race was a splendid one and was contested warmly from start to finish. Jack Watt and Norman Bell, who paddled a magnificent race—Simpson and Gordon were second and Blackburn and Moffatt were third.

The crab race brought out a large field and was an amusing contest. B. Stock won in clever fashion with Moffat, of Toronto, second.

The ladies' tandem skiff race was won easily by Miss Ola Cavanah and Miss Lillian Cox, with the Misses Sanderson, second. The race was easy for the winners.

The upset race was as interesting as usual, although a new condition made it somewhat difficult to some of the performers. Those who had been accustomed to do the flip act were nonplused when they found they had to fill their canoes on the upset. The first time none of them fulfilled the condition. In the second Simpson crossed the line in advance, followed by Blackburn and Gilbert in that order. The decision was given to Blackburn as Simpson did not fill his canoe with water.

The Dances.

Probably the most charming feature of the regatta yesterday was the brilliant ball in the pavilion last night —the culmination of a day of great events and of a day unequalled in the history of Stony Lake. With the exception of the sailing crafts there very few boats of any description that were not utilized in conveying their immense living freight to that popular evening centre—the Juniper Island pavilion. Boats with their bows all pointing to that Mecca of gayiety encircled the point while on the wharves in front they were piled up two and three deep. At least eight hundred people made Juniper Island their objective point last evening and the dancing pavilion in particular.

Presentation of Prizes.

The first portion of the evening's programme was the presentation of prizes to the winners of the various contests. The aspirations of the many were for a time forced to give way to allow of the wants of the few and after the pavilion had been comfortably populated the presenting of the prizes was proceeded with.

The chair was occupied by Mr. R. B. Rogers, president of the Cottagers' Association. He thanked the people for turning out in such large numbers as they had done yesterday and hoped that in future years it would be as great a success. He referred to the fact that the Cottagers' Association was somewhat behind in finances and that it was time for each to hand in their dollar as the Association contemplated building better looking and more substantian wharves at Juniper Island.

Hon. J. R. Stratton was also on the platform and made a few preliminary remarks to the distribution of the prizes. He was glad to see such a number present at the dance as well as during the afternoon and mentioned particularly the crowd of visitors from Chemong Lake. He hoped that on the 23rd the people of Stony Lake would reciprocate the kindness and attend the Chemong Lake regatta. He did not wish to take up much time in making a long speech as he knew the greater part of those present were eager to join in the festivities of the dance.

The presentation of the prizes was performed by Mrs. (Hon.) J. R. Stratton, in her customary affable and graceful manner and in a way which showed her appreciation of the victors of these manly aquatic sports.

The seats were then specdily carried away to make room for the light footed dancers. The dance was the charming one it always is only more so on account of the excellent music provided by a portion of the 57th Regimental Band which the Cottagers' Association brought up for the day. But even after the band had played its last selection there were many who still were loth to leave the dancing hall.

No doubt the increase of people at this annual affair was due to the special boat and train which allowed all Peterborough people, whose duties commenced this morning, an opportunity of witnessing and participating in one of the most brilliant social events of the active Stony Lake season and reaching home.

Ireland enjoys the distinction of possessing more centenarians than England, France and Germany combined. She had 49 at the last census, whereas France had only 343, England 146, and Germany 75.

READ THIS ALOUD

It's near stock-taking time again and we are going to make a strenuous effort to convert everything in summer wear into cash before inventory.

THE REASON we want to convert the remainder into cash is we don't want this season's goods left over to be offered for sale next season. It's good level-headed business to do so, even though it means a loss to us.

THE PROOF—Seeing is believing, therefore the only thing to do is to come and see. If we don't make good our claims say "Good Day" and walk out. We mean business—put us to the test.

Printers' Annual Picnic An Enjoyable Outing

350 Persons Took in This Excursion to Beautiful Idyl Wyld Yesterday—Many Interesting Features of This Annual Event.

There were picnics and picnics yesterday, but the most successful of them all, was that conducted by the Printers, who chose that beautiful spot, Idyl Wyld, as their objective point, and two steamer loads of the members of Peterborough Typographical Union, and those who patronized their excursion took the trip down the Otonabee River to Rice Lake, where a most delightful day was spent. The steamers Water Lily and Rainbow, were engaged, and both were well filled, about 350 persons taking the trip, which was made doubly pleasant by reason of the beautiful weather which characterized the day.

The steamers left their wharves at shortly after eight o'clock, and after a most pleasant sail down the river, and across the lake, Idyl-Wyld was reached about 11.30, where it was found that everything was in readiness to receive the largest crowd of visitors honouring Idyl Wyld with their presence this season. Those who had supplied themselves with lunches were soon busily engaged preparing the tables under the trees, while a great many took advantage of the dining room of the hotel to take their dinner there. Mr. Hutchinson, the genial proprietor of the hotel, is to be complimented upon the excellent service given; everyone was greatly pleased with the meals provided.

In the afternoon a varied programme of sports was run off, and this feature of the day proved to be not the least enjoyable by any means.

List of Winners.

Boys' race, F. Hays, W. Crowe.

Girls' race, Lillian Harron, Ella Hogan.

Young men's race, G. A. Ford, W. Rose.

Young ladies' race, Miss Lowry, Miss Zeta Buck.

Biscuit eating contest, Bertha Shannon, Ella Hogan.

The Baseball Game.

For weeks interest in the Printers' Picnic has been centred in the baseball game for the trophy donated by the committee, between teams representing the Examiner, and the Review and Times. That it was a great game, no one who saw it will deny. Incidentally, it was won by the Examiner by the somewhat close score of 20—2, the 2 being given—the combined teams by the Examiner as a gift. The game was replete with sensational plays, not the least of which was the exhibition of pitching given by Johnston Paudash, one of the "ringers" on the combination team. He was batted practically all over the lot, but it must be said to his credit, that his support was not of the best.

The line-up of the teams, with their positions, and the runs scored by each, is as follows:

After an early tea the steamers left on the return trip, the city being reached shortly after nine o'clock.

The committee in charge of the picnic and to whom oreddit is due for the admirably conducted outing, is as follows: Messrs. Fred Hubbs, chairman; B. Beatty, Geo. Cairns, J. Thompson, Geo. Paxman, and A. Martin.

The captains and crews of the steamers were most obliging, and their treatment of the excursionists helped materially in making the day so pleasant.

Dashes.

It's a pity the combined print shops were only able to "coat two slugs" on the score card.

The Morning Times didn't get up early enough in the morning, and the Evening Review went to bed too early to cope with their contemporary contestants.

The beautiful gold-lined silver cup, won by the Examiner baseball team, will be on exhibition in the window of the Best Stove Company.

Mrs. E. V. Storey's Singing Enjoyed

Former Peterborough Lady Who Took Solo at St. Luke's.

Last Sunday at both services Mrs. E. V. Storey of Ottawa, sang a sacred solo. Mrs. Storey has been in England, where she took lessons in singing to perfect her already well-trained voice. It was the first time after her return that she sang in Peterborough, and her many friends here were delighted to notice her rich, round voice whose splendid natural timbre had been heightened by careful culture.

700 Certificates Of Delegates Vised

By Special Vising Officer Bunton of E.P.A. Association.

Mr. W. Bunton, who was the special Vising Agent, for the Eastern Ontario Passenger Agents' Association in connection with the recent Oddfellows' Grand Lodge meeting, completed his work of vising the certificates of the delegates on Saturday, and found that over 750 delegates were in attendance, each of whom had certificates which had to be vised before the return ticket could be procured. This is the largest delegation which this city has ever held.

Annual High Court Meeting

I. O. F. Meeting Being Held at Brockville This Week.

The annual meeting of the High Court of Eastern Ontario, I. O. F., will meet to-morrow, opening to-morrow and continuing until Thursday. The delegates who are to attend from Court Chemong are: — Messrs. D. Wallace, C.R.; W. G. McKee and D. Lawrie.

They will leave here to-night on the nine o'clock G.T.R. train, and will be away for three days.

He Was Dissatisfied With Everything Done

Fowler, Sr., Takes a Hand at Running the Police Court —Particulars of Horse Stealing Case—"Much Ado About Nothing."

The police court this morning was the scene of much turbulence. In this chamber of justice, while there is often a little frenzied talk from a man in a state of excitement, or who thinks he has been wrongfully accused, the magistrate is very seldom called upon to listen to as much expression of resentment and apparently unfounded and undignified expressions as he was this morning.

Two boys, John Mehaffy and Harold Fowler were charged with stealing on Sunday last, the 12th, a horse and buggy from the property of Lorne Bell. Both entered a plea of not guilty, and their fathers elected to have the boys tried summarily.

The story of the affair, as told by Chief Roszel in the court, is as follows: Bell, who is a youth, left his horse and buggy at Cavanah's sheds on Sunday night about 7 o'clock. He was approached by Mehaffy and Fowler, who wanted to hire the turnout. He refused them and went away. On returning at about 7.45, he found that his horse and buggy had disappeared. The two prisoners took the outfit and, after driving around a little, Fowler got out and Mehaffy, instead of taking the horse and buggy back to the sheds, took it to the police station. He was questioned and taken into custody. Later he was allowed his liberty, on his father's promise that he would appear in court this morning. While some trivial contradictions of the story were made by Fowler, it was apparently correct on the whole. The information was procured from a statement made by Mehaffy, and written down after his arrest.

After the prisoners had elected, the elder Fowler, in an indignant tone, told a story of his troubles in connection with the arrest of his son, George Fowler.

"George Fowler," said His Worship, "why, the information reads Harold Fowler."

"They arrested the wrong boy in the first place," said the man with the complaint.

He then asked of the court what was going to be done about the matter of the wrong arrest. He said that about 10 minutes past 4 this morning two officers came to his door, stating that they wanted to arrest George Fowler. His wife and daughter, the latter 18 years of age, both clad in their night apparel, answered the officers' knocking. Then the speaker himself arrived on the scene and requested them to let the matter stand until an hour when the whole household was up. This they refused to do and he shut the door. The guardians of the peace broke in, he said, and captured the object of their visit. He was locked up for some hours, and liberated when it was discovered that Harold, not George Fowler, was the miscreant wanted. The mistake was made in Mehaffy giving the name of George instead of Harold Fowler to the police.

"Oh, we can't be bothered with such quibbles," said His Worship, "simply a case of the wrong name."

"There's many a good man arrested by mistake," added the chief. But the elder Fowler was not satisfied, and took his seat with fire in his eye. Later in the proceedings he was again eloquently prominent.

On the strength of Mehaffy's statement, both were found guilty and fined $10 jointly, to be paid forthwith, or 15 days in jail.

After sentence had been passed, Mr. Fowler, sr., objected, saying that his son had not received a fair trial, and apparently thought the court would be much disappointed if the money was not forthcoming.

"I'll not pay a cent," he said, vehemently, "no matter for how long you send him to jail," and resumed his seat, apparently satisfied that he had scored a strong point. He then wanted the case tried by a jury. His Worship finally enlarged it until Thursday morning next, when it will be more thoroughly threshed out.

"If the fathers of the boys will go good for their appearance I will allow them their liberty until the time set for their re-appearance," he stated.

"I won't promise anything," said the irascible father of the Fowler boy, and the latter will have to stay in jail. Mehaffy's father, however, said he would give his word that his son would be on hand at the time fixed.

The Canadian Pacific railway has ordered five dining cars, 20 first-class coaches, 01 baggage and express cars and 25 box cars, to be built at its Angus shops.

Mr. J. Nugent Effects A Remarkable Rescue

Saved a Nine Year-Old Boy From Drowning at Stony Lake Yesterday—Pulled Him From Under the Water After He Had Gone Down for the Third Time—By Merest Accident the Boy's Peril Was Noticed—Visitor at Mr. Cole's Island Fell Off Dock.

Special Staff Correspondence.

Stony Lake, Aug. 15.—Rescued yesterday as he was sinking for the last time in twelve feet of water, a little nine-year-old visitor at Mr. Cole's cottage, Otter Island, owes his life alone to the presence of mind of Mr. John Nugent. The little fellow, who was playing yesterday afternoon near the edge of the wharf at the island was observed by Mr. Nugent to lose his balance and fall into the water, into which he at once disappeared, emerging and sinking again a moment later. To the four or five witnesses of the occurrence an addition to the drownings at Stony Lake this season appeared to be inevitable, as no one appeared to be close enough at hand to accomplish a rescue.

Mr. Nugent, fortunately, was rowing at a distance of several hundred feet. Perceiving the dire peril of the child he pulled rapidly toward the spot where he had last gone down. Wholly submerged in the water, nothing was left to mark the spot where the boy had sunk on the arrival of the boat. Bending far over the gunwale of the skiff Mr. Nugent perceived the bright red hat worn by the little fellow, several feet below the surface of the water. Quickly reaching down he was barely able to grasp this, feeling beneath it, in doing so, the head upon which it had been forced firmly by the action of the water. The necessity for prompt action then became even more apparent than before and Mr. Nugent prepared to jump in to the rescue of the boy. Another hasty glance into the water and the little curly head was seen at a distance of several feet below the surface. A quick grapple at arm's length as the boat careened perilously, threatening an upset, and the rescuer was able to grasp the arm of the little fellow who was pulled to safety in an unconscious condition.

Prompt measures of resuscitation were imperatively necessary; indeed, no movement went to show that a spark of vitality still remained in the little form. Placing him upon the wharf Mr. Nugent worked over the body for several minutes before the heart action became normal, the water being forced from his mouth by the operation.

The family of the little fellow and several others who had witnessed the accident from a distance, by this time crowded around overjoyed at the rescue, which appeared a moment before to be beyond the range of possibility. Mr. Cole, alarmed by the shouts of some members of his household, was naturally in a state bordering on destraction which the welcome information of the little boy's miraculous escape did not wholly relieve. The little fellow at present shows no ill effects from his involuntary bath. The circumstances of the rescue are somewhat remarkable. It was only by the merest chance that the boy's fall from the wharf came under Mr. Nugent's observation, being solely due to the fact that the oars which he used were bow-facing for had his back been turned the incident would certainly have passed unnoticed.

The Ancient Hibernians Hear Officers' Reports

A Successful Year's Opearations Reflected by the Reports Presented To-day—Yesterday the Delegates Took Trip Over Lift Lock—The Official List of Delegates.

Business was resumed this morning at the annual meeting of the Provincial Division A. O. H. in the T. A. S. Hall, with a full list of delegates present.

Yesterday afternoon the visiting members of the order enjoyed a delightful sail down the river and over the lift lock on the steamer Water Lily. The trip over the lock was an enjoyable one and was fully appreciated by the visitors, who were greatly pleased with the generosity of the local division, which found expression in this form.

Tuesday Night Session.

The third session opened at 8 p.m., Provincial President R. W. Falvey in the chair. The reports of the Provincial President was read, and contained many suggestions for the advancement of the organization and the people at home and abroad. The Provincial Insurance Secretary-Treasurer's report was a most satisfactory one, and showed the order to be in a most progressive position. After paying all claims and calls on insurance, there is the handsome sum of $6,300 on hand.

The convention met to-day at 9 a.m., when the real work of the gathering was commenced. The session was taken up principally with the presentation of reports.

King Edward Meets The German Emperor

A Cordial Meeting This Morning at Cronberg, Prussia—German Press Sees a Hopeful Sign—The Meeting.

Examiner Special.

Cronberg Hesse Nassau, Russia, Aug. 15.—King Edward arrived here on a special train from Frankfort at 8.05, a.m., to-day. Emperor William and Prince and Princess Frederick Charles, of Hesse, Nassau, met him at the railway station. The Emperor assisted the King in alighting and then they kissed each other on both cheeks.

Relations Improved.

Berlin, Aug. 15.—The press of all sections treats King Edward's visit to Emperor William as a sign of improved relations between him and the Emperor, and the belief and hope are generally expressed that the visit will have a beneficial effect, in fact, on

GRASSHOPPERS DAMAGE THE CROPS IN DUMMER

A report from the township of Dummer is to the effect that there is great danger there of destruction to the crops through grasshoppers. In some parts of the township they are very plentiful, and considerable damage has been done to the standing grain, one farmer stating that in one field he estimated that he had 300 bushels of oats lying on the ground, the grasshoppers having eaten the heads of the grain off.

The presence of the millions of grasshoppers, which have apparently selected this township as their abode, is causing the residents considerable alarm.

Money Stolen In City Store

A Young Lady Lost $9.75 on Saturday Evening.

On Saturday night, a young lady living in East City reports, a handbag and purse which she was carrying, the latter inside the former, were opened, and the contents, $9.75, stolen. The theft, she states took place while she was doing her shopping in one of the stores in the city, and although she reported her loss to the proprietor, and every effort made to recover the money, she has not yet received it.

ENTERTAINED BY CITY OFFICIALS

The delegates to the Provincial Division of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, will be entertained by the Mayor and Ald. Mason, chairman of the Reception Committee on behalf of the city council. They will likely be taken for a trip over the Lift Lock and a drive about the city.

Strong Demand For The Barnardo Girls

113 Arrived on Saturday and 30 Have Already Gone.

On Sunday morning a special G. T. R. train brought 113 girls to the Barnardo Home. This party arrived at Quebec from the Home in England, and they were brought right on to Peterborough as quickly as possible. The G.T.R. ran the train to the Home gates, where they disembarked. About 30 of the girls have already been sent out to the places from which applications have been received.

Miss Pierce, the superintendent of the Home here, states that there is a big demand for girls, greater in fact than can be supplied. There are about 90 girls in the Home now but that number will be materially decreased soon.

Boils and Pimples

Red Rash, Eczema, in fact any skin disease, disfigures the complexion because the bowels are constipated—or because the kidneys do not rid the system of waste—or because the skin itself is unhealthy.

Ointments, salves and soaps are useless. Because the trouble is with the blood.

Owing to defective action of bowels, kidneys or skin, the blood becomes laden with impurities. It is these impurities — deposited by the blood — that make boils, pimples, and painful, disfiguring skin diseases. It is because the trouble is with the bowels, kidneys or skin, that FRUIT-A-TIVES cure these diseases act directly on the eliminating organs—correct their irregularities—strengthen them—and thus clear the skin and make the complexion clear and soft.

Fruit-a-tives

If you have any skin trouble—or any fault with constipation, liver trouble, biliousness, headaches, indigestion, rheumatism—cure yourself with Fruit-a-tives. They are made of fruit juices and tonics—and never fail to cure.

WEDNESDAY, AUG. 15, 1906.

A NEEDED REFORM.

A sad case has occurred in St. Catharines, showing the necessity of better provision for the preliminary custody of insane persons, before the form for admission to a provincial asylum can be complied with. An aged woman was brought before the magistrate, and ordered to be examined by two physicians as to her sanity. Meanwhile her safety was assured by committal to the county jail, the governor of which declined to receive her, on the authority of Dr. Smith, the Inspector of Prisons and Charities, the law forbidding the confinement of persons mentally deranged in the jail. Her confinement in the police cells was the only resort, and it is said that they were unfit for the occupation of persons so affected. It seems that some general measures should be adopted for dealing satisfactorily with such cases. Jails are primarily intended as places of punishment, and it is quite preposterous that persons whose unfortunate condition requires the greatest care and attention, should be punished by confinement in a penal institution. A jail and police cells are no more fit places to confine the insane inflicted, than a veterinary infirmary or other stable. It is admitted that in a great many cases the critical stage of lunacy is at the beginning, so far as curative measures are concerned. In these cases, if a patient is speedily brought under expert treatment, in proper environments, a cure is more probable. If there is neglect, or improper treatment, the temporary insanity may be confirmed, and become permanent. Therefore, apart from considerations of humanity, which shrinks from treating human beings, perhaps of the highest moral and social calibre before coming under the domination of mental derangement, like criminals, housing them with criminals, and giving treatment that may tend to strengthen the mental ailment, and retard, if not prevent, cure, it is a matter of public policy to provide some proper temporary place of detention. It should not be difficult to have suitable quarters provided in connection with a local hospital. These need not be necessarily large, for it is not probable that there would, as a general rule be more than one occupant at a time. An annex could be constructed and furnished in a manner to meet emergent cases, at small cost, and patients temporarily detained, could at least have better lodging than the cell of a criminal or the bare planks and fetid air that characterize the ordinary police cell. Then, such cases as that at St. Catharines, could not happen, and an aged woman would not be bandied about from jail to police cell, and of necessity, treated more like a dumb animal than a human being, created in the likeness of the God of Charity.

TWO OF A KIND.

Mr. Dickson, a member of the notorious Murphy syndicate, is kicking because the Government, in the face of public opinion, will not—dares not—carry out the secret bargain made by the commission with the syndicate for a right-of-way mining concession. Mr. Dickson sees no reason why the favoured concession to the Murphy syndicate should be cancelled while the commission is allowed to grant and make good other concession of a similar kind. In an interview with the Ottawa Free Press, Mr. Dickson says:

"We have withdrawn our tender, taken back our money, and refuse to have anything more to do with a commission or Government that cannot carry out its award. The commission has done with others what it proposed to do with us and its action was ratified by the Government. That was in the case of the lower 37 acres of the town site of Cobalt to John Mackay, Renfrew; A. J. Young, North Bay; T. J. Charron, Renfrew; W. Nichol, Cobalt; R. Simpson, A. Santerre and A. Rainsbottom, Haileybury; D. E. Ferguson and D. W. Wells, New Liskeard, for $22,500 and royalties. What difference was there in the two cases? None whatever."

Mr. Dickson, it seems, does not protest against the cancellation of a concession which was notoriously adverse to the public interest, on any lofty moral grounds, but because another concession, which he thinks is in no way different in principle from the Murphy concession, is allowed to stand. It does not seem fair to Mr. Dickson's mind, that one set of grafters should be "turned down," and another set allowed to triumph. Here we have expert and inside evidence that the "crooked" deal of the commission with the Murphy syndicate, by which the Province stood to lose a large revenue, is not unique. There are, according to Mr. Dickson, two of a kind.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

They are constructing a telephone under a lake in Germany. Next thing, says the Kingston Whig, people know, the same thing will occur with regard to the ocean, and then at long last the people will be able to find out "what the wild waves are saying."

William Jennings Bryan is reported to have solicited an interview with the Pope for the purpose of acquainting his holiness with the details of the Bryan political policy. Now, if a Canadian political leader were to do that, if Sir Wilfrid Laurier, for instance, were to make such a visit, the Toronto Mail and Empire and the Hamilton Spectator would be grinding their bayonets, and Dr. Sproule would be putting on his war-harness.

The frequency with which United States bank clerks and officials plunder the banks of that country, argues two or three things. It indicates that the state of morality is at a low ebb, a circumstance doubtless due to the infection of the get-rich-quick microbe. The mad worship of money, and the indifference to ordinary moral restraints, shown in its acquirement, has become so universal, so extensively practiced, in commercial and industrial circles, that they do not pass by those engaged in positions of trust. Another thing shown is that the banking system of the United States is inferior to that of Canada. In this country the long roll of defalcations could not, under our banking system, be carried on, without detection. Americans themselves have admitted frankly that our banking system is superior, and experience shows that their admission is amply justified.

MELANCHOLY?

Can't even sleep—restless day and night, brooding over imagined troubles all the time. Your disease isn't in the brain, but in the blood, which is watery and thin, because you don't assimilate your food.

Do the right thing now and you'll be cured quickly. Just take Ferrozone; it turns everything you eat into nourishment. It puts new tone into the blood, quickens and vitalizes the worn-out nerves. The weary brain is relieved, sleeplessness disappears and brooding ceases.

Celebrated 40 Years Service

A Popular G. T. R. Conductor Just Returned From Pleasant Trip.

Conductor R. Boundy, of the G. T. R., on the Toronto-Port Hope run, is again on duty, after a pleasant month's holiday trip through the Western States, and a visit with Mr. and Mrs. John Britton, Vancouver, B. C., and late of Lindsay. Mr. Boundy reports his old friend doing well and contented in his new home. Mr. Britton's sons are both successful business men in British Columbia. Mr. Boundy enjoyed the run over the western division of the C. P. R., and through the mountains, which he says affords the grandest scenery ever enjoyed. This trip is a milestone, marking for Conductor Boundy forty years of continuous service with the G.T.R., and his many friends will be glad to know that he has celebrated the event so pleasantly.—Post.

Pills and Piles.

A prolific cause of Piles is the use of cathartics and pills of a drastic, violent nature, which is always followed by a reaction on account of the resinous, drying properties they contain.

There are other causes, but no matter what the cause or what the kind of Piles, Mr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid can be relied upon to cure—to stay cured.

Pavilion Wanted For East End

Stony Lake Cottagers are Discussing the Project.

The meeting of the cottagers of the east end of Stony Lake called for Saturday night at Crowe's Landing did not materialize owing to the breezy weather, which kept a large number of the cottagers away. It was decided to postpone the gathering until after the regatta. The people of the east end are anxious to have a pavilion erected at Crowe's Landing, and it is probable that next summer will see a commodious structure there. It would do much to promote social intercourse, and the young people especially are enthusiastic over the prospects.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. when this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Six Postulants To-day Took The Holy Habit

Solemn Ceremony This Morning at Mount St. Joseph—Helpful Sermon Preached by Rev. A. J. Smits, C.C.C., of Niagara Falls—Three Novitiates Also Take Their Vows—The Attractions of the World Sacrificed for a Spiritual Existence.

The pleasures and offerings of this world, many and fascinating, life in the home with the family, intermingling with friends and relatives, and other attractions of life, so near and dear, were given up this morning by six young ladies at the chapel of Mount St. Joseph, when they expressed their willingness to sacrifice all worldly attachments, and hereafter consecrate their lives to the sacred duties of the Roman Catholic Church, and were permitted to become brides of Christ and take the holy habit.

Sisters Mary Madeline, Mary St. Bernard, and Mary Patria, all of Peterborough, who have been serving a two years' novitiate, were allowed to take their vows at the conclusion of the above ceremony. Both sacred function were profoundly impressive, and, judging from the expressions of the countenances of both the postulants and novitiates, they realized the solemnity of their undertakings.

The chapel was well filled with their relatives and friends, as well as other members of the congregation. The altar was most appropriately decorated with beautiful lilies, emblematic of their purity of those who were to give their lives to the glory of their Master. The postulants walked up the aisle and knelt before the altar to the peals the organ, arrayed in beautiful bridal costumes, of white organdie over satin, and bridal wreaths and veils, which was worn to indicate their spiritual union to Christ. They carried natural white lilies in their hands, and also wore white lilies in their hair. The little maids of honour who attended them were also clad entirely in white.

Following are the names of the postulants and the maids of honour:

Postulants—Miss Catherine Crowley, Peterborough, in religion, Sister Mary Justina; Miss Clara D'Arcy, St. Mary's, in religion, Sister Mary Irenaeus; Miss Mary Noonan, Mount Forest, in religion Sister Mary Adrian; Miss Mary E. Carveth, Peterborough, in religion Sister Mary Seraphine; Miss Teresa O'Leary, Downeyville, in religion Sister Mary Mechtilde; Miss Clara Clancy, Peterborough, in religion Sister Mary Dorothy.

Maids of honour — Misses Annie Kelly, Mary O'Brien, Marguerite Clancy, Madeline Rutherford, Lillian Grady, Alma Lavasseur, Corrine Legendre and Noetia Gerard.

His Lordship the Bishop of Peterborough, officiated, assisted by Rev. Father McColl and Rev. Dean O'Connell of Mount Forest. Other priests present were Rev. P. J. McGuire, Downeyville; Rev. G. Whibbs, Campbellford; Rev. M. F. Fitzpatrick, Ennismore; and the members of the Peterborough Roman Catholic clergy, Rev. Dr. O'Brien, and Rev. Fathers Kelly and Galvin.

The choir was composed of the Sisters of Mount St. Joseph.

Rev. A. J. Smits, of Niagara Falls, Ont., preached a very impressive and encouraging sermon, using as his text the words of our Lord, "You did not choose me; I have chosen you." These words, as used by our blessed Lord to His apostles, were applicable to the novices present, said the speaker. In the world the Christian lives to follow the life of the Master as best he can, but in religion the Christian goes further and excludes the whole world. "The just man liveth by faith"; the sinner leads either a brutal life or a purely human life. God is the creator of all things, and if we just stand for a moment and consider the beauty of all God's creation, His living animate creatures from the highest to the lowest, from the smallest to the greatest, the trees, the flowers, and all the rest of his wonderful creations, we will have the inspiration of Christian faith and can't help and wonder at what our thoughts and consideration have revealed to us. There are mineralogy, botany, and hundreds of other things we know of that show us the existence of God. How did all this come to pass? God in His infinite wisdom and power wrought all these and man himself, and why? For His own infinite glory. Man alone understand all, and by his interest rules all on this earth. Man, understanding his God, is the mouthpiece of his Creator, and should bring forth the glory and greatness of God.

The Holy Ghost selected for Himself a number of favoured souls, and admonishes the greatness of the sacrifice of the pleasures of this world for the glory of God.

The speaker gave the greatest encouragement to the novices, who, arrayed in their costumes of beautiful white, listened with bowed heads to his words of cheer. He told them that because of their drawing away from this world to live a life consecrated to the glory of God, their reward would surely be an eternal existence with our blessed Lord in heaven. Isn't it proper, he said, that God should select souls for Himself that are to live for Him under the patronage and custody of His holy church, and should He not choose them the same as He did His twelve apostles and look after them like the gardener does after those flowers in his hothouse, summer and winter? Christ on the cross has made a terrible sacrifice for the sins of the world. In heaven, after this life, like our Lord promised Peter, when the latter asked him what would be the apostles reward who had given up everything to follow Him, they, too, will have a special honour and distinction in the heavenly kingdom.

After the sermon the novices retired to take off the livery of this world and to don the one that would hereafter be the uniform of the giving of their lives to the work of God, and were followed by the Mother Superior and some of the holy sisters.

During the interval of their absence the choir sang sacred selections appropriate to the solemn occasion. When they returned they were dressed in the holy habit, and, answering the questions of His Lordship, expressed their great joy at being privileged to forsake the world and all it held out to them, to enter upon the work solely for the glory of God. His Lordship commended them on their resolution, and, after having given them his blessing, they retired to commence their existence in the spiritual sphere.

Sisters Mary Madeline, Mary St. Bernard and Mary St. Patricia were then received before the altar by His Lordship and allowed to take their vows. They also were most willing to enter upon a life's sacrifice for the glory of their Creator.

Members Statements Of Murphy Mining Deal

Mr. Dickson Explodes a Bombshell in the Government Camp—The Virtue of the Government in Cancelling the Lease Was Not Genuine—The Murphy Company Were to Have the Inside Track to the Extent of Ten Thousand Dollars—The Company Will Have Nothing More to Do With It and Ask Compensation.

Brockville Recorder.

The Recorder was right in thinking that Mr. Denis Murphy's friends would not allow the Ontario Government to make scapegoats of them in this mining deal. Mr. Dickson, Mr. Murphy's business associate, has handed out this statement:

In March, 1906, I made application to C. H. Smith, chairman of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway Commission, for the right to mine on the right of way of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway. In reply to this request Mr. Smith advised me that my application had been filed and would receive consideration at a later date. On April 5th the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway Commission advertised for sale, Mining Rights on the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway between mileage 101 and 105.

Tenders for this concession were to be received up to noon on May 10th, 1906. On June 7th, some weeks after the time for tendering had expired, I made a proposition to the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway Commission, on behalf of a syndicate that I represented, to mine the right of way of the T. and N. O. R. on a basis of sharing the profits, the mining company I represented to bear all the expense of mining and to pay to the Commission as its proportion on 50 per cent. of the net proceeds realized from such mining privileges. To this proposition I received no reply whatever from the Commission.

On June 28th I made a third proposition to the T. and N.O.R. Commission, through its chairman, Mr. G. B. Smith, to the effect that if the concession had not already been disposed of through tenders called, I had a syndicate which was prepared to pay a bonus of $50,000 and a royalty of 25 per cent. on the ore mined, together with an annual rental of $50.

This offer was duly accepted by the Commission and notice of such acceptance was given in writing by the secretary of the Commission to me, the notice being dated June 29, 1906, informing me that the Commission had, by resolution, accepted our offer, subject to the execution of a satisfactory form of lease. This lease was prepared by the solicitors for the Commission and forwarded to us for execution and duly executed by the members of the syndicate. The executed lease was returned by us to the Commission, accompanied by a certified cheque for $50,000, on July 25th last. The receipt of this was acknowledged by the secretary of the Commission on July 26, 1906, who stated that the chairman was absent from the city "but immediately upon his return documents will be completed by him and myself, and your copy forwarded you, and as soon as the printed copies are available a number of these will be forwarded you also. I wired you this afternoon that the documents had come to hand."

Not only was the offer accepted by the Commission as above mentioned but the Commission publicly notified the press that the concession had been sold to an Ottawa syndicate. After receiving acknowledgment from the secretary of the Commission that the lease had been received, accompanied by cheque, we immediately arranged to commence operations on the property and sent our foreman to Cobalt to start work. In the meantime, on account of the absence of Mr. Smith and delay in executing the lease, Mr. Beament, counsel for the syndicate, and myself went to Toronto for the purpose of meeting Mr. Smith and arranging for the commencement of the work immediately on his return.

On arriving at Toronto we telephoned Mr. Smith and sugggested publishing a statement explaining to the press exactly what had taken place, but he replied that he would see us in the morning at his office and that in the meantime matters were all right. We attended him in the morning at his office, when he informed us that Mr. Foy had sent for him for a conference on the matter and that he was going to the Parliament Buildings to meet him. We also decided to go to the Parliament Buildings in order to give any explanations that might be required.

While we were there Mr. Smith came out from the conference with the Ministers and informed us that the Cabinet was of the opinion that in view of the criticism of the press on the arrangement entered into between the Commission and the Syndicate, they considered we should withdraw our offer and allow the Commission to re-advertise the concession for sale, and Mr. Smith assured us that if we would give such a letter THE GOVERNMENT WOULD GUARANTEE TO US THAT IN THE EVENT OF ANY OFFER BEING RECEIVED FOR THE CONSESSION BETTER THAN WE HAD MADE UP TO $10,000 THAT SUCH OFFER MADE BY ANY NEW TENDERERS WOULD NOT BE ACCEPTED, BUT THAT THE CONCESSION WOULD BE ALLOTTED TO US.

We informed Mr. Smith that we would not entertain such an offer under any circumstances as it would not be fair to our Syndicate, and he then asked us if we would like to see the Ministers. We at once accepted his suggestion and were accordingly introduced to the Ministers as follows: Hon. J. J. Foy, Hon. A. J. Matthewson, Hon. Nelson Monteith, Hon. Frank Cochrane, Hon. W. J. Hanna, Hon. Col. Hendrie as well as the Commissioners, Mr. C. B. Smith and Mr. J. L. Inglehart. Hon. Mr. Foy, with a few remarks, asked us to state our case and in reply Mr. Beament fully reviewed the dealings of the Ottawa Syndicate with the Railway Commission. After a general discussion, during which the Ministers fully admitted that the agreement entered into was fully above board and honest, and in their estimation a good bargain for the Province, the offer made by Mr. Smith was repeated, and we were again asked to give up the concession on the understanding that it a better offer was received to the extent of as much as $10,000 that it would still be allotted to the Ottawa Syndicate.

Mr. Beament, on behalf of the syndicate, asked the Hon. Frank Cochrane, Minister of Mines, the following question:

"DO YOU MEAN TO SAY THAT IF ANYBODY TENDERED $10,000 BETTER FOR THIS CONCESSION THAN WE HAVE THAT IT WOULD STILL BE ALLOTTED TO US?" AND THE MINISTER'S REPLY WAS THAT IT WOULD. THIS STATEMENT WAS ENDORSED BY THE HON. PROVINCIAL SECRETARY, MR. HANNA, AND NO MEMBER OF THE GOVERNMENT PRESENT IN THE ROOM OFFERED ANY OBJECTION TO THE PROPOSED ARRANGEMENT.

Mr. Beament and myself, on behalf of the syndicate, refused to entertain any such proposition, stating that the syndicate would stand by the tender that was made to and accepted by the railway commission. After further discussion the interview closed and up to the present date (August 8th) the syndicate has not received any official notification whatever that the Government has refused to ratify the lease and agreement entered into, although new tenders have been called for by the commission.

The above in brief is a review of this transaction. We have acted in good faith throughout and have gone to the expense of employing the best expert evidence we could get from New York to examine the property and advise us in regard to the working of the same in such a manner as would not interfere with the working of the railroad. We have also gone to the expense of incorporating and organizing our company to take over the lease and carry on the mining. The difference in the terms of our offer from the terms advertised by the commission or in so far as material, better from the standpoint of the Province than under the advertised offer as under the regulations as advertised it would be difficult if not impossible to mine the concession without endless disputes. The assayer could not pretend to assay every sample and by selecting rich samples might ruin the owners, or on the other hand by selecting poor samples the Province would only receive the lowest percentage, viz., 10 per cent. As our syndicate desired bona fide, to mine the concession, we considered a uniform rate would be absolutely fair to all concerned. On mentioning this matter to Mr. Smith he saw the difficulty arising from the regulations as advertised and suggested and agreed that our offer should be on the flat rate.

The ore shipped up to the present has averaged, as we understand, about $650 per ton, but only the rich ore so far has been shipped; if the low grade on the dump were also treated, as it should be, the average would be much less than $400 per ton, and consequently the royalty as advertised would not be 10 per cent. In order, however, to leave no room for dispute we made our offer on the basis of the high grade ore already treated without regard to the low grade. In effect our offer was principally on the basis advertised, but yielding a larger percentage to the Government than that asked in advertisements. If the whole of the ore is to be treated, the action of the Government in refusing their approval is, in our judgment, most unfair, as they are getting all they asked, but on a basis by which no unfair treatment or favouritism could be shown, and it avoided the great expense to both sides of experts being employed to grade the ore. Inasmuch as the commission received the authority of the Government to dispose of the materials and advertise for tenders and accepted our tender, which in the ultimate result would prove to be a better offer than the advertised terms, we consider that we have a right to demand that our offer, thus accepted, be carried out and fulfilled by the commission.

We may further say that WE OFFERED TO SUBSTITUTE FOR OUR PROPOSITION THE ADVERTISED TERMS OF THE COMMISSIO; for this concession, but the chairman of the commission stated to us that he could not recommend any such offer to the Government for the reason that he considered the original proposition of the syndicate for the concession was a much better one for the Province than the terms advertised by them.

J. P. DICKSON.

Several members of the Government deny any knowledge of the $10,000 deal, but all acknowledge that something was said about the Murphy company getting the lease after tenders were called, if there was not much difference in price. Mr. Dickson states positively that Hon. Mr. Cochrane definitely agreed to the $10,000 proposition, and up to date Mr. Cochrane has made no denial, though he has been asked.

TRUNK CAUSED MUCH TROUBLE

A mis-labelled trunk was the cause of much anxiety on Saturday last, but anxiety is all it occasioned, and the owner has it now in possession. It happened as follows:

The boat coming from Rochester on Saturday evening arrived at the Port Hope wharf too late for a party of Rochester people, among whom was Miss Louise Tracy, to make connections with the evening train for Peterborough, so they were forced to take the best vehicle Port Hope could provide—one that considerably resembled a hay wagon, and the party, minus the trunks, set off for Peterborough. The trunks were checked through, but Miss Tracy's, instead of being consigned to Peterborough, was billed for Stony Lake. Now, when Miss Tracy arrived in the city her friends told her that the trunk had been wrongly checked, for while it was her intention to go to a resort at Stony Lake for a vacation, "Stony Lake" was not the post-office. She went to the station and watched nearly every train that came in, hoping to identify her missing property. At last the object of her search was banged off on to the station platform to be transferred to the Lakefield train. Miss Tracy, spying the trunk, which was as welcome as a long-lost friend, looked up the baggageman and secured the trunk.

His First Visit After Quarter Century's Absence

Mr. W. D. Nelson, of Cadilac, Mich., Returns to Peterborough to Visit Scenes of His Childhood—Is a Son of the Late Geo. Nelson of This City.

Mr. W. D. Nelson, of Cadilac, Mich., circulation manager of The Evening News of that city, is in the city for a few days on what is his first visit since he left here, a boy of 10 years, 23 years ago. Mr. Nelson, as is easy to believe, sees a great change in Peterborough on his return after nearly a quarter of a century, and he is greatly delighted with the progress which his home town has made. He is a son of the late Geo. Nelson, who, some years ago, was a building contractor in this city, and he is also related to a number of Otonabee people, whom he has been visiting since he arrived here.

While Mr. Nelson is a citizen of the republic in which he is earning a good living, he has not, by any means lost his love for this native land, and admits that public life, politics and religion are conducted upon a higher plane here then in the land of his adoption.

Cadilac is a city of about the same size as Peterborough, but does not present the same appearance of progressiveness and enterprise that this city does.

Mr. Nelson is a graduate of The Examiner office, for he sold papers for this office in his boyhood days.

Annual Meeting Wycliff Alumni

Local Clergymen Who Will Take Part in Programme.

The annual meeting of the Wycliffe College Alumni, will be held in Toronto on Tuesday, October 2, to Friday, October 5, in the Convocation Hall of the College. A very interesting programme has been prepared, in which the following gentlemen will take part: The Venerable Archdeacon G. Warren, of Lakefield, will read a paper on "Constructive Criticism," on Tuesday, Oct. 2, and Rev. Canon Davidson will give a paper on "Co-operation, and Fellowship with Ministers of the Protestant Communion," on Thursday, Oct. 4. At the Alumni luncheon Rev. Professor Clark, of Trinity College, and the Premier of Ontario, will give addresses. Rev. Wm. Major is an Alumnist of Wycliffe College, as is also Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, who fills the office of treasurer of the Alumni.

To Decide on Date for the Acquatic Sports Here.

To-night the members of the Committee having in charge the matters in connection with the regatta, which will be held early in September, in all probability, will meet to decide definitely on the date, and to deal with other matters in connection with this event.

The meeting will be held in the Oriental Hotel.

Violent Headaches.

"I was troubled for a long time with headaches, which would come on with such violence that I could not eat or do my work. Headache powders and quick cures did no good. Eight months ago I took six boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and I have not been troubled with a headache since."—Mr. O. Barber, Simcoe, Ont.

A Port Hope Resident Well Known Here Dead

Mr. Wm. Barrett, Related to Mr. A. W. Callander of This City, Died Suddenly Yesterday—His Daughter in the City When Word of Her Father's Death Was Received.

Mr. A. W. Callendar, 584 Water street, received a telegram yesterday morning from Port Hope, advising him of the death of his brother-in-law, Mr. Wm. Barrett. The Guide of that town, yesterday referred to his death in the following terms:

"The many friends of Mr. Wm. Barrett, of Walton street, were startled this morning upon hearing of his death. Mr. Barrett has been a sufferer from heart trouble fo some time, and last evening about eight o'clock he was seized with a severe spell. The best of medical skill was called but it proved of no avail, and he passed away at 7.30 o'clock this morning. Although he was a man of very quiet disposition he made a host of friends who will learn with much regret of his demise. His widow and family have the sympathy of the entire community in their hour of trial. The funeral takes place on Thursday afternoon."

Mr. Barrett was well known in this city, where some years ago he was a frequent visitor. For many years he lived at Garden Hill, where he conducted a meat business, and at that time was a frequent visitor to Peterborough. Later he removed to Port Hope, and has lived there ever since. He leaves two daughters and one son. One of the former, Miss Clara, was visiting in the city with her uncle, when word came of her father's death.

East City Residents Complain Of Hoodlums

A Lady States That Gangs of Boys Make Life Miserable in Some Parts of the City—Police Have Not Been Advised.

A lady resident from the vicinity of Haslett and Oxford streets, East City, called on the Examiner to-day to register a protest against the actions of what she termed a gang of hoodlums, which gathers at the corner of these two streets each night, she states, and makes life very unpleasant for those who live, or have to pass that neighbourhood. She informed the Examiner that from twelve to twenty boys about twelve and fourteen years of age gather there and make the nights hideous with their blasphemous conversation, and hoodlum tactics. Not only are they annoying those who live there, by their words, but she is authority for the statement that they have torn down fences and in other ways damaged and destroyed property.

In answer to a question the lady referred to stated that she had not mentioned the matter to the police, but if an officer was sent to interview those residing in that section of the city he would be advised of the situation. She expressed the hope that the Chief would take up the matter and that he would see that, if possible, the practice, which is becoming increasingly annoying, is stopped.

The Steamer Water Lily

Thursday Half-Holiday Special Trip to Rice Lake.

On Thursday afternoon next, Aug. 16, the steamer Water Lily will run a cheap trip to Rice Lake, leaving the Wolfe street wharf at 2 p.m., the street car wharf at 2.30, arriving at Rice Lake at 4.30. Returning the steamer wil lleave Rice Laek at 6 p.m., arriving at Peterborough at 0 p.m.

This trip is especially arranged for those who participate in the half-holiday on Thursdays, and gives ample time for anyone to have their meals before leaving, and time as well to procure supper at Rice Lake.

The fare for adults is only 40 cents, and children 20 cents.

City May Get Another Important Industry

Manufacturers' Committee to Confer With the Hot Water Boiler and Radiator Company With Reference to Having Them Come Here—A By-law to be Submitted if Arrangements are Completed.

Another new industry, a hot-water boiler and radiator company, may locate in Peterborough, if satisfactory arrangements can be made with the council.

At last night's meeting of the Committee of the Whole Council, the matter was introduced by Ald. McWilliams, who suggested that if anything was to be done to secure the company here, arrangements might be made to have the bylaw submitted with the steel rolling mills bylaw. He pointed out that the company was negotiating with other places, but would not make a proposition to the council.

Ald. McWilliams thought that the council should make an offer to the company.

It was thought better to get some more information before drawing up a bylaw, and it was moved by Ald. Adams and seconded by Ald. Wilson, that the Manufacturers Committee arrange a meeting with the representatives of the proposed hot water boiler and radiator company, and endeavour to come to an understanding with the company to locate here, on terms similar to those arranged with other companies, the city to give them a fixed assessment at the value of the land for ten years, and if terms can be arranged that a bylaw be prepared to be submitted to the qualified ratepayers.—Carried.

Two Months In Jail Hudson's Sentence

Young Man Charged With Assaulting Police Officer Punished—His Honour Judge Weller Advises Young Men Not to Interfere With the Law.

Earnest Hudson, charged with assaulting P. C. Meharry and Newell while arresting Wm. McKnight on July 28th, was this morning sentenced to two months at hard labour in the County Gaol. The case is still fresh in the minds of the citizens of Peterborough who remember the row which took place on the corner of George and Charlotte streets. McKnight was sentenced to a month in gaol a few days after by Police Magistrate Dumble.

At the trial this morning evidence was given by P. C. Meharry and Newell, and by Motorman Flemming, similar to that heard at the preliminary investigation. In the evidence it was alleged that Hudson had kicked the officers. The prisoner went into the box on his own behalf and practically contradicted the officers on almost every point of importance.

His Honour Judge Weller in finding the prisoner guilty, said that he had no doubt whatever about the case. He didn't place much dependence upon the testimony of the prisoner. He was satisfied that he had kicked the officer and if he wasn't drunk his conduct was all the worse. In his judgment the prisoner was worse than McKnight because the latter was drunk.

"This young man," His Honour remarked, "chose to interfere with the law. I want him to understand that it is no part of his business to interfere with the law of the land. He must learn to leave the law and policemen alone. I want all the young men in town to know this. If they want sport they must pay for it. Constables must be protected and the only way to protect them is to punish the people who interfere with them. The next man that appears before me charged with this offence and is convicted will be sent to Central Prison."

His Honour then sentenced him to two months in gaol, remarking that he hoped that this punishment would have a good effect upon him and also upon other young men who were inclined to interfere with the law.

Eyes Worth Having

Did you ever stop to think that with the exception of the heart, the eye is the hardest worked part of the body.

As long as you are awake and your eyes are open they are working in your service.

Three pairs of muscles control the movement of each eyeball.

The two eyeballs move exactly together. Would you know the effect of their not working together—press your finger against one, so that it's position does not exactly correspond with the other.

How important it is that if these muscles tire and you have headaches and require Glasses, that your Glasses suit your eyes—our long experience makes us experts and able to fit you correctly.

THE MAGNETISM OF BURLEIGH FALLS

Burleigh Falls and vicinity has still a strong compelling power over summer pleasure-seekers. Evidence of this is afforded by the great congress of guests at the Burleigh Falls Hotel. This popular hot-weather hostelrie has, within a recent period, had as high a guest roll as 85. At present the guests number 65, and it is expected that soon the 85 mark will again be reached.

MID-SUMMER THIN DRESS

And no matter where gentlemen have to appear, whether at business, at church, at social function, at pleasure resort, anywhere!—you'll not need to apologize for your looks if you have taken the precaution to have "Stock" dress you.

Character, Fit and Style come first and foremost, whether you're buying the whole Suit or a Single Garment.

Peterboro' Has A Case Of The Dreaded Spotted Fever

Frank McNulty, of Detroit, Afflicted With the Disease —Taken Ill in Montreal and Became Violently Delirious on the Train.

Peterborough has a case of the dreaded spotted fever, or cerebro spinal meningitis, which caused such havoc in New York last summer. Frank McNulty, a young man from Detroit, lies in St. Joseph's Hospital in a very precarious condition as a result of an attack of the disease. He with his mother had been visiting in Quebec and Montreal. In the latter city the boy became very ill and a physician who was called in advised sending him home to Peterborough at once. On the train from the east last night he became so wild with delerium that he was beyond control and when Peterborough was reached he was removed to St. Joseph's Hospital and Dr. Gray summoned. He recognized the case at once as that of spotted fever. The young man is in a state of wild delirium at present and his condition is very grave.

Mother Makes Good For Her Son's Misdeeds

Mrs. Wylie Sends F. A. Clarke $9 to Repay Sum Obtained by Her Son on Forged Cheque.

About two years ago a young man named Wyllie forged a cheque on W. C. Forman, and it was cashed at F. A. Clarke's store. After the forgery was discovered the youth left the city hurriedly, but was afterwards caught at Port Hope, where he had committed a similar offense. He was found guilty after trial, and sentenced to a term in the Central prison.

It appears, however, that those who were the victims of his act, are not to be made to lose by it. To-day Mr. Clarke received a letter from Mary Wyllie, of Toronto, the mother of the young man, enclosing an order for $9, the amount which Wyllie was advanced on the forged cheque. In the letter she expressed her thanks to Mr. Clarke for his kindness to her and her son.

It is understood that Mrs. Wyllie is making good to all those defrauded, the amounts lost by the act of her son.

Is Board Willing To Give Up Lots?

Normal School Question Is Still Undecided.

It is up to the Board of Education to say whether they are willing to give up the Central Park lots as a site for the Normal School. A meeting of the Board of Education and the City Council was to have been held last night to discuss the matter, but the members of the School Board had not received sufficient notice and were not present. The Council decided to send the letter received from the Deputy Minister of Education to the effect that those lots were the only ones suitable for the purpose to the Board and ask them to state whether they were willing to surrender their rights to the lots or not.

AN OLD IDEA

Shown to be Absolutely False by Modern Science.

People used to thin that baldness was one of those things which are handed down from generation to generation to generation, from father to son—just like a family heirloom.

Science has shown the falseness of this belief by proving that baldness itself is not a constitutional disease, but the result of a germ invasion of which only Herpicide can effectually rid the scalp.

Washing only cleans the scalp of dandruff, it doesn't kill the germs. "Destroy the cause, you remove the effect."

Newbro's Herpicido will do this in every case. It is also a delightful dressing.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Ormond & Walsh Special Agents.

A TRAMP HELD.

No Clue Yet From Miss Jones As to Identity of Her Assailant.

Owen Sound, Aug. 15.—John Patterson, a tramp, 53 years of age, was arrested yesterday afternoon on the charge of brutally assaulting Miss Louisa Jones her last Thursday evening. He is a repulsive looking man.

Patterson has been wandering about this vicinity for the past few days, and it is said was seen around the scene of the crime on Saturday evening.

He is simple-minded. He denies all connection with the assault. He states that he had a dispute with his aged father, a well-to-do farmer residing near Burlington, Ont., and left home and took to tramping about the country. He wears a plaid smock precisely similar to that of the character who lurked about the scene of the crime very suspiciously on Saturday evening.

Miss Louisa Jones is still an irresponsible mental condition, and has given the police no clue as to the identity of her assailant. Her father is an ex-C.P.R. official and the family once lived in Parkdale, Toronto.

Another arrest will be made ere long by Constable Thompson at Desboro, a village a short distance south of Owen Sound. A middle-aged man who claims to be a salt water sailor, is suspected of being the culprit and will be arrested on suspicion.

5,000 Went Away.

Toronto, Aug. 15.—It was an enormous contingent that took advantage of the C. P. R. excursion to the North west yesterday. Figures volunteered at the district passenger agent's office estimate the exodus at upwards of 5,000 strong. It required six long trains of 12 carloads each, one of thirteen, and one of eight, to accomodate the throng comfortably. It is estimated one-sixth of them will not come back but will settle in the Northwest.

Opening Tenders For Bridges.

Ottawa, Aug. 15.—The Transcontinental Railway Commission were yesterday afternoon opening tenders for about a dozen bridges on the line of the Transcontinental Railway from Quebec to La Tuque. Accompanying the tenders are plans and commissions. The engineers will have to examine and report upon these before the contracts are awarded.

Experimental Farm Opened.

St. Catharines, Aug. 15.—The official opening of the Niagara district experimental farm took place at Vineland yesterday afternoon. Speeches were delivered by Hon. Nelson Monteith, Minister of Agriculture; M. F. Rittenhouse, the donor of the farm, and other prominent men. The Nineteenth Regiment band was in attendance.

New Zealand Wants Moose.

Ottawa, Aug. 15.—A cable has been received at the State Department from Sir Joseph Ward, Prime Minister of New Zealand, asking Canada to furnish his country with twenty young moose, fifteen females and five males. Sir Joseph offers to send Canada in exchange twenty red deer.

Hobbs Pleads Not Guilty.

Montreal, Aug. 15.—David Hobbs, the C. P. R. customs clerk, who is accused of forgery to the extent of about $64,000, pleaded not guilty when called up for voluntary statement, and chose to be tried in the court of special sessions.

Chas. Nixon's Serious Loss

Former Peterborough Man Has Hotel Destroyed by Fire.

Mr. Charles Nixon of Little Current, proprietor of the Nixon House, and formerly of this city is here to-day, and reports a serious loss which he sustained in the total destruction of his hotel by fire. A despatch to the Mail and Empire says of it:

"Fire broke out in the Nixon House stables at 11.30 on Saturday night, spread to the hotel, which, with contents, was completly destroyed, along with the stable, outbuildings and cottages. The cause of the fire is unknown. Loss on hotel, $20,000; insurance on building, $6,000; no insurance on contents or stock. The hotel will be re-built. While the fire was in progress Mrs. Powell, mother of G. R. Powell, merchant, dropped dead. She was viewing the fire from a window in her home. There were over 60 guests in the Nixon House. All escaped with partial clothing."

Mr. Nixon stated to-day that he might decide to locate in Peterborough.

The New York Stock Market

(Furnished by J. R. Heintz & Co.)

New York, August 15.—Heavy buying of Union and Southern Pacific were the features of to-day's market. On immense transactions Union sold at the highest price ever recorded for it while Southern did the same. The U. P. dividend meeting is scheduled for to-morrow and it is believed an increased dividend will be declared.

The general market was strong, but rather dull. Reading opened a half higher and advanced two points further. Copper gained a point and there were advances in thee Gould Southwestern issues. Smelters and Lead were marked up and Rock Island and Amn. Woollen were active at higher figures. The London market was firm, but arbitrage houses were sellers here for London account. Although there was more rioting on the B. R. T. this morning the stock was supported and bid up a fraction. Wheat was conspicuously weak in Chicago, while corn and oats sympathized. Brilliant weather and crop reports were responsible. Cotton was lower.

Stocks continued active and strong in the late trading and closed near the best of the day.

Big Crowds To Accompany Shamrocks On Saturday

Will Play Sudden Death Game With Beaverton in Lindsay —First Round of the C. L. A. Junior Semi-Finals.

A big crowd of rooters will accompany the Shamrocks to Lindsay on Saturday, when the meet the fast Beaverton twelve in the first round of the Junior C.L.A. semi-finals. A special train leaves the G.T.R. station at 2 o'clock, and the fare has been placed so low as 65 cents, that "it's cheaper than staying home," as one man was heard to remark. The local kiddies have played clever, consistent lacrosse all season, and have shown themselves worthy of the best support at the hands of the Peterborough citizens. That support should be forthcoming on Saturday, and the crowd that will accompany the boys should be one of the largest that ever left the city on such an excursion. Beaverton is said to have a speedy team, but the Shamrocks are in fine fettle, and the dope sheets seem to favour their chances. Turn out on Saturday and help the juniors bring another championship to Peterborough. We have the intermediate O.R.F.U., the intermediate O.H.A., and the junior and senior Midland Football League championships. Now for the lacrosse championship, and we can rightly claim the title of the championship city.

CORINTHIANS WILL SPUR ASSOCIATION FOOTBALL

Association football, after travelling a more or less thorny path seems to be gaining in Canada the favour it deserves. It may never attain in this country the popularity now enjoyed by lacrosse or baseball, but it is worthy of support as a fine, clean, and manly game. Climatic conditions here make it difficult, if not absolutely impossible, to play the game so often or for so long a period in the year as is the case in the old land. It is too hot here in the summer, and in mid-winter the game cannot be played at all. But, in spite of these adverse conditions, there is a rapidly-growing number of players and lovers of the game among Canadians native born, while a majority of the British immigrants bring with them an enthusiastic admiration for Association football.

The visit to Canada of a team representing the famous Corinthian Football Club, of London, England, one of the finest of the amateur football organizations of the old land, should give a great stimulus to the game. At Montreal on Saturday the visitors won their first match after a contest in which the Montrealers played exceedingly well. Many spectators who had never before witnessed an Association football game were delighted with it, admiring particularly the openness and swiftness of the play as compared with the ponderous contests of brute force disguised under the name of Rugby football, in which it often happens that the spectators see the ball only occasionally, and masses of struggling men too often. All the members of the visiting team are well-known players, a number of them are international, that is, they have represented England in contests against the other nationalities that make up Great Britain and Ireland, and, judging from their first match, they play to the utmost of their ability. This week they meet teams at Ottawa, Hamilton, and Toronto. That they will be heartily welcomed wherever they play in this country is certain, and it is to be hoped that, as at Montreal, large crowds will turn out to see their exposition of a fine game.—Globe.

Electric Shocks Not Necessarily Fatal

If Prompt Measures Are Adopted Resuscitation is Practicable in Majority of Cases—Some First Aids to Those Who Receive Currents of Electricity.

With the increasing number of electric wires carrying current in the city, the danger to human life is increasing, and in view of this fact the following article, which tells how, to save persons stunned by electricity, or lightning, will be read with interest. This article was written by D. S. Creamer, State Fire Marshall of Ohio:

Electricity, either man-made or cloud-made, persistently hunts for a conductor to carry it to the earth, and it never runs up a blind alley. The human body being two-thirds water is a good conductor, and no opportunity to use it as an avenue back to earth is ever overlooked by electrical force. But the body must make a connection between the charged conductor and the earth, or some other conductor, to get a shock. One could safely do the "giant swing" or "skin the cat," even on the power line from the mountain waterfall to San Francisco, which carries 60,000 volts, if he did not let his feet touch the earth.

Lightning occurs where the jump is shortest from the cloud to a conductor—hence the value of lightning rods.

Suspended Animation.

The Electrical World and Engineer is the authority for the statement that accidental electrical shocks seldom result in death unless the victim is left unaided too long, or efforts at resuscitation are stopped too early, as in the majority of instances the shock is sufficient only to suspend animation temporarily, owing to the momentary and imperfect contact of the conductors, and also on account of the resistance of the body submitted to the action of the current.

Breaking Contact.

Remove the body of one insensible from electric shocks at once from the circuit by breaking contact with the conductors. This may be accomplished by using a dry stick of wood, which is a non-conductor, to roll the body over to one side, or to brush aside a wire, if that is conveying the current. When a stick is not at hand, any dry piece of clothing may be utilized to protect the hand in seizing the body of the victim. If the body is in contact with the earth, the coat-tails of the victim, or any loose or detached piece of clothing, may be seized with impunity to draw him away from the conductor. The treatment for lightning shock is the same is that from dynamo electricity.

Don't Use Whisky.

It is both useless and unwise to attempt to administer stimulants to the victim in the usual manner, by pouring it down the throat.

The dashing of cold water into the face will sometimes produce a gasp and start breathing. If this is not successful the spine may be rubbed vigorously with a piece of ice. Alternate applications of heat and cold over the region of the heart will accomplish the same object in some instances.

If these remedies fail to revive the victim, artificial respiration, as used in cases of drowning and asphyxiation from gas, should be employed. The object is to make him breathe, and if this can be accomplished, and continued he can be saved.

Artificial Respiration.

Turn the body upon the back, loosen the collar and clothing about the neck, roll up a coat and place it under the shoulders, so as to throw the head back, and then make efforts to establish breathing. To accomplish this, kneel at the subject's head, facing him, and seizing both arms, draw them forcibly to their full length over the head, so as to bring them almost together above it, and hold them there for two or three seconds only. (This is to expand the chest and favour the entrance of air into the lungs). Then carry the arms down to the sides and front of the chest, firmly compressing the chest walls, and expel the air from the lungs. Repeat this manoeuvre at least sixteen times per minute.

An Assistant Needed.

At the same time that this is being done, someone should grasp the tongue of the subject with a handkerchief or piece of cloth to prevent it slipping, and draw it forcibly out when the arms are extended above the head, and allow it to recede when the chest is compressed. This serves the purpose of freeing the throat so as to permit air to enter the lungs. To secure the tongue, if the teeth are clenched, force the jaws apart with a piece of wood.

These efforts should be continued unremittingly for at least an hour, or until natural respiration is established.

Good Fishing At Jubilee Point

Rochester Guests at the Hotel Report Good Luck.

Some good fishing is being reported from Jubilee Point, where a number of enthusiastic American tourists are staying. Mr. Gilman of the Jubilee Point Hotel, states that his house is full practically all the time, and especially on Saturday and Sunday, when a number from the city go down to spend the week-end at this delightful spot. The following party from Rochester, N.Y., are spending a pleasant holiday at the Point: Walter Ferguson, Louis Fitzsemeyer, and family of six, C. C. Helens and wife, William Shevlin, A. E. Belcher, A. W. Nowachi, Valentine Nago. Wm. Ball of Peterborough, is also registered at the hotel.

Yesterday some of the members of the party went fishing, and met with such success that they have become infatuated with the sport. Mr. Hellens caught a 6 1-4 pound black bass. Another member of the party got a 5 1-2 pounder, and about ten good sized green bass were also on the string when they returned.

On Monday Mr. John Cuneamon of this city, who was spending the week end and the holiday at the Point, landed a 25-pound lunge.

Mr. Gilman reports that the business for this month has been most satisfactory and until the end of the season he expects that his house will be well filled.

New Motor Boat Is A Swift One

Mr. Robinson, of Toronto, Has One That Makes 25 Miles An Hour.

Stony Lake, Aug. 15. — Mr. and Mrs. Cramer and family, of Cleveland, came up to the Victoria House, last evening.

Mr. Robinson of Toronto, arrived at the lake yesterday with his new motor boat, which it is understood, can move along at the rate of 25 miles an hour.

A large party of Glenwood guests held a shore dinner at White Lake yesterday and all enjoyed a delightful outing.

Mr. R. Blackburn, the man who won the Stony Lake single canoe championship at the regatta on Monday, has been since giving exhibitions of his skill as a canoeist off Glenwood Island.

Mr. Fred Collins went down to Peterborough this morning to arrange for an orchestra to give the music at the masquerade ball tomorrow night.

LACROSSE

Peterborough Shamrocks defeated the Port Hope Ontarios in Oshawa on Saturday by a score of 7-1 and carried off the district championship. The game was no fast at any time, but Peterborough had the better system. The Ontario home played the wide system which never brings goals. They handled the ball enough in the first quarter to score ten goals, but they wouldn't go in. Gamble and Walker did the most effective work for the locals, starting several nice combinations. The first quarter neither team scored, but in two minutes of play in the second Port Hope notched the first. Peterborough scored two in this quarter, two in the third and three in the fourth.—Port Hope Guide.

Steel Rolling Mills Are Assured To Peterborough

Provided the People See Fit to Support By-law Which Will be Submitted to Them—Will Employ Fifty Men at Start and Average Wage Will be About $5 Per Day.

Peterborough will have a new and important industry, provided the ratepayers see fit to vote in favour of the bylaw, which will be submitted to them at an early date.

The Peterborough Steel Rolling Company, of which mention has been made in the Examiner several times, last night submitted a proposition to the Committee of the Whole Council, which was looked upon favourably by that body. The company asks to be given a site, estimated to cost six thousand dollars, and a fixed assessment. The site which will likely be selected belongs to the Alfred Macdonald estate, and is situated west of the entrance of the canal into Little Lake. There are five acres there which are said to fully meet the requirements of the company. The industry will be a welcome addition to the city's manufactories, starting with fifty men, with average wages of $5 per day. The company will manufacture steel plates from old locomotive tires and steel rails.

Mayor Best seemed to think a site might be selected on the old sugar beet factory property, but it was pointed out that this was not suitable for a factory such as proposed.

A deputation consisting of Messrs. D. O'Connell, W. H. Denham, and A. Elliott, waited upon the council to lay the matter before them.

Mr. O'Connell said that the members of the Manufacturers Committee were familiar with the details. A company was formed with a number of the most prominent citizens, and capitalized at $200,000. They would prefer to start in the city, and get a location here, if possible. He explained the object of the company, which was to manufacture tools from old locomotive tires. They would turn out 48 tons of material each day, and would employ at the start fifty men, with wages ranging from $2 to $8 per day, the average wage being $4 or $5 per day. The labour would all be high priced. It was necessary from the quantity of material used to have a location near the water front. They needed five acres of land. They had found it almost impossible to find a site under $6000. They asked that the council procure the company this site and to fix their assesament. They had found a site which could be had for $6000. The industry would prove to be a most important one. In five years they calculated to employ 200 men. Not only this, but other industries connected with the business would spring up alongside of this industry.

Mayor Best said that a written proposition had not been put before the council.

Mr. O'Connell said that it was necessary to move quickly, as the company was under heavy expense. Their intention was to have the plant established by November 1st, and unless the council gave speedy assistance the work would be thrown over until the spring.

The Mayor inquired if the company had examined the Cox property, and was assured by Mr. O'Connell that this property was not suitable for their purposes. They required a fourteen or fifteen foot drop into the river; to carry off the sediment from the factory.

Mr. O'Connell proceeded to put the project in writing, while the committee discussed the scheme.

Ald. McWilliams, chairman of the Manufacturers' Committee spoke strongly in favour of the new industry, pointing out the advantages that would accrue to the city from having such an industry situated here. He referred to the conditions made with the Cordage Company, and argued that the new company be treated in the same manner.

Ald. Elliott moved that a bylaw be prepared along the lines indicated. The motion was seconded by Ald. McWilliams, and carried unanimously, after Ald. Hicks and Ald. Adams had spoken strongly in favour of the proposition.

Annual Session Of The Trades Congress

Will be Held This Year at Victoria, B.C.—Many Matters of Deep Interest to Organized Labour Will be Considered—Question of Future Political Relations to be Discussed.

The President, Vice-President and the Secretary of the Trades and Labour Congress of Canada, have sent out circular letters calling attention to the fact that the 22nd annual session of the Trades and Labour Congress of Canada, will convene in the hall of the Board of Trade, Bastion Square, Victoria, B. C., beginning at ten o'clock on Monday morning, September 17, 1906, and will continue in session from day to day until the business of the convention has been completed.

Continuing, the circular says: — "The approaching visit to the Coast marks an important epoch in the history of the Congress. For years our efforts have been centralized in the East, and we have had a more or less perfunctory alliance with the West, but the growing importance of Western development has rendered closer connection with the workmen of the West an absolute necessity. It is only fair, therefore, that our Western brethren should receive the encouragement of a large attendance of delegates from the older provinces and all organizations in the East, entitled to representation, should make a special effort to elect and send representatives to Victoria, regardless of the financial outlay.

"Probably the most crucial feature will be the consideration of our future relations politically. The Congress will be favoured with the personal experiences of our President in Parliament, and the recommendations of Mr. Samuel Gompers in favour of independent political action will be considered. Efforts will have to be made to increase the number of Labour's representatives in the Dominion Parliament and Provincial Legislatures, and the delegates will have to give their best attention to ways and means for this purpose."

Fire Brigade Horse Still Looms Into Prominence

Fire, Water and Light Committee Decided Last Night to Keep the Animal—The Veterinary Surgeon's Report Declared Him to be Sound.

The now famous horse of the fire brigade was discussed again at a meeting of the Fire, Water and Light Committee last night.

The horse of which so much has been heard during the past few weeks, will be kept by the council. This was decided last night after a little discussion. A report was read from Dr. McKercher, veterinary surgeon, to the effect that the animal was sound. It was decided on motion of Ald. Mason, seconded by Ald. Graham, that as the city had purchased the horse they should keep the animal.

Ald. Duncan and Graham, the deputation appointed to inspect the new lights in operation at Cobourg, reported that their mission had not been very successful. The lights were so far apart that they were unable to make any estimate of their efficiency.

On motion of Ald. Graham, a committee composed of Ald. Adams, the chairman; Ald. Elliott, Duncan and Ball, should inspect the lights in other places where the new system is in vogue.

FAIR PRIZE LIST WILL AGAIN BE DISCUSSED

To-night the directors of the Peterborough Industrial Fair will meet in the office of the president, when the question of the prize list, which has been the cause of considerable trouble, will again be discussed. It is understood that some of the members of the Board are of the opinion that the list as it now stands is too high, and that if the fair is held and the prizes are offered, according to the list as it stands at present, there will again be a deficit. Others, including the president, are inclined to the opinion that the fair will stand to offer the prizes on the list, and it is probable that the matter will be finally disposed of one way or the other to-night.

NEW PROCESS TO BE USED BY ROYS

Mr. Fred Roy has just returned from attendance at the convention of the Photographers' Association of America, at Niagara Falls, at which he has been placing himself in touch with the recent advances in the photographic art. The new processes which have been developed and perfected, will be immediately introduced into the regular work of the Roy studio.

Cow Burried In Sawdust Pile

A Bovine Had Narrow Escape This Morning.

This morning a rather strange accident happened at Calcutt's brewery. A cow belonging to Mr. D. Conroy wandered into the yard at the rear of the brewery, where there is a quantity of sawdust. In some way this sawdust had become undermined, and, stepping on a soft spot, the bovine dropped into a whole, its body being completely buried, and only its head remained visible. Even that was not seen until about four hours afterwards, when Mr. W. Beatty, noticing the cow's head above the sawdust, went to make an investigation and found the animal buried. With considerable difficulty, and with the help of ropes, etc., the cow was extricated from its position.

A SPECIALIST IN OPTICS

Messrs. McDermid & Jury, druggists, who are themselves graduates of the Opthalmic College of Opticians, have secured for a few days the services of J. W. Browett, Doctor of Optics, of Philadelphia, a gentleman who is demonstrating to progressive opticians the modern methods of eye examination for glasses, with newly-invented instruments; also the fitting of artificail eyes. Those who call this week at Messrs. McDermid & Jury's optical room will have the additional advantage of Dr. Browett's ability and large experience.

READ THIS ALOUD

It's near stock-taking time again and we are going to make a strenuous effort to convert everything in summer wear into cash before inventory.

THE REASON we want to convert the remainder into cash is we don't want this season's goods left over to be offered for sale next season. It's good level-headed business to do so, even though it means a loss to us.

THE PROOF—Seeing is believing, therefore the only thing to do is to come and see. If we don't make good our claims say "Good Day" and walk out. We mean business—put us to the test.

Hibernians Increase Rates Of Insurance

And Decide to Continue the $300 Policy—Proposition to Issue Insurance for $500 and $1000 Was Defeated—Mr. James Sheehy Received at the Convention.

At the session of the Provincial A. O. H. held last night, the leading question, insurance, was again taken up, and, after a thorough discussion, it was finally decided to increase the rate for a $300 policy and continue the same. A proposition to increase the insurance to $500 and $1000 was defeated, the prevailing idea being that the organization was a national one for the betterment of the Irish people, both at home and abroad, and it should be the endeavour of every member to foster that spirit and that, with the fraternal side of organization, its success was assured without insurance for the present. Several amendments were made to the Provincial bylaws that will prove to be both valuable and useful to the organization.

A more thorough medical examination of candidates will be demanded. One of the features of the convention was the introduction of Bro. Jim Sheehy, of Chicago, who took advantage of the convention meeting in his native city to pay it a visit. It is unnecessary to say that Jim received at the hands of the convention an enthusiastic "Cead Millie Failthe." He delivered a most patriotic, fraternally-spirited address, in which he expressed greetings from 200,000 Hibernians in the United States.

The convention adjourned at 11 p.m. to meet at 9 a.m. this morning.

Stole Cook's Watch And Took Departure

With $12.00 of the Proprietor's Money—Mr. C. Armstrong, of Havelock, the Victim of a Smooth One.

Examiner Special.

Havelock, Aug. 13.—A week or so ago what appeared to be a very promising young man arrived at Armstrong's Hotel, seeking employment. Mr. Armstrong being short of help in the dining room, put the young man to work. He proved quite an adept at serving meals and Mr. Armstrong was beginning to think he had secured a treasure when lo, on Saturday noon the bird had flown, taking with him the cook's gold watch and $12. He was followed to Norwood by the [illegible], who saw the man he was after, lurking around the C. P. R. station, but before he could get his hands on him she was gone, and has not yet been caught.

The Misses Stanners, of Toronto, are guests of Miss Clara Dorricott.

Mrs. Jas. Harper and her daughter, Mrs. Cress, of Norwood, are guests of Mrs. Fred Squire.

Mrs. Sanderson, of Madoc, spent Sunday with friends in town.

Mrs. Rosie Weese, of Toronto, is home for a few holidays.

Big Bend Company Had Most Successful Year

Annual Meeting of Big Bend Lumber Company Was Held Yesterday—Company Shares in Prosperity of the West—Mr. R. R. Hall, M.P., Re-elected Vice-President.

The annual meeting of the shareholders of the Big Bend Lumber Company, Limited, was held at the offices of Messrs. Hall, Medd and Davidson yesterday afternoon, at which a large number of shareholders were present, among whom were noticed: H. W. Richardson, Capt. Gaskin, G. Y. Chowen, W. F. Nickle, R. Crawford L. H. Day, J. A. Madill, all of Kingston; J. A. Amey, Moscow; F. S. Wartman, Colebrook; E. W., F. E. and A. W. Benjamin, of Yarker; Rev. Jas. Cumberland, of Stella; W. Flavelle, J. D. Flavelle and George A. Jordan, of Lindsay; Thos. Shearer, Villiers; C. K. Beley, Rosseau; W. Bowman, Georgetonw; S. H. Best, A. Dunn, J. Wason, John Wason, of Peterborough; Isaiah Smith, Milburn, N. J.; J. S. Hayden, Camden East; Theodore Ludgate, Arrowhead, B. C.; R. R. Hall, M P, M. Henry, Sydenham; W. G. Parish, Athens; John G. Moore, Keene, Robert Tudhope, Birdsall; Dr. Carmichael, Andrew J. Hall, W. G. Ferguson, S. Irwin, Lindsay; Adam Hall, W. S. Davidson, G. L. Hay and others.

A Successful Year.

The president of the company, Mr. Theodore Ludgate, submitted the report of the directors to the shareholders, and the annual statement accompanying the same.

It appears that the lumber manufacturers of British Columbia, are sharing in the rapid growth and development that is taking place in the Northwest, judging from the large monthly profits that are being made in the Big Bend enterprise.

This mill has a capacity of 125,000 feet per day and is regarded as the best equipped and most thoroughly modern mill in the interior of British Columbia.

The report submitted by the directors was unanimously passed.

The New Directors.

The following persons were elected directors and officers for the ensuing year:

Mr. Theodore Ludgate, president; R. R. Hall, M.P., vice-president; and H. W. Richardson, G. Y. Chowen, F. W. Nickle, Kingston; W. Flavelle, Lindsay; Dr. Tovell, Sydenham; Adam Hall, James Ludgate and W. G. Ferguson. Mr. H. Kirk was appointed secretary.

The Church Bazaar.

Tit-Bits.

DR. HENRY VAN DYKE, the famous author, clergyman and teacher of Princeton, was talking one day about the best way for churches to raise money. Apropos of bazaars, he said:

"There was a canny old Scots minister hwo said one day, from the pulpit, with a dry smile:

"'Weel, friends, the kirk stands urgently in need of siller, and, as we have failed to get it honestly, we must e'en see now what a bazaar can do for us.'"

A Poor Excuse.

WHEN President Hadley, of Yale, was professor of political science there, a student once offered him a poor excuse for a bad examination paper, according to the Boston Herald.

Prof. Hadley listened to the excuse in silence, then he said, with a grim smile:

"That excuse is about as poor as the one a criminal lawyer offered for his client in a case that had gone hard with him.

"'Gentlemen of the jury,' cried this lawyer, eloquently, 'remember that my client is hard of hearing, and that therefore the voice of conscience appeals to him in vain.'"

A Crushing Retort.

Argonaut.

SENATOR BARD of California was once conversing with a Jesuit brother at the Georgetown University, when he told this story illustrative of the fine humour of Archbishop Ryan of his state.

The Archbishop had rebuked a priest for wearing a most disreputable looking hat.

"I would not give this hat for twenty new ones," said the priest. "It belonged to my father who fell in the rising of '48."

"Ah," was Archbishop Ryan's retort; "evidently he fell on the hat!"

King Edward's Double.

Tit-Bits.

KING EDWARD'S double has had to be locked up. He is Baron Alfred Stern, the multi-millionaire brother of Lord Wandsworth, and specialists do not hesitate to declare that his lunacy has been to a great extent brought about by his having been so frequently mistaken by strangers for Edward VII., and accorded the homage and tokens of respect due to the latter. Just before he was placed under restraint he excited a considerable disturbance in Pall Mall at the very height of the season by endeavouring to force his way into Marlborough House, declaring that he was its master, and that he had a right to admission to his own palace. Owing to his resemblance to Edward VII, the spectacle which he presented, struggling in the hands of the police, threatened at one moment to result in a riot, some of the spectators being under the impression that it was the King's person who was being thus roughly handled, and the object of an outrage.

Are Looking For A Works Site

This afternoon the officials of the Radiator Company, looking for a location for their factory here, with the chairman of the Manufacturers' Committee, are looking for a site for their works in the event of a decision to locate here.

Albany Club May Be Re-organized

Statement That Rooms Are to Be Secured Again.

It is possible that the Albany Club which some months ago turned over the lease of their club rooms in the Bradburn Block to the Elks, a number of them joining that order, may again open club rooms and effect a re-organization. It is understood that a movement is on foot to secure the rooms over what was formerly the Palace Hotel, which has recently been leased by M. Pappas, and fit them up for club rooms. These quarters would be central, and, with very little trouble, could be fitted up into comfotable club rooms.

Peterborough May Get Next Annual Meeting

Of the Master Bakers' Association of Ontario—Local Delegates Put Up Fight For It At London.

The next annual meeting of the Master Bakers Association may perhaps be held in this city. In reporting the discussion on this point at the convention in London yesterday, the Advertiser says:—

"Delegates from three places—Toronto, Berlin and Peterborough—invited the bakers to hold the next convention in these cities. Toronto has already had one convention, but its representatives asked for another meeting, urging that that city is the most centrally located and the best place for a convention of business men to be held. The Berlin and Peterborough men put up a stiff fight, however, and had their own forcible representations to put forward. The matter was not decided but was left to the executive which will name the place of meeting and the date of the convention within a month or so."

Mr. H. Long and Mrs. T. Lush are the Peterborough delegates to the association meeting.

Speeding Contests To Be Seen At The Fair

And $300 Will be Offered for Prizes in This Class—Fair Directors Met Last Night and Decided Many Matters.

The directors of the Peterborough Industrial Fair held a meeting last night in the office of the president, when a number of important matters affecting the fair were discussed. It was decided to include in the programme in front of the grand stand, four contests of speed in the ring, the basis of judging being 95 per cent. speed and 5 per cent. conformation. For these contests $300 will be given in prizes, and it is expected that some good races will be seen.

The judges, who are to be practically all outside men, were selected, and the secretary was instructed to write them requesting them to act.

Arrangements are being made to have the fair formally opened by some prominent public man, though it is premature yet to announce his name.

Mrs. Fay's Prediction Has Been Proved True

Mrs. McMartin's Watch Recovered—Mrs. Fay Said That a Woman Named "Hattie" Had It and This Proved To Be The Case.

At the time the marvellous Fays were in Peterborough, many people were sceptical of Mrs. Fay's ability to divine the future. One woman however, who believes firmly in Mrs. Fay's ability along this line is Mrs. McMartin, of Otonabee, and she has good reasons for this belief. During Mrs. Fay's appearance here Mrs. McMartin asked her a question concerning a watch which she had lost some two years ago. The answer was that a woman called "Hattie" was in possession of the missing article. The sequel of the incident has just come about, and yesterday Mrs. McMartin received her watch from an American lady who is visiting near Mrs. McMartin's home. It appears that the lady, whose Christian name is "Hattie," as Mrs. Fay had said, found the watch on a previous visit two years ago, and had carried it back to the States with her. This story is enough to make the most sceptical believe that there is something in Mrs. Fay's powers after all.

Cheap Trips To The Lake Ports

Monarch and Water Lily Both Run Excursions.

This afternoon two excursions were run down the river to Rice Lake ports. The steamers Water Lily and Monarch both took good crowds. The Lily advertised a trip at 40c. return, and the Monarch came back with one for 25c. which is the cheapest trip to Rice Lake for the season. The low rates attracted a good crowd, who took advantage of the low rate and fine weather to spend the half day on the water.

Presentation To Their Secretary

Mrs. Smith Remembered by Members of Court Queen.

At the regular meeting of Court Queen, No. 276, I.O.F., on Thursday evening, Aug. 9th, after the business of the Court had been gone through Mrs. Harry Smith, who has filled the position of financial secretary for the past two years, was presented with ten dollars in gold, on her departure for the Northwest. After wishing Mrs. Smith a pleasant journey and prosperity in her new home, the members adjourned to Potvin's ice cream parlours where ice cream was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith have gone to Didsbury, Alberta, where Mr. Smith will go into business with Mr. W. A. Brundrette.

Obtaining Many Subscriptions

It will be interesting to the students and friends of Queen's University in this district, to learn that Rev. J. J. Wright has been very successful in securing subscriptions for the Queen's University Endowment Fund. Rev. Mr. Wright who is the travelling representative of the fund was in Kincardine last week and succeeded in getting several subscriptions of $100 each, and also one annual subscription of the same amount.

Peterboro' Needs Small Houses

To Meet Requirements of Those Who Cannot Pay Big Rents

A former Peterborough man now in the city on a visit, states that to his mind the greatest need that Peterborough has is for more of the humbler style of dwellings for the convenience of people who cannot afford larger houses. He states that in the American cities certain sections are built up entirely with houses renting at from $8 per month up. The outlying sections in this city, which are now but sparsely settled, could be built up in that way, according to his opinion.

Rev. Father Phelan's Picnic In Chandos

A Most Successful Picnic Event in Chandos Township—Large Attendance—Speeches of the Day—Delightful Weather—Good Results.

On Saturday, August 11, the grounds of the Church of the Purification of the Blessed Virgin in far north Chandos was the scene of a delightful picnic, under the auspices of the Rev. Father Phelan, parish priest. The weather was all that could be desired, the heavy rains of the previous day having laid the dust, cooling the air, and making driving much more comfortable. The good cause, the fine weather and the popularity of Rev. Father Phelan combined to attract a company of between five and six hundred persons, who entered heartily into the spirit of the occasion.

The attendance included many from Coe Hill and the surrounding townships.

Recently, large and commodious sheds have been erected for the benefit of the congregation, and the picnic was for the purpose of procuring funds to meet the expense of the new conveniences erected. The ladies of the congregation and others outside the congregation provided a bountiful supply of first-class viands, and the excellent quality was demonstrated by the manner in which the assembled multitude took advantage of the opportunity presented to secure the excellent meals provided at noon and in the evening.

The usual list of sports and games was conducted, and a vigourous competition in the several events resulted.

The Speeches.

During the afternoon several addresses pertinent to the occasion were delivered. The chair was occupied by Mr. David Campbell, reeve of the township. Mr. Campbell complimented the gathering upon being representative of the township, as well as of surrounding townships, and including all classes of the community.

Rev. Mr. Taylor, Presbyterian student-minister, who was present, made some happy remarks on the lines of the great harmony that had always prevailed in the northern townships, the absence of denominational bitterness and the generally kind and neighbourly feeling that prevailed. He was glad to be present to assist in so worthy an object, for though there might be differences in the details of religious belief and practice, all denominations were aiming at the betterment of the moral condition of the people entrusted to the care of their priests and ministers, and on this common ground they could meet and fraternize, and extend mutual assistance on an occasion of this kind.

Mr. John Hales, ex-reeve, was glad to be present. The day was a delightful one, and the complexion of the gathering showed the good feeling that existed in the community. He was glad to meet his neighbours and friends in a pleasant social way. He hoped the good feeling that had prevailed would continue.

Hon. J. R. Stratton was the next speaker. He referred in grateful terms to the cordial reception which had been tendered him. This was his first visit to the Township of Chandos, as far north. When Father Phelan had invited him to be present he had accepted, and had undertaken the drive to meet the people of Chandos, and he was pleased that he had done so. He had known Father Phelan a long time, back even to his schoolboy days, in his days of sport, when he was a star on the lacrosse field. He had known him as a student and as priest, and in all these capacities he had known only good of him. He was in every way worthy of the high respect in which he was held. If His Holiness the Pope were ever looking for the raw material for a bishop he would have no hesitation in recommending Father Phelan. Chandos was a distinguished name. The township was named after one of the titles of the great Duke of Buckingham, who traced his descent from William the Conqueror. That was a good many years ago. Chandos is not so old. It was surveyed in 1860 by a Peterborough man—Mr. J. W. Fitzgerald. The first white child born in Chandos was John Kilbourn, son of Billings Kilbourn, a not unfamiliar man in the locality.

Mr. Stratton said that he was not in public life, in the ordinary sense of the term. He had had twenty years of public life of a pretty strenuous character. During his public career he had never given up, or lost interest in his newspaper, the Examiner. It was an advantage to a newspaper man to know all he could about his own country, so that he could appreciate the interests and wishes of the people he was desirous of serving. He would know more about Chandos after the present visit. If he had not attended this picnic, he would not have realized that there were so many pretty girls, comely matrons, and stalwart men in the township as he saw before him. He was glad of a chance to co-operate with them in promoting the good of this part of the country. We might some of us be careless in our way of living, but the most careless, though they may not practice the principles of religion are willing to acknowledge that religion and morality, are very good things—for somebody else. Canada was a Christian country, enjoying the highest degree of Christian civilization, of any country of the world. When we owed so much to religion, we were doing a good work in promoting the interests of the church, as they were doing that day. This was a Christian country, and it was largely due to that fact, that, under Divine Providence, we were enjoying the great prosperity we were blessed with to-day. Few realized what a great country Canada is, and what a great nation it is destined to be.

A prominent Canadian statesman had remarked that the 19th century belonged to the United States but that the twentieth century belonged to Canada. All realized this. Mr. Stratton then pointed out in evidence of the truth of this statement how the trade of the country had grown; how the population had increased; how the waste lands had been settled; how the local conditions had all changed for the better; how farming methods had changed, and how the development of the dairy industry had turned out for the benefit of districts where grain-growing operations didn't promise profitable success. After dealing in detail with the evidences of growth and development as represented by increase of trade, growth of manufacturing, and increase of individual and national wealth, Mr. Stratton concluded by reiterating the pleasure it gave him to be present. He expressed the hope that the pleasant associations he had enjoyed to-day would be strengthened by more frequent visits than he had had the pleasure of enjoying in the past.

Rev. Father Phelan, in a few remarks, thanked the people for their attendance in such large numbers. He was particularly pleased to see his friend, the Rev. Mr. Taylor, present, and many of other denominations. Mr. Stratton's presence, always welcome, was made more welcome by bringing with him a Peterborough citizen in the person of his old friend and school mate, Mr. W. G. Morrow. He referred to the occasion that had brought them together, and he hoped that the good feeling that prevailed in the district would always continue. He thanked all who had in anyway assisted him in the picnic.

The Sports.

During the afternoon an interesting programme of sports was run off. A baseball game was played between Clydesdale and Coe Hill, and the score was 7—5 in favour of the former team. Mr. A. Campbell proved an efficient referee.

The prizes for dancing were awarded as follows: M. Vassar, T. Twomey.

Boys' race, Joe Goulais, M. Vassar.

Men's race, F. Scott, J. Kirby.

POST CARD CORRESPONDENCE.

In this column will be published communications upon post cards only. It will remain open for the use of readers, who are invited to contribute suggestions, inquiries or replies. Anything of a scurrilous personal nature will be prohibited.

Editor Post Card Column:

Dear Sir,—I would like to ask a few questions in reference to the new horse in the fire hall.

Is the horse sound? Is it true the horse cost the chief $180, and that he sold it to the town for $200?

Are the Aldermen in on this deal? Do our civic rulers allow anyone to bleed the city? Will the bluff of the fire chief, i.e. to take back the horse at the same price as paid, settle the matter same price as paid, settle the matter to the satisfaction of all the members of the council and the public?

Yours truly,

GRAFTER.

The Examiner does not know anything about the horse or the price paid, and does not think that any member of the council is using his position for his own benefit. While we have often differed with the council in regard to many things, there has been merely difference of opinion. If there is warrantable reason for thinking there is anything improper in regard to the purchase of the horse, the matter could well form a subject of investigation.

Editor Post Card Column:

I would like to congratulate the town of Cobourg on having passed a by-law prohibiting the use of barbed wire in the town and would respectfully recommend a similar course of action on the part of the city council of Peterborough. If such a by-law were passed, the Horticultural Society would then have to remove the barbed wire from Victoria Park, and I think that in the interests of the children a number of whom have already been injured with this dangerous fence, the society should see that it is removed.

DRS. KENNEDY & KERGAN

The Leading Specialists of America. 25 Years in Detroit. Bank Security.

Nine out of every ten men have been guilty of transgression against nature in their youth. Nature never excuses, no matter how young, thoughtless or ignorant he may be. The punishment and suffering corresponds with the crime. The only escape from its ruinous results is proper scientific treatment to counteract its effects.

The DRAINS, either by nightly losses, or secretly through the urine, must be stopped—the NERVES must be built up and invigorated, the blood must be purified, the SEXUAL ORGANS must be vitalized and developed, the BRAIN must be nourished. Our New Method Treatment provides all these requirements. Under its influence the brain becomes active, the blood purified so that all pimples, blotches and ulcers disappear; the nerves become strong as steel, so that nervousness, bashfulness and despondency disappear; the eyes become bright, the face full and clear, energy returns to the body, and the moral, physical and sexual systems are invigorated; all drains cease—no more vital waste from the system. The various organs become natural and manly. We invite all the afflicted to call and consult us confidentially and free of charge. Cures Guaranteed or no Pay. We treat and cure: Varicocele, Blood Diseases, Stricture, Gleet, Emissions, Urinary Drains, Spermatorrhoea, Unnatural Discharges, Kidney and Bladder Diseases.

Take Care of Your Stomach and You Will Escape No End of Trouble.

We can't abuse the stomach without paying a penalty. This penalty is most frequently indigestion, with all its accompanying distress. Eat the right kind of food and you will not suffer.

The right kind of food is a natural malted whole wheat food, Malta-Vita, the most delicious, the most satisfying food in the world, always fresh and crisp, containing every food element necessary for the sustenance and upbuilding of the body and the brain.

A perfect breakfast is impossible without Malta-Vita. Being a pure grain product it is rich in food elements—all the food elements of the best white wheat grown and the finest barley malt extract—intensely vitalizing and easy for even the weakest stomach to digest.

"I had been a sufferer from nervous debility and indigestion for several years, without any benefit or relief from various tonics and other medical prescriptions. Imagine my surprise when, a short time after beginning the use of Malta-Vita, I became aware of its beneficial effects by the gradual disappearance of my long-standing ailment."—P. Gersper, Barnesville, Ohio.

All grocers sell Malta-Vita. Try some with milk, cream or fruit. You never tasted anything so good and you will be glad we told you about it. Ready to eat. Now 10 cents.

Sheep Stolen.

—Mr. Wesley Tamlin, of South Ops, lost twelve valuable sheep last week, and as they have not been seen or heard tell of in the township since Mr. Tamlin is of the opinion they must have been driven away by parties unknown as they were in the habit of coming to the barnyard at night. Considering the high price of mutton the loss will be about one hundred dollars.—Lindsay Watchman-Warder.

BOARD OF EDUCATION TO DISCUSS SITE QUESTION

To-morrow night a special meeting of the Board of Education, will be held, at which the question of the surrender of their portion of Central Park, as a site for the new Normal School, will be discussed. Yesterday the Board was officially notified by the City Council that the Central Park site had been selected, and the letter from the Deputy Minister was forwarded on to the Board.

While of course it is impossible to state just what position the members of the Board of Education will take officially, from their attitude at present it does not seem at all probable that they will agree to give up their claim to Central Park, and a number of the members are not slow to express their opinion that someone made a fatal blunder when they showed that property to the Deputy Minister as an available site.

Why Forty-five Women Died

During the month of March forty-five women were reported to have died in the United States as the direct result of using "headache powders." The poisonous and powerful ingredients caused paralysis of the heart and nerves, and death followed.

It is not difficult to understand that any drugs which have such hypnotic effects as to immediately stop pain are deadly in their action on the nervous system.

In order to thoroughly cure headaches the nerves must be revitalized and built up, and there is no way this can so well be accomplished as by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great nerve restorative.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food does not stop the headache, but cures it by removing the cause. It is not recommended as a relief for headache, but as a thorough and positive cure.

Headache, sleeplessness, irritability, lack of energy and power to concentrate the mind, and all the symptoms of exhausted nerves disappear when this great food cure is used. Fifty cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. 10

The New York Stock Market

(Furnished by J. R. Heintz & Co.)

New York, Aug. 16.—Opening prices were higher to-day, especially for Union, S.P. and St. Paul. The bulls immediately took hold of Union and boosted it to new high figures, with S. P. following suit, while Paul was shoved up to 190, reacting a little from that figure later. Copper was in demand and scored a point advance, while the other issues were quie, but firm.

About noon Penna was taken hold of and put across 139. Heavy short covering was noticed in Union Pac. which has been a favourite short sale for those bearishly inclined. It looks as though further punishment would be meted out to the obstinate ones who refuse to cover at this level. Although the dividend meeting on U. P. and S. P. was scheduled for to-day, the directors this afternoon announced that no action would be taken to-day. This caused some selling in the late trading and most of the early gain was lost, the closing being rather heavy..

Collegiate Institute Site

---IN INTERESTS OF OUR OWN CHILDREN---

Must Not Be Surrendered

Brief Review of Situation Arising Out of Misunderstanding in the Matter of Selecting Normal School Site—Reasons Presented Why the Collegiate Institute Site Should Be Jealously Guarded and Retained --Responsibility of Board of Education.

If the members of the Board of Education wish to be on the popular side of the question they will not consent to the surrender of the Central Park site for the Collegiate Institute for the Normal School or any other purpose.

There is no more objection to the Institute being displaced by the Normal School, than by any other building. The objection consists in giving up the site for any other purpose than the erection of a Collegiate Institute building.

It is the best site in the city for the purpose and educational interests, like charity, begin at home.

We want the best we can get and provide for the children of our own homes, who shall become Collegiate Institute pupils.

The situation is not as if there were no other site in the city for a Normal School. There are other good sites which would no doubt be accepted by the Government.

The action of the Deputy Minister and Superintendent of Education, was quite natural. They were shown several sites and by some regrettable blunder shown the Collegiate Institute site and it appears, informed, or if not specifically informed, in some way led to believe that this site was available.

Naturally they selected the best site, but it is not to be assumed that no other site would be acceptable.

However, some other site should be accepted for it is not in the interests of secondary education in Peterborough that the Central Park site for the Collegiate should be sequestrated from the purpose for which it was secured by the expenditure of a good deal of money and the expenditure of a good deal of negotiation and discussion.

We like dealing liberally with Governments, but it seems that having two Governments monopolize the Central Park to the exclusion of the Collegiate Institute would argue a weakly complaisant attitude, and a palpable indifference to the educational interests of our children.

As has been pointed out before, the Collegiate Institutes is for our own children. The students at a Normal School will largely be drawn from outside points, from all the region tributary to this city as the centre of a Normal School district.

We want to make our Collegiate Institute an intellectual centre for this progressive city.

It may be unpalatable for us to acknowledge the superiority of Lindsay in regard to educational spirit.

But it must be pointed out that the Collegiate Institute in Lindsay has occupied for years a position in regard to the intellectual culture of the town that has no parallel in connection with our own Institute.

Lindsay's Collegiate is, in a broad sense, the intellectual centre of the town and district it serves. It not only imparts in an excellent manner the scheduled educational knowledge common to every High School, but it exercises a wider influence upon the intellectual culture of the community.

For years the Lindsay Collegiate Institute has maintained a course of lectures during the winter months, which have been contributed by the best scholars and intellects of the Dominion. This has created a local educational spirit, a popular interest in broader and higher culture which has been the envy of other places besides Peterborough.

This has been accomplished through the possession of a good Collegiate Institute building erected seventeen or eighteen years ago; with an adequate assembly hall where could be assembled, not only the people but the best culture of the country, in a successful attempt to unify popular educational sentiments with the aspirations of enthusiastic educationists.

The course of winter lectures referred to has brought the people of Lindsay to personal and intellectual contact with the foremost literati and public men of the country, and has thus subserved the highest purpose of education, the elevation and refinement of the people.

We in Peterborough vaunt our commercial and industrial superiority but there our boasting ceases. We may surpass in business, but our boast does not include the triumph of brains, in relation to intellectual culture, in the regard indicated, beyond mere educational routine. We may have the body but for the reasons stated we lack the spirit of popular culture that comes from contact with and inspiration from, the best minds of our country, brought within popular grasp through a properly equipped, centrally located and efficiently exploited Collegiate Institute.

The Lindsay Collegiate occupies the best and most commanding site in the town and its relation to the educational spirit of Lindsay is largely referable to the fact of its popular accessibility and dominating situation.

For this reason we must not surrender the site we now have for our Collegiate Institute. It is the best site available in the city, the most central, the most accessible.

We want to make our Collegiate Institute an intellectual centre, a centre from which will radiate an influence which will give culture and refinement to our citizens, which will constitute an Alma Mater to our children, and a stimulus to make themselves worthy of their educational mother and the intellectual influence which it should represent.

Can this be done if the site of the Institute is abandoned and the building site relegated to any corner that may be rejected by a Normal School delegation?

It is highly desirable that we should have the Normal School building in Peterborough, but no one who has at heart the educational interests of the city, and its future citizens, will consent to sacrifice the Collegiate Institute — our very own — for an institution, however necessary and desirable, that it may find a local habitation at the expense of our dearest local educational interests.

Nor is this necessary. There are many good sites for a Normal School, which might be, and would, very probably, have been selected, had not some regrettable blunder resulted in "gold-bricking" the Government deputation, by suggesting a site, no more available, having regard to the conditions recounted, than the Little Lake cemetery.

In addition to what may be called moral objections, to alienating the chosen site of the Collegiate Institute, there are state and business reasons why the two acres required for a Normal School should not be represented by lots 3, 4, 5 and 6, south of McDonel and west of George street.

By co-operation of the Dominion Government, the City Council and the Board of Education, the western three acres of Central Park were purchased, each of the three contributing $10,000 to the purchase price. The Board of Education was to have lots 3 and 4 on McDonel street for a site for an Institute. The Dominion Government was to have lots 3 and 4 on Murray street as a site for the Armouries, while the remainder of the plot purchased, consisting of lots 5 and 6, on Murray street, and lots 5 and 6 on McDonel street, were to be used in common for a parade ground by the two interests represented.

This was the arrangement arrived at by the several parties to the agreement, as to the division of the property. Lots 3 and 4, on Murray street, were to be vested in the Dominion Government. Lots 3 and 4, on McDonel street were to be vested in the Board of Education, while there was a distinct understanding that lots 5 and 6 on Murray and McDonel streets, inclusively, should not be built upon but reserved as parade and play grounds, for the Armouries and the Collegiate Institute.

There is also this point to consider: Lots 3, 4, 5 and 6, on McDonel street, cannot be conveyed by the town to the Ontario Government, for 3 and 4 belong to the Board of Education, and 5 and 6 are under lien, being reserved for parade and play grounds, and not to be built upon.

Can it be expected that Premier Whitney will ask Premier Laurier to surrender his lien for the sake of giving a site for a Normal School, at the expense of an equally important—and, from a local point of view, more important — educational institution, at the expense of a suitable parade ground in connection with the Armouries, and at the expense of a breach of a specific understanding between three honourable corporate bodies!

It is to be hoped that the Board of Education will maintain a firm attitude, in regard to the protection of the interests intrusted to them. They can be assured of the popular support. They should be assured of the moral support of the City Council, and the Dominion Government, which are parties to a solemn understanding, which forbids the alienation of a foot of Central Park ground from the understood purpose.

Will any of these bodies be a party to a breach of a tripartite agreement, and an understanding, equivalent, with all honourable men, to an agreement as binding as a legal bond?

Somebody has been repeating the history of the Light Brigade at Balaclava — "somebody has blundered" Whoever — and somebody must have done so—whoever led the educational representatives of the Provincial Government to believe that the Collegiate Institute site in Central Park, was available for selection as a Normal School site, in effect, "gold-bricked" these representatives. The latter are not to blame. They had instructions to select the best site, and they did select the best site, as was to be expected.

They will be disappointed, and no doubt disgusted, when they discover, as they must do, after the meeting of the Board to-morrow night, that they have been deluded into selecting a site, which is triply pre-empted and triply unavailable.

If the Government, which they represent, take advantage of the occasion, to remove the site of the Normal School from Peterborough, the responsibility must rest with those who, with offensive mala fides, led the delegated officials of the Education Department to select an impossible site.

The duty of the Board is plain. They must remember that they are supposed to have a back-bone; they must remember that they are, in this matter of site, the guardians of the interests of the secondary education of Peterborough, for all time. They are required to remember that blood is thicker than water; that the children of our own household deserve the first consideration — before the interests of outsiders.

We want the Normal School; we would be proud and pleased to have it, but there is a limit to the price we should be willing to pay.

When Napoleon Buonaparte was campaigning in Egypt, his bombastic address of encouragement to his army was: "Soldiers! from yonder pyramids, twenty centuries behold your actions!"

Gentlemen of the School Board! from your hall of meeting to-morrow night, many generations will look back upon your decision.

Miss Annie Sullivan, who has gone to Hamilton, where she will make her home in future was made the recepient of a handsome fancy clock on Thursday night, when four of her young lady friends gathered at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Jones, Bolivar street, and spent a pleasant evening with Miss Sullivan, and, presented her with a clock and an address, the latter being as follows:—

Peterborough,
August 14, 1906.

To Miss Annie Sullivan:

Having heard that you are about to leave the city, we cannot allow you to go without expressing our regret at your departure. We will miss you very much as it was a great privilege to know you and have the pleasure of your company. While regretting your going there is some pleasure in knowing you are not going so far away, but that we will see you now and again and we cannot allow you to go without taking a small token of our friendship with you to remind you of the many happy times we had together.

Wishing you God speed, we are

The address was read by Miss Londerville, and the presentation made by Miss Sharp. Refreshments were served and good byes were reluctantly said.

USEFUL DISCOVERIES

Are Not Always Startling, Nsither Do They Create the Most Talk.

It is not always the greatest, most startling discoveries of sciences that are most useful to the human race.

Comparatively few people wer edirectly interested in Horschle's finding of the new planet Uranus, but many thousands have been benefited by Prof. Unna's experiments, which proved beyond a question that dandruff and baldness are the results of the inroads of a parasitic germ which invades the roots of the hair.

The discovery of the true cause of baldness made Newbro's Herpicide possible. Herpicide effectually kills this germ. Destroy the cause, you remove the effect.

Both Boys Were Fined On Horse Theft Charge

John Mehaffy and Harold Fowler Contributed $6 to the City Finances—Each Accused the Other—Still Wheeling on Pavements.

Joseph Mehaffy and Harold Fowler were charged with stealing a horse from Lawrence Bell from the Cavanagh House yards, at this morning's police court. The circumstances of the case have appeared in a recent issue. This morning both boys were found guilty and were fined $6.

Lawrence Bell, the owner of the horse, was the first witness called, but was not on hand.

P. C. Newhall identified the confession made by young Mehaffy, who admitted it.

Mehaffy said that he had tried to hire the horse from Bell, but the latter would not let him have it. He left the yard with Fowler. They drove out as far as the Carnegie property.

R. Glynn said the boys drove out to McHaln's farm.

Each of the prisoners accused the other of stealing the horse. The Magistrate remarked that one of them was deliberately committing perjury.

He then imposed a fine of $3 upon each of the boys, saying that the fathers who paid would thresh the boys.

A young lady was fined $2 for wheeling on the pavement.

A young man was charged with having committed the same offence on Chamberlen street on August 13th. He pleaded not guilty and stated that he was working at the time. The case was dismissed.

Fine Series Of Regatta Views

Roy Studio Has Stony Lake Aquatic Events in Picture Form.

The Roy Studio will to-morrow display a remarkable series of photographs of the Stony Lake regatta on Monday last. The public will find in them a complete summary of the regatta in picture form. The start and finish of nearly every race has been caught, and there are, as well, pictures of the crowd that thronged the shore of Juniper Island, and the immense flotilla of small craft that lined the course. The Examiner reporter was permitted to see some of the work this morning and found the pictures of microscopic clearness. No feature of the regatta has been omitted.

In addition to these pictures, Mr. Roy is preparing a photograph of Mr. Joseph Bennett, which was taken this week at Stony Lake. Mr. Bennett is in all probability the oldest summer resort fisherman in Canada, being in his 90th year. He has been going out to Stony Lake for many years, and is still able to paddle his own canoe, in fact he does so every day. Mr. Bonnett is the father of Capt. Bennett, of the 57th, and is now spending his summer as usual at Stony Lake. He is an enthusiastic fisherman.

Fall Goods coming in and no place to put them. Our space is limited, so Summer Goods must be cleared. A Big Snap in White Underskirts, Lace Trimmed, worth $2.00, for $1.29, Ribbed Cotton Hose, all sizes, 12c. Pair; a good Wrapper 63c, better 39c. and $1.09. Best Print, clearing at 10c yard. Oddments in White Blouses and wash Collars, at low prices. B. Y. MOYES, 408 George St.

Local Representatives Off To Important Meeting

Gathering of Cheese Men Will be Held in Brockville To-morrow--To Discuss Question of Appointing Official Referee—Cooling Rooms Will Also be Considered.

To-night Messrs. John Riddell and Ed. Hawethorne, representing the Peterborough Cheese Board, will go to Brockville to meet with the representatives of all the Eastern Ontario cheese boards, who will assemble at the Government cool curing room for the purpose of appointing an official referee and discussing matters of importance to the cheese trade. The proceedings will turn upon the value of cool curing and the action to be taken when the Government ceases to run the cool curing room. This will be the last year that the room will be run under Government control. It was established five years ago for the purpose of demonstrating to cheesemakers and factorymen the value of cool curing in preventing destructive and deteriorating processes in the period that the cheese is being ripened for the market. The Department of Agriculture considers that the room has served its purpose in demonstrating to those engaged in the industry its value. Many of the factories, especially in Prince Edward County and the counties along the St. Lawrence, now have their own cool rooms, and the cheese never leaves the factories until it is ready for the market, when it is transferred to the refrigerator cars and thence to the refrigerator sections of the ocean vessels. The meeting will be a representative one and will most likely bring out an expression from the best men in the business of the whole cheese situation. The gathering has been arranged for by J. A. Ruddick, dairy commissioner.

The members of the Sherwood Forest Camp No. 50, Woodmen of the World, are requested to attend a special meeting to be held in the Sons of England Hall, on Friday evening, August 17th (to-morrow). By order.

Evangelistic Work In Peterborough District

Was Discussed at Financial District Meeting of Methodist Church Yesterday—Routine Business Only Was Transacted.

The annual financial district meeting of the Methodist church was held yesterday afternoon in the George street Methodist church, with the following ministers and laymen present: Rev. Dr. Crothers, chairman; Rev. J. G. Lewis, secretary; Rev. A. K. Edmison, Millbrook; Rev. W. J. Wetherel, Fraserville; Rev. J. Bedford, Lakefield; Rev. Dr. Metzler, Bridgenorth; Rev. Dr. Marvin, Bethany; Rev. J. F. Chapman, Pontypool; Rev. C. S. Reddick, Selwyn; Mr. J. L. Hughes and Mr. Thos. Johnston, Peterborough; Mr. J. Hull, Lakefield; Mr. R. McMullen, Bethany, and Mr. S. Harrison, Selwyn.

The assessments for the superannuation and general conference funds were approved, and local arrangements for the missionary and educational meetings were completed.

It was decided to make the usual recommendations for the grants to the Apsley and Chemong missions.

The question of the annual Epworth League Convention was discussed, and it was decided to refer the matter to the following committee, which was given full power to act: Rev. Dr. Metzler, Rev. J. F. Chapman and Rev. C. S. Reddick.

After an interesting discussion on evangelistic work in the district, the meeting closed.

The Stony Lake Cottagers Attended St. George's Tea

A Successful Tea Meeting and Entertainment Held There Last Night—Many Cottagers Attended—Eko Camp Club's Enjoyable Outing—Delightful Dance at Victoria House—An Interesting Race—Gasoline vs. Steam.

Special Staff Correspondence.

Stony Lake, July 16. — A delightful evening was spent by many of the Stony Lake cottagers and visitors at the St. George's tea and concert held yesterday evening on the church grounds near McCracken's Landing. The event is an annual one and is so popular with the lake residents that many arrange their holidays to include the St. George's tea—a novelty to many city people and also to many of our American cousins from across the line.

Although the financial issue did not reach that of last year, yet the affair was characterized as successful in every way, and a credit to the committee who were in charge. The tea provided by the ladies of the congregation was most delicious, and a glance at the lengthy festive board, laden with the various tempting dainties, elicted much eulogy and wonderment from the pleased guests.

Apart from the supper and concert which followed, the Stony Lake population present was thoroughly captivated by the farm life environments and demonstrated this by their unique actions in the grain fields.

The entertainment, though brief, was particularly enjoyable. Miss Elsie Bell of Boston, a talented young elocutionist, contributed a selection which was greeted with warm applause. Miss Julia Choate, of Springside Cottage, sang "Stars May Forget," in her usual excellent voice, which was heartily received. Rev. H. F. Battersby was also the contributor of a couple of solos. A special attraction was a football match between North and South Dummer, the honour of winning the match being captured by the former by 2 to 1.

The proceeds of the tea amounted to over $100 — a sum beyond the expectations of the committee in charge.

Eko Boys' Cruise.

The Eko Camp boys are very active these days, and cruises around the lake in their yacht, the Eko, are daily occurrences. Yesterday Eel's Creek was their objective point, and, besides witnessing the picturesque cataracts, those on angling bent hauled in a string of the finny tribe which put to shame many of the old warriors who are supposed to know the haunts. Jim and Jack broke equal in telling how the incidents of the day occurred.

Dance at Victoria.

The Victoria House at McCracken's Landing was thrown open to its many guests last night and all enjoyed the initial dance of the season at this popular resort.

Delightful piano music was provided by a number of the guests, and a few hours slipped pleasantly by in the participation of the festivities of the dance. The affair proved so successful that the visitors at the Victoria intend making it a regular weekly event.

Gasoline versus Steam.

Among the many water crafts which cruise the lakes, a stranger appeared yesterday which is probably the trimmest and speediest of them all. "Rochester, Jr.," made its debut into fast society on Stony Lake in the afternoon and gave the big steamer Stoney Lake a winning chase from Juniper to McCracken's Landing. The engine is composed of a double cylinder, the screw being placed near the centre of the hull. The Rochester Jr. is run by Mr. Robinson, of Toronto, who is advertising the engine for a Rochester firm.

Personal Mention.

Mr. E. Bronscombe went down to the city yesterday.

Mr. Walter Brown took the round trip on the steamer to-day.

Mrs. Jno. M. Holdsworth, of Moose Jaw, and Mrs. J. A. Farwell, Toronto, are guests at Bona Vista.

Mrs. (Canon) Dixon, Toronto, who has been at the Victoria for a couple of weeks, returned home yesterday.

Misses Mary E. and Anna Shapley and Mr. R. J. Henderson, Toronto, are guests at Glendowan.

Mr. Harry T. McDonald, Toronto who has been camping at McCracken's Landing, has returned home.

Mr. Gaonet Galley went down to the city yesterday afternoon.

Violent Headaches.

"I was troubled for a long time with headaches, which would come on with such violence that I could not eat or do my work. Headache powders and quick cures did no good. Eight months ago I took six boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and I have not been troubled with a headache since."—Mr. O. Barber, Simcoe, Ont.

Eyes Worth Having

Did you ever stop to think that with the exception of the heart, the eye is the hardest worked part of the body.

As long as you are awake and your eyes are open they are working in your service.

Three pairs of muscles control the movement of each eyeball.

The two eyeballs move exactly together. Would you know the effect of their not working together—press your finger against one, so that it's position does not exactly correspond with the other.

How important it is that if these muscles tire and you have headaches and require Glasses, that your Glasses suit your eyes—our long experience makes us experts and able to fit you correctly.

Drowning Of One Day As Told By Despatches

Mother and Babe Lose Their Lives At Bic, Quebec.

DROWNED WHILE BATHING

Young Man of 18 Years and Young Woman of 19 Go Down In Sight of Their Friends at the Tupperville Sunday School Picnic at Erieau — Dr. Archibald Links of Michigan Drowned at Moon River, Ont.

Bic, Que., Aug. 16.—Tuesday, about 6.30 p. m., the yacht L'Etoile de Mer, from Baie Des Bacons on the north shore of the River St. Lawrence, arrived here. Her passengers, including Capt Bouchard, Miss Bergeron, J. N. Dugal, Mrs. Dugal and baby in arms, left the yacht to come ashore in a canoe, which, when about 150 feet from shore, upset, and Mrs. Dugal and her baby lost their lives. The bodies were recovered half an hour afterwards.

Drowned While Bathing.

Blenheim, Aug. 16.—A sad accident took place at Erieau yesterday afternoon at the picnic of a Tupperville Sunday school, when Duncan Ferguson, son of John P. Ferguson, of Tupperville, aged about 18, and Margaret Lapp of Chatham, aged 19, were drowned while bathing.

They were in the water with a sister of the deceased young man, who was also nearly drowned, and stepped into a hole near the bath house, and, being unable to swim, they drowned within sight of a number of picnickers. The bodies were recovered in about half an hour, but attempts to resuscitate the young folks were without avail.

Michigan Doctor Drowns.

Bala, Muskoka, Aug. 16.—Dr. Archibald Links of Michigan was drowned yesterday morning in the rapids on the Moon River, a few miles below this place. He was accompanied by his brother in a canoe, which accidentally upset. The body has not been recovered.

Powder Explodes, Boy Hurt.

St. Thomas, Aug. 16.—Gordon Gallagher, 12-year-old son of W. H. Gallagher, dropped a lighted match into an old can of powder, which exploded. The boy's clothes were burned off and his face, hands and body terribly burned, and it is feared the sight of one eye is lost.

Killed by Rock Fall.

Victoria, B. C., Aug. 16.—James Tunstall, the oldest employe of the Nanaimo Mines, was killed by a rock fall yesterday afternoon. He was a shot lighter in number one mine. A shot had been fired and Tunstall went to examine the formation when the rock roof gave way instantly crushing out his life.

Trench Men Scorched.

Hamilton, Aug. 16.—A careless smoker passed the corner of James and York streets yesterday afternoon. He threw a lighted match into an open natural gas trench in which there was a number of men working. There was a leak in the feed main and the gas ignited. The flame shot up as high as the top of the City Hall. All the workmen were more or less scorched, but the only one at all seriously burned was P. A. Tandas of the Court House Hotel. The firemen had a serious task to smother the flames.

Legs and Arms Severed.

Quebec, Aug. 16.—Mangled in a terrible manner the arms and legs having been cut from the trunk of a train during the night, the lifeless body of Honore Roberge, aged 27 years, of St Romuald, was found on the railway track near Levis early yesterday morning.

Mangled by Trolley.

Montreal, Aug. 16.—A saddler named Roux, from Tinwick, Arthabasca, was knocked down and killed by a car proceeding at a high rate of speed last night and dragged a distance of 200 yards before the car could be brought to a standstill. The motorman disappeared.

Tenders Received.

Toronto, Aug. 16.—Tenders were received yesterday at the offices of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission for the supply of power as required by the municipalities and will be opened today. Hon. Adam Beck was in town but neither he nor Cecil B. Smith would discuss the probable range of the figures.

Township Treasurer Short.

Colchester, Ont., Aug. 16.—Accountant Scott, who has completed a Government audit of the books of Colchester North Township, reports that he found a shortage of $1.165. The shortage occurred during the incumbency of a former treasurer, not the present one.

Awful Story Told Of One Day In Dark Russia

Wholesale Massacres of Policemen At Warsaw.

28 KILLED, SCORE WOUNDED

Terrorists Inaugurate a Carnival of Murderous Attacks In Revenge For Killing—The Terror In Other Russian Cities—Girl Horribly Lashed—Brutal Treatment of Mlle. Smirnoff by Chevalier Guards.

Warsaw, Aug. 16.—There were many sanguinary conflicts here yesterday with revolutionists, who have organized wholesale massacres of policemen, gendarmes and infantry patrols. These conspirators shot and killed seventeen policemen, four gendarmes and seven infantry patrolmen, and wounded a score more.

Soldiers fired a volley into a crowd, killing 15 and wounding with bullets and bayonets 130 others.

The massacre is supposed to have been planned by revolutionists in revenge for the arrest recently of 110 Socialist workmen in the iron-working suburb of Braga.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 16.—Other Polish cities singled out by the terrorists were Lodz, where six soldiers, three patrolmen and the wife of a police captain were wounded by the explosion of bombs in the police station, and two soldiers and two terrorists were killed in the streets; Radom, where a bomb was thrown into the police station, killed the wife and children of the police captain; Viotslavsk, where the chief of police was slain, and Plock, where, at a given signal, the policemen on all the posts were simultaneously attacked and several of them wounded.

GIRL HORRIBLY LASHED.

Brutal Treatment of Mlle. Smirnoff by Chevalier Guards.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 16.—Intense popular indignation has been created here by the brutal treatment of Mlle. Smirnoff, a refined young woman, at the hands of the crack Chevalier Guards. While a squadron of these Guardsmen were passing yesterday, Mlle. Smirnoff, who was accompanied by another young lady, remarked: "They are as gay as if they had captured Port Arthur."

Under the direction of an officer they were forced to enter a cab and were driven to the Guards' barracks, where they were taken before Col. Stenbockfermer. The latter was disposed to turn Mlle. Smirnoff over to the police, but other officers interfered, and the girl finally was taken to the courtyard, where troopers, in the presence of two officers, administered twenty-seven lashes with their whips. The girl's clothing was cut out as if by knives by the wire thongs of the whips and her flesh was horribly lacerated.

Terror In Other Cities.

Ball Cartridge In 96 Rifles.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 16.—The investigation into the attempt on the life of the Grand Duke Nicholas Nicholaievitch on Aug. 10 at the Guards' camp manoeuvres at Krasnoe-Selo, has developed that ball cartridges were used in 96 rifles of the sharpshooters.

Railway Frauds In Russia.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 16.—The official enquiry at Tomsk into the abuses and malversations of the Siberian Railway during the war is coming to a conclusion. It has transpired that 1,500 cars disappeared and that at one railroad station alone the state was defrauded of $350,000.

Our Champion Shots.

Ottawa, Aug. 16.—The secretary of the Dominion Rifle Association, Major C. F. Winter, has just issued the results of the annual competitions of the Canadian Military Rifle League. The following teams win prizes:

(1) 10th Royal Grenadiers, first team, Toronto, 3,848; (2) 43rd D. C. O. R., Ottawa, first team, 3,685; (3) 90th Regiment first team, Winnipeg, 3,676; (4) 6th Regiment D. C. O. R. first team, Vancouver, 3,635; (5) the G. G. F. G., Ottawa, 3,634; (6) 7th Fusiliers, first team, London, 3,615; (7) 13th Infantry, first team, Hamilton, 3,563; (8) 10th Royal Grenadiers second team, Toronto, 3,524.

In the second series the winning teams were: 69th Regiment Roundhill, 3,743; 74th Regiment, No. 8 Co., Moncton, 3,705; 77th Regiment, Dundas, 3,465; No. 5 Co., A. S. C., Ottawa, 3,329.

In the third series for civilian rifle associations, Bridgetown heads the list with 3,703; Moncton is next, with 3,641; Truro comes third, with 3,638, and Winnipeg fourth, with 3,636, Guelph stands fifth.

The best single score of the league, 104, was made by Staff-Sergt. J. H. Simpson, Toronto.

The Farthest Back Date.

Chicago, Aug. 16.—Prof. James H. Breasted, the Egyptologist of the University of Chicago, announced in an article in The Biblical World, published Tuesday, that the oldest fixed date in history is 4,241 B. C. In that year, he says, the calendar was established, the year beginning on what would now be July 19. Consequently, the calendar now in use was 6,147 years old last month. The professor arrived at these conclusions during his long exploration trip to the Nile Valley, when he compared the astronomical dates in the old and middle kingdoms of Egypt.

Imperial Kisses Were Signal Of Royal Meeting

King Edward and Emperor William Present Each Cheek.

CORDIAL MEETING OF RULERS

Significance Is Added to Royal Conference by the Presence With the King of Sir Charles Hardinge, Permanent Under Secretary of Foreign Office—Press Admiration For British King—Political Artist.

Cronberg, Hesse-Naussau, Prussia, Aug. 16.—King Edward arrived here yesterday. Emperor William and Prince and Princess Frederick Charles, of Hesse-Naussau, met him at the railroad station. The Emperor assisted the King in alighting and they kissed each other on both cheeks. The meeting was very cordial.

King Edward was accompanied by Sir Charles Hardinge, permanent Under Secretary of the Foreign Office; Major-General Stanley Clarke, chief equerry; and Major Frederick E. C. Ponsonby, equerry to His Majesty. Sir Frank Lascelles, the British ambassador to Germany and the British consul-general, Francis Oppenholmer, joined the royal party at Frankfort.

After introductions had been exchanged the royal party and their following proceeded to Friedrichshof in automobiles. The streets were profusely decorated with evergreens, flags and streamers. Their Majesties were heartily cheered by the crowds and school children who were lined up all along the route. Many Englishmen from surrounding watering places were also present.

After reaching Friedrichshof the royal party breakfasted and then the Emperor and King spent some time together. At about 11 o'clock they, with Prince and Princess Frederick Charles took a drive to see the monument erected in honor of Emperor Frederick in the Schloss Park. After lunch, at the King's wish, a visit was made to Homburg and the Roman camp at Saalburg.

A program of assiduous sightseeing and drives has created the impression among those surrounding Their Majesties that they wish to avoid prolonged political discussions.

Strictest Silence Reigns.

London, Aug. 16.—The strictest silence is maintained in official circles as to the subjects to be discussed by King Edward and Emperor William at their meeting at Friedrichshof. Up to the last moment it was not admitted at the Foreign Office here that Sir Charles Hardinge, permanent Under Secretary of the Foreign Office, would accompany the King. He had been away on a holiday and broke it up to join the royal party on the continent. His presence adds significance to the meeting, for as the permanent Under Secretary of the Foreign Office, he is really the man who carries on the foreign affairs of the country and the fact that he is attending King Edward leads to the belief here that the discussion between Their Majesties will be of the widest range, taking in all questions outstanding, between the two countries and those likely to come up in the future.

It is considered likely that the monarchs will talk over Russian affairs and undoubtedly they will try to remove the ill-feeling between the two peoples, so manifest for the last few years.

German Press Welcome.

Berlin, Aug. 16.—The press of all sections treats King Edward's visit to Emperor William from the standpoint of being a sign of improved relations between him and the Emperor and the belief and hope are generally expressed that the visit will have a beneficial effect on the peoples of both countries, besides putting their political relations on a better footing. The papers, however, avoid all extravagant hopes in this direction, evidently trying to keep within the safe minimum of practical results.

A tone of sincere admiration for the King prevades all the leading articles. The Cologne Gazette greets His Majesty with feelings of reverence. The National Zeitung calls him a practical statesman of the first rank and the Neuste Nachrichten, while complaining that the King's policy has been to isolate Germany, pronounces him a "political artist."

The semi-official North German Gazette says:

"His Majesty, the Emperor, met His Majesty the King of England at the Schloss of Friedrichshof this morning. We rejoice that this meeting between the two monarchs has been hailed sympathetically nearly everywhere by the English as well as the German press. We cannot share in the supposition heard here and there regarding special political reasons for this meeting. Even without such suppositions the actual value of the meeting, it appears to us, is not slight. We hope that the exchange of views between the rulers of Germany and Great Britain will serve to further the peace of the world and promote harmony between all persons of conciliatory sentiments on both sides of the channel. We welcome the King with homage."

All Household Roads Lead to Kitchen Work

NINE-TENTHS of kitchen labor and worry is caused by ill-working cook stoves and ranges; by rang that draw poorly; that have such complicated drafts that only a skilled mechanic can manage them; whose grates are so constructed that it is a strong man's work to shake them down; ranges which work well when the wind is in a certain direction, but act like a fiend at other times; ranges whose work is so unreliable that the housekeeper is in a constant nerve-racking worry lest the meals be late or the baking spoiled.

The Pandora range is built to make work easy, a child can shake it down; its drafts are so simple that one learns them in a minute; its heat is kept in the range so effectively that you can do a big baking and hardly know there is a fire in it two feet away; it keeps the kitchen cool; it saves you worry; it saves you time and money; it saves you backaches and headaches, because it is so easy to manage and so reliable.

The Pandora makes kitchen work easy.

Otonabee Regatta To Be Held On Labour Day

This Date Decided Upon at Meeting of Committee Last Night—Programme of Events Arranged—Promise of a Brilliant Acquatic Function.

The date of the Otonabee Regatta, the first event of its kind to be held in Peterborough and one which undoubtedly will prove a veritable magnet to lovers of aquatic sports and the picturesque in water athletics, has been definitely fixed and the much looked forward to regatta will take place on Labour Day, September 3rd, a few miles down the River. The exact place at which it will be held has not yet been chosen, but will not be so far down the river as not to be convenient for those in the city wishing to attend. Mr. Johnston Paudash with characteristic aggressiveness, has collected a considerable sum of money towards the affair and has still many citizens to see who, it is hoped, will respond generously to his solicitations. The programme of races was drawn up and other arrangements made at a meeting of the committee last night at the Oriental. There were present Messrs. E. S. Clarry, chairman; T. Tate, H. Rye, R. M. Glover, C. H. Sawle, R. M. Roy, and Johnston Paudash. An illuminated parade and bonfire at night will be one of the features. It is estimated that something over 1,000 Indians will be present from the Mississaugua and northern tribes. The prizes have not yet been chosen, but will be looked after by a prize committee.

Following are the different events:—

Ladies' Races.

Single skiff.
Single canoe.
Double canoe.
Double skiff.

Gentlemen's Races

Single skiff.
Single canoe.
Double canoe.
Double skiff.

Mixed Races.

Double canoe.
Double skiff.

Launch races over a course of about eight miles, with a handicap according to horse power of engine.

Tilting race.

Upset race.

Professional Races.

Single canoe, for 2 cash prizes.
Double canoe for 2 cash prizes.
Indian canoe race, in costume.

In addition to the above races there will be a number of other events open only to Indians.

Go To Lindsay With The Shamrocks On Saturday

Help the Juniors Bring Another Championship to Peterborough—Should be One of the Best Games Seen in the District for a Long Time.

The Shamrocks are practising faithfully each evening for their big game at Lindsay with the Beaverton Juniors on Saturday. The team is in fighting shape and will be able to go the limit in speed when they meet the northerners, who are said to be a sturdy and fast bunch of juniors. The game should be one of the best seen in this district for a long time and should attract a big crowd. No athletic organization in Peterborough is deserving of more credit or better support than the Shamrocks who should be accompanied by a large contingent on Saturday. The expenses have been heavy and will be more so, if they put the Indian sign on Beaverton. Turn out and give them the support they need and deserve.

Arrange Schedule For The Frost Trophy

The Games Which Will be Played to Decide Ownership of Beautiful Cup Donated by Mr. C. E. Frost.

The season is advancing and it has been decided to have the competition for the Frost Cup come off next week. The draw for the preliminary round is as follows:—

1—Skip McIlroy versus skip Talbot.
2—Skip McClelland versus skip Greer.
3—Skip McIntyre versus skip Pratt.
4—Skip Kerr versus skip Matthews.
5—Skip Giroux versus skip Moore.
6—Skip Cox versus skip Bellegham.

Monday and Tuesday only of next week can be allowed to complete this round. It is important that the above skips notify their rinks and arrange with opponents for hours at which to play. As the season is so late any who default must be debarred thereafter from the competition.

The following will compose the next round, which will be completed by Thursday night of next week:—

7—Skip Thompson versus skip Runnels.
8—Skip Medd versus skip Ferguson.
9—Skip Martin versus skip Johnson.
10—Skip Fitzgerald versus skip Waddell.
11—Skip McKinnon versus skip Lech.
12—Winner of 1 versus winner of 2.
13—Winner of 3 versus winner of 4.
14—Winner of 5 versus winner of 6.

The above competition is bound to be a very keen one as the magnificent trophy donated to the club by Mr. C. E. Frost, the jeweller, is worthy of the best efforts of any quartette in the city. This beautiful cup is now on view in the window of Frost's Jewelry store, No. 349 George street.

GUILD BASEBALL LEAGUE CLOSED SEASON'S BUSINESS

Last night the final meeting of the Executive of the Guild Baseball League was held in the Y.M.C.A. building, when the business for the season was wound up. The report of the secretary, on the financial condition of the league was presented, and showed a small credit balance, after paying all outstanding accounts, and it was decided to divide this balance equally between the three teams in the league.

There has been a considerable number of delays in running off the schedule of games this year, in spite of the fact that there were only three teams in the league, but it was finally disposed of and, as the public know, the Charlotte Street team again won the championship and with it the absolute possession of the Examiner cup.

Bracebridge Next, Perhaps

If Shamrocks Win Saturday's Game They Go Against Northerners.

Bracebridge walloped Sudbury at Powassan in a Junior C. L. A. semi-final for districts 7 and 8. The score was 10 to 2, and the southerners had the superior skill and staying power. Bracebridge will now play home-and-home games with the winner of the Beaverton-Peterborough game.

Peterboro' Horses Were Prominent

In the Dufferin Park Trotting Races Held Yesterday.

In the first day trot at Dufferin Park yesterday, Peterborough horses were prominent. In the 2.50 pace, for a purse of $400, Martin Connors' Lady Gothard, was third, and Hazel Belle, owned by Dr. Johnston, of Peterborough, was fifth.

In the 2.17 class, Harry Direct, owned by Dr. Johnston of Peterborough, took second money, with a score of 3, 1, 2, 2, 6.

In to-day's programme Electric Girl, owned by J. Duncan of Peterborough, is entered in the 2.25 pace, and Tim Alert, owned by C. Martin, Peterborough, is entered in the 2.20 pace.

Will Cricket Be Revived?

A Number of Devotees Had Practice on Nicholls Oval.

A number of Old Country cricketers and local enthusiasts had a good practice last night on the Oval. Cricket has been a dead letter in Peterborough for several years, but there is no reason why it should be as it is an exceptionally clean and gentlemanly game. Two bats have been presented to the cricketers by a couple of old timers and an effort will be made to revive the game in Peterborough. The form displayed by those who turned out was very encouraging, a couple of bowlers showing up particularly well. A number of ladies were interested spectators.

LAWN TENNIS

As the invitation is a general one, a large turnout is expected to-night of the St. John's A. Y. P. A. Tennis Club, to take tea at Nicholls Oval at 5.30 to 6.30 o'clock. The courts are in splendid condition and several good sets are promised.

Synopsis Of Canadian North-West HO MESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba or the North-west Provinces, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded upon by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section, of 160 acres, more or less.

Entry may be made personally at the local land office for the district in which the land is situate.

Homestead Duties.—A settler who has been granted an entry for a homestead is required to perform the conditions connected therewith under one of the following plans:—

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year during the term of three years.

(2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of any person who is eligible to make a homestead entry under the provisions of this Act, resides upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for by such person as a homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence prior to obtaining patent may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

(3) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon the said land.

Application for patent should be made at the end of three years, before the Local Agent, Sub-Agent or the Homestead Inspector.

Before making application for patent the settler must give six months' notice in writing to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of his intention to do so.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy of the Minister of the Interior.

The Harvest Is Ready, But Where Are The Men?

Mr. P. E. Rutherford, Who Has Just Returned From the West, Tells of Conditions There—Crop Will be the Greatest in Country's History—Nothing Now Can Stop the Progress of the West.

Mr. P. E. Rutherford, of this city, who returned yesterday from a trip to the Canadian West, speaks in a most optimistic manner of the crop prospects of the western country. He states that not only will there be a larger acreage, but he believes that the yield per acre will be larger than last year. He has spent four months in the west, and during that time has travelled over the greater part of Manitoba and Saskatchewan, and this is the conclusion that he has come to, after having made this trip. There will be, he states, very little rust this year, the weather conditions having been most favourable. One seldom hears much about frost in Manitoba these days, for, with the breaking up of the land, the danger of frost has been largely overcome. The great cry now in the West is for help to harvest the crops, and although a large number of men have already reached Manitoba, it is feared that there will not be enough to gather in this year's bountiful harvest.

The prices of Manitoba and Northwest land will soon equal those of Ontario land, Mr. Rutherford states. In the Battleford district, where last year good land could be bought for $3.50 to $5 per acre, double these prices are being paid this year. The limit, however, will soon be reached although there is bound to be a big demand for land for the next year, the immense crop of this year giving a great boom to the land business in the West.

The city of Winnipeg is growing rapidly and the amount of building permits issued this year will considerably exceed those of any previous year. The new C. P. R. Hotel, which Mr. Van Horne states, is the finest in America, is open and ready for business. It contains 667 rooms, and the prospects are that the demand for accommodation will be so great that it will be filled from the beginning.

For four years in succession Mr. Rutherford has visited the West and each year he has seen an improvement over the preceding year. He feels assured now that there is no question as to the future of the West. Nothing can stop the march of progress which has been under way for some years, and which each year becomes more pronounced.

Will Try To Improve City's Wiring System

Board of Works Discussed Matter Last Night—Mr. Heathcote's Important Suggestions—Right-of-Way to New School.

The placing of the electric wiring of Peterborough in a safe condition and preventing as far as possible dangerous accidents, was the principal subject that came up at last night's meeting of the Board of Works, and while nothing definite was decided upon, the question was thoroughly discussed and at the next meeting steps will be taken to go ahead with improving present conditions. It is felt by the members of the Board that at present the wiring is in such a condition as to be most dangerous, and an accident of a fatal nature may occur any day if changes are not made. Two fatal accidents to horses have already taken place, which should be sufficient indication that all is not well, and that something must be done to prevent anything further.

Portions of the report of K. L. Aitkins, the electrical expert who inspected the wiring system, were read and discussed. The report has already been published in the Examiner. One of the principal features was that in connection with interior wiring and it was remarked that much of the work was done in an interior manner. Chairman Hicks suggested the issuing of first and second-class licenses to electricians which ensure good work being done.

Mr. W. C. P. Heathcote, who is acting as inspector for the committee was present and said that he had three suggestions to make. In the first place he wanted to have the wires grounded to the water pipes; secondly, to give power companies authority to cut the tops of trees when necessary, and last, he wanted power to enter private houses and see whether there is grounding or not, and to give warning if there is any danger.

Ald. Elliott remarked that Peterborough was known as the Electric City and was charged with electricity. Accidents were bound to happen if something was not done to prevent them. Ald. Wilson concurred in this opinion. The matter was left over until the next meeting. In the meantime the members of the committee will think over the problem and be prepared to take some action.

The Side-Tracked School.

The chairman brought up the question of the right of way into the new school property which he said was needed at once. The members of the Board were of the same opinion and it was moved by Ald. Johnston, seconded by Ald. Wilson, that a right of way be purchased through Mr. Dumble's property on Aylmer street, from Romaine street into the school property.—Carried.

A report was received from City Engineer Hay in reference to claims made by Jas. Bogue, the contractor for the Ashburnham outfall sewer for delays in the work and other matters. On motion of Ald. Graham, seconded by Ald. Johnston, the City Engineer was instructed to pay Mr. Bogue when he sees fit according to his report.—Carried.

The City Engineer reported concerning injuries to a horse belonging to Mr. F. Mason, who was hurt by breaking a plank in the Reid street bridge. The matter was referred to the city solicitor.

Ald. Johnston called attention to the fact that the continuation of the sidewalk on the west side of Bethune street was necessary. On motion of Ald. Johnston, seconded by Ald. Wilson, it was decided that the sidewalk on the west side of Bethune street should be continued across London street.

Ald. Johnston also referred to the condition at the corner of Rogers and Hunter streets where the water coming down the hill washed dirt on the pavement. The matter was referred to the city engineer.

Mr. Taylor Likes Cobalt Silver

St. Louis Man Has Just Returned From Silver Fields.

The Toronto Mail and Empire says: "Mr. Edward M. Taylor, of St. Louis, has just got back from Cobalt. He saw most of the big mines in the vicinity of Cobalt, and was much astonished at the wonderful silver veins in all of them. Mr. Taylor will be in the city for some time."

Mr. Taylor is well known in this city, where he frequently visits. He was here for some time last summer.

Bishop O'Connor Visits Downeyville Parish

Confirmation Rites Administered to Ninty-Five Children —His Lordship Presented With Address of Welcome.

Last Saturday, August 11th, His Lordship Bishop O'Connor, paid his official visit to Downeyville parish, when he administered the sacrament of confirmation to 95 children.

He was met on the way from Lindsay to Downeyville by the pastor, Rev. P. J. McGuire, and a large contingent of parishioners, who escorted him to St. Luke's church, where an address of welcome was read by Mr. Matthews, on behalf of the congregation.

In replying to the address His Lordship referred in pleasing terms to the many improvements he noticed on all sides, notably to the two new separate schools recently established, and the improved condition of sheds and surroundings.

Saturday afternoon was devoted to a critical examination of the children in Christian doctrine. His Lordship expressed his great pleasure at finding the children so thoroughly prepared, and so well instructed, not alone in the letter of the catechism but also in its meaning, a fact which evidenced a careful training on the part of pastor and teachers.

At first mass on Sunday morning His Lordship gave Holy Communion for the first time to the whole class, and afterwards explained clearly and carefully to the children the significance of the great Sacrament they had received.

At the conclusion of the High Mass sung by the pastor, His Lordship again addressed the children and people on the Sacrament of Confirmation, its meaning and necessity. He dwelt at length on the great need of increased strength of faith, in this age of religious indifference, and exhorted the children to be good practical Catholics, and worthy citizens. His Lordship then administered the Sacrament of Confirmation, assisted by the pastor and Rev. M. O'Leary. His Lordship's address to the congregation was replete with fatherly advice and shows his deep solicitude for the moral training and Christian education of the youth of the parish.

In the evening His Lordship again assisted at Vespers and Benediction and the pastor of Ennismore, Rev. M. F. Fitzpatrick, preached a practical sermon on the Gospel of the Sunday, dwelling in particular on the necessity of contrition to atone for sin.

HOW MOUNTED POLICE HANDLE YANKEE "BAD MEN"

Ottawa Journal.

Pity the sorrows of the American "bad man" who comes under the knotty hand of the Canadian Mounted Police.

"Cowboy Jack" had attracted some attention by riding his horse into barrooms and over persons who happened to be in the way. He organized a "rough house" at North Portal and Mounted Police Corporal Hogg was sent for him.

He got him. He got his gun, lured him alone into another room and the fight was on. The bad man's friends took a look at it and decided that they had business elsewhere, and what was left of "Cowboy Jack," the American bad man, was given a year at hard labour in a Canadian prison.

That is the Canadian way way, of course, but here's to Hogg.

HAND CRUSHED IN PRINTING PRESS

The Blacksmiths To Raise Prices

In Future Port Hope Smiths Will Get More.

Commencing to-day the blacksmiths of the town and surrounding country, will ask for an increase in prices. The cost of their material has greatly advanced during the past few years, and lately the blacksmiths have been practically working at a loss. They are asking for a slight increase, and no doubt they will be upheld in their action by all of their patrons.—Port Hope Guide.

McDERMID & JURY'S DRUG STORE

Arthur H. Randlett's Death Resulted In A Coroner's Inquest

A Lowell, Mass., Drug Traveller Passed Away Last Night at Home of Mr. R. J. Todd—Dr. Boucher States at Inquest That Deceased Suffered From Typhoid Fever—Evidence of Mr. Todd is to the Effect That Randlett Applied to Him for Treatment—It Was Given According to Doctrines of Christian Science.

This morning in Belleghem's undertaking establishment, an inquest was begun into the death of Arthur E. Randlett, a traveller for J. C. Ayer & Co., of Lowell, Mass., manufacturing chemists, who died last night at the residence of Mr. R. J. Todd, Aylmer street, where he has been since July 25th last. According to Dr. Boucher, who was called to see Randlett a short time before his death, he was suffering from typhoid fever, the immediate cause of death being hemorrhage resulting from the fever. The deceased had been in the city since July 18th last, and when he came here he was not feeling well, Mr. Todd stating at the inquest to-day that Randlett told him he was suffering from stomach trouble.

No conclusion was reached at the inquest this morning, the report of a post mortem being held this afternoon, will be presented at the adjourned inquest on Monday night. Only the evidence of Dr. Boucher and Mr. Todd was taken this morning.

The jury empanelled was composed of the following gentlemen: Robt. McWhinnie, John Shea, Jas. O'Shea, H. Morgan, W. K. Reid, W. Morgan, F. Garden, A. Johnston, O. Lefay, Fred Allison, J. W. Butcher, T. Redner, T. E. Elliott. Mr. McWhinnie was elected foreman.

The Evidence.

Dr. Boucher was the first witness called and stated that two messages were received by him asking him to go to Mr. Todd's home, where he found the deceased lying on the bed conscious, with no pulse, with respiration between 40 and 50, pale countenance. He examined him in a superficial way, but there was no pain; temperature 103. Heart action was continuous, and the patient was evidently suffering from extreme exhaustion. There were some marks of blood on the sheets, and Mr. Todd informed him that he had had two hemorrhages of the bowels that afternoon. He told Mr. Todd that the man could not live through the night, and, as a matter of fact, he died within an hour. He formed the opinion that Randlett had died from typhoid fever and hemorrhage of the bowels. This opinion was formed on the information given by Mr. Todd, who stated that deceased had been ill since July last. Dr. Boucher recommended that a post mortem be held. The witness stated that Mr. Todd had told him that he had treated Randlett, but did not say what methods he had used. Under ordinary circumstances the chances of recovery in typhoid fever cases are good. In private houses the percentage of deaths from this disease is 5 to 12, and in hospitals, where there is contact with other diseases, 7 to 20. These figures were those given by Dr. Osler. If precautions are taken the hemorrhages can be prevented, and even in the event of hemorrhages the patient often recovers.

Mr. Todd's Evidence.

Mr. R. J. Todd, the next witness, testified that he had lived here six years, and his occupation was that of a demonstrator in Christian Science, for his services in which he charged his patients. He saw the patient first on July 18th, and did not know him before. Randlett came to his home and said that he was a representative of the J. C. Ayer Co. of Lowell, Mass. He also presented a card from Mr. Todd's son, whom he had met in Ottawa. He was not in good health and asked him to help him, but witness was somewhat skeptical about the matter, since the man was a druggist. Randlett had asked him to treat him as a Christian Scientist. A week later he came to his home and asked for lodgings at his house, which were given. In the meantime Randlett had been at the National Hotel, but he had not treated him there. After the conversation witness gave him a treatment, as he complained of feeling a severe pain, and after the treatment he felt better. In answer to a question from Mr. Wood, witness said that he treated him according to the principles of Christian Science, which was the application of truth to his consciousness as taught by Jesus Christ, 1900 years ago. The treatment is that of prayer, and was the only treatment given. This was all he did for him. He prayed to God, because there was no one else to pray to.

The regular charge for treatment is $5 a week, but witness stated that he would not say the full amount the deceased owed him. That would be a matter between himself and witness.

At no time did he do anything for Randlett than on the 18th. He prayed for Randlett twice a day, present or absent.

Randlett took to his bed on July 25th. Inside of 48 hours he was perfectly free from suffering and thought it would be only a matter of a few days. Witness knew the trouble from which Randlett was suffering. Deceased stated that he was suffering from stomach trouble, and he accepted his statement.

He did not believe that Randlett had died from typhoid fever, but believed that Dr. Boucher was telling the truth, so far as he understood it.

Randlett never took to his bed permanently until last night. Yesterday he had two hemorrhages. About a quart of milk and the whites of three eggs was his nourishment yesterday and for the last two weeks. On two occasions witness asked him if he wished to go to a hospital, or to have a doctor, but Randlett said that he did not wish any. He called the doctor himself in order to satisfy his friends.

Witness stated to the jury that Randlett told him that he wanted his treatment, and in doing so related his experience with doctors in the past, and he had been treated by a Christian Scientist before and he had been helped to such an extent that he wished it again.

In Christian Science they know that every physical effect has a mental cause, and they try to locate this cause, and treat from this standpoint. To be qualified to demonstrate Christian Science, one must be pious, must believe in Mrs. Baker Eddy and in the Bible.

Mr. Todd further stated that on Wednesday afternoon Randlett had taken a fit while in the closet, and that he had to carry him back to bed.

He produced a letter received from J. C. Ayre & Co., by him this morning, in which the employers of the late Mr. Randlett asked to be kept advised of his condition, and asked if he was being attended by a qualified physician.

It was decided to have Dr. Boucher perform the post mortem, and to adjourn to meet in the Council Chamber on Monday night to take further evidence.

Geo. Stevens Has Been Released From Jail

Governor-General Has Seen Fit to Take This Step—Was Sentenced to Five Months, Three of Which He Had Served.

George Stevens, who has been serving a five months' term in the county jail for receiving a quantity of stolen goods, was released from that institution this morning. Mr. Daniel O'Connell, who has been untiring in his efforts to have Stevens released, this morning received a communication from the Hon. A. B. Aylesworth, Minister of Justice, stating that the Governor-General, upon his recommendation, had seen fit to direct the release of George Stevens from custody.

It will be remembered that Stevens was sentenced to five months in gaol with hard labour, for receiving stolen goods, nearly three months ago, and since that time Mr. O'Connell has been doing his best to obtain some reduction of the sentence or a pardon for the prisoner.

South America Felt Earthquake Shocks

Many Lives Lost at Buenos Ayres and at Other Parts of the South American Continent—Widespread Damage Done—Communication Cut Off.

Examiner Special.

Buenos Ayres, August 17. — An earthquake shock was felt in the province of Mendoza last night. Telegraphic communication with Chile has been interrupted at Aresult. While it is believed that no serious damage has been done, a panic prevails among the population.

New York, August 17. — A report has been received here by the cable department of the Western Union Telegraph Company, that a serious earthquake has destroyed Valparaiso, Chile. Telegraphic communications to the interior have been cut off at Santiago and other interior cities. Details as yet are lacking. Cable reports by way of Europe supplement those received by the Western Union Company, and state that buildings are burning all over the city. Hundreds are reported dead. Efforts are being made to re-establish direct communication.

Many Casualties.

New York, August 17. — Advices from Valparaiso, Chile, received in this city to-day confirm report of terrific earthquakes there last night. Many buildings were wrecked and hardly a house escaped without damage. Fires broke out throughout the city. It is feared that there have been many casualties. A despatch from Valparaiso says the cable lines are working as far as Valparaiso Hut, the cable building on the shore outside of Valparaiso. All land lines to the interior of Chile are down. The operator in the hut says the disaster is probably a repetition of the San Francisco calamity.

Detroit Youth Died In Hospital

Frank McNulty Passed Away in St. Joseph's Hospital.

Frank McNulty, the Detroit young man who was taken so violently ill on the C.P.R. train between Montreal and Peterborough on Tuesday, and who was removed to St. Joseph's Hospital, died in that institution last night. The remains will be sent to Detroit to-night for interment. Regarding teh cause of death, Dr. Gray, who, as the C.P.R. physician, was first called in, states that the patient died from an attack of cerebro-spinal meningitis or spotted fever, while the cause of death given in the certificate of death in the city clerk's office, is acute epileptic convulsions.

Thousands of Women

ARE MADE WELL AND STRONG

Success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Rests Upon the Fact that It Really Does Make Sick Women Well.

Thousands upon thousands of Canadian women have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Their letters are on file in Mrs. Pinkham's office, and prove this statement to be a fact and not a mere boast.

Overshadowing indeed is the success of this great medicine, and compared with it all other medicines and treatment for women are experiments.

Why has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound accomplished such widespread results for good?

Why has it lived and thrived and done its glorious work for a quarter of a century.

Simply and surely because of its sterling worth. The reason no other medicine has even approached its success is plainly and positively because there is no other medicine in the world so good for women's ills.

The wonderful power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over the diseases of womankind is not because it is a stimulant—not because it is a palliative, but simply because it is the most wonderful tonic and reconstructor ever discovered to act directly upon the female system, positively CURING disease and displacements and restoring health and vigor.

Marvelous cures are reported from all parts of the country by women who have been cured, trained nurses who have witnessed cures, and physicians who have recognized the virtue in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and are fair enough to give credit where it is due. If physicians dared to be frank and open, hundreds of them would acknowledge that they constantly prescribe Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in severe cases of female ills, as they know by experience that it will effect a cure.

Women who are troubled with painful or irregular periods, backache, bloating (or flatulence), falling, inflammation, ulceration, that "bearing-down" feeling, dizziness, faintness, indigestion, nervous prostration, or the blues, should take immediate action to ward off the serious consequences and be restored to health and strength by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Anyway, write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for advice. It's free and always helpful.

THE RICE LAKE REGION.

A correspondence in another column calls attention to the relation of the lower river and Rice Lake section of our summer resort region. There is no reason, in the matter of attractive scenery, camping facilities, good fishing and the other conditions eminently qualifying a district for a first class summer resort, why the Rice Lake region should not do more extensively patronized than at present. One reason for this is perhaps the lack of sufficiency, but not of quality, of steamer accommodation, providing ease of access, and comfort of travel, without crowding. The steamers plying on the lakes are first-class in the matter of equipment and service, but it is questionable if larger demands were made upon their capacity, that they would be able to meet them. To many the scenery of the river and lake, though quiet, is exquisitely unsurpassable. Stony Lake and Chemong Park are rapidly reaching their limit of comfortable accommodation, and if the Rice Lake region were properly exploited, if its attractions were widely and systematically made known, there is no doubt that, on its merits, this district would attract a large share of pleasure seekers, who would not be disappointed in their quest. All down the river, on our shores, are beautiful camping spots and attractive summer homes, easily accessible from the city, with convenient steamer service. At Jubilee Point, Idyl Wyld, Harwood, Gore's Landing, are beautiful spots, and a little inland the village of Keene, is an ideal resting place for persons of quiet tastes, in search of rest and recuperative sojourn.

STRENUOUS.

Many ministers of the Gospel are inclined to criticise the press, without making allowance for some possible lapses from journalistic ethics, due, possibly, to the strenuous life of a newspaper editor. The editor of the Christian Guardian has resigned, owing to ill-health. He found even conducting a weekly paper with a simple policy of religious propagation, a very trying experience. It is said that within the past ten years there have been several ministers promoted to the editor's chair of the Guardian, who have found that editing a peaceful religious weekly is a too great strain on their health to be borne. They may feel sympathy for editors, of the wear and tear of whose life, their experience has given some idea. There is as much difference, in the matter of worry, brain work and hurry, between running a religious weekly and a secular daily newspaper as there is between driving a water-wagon and a mogul locomotive.

All Rice Lake Resorts Need Is Advertising

Their Advantages, a Correspondent Thinks, Should be Made Known—Peterborough Steamers Afford an Easy Means of Access.

The Port Hope Times of this week has the following letter which will be read with interest here:—

To the Editor of the Times:

Sir,—In an editorial last week you say:—"At present the great disadvantage under which Rice Lake labours is its inaccessibility from the south." Although few people seem to know it, there is an easy and cheap way of getting to Rice Lake from Port Hope. One can go by train to Peterborough and there make connection with steam boats going to Gore's Landing and other resorts. Connection can be made I think on every day of the week. It is a wonder that the steamer owners do not advertise their time table in your paper. If the hotel keepers and other interested persons at Rice Lake did a little more advertising of the advantages of Rice Lake it would not be long before it became one of the favourite resorts of the country. It could do a good business with Port Hope people if the people were given more information about the place and how to get there.

One Who Has Been There.

Port Hope, August 12th.

Jackson Park Still Proves An Attraction

Big Crowds Nightly Congregate in the Shadow of the Pines—Summer Pleasure Resort That is Very Popular.

Despite the fact that the amusements at Jackson Park have been running for several months, the place is evidently losing none of its powers of attraction, as every evening sees a big crowd in the shadow of the pines. The park is the only summer resort that a large number of the citizens ever see, and it would be greatly missed if the amusements were done away with. The problem of how to spend the summer evenings in the city has been solved, and Jackson Park is the answer.

There was a large crowd at the Park last evening, as usual, and two hours were very pleasantly spent there. A section of the 57th band rendered an enjoyable programme, which included selections from the comic operas, "The Explorers," and "The Yankee Consul;" the latter, which included "In Old New York," "My San Domingo Maid," "In the Days of Old," "And It is Funny what a Difference?" "When the Hammers Go Rap, Rap, Rap," "Cupid Has Found my Heart," and other favourites were most popular.

The pictures were most amusing and kept the crowd in an hilarious condition from start to finish. Some of them as fun makers have not been equalled by any bill put on this season.

MOONSHINING.

British journalists and publicists have, as a rule, a plentiful lack of knowledge of Canadian conditions. Referring to Canada's new Lord's Day Act the Newcastle Daily Chronicle says: "For a new community containing elements, which, to say the least, are not particularly inclined towards religious observances, such an enactment seems a fairly tall order, and there should be some pretty problems presented to the authorities when they come to enforce it." Here speaks an oracle, which boldly assumes its facts to justify its conclusions. What constitutes moral inclinations "towards religious observances," is not easy to determine. But in the opinion of ourselves, there are few countries where the people, as a whole, are more impressed with the importance of moral observances. There is no other country where morality and respect for the obligations of law, more extensively and generally exist. The fundamentals of morality are religion and the conditions show that Canadians are sufficiently seized with respect for religious obligations to be good citizens enough to respect a reasonable Sunday law. The Chronicle may indulge itself in vain and hasty judgment to its heart's content, but the fact remains that it is not offensively familiar with what it is talking about. Would the Chronicle be surprised to know that in the whole of Canada there is not a single newspaper made on Sunday. There are nominal Sunday papers, but the work done on them is done before 12 o'clock on Saturday night. The only article manufactured on Sunday, is the parson's sermon, and that cannot be said to be a Sunday production — it is delivered on Sunday. From their past practices, the people of this country will not find compliance with the requirements of the new Sunday law a "tall order,"—only a continuation of an old-time habit.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Russian revolutionists are not so democratic in their ideas after all. They prefer princes and grand dukes as rifle practice targets.

San Francisco is not over her troubles. American insurance companies are now repudiating their obligations to pay for damages and loss. Swindled out of their insurance money, and with San Francisco brick-layers demanding $9.00 per day, the luxury of re-building will be a luxury.

"Mr. Cecil B. Smith and his fellows of the Temiskaming Commission, have not yet resigned," the Hamilton Times remarks, and it asks, "Will they pocket the affront given them? Perhaps that sort of thing is what they are paid for." There is little difficulty in swallowing an affront, if it is lubricated by a good fat salary.

It is quite clear that even the resignation of the Temiskaming railway commission will not satisfy the Liberal press. Nothing short of the resignation of the Whitney Government will be accepted as atonement for the commission's errors.—Hamilton Herald.

Not so. If the Whitney Government will only abolish the Graft Department, and make some effort to administer their trust in the public interests, we shall be inclined to leave the Whitney Government, to the people.

American journals still cling to the idea that people from their side of the border, who settle in the Canadian Northwest, will have an influence in Americanising Canada, and thus promoting annexation. There is not much fear of this. These people come to Canada to improve their positions, to get better land, and make a better and easier living. But, very largely, they are influenced by the fact that Canadian conditions, the laws of the land, and their administration and, in general, moral and social conditions, are superior to what obtains in the United States. It is not probable that the new settlers will take a course which will tend to restore conditions from which they fled. The children of Israel hadn't a very nearty handkering to return to Egypt.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube, when this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

A Home Patriot.

—Mr. J. J. Sheehy, secretary of the J. S. Hyland Publishing Company, Chicago, has established a record as a home patriot. He left Peterborough for the fragrant-river city thirteen years ago and his present, is his twelfth annual, visit to the home of his boyhood and early manhood. He failed only one year to make the trip, and that was the year of his marriage, an event which, as a general rule, revolutionizes a man's life, and breaks in upon all habits—sometimes good as well as bad. It is all very well to credit Mr. Sheehy's faithful annual visits to home patriotism, but though this may have had its share, still this feeling was doubtless intensified by his regarding Peterborough as the scene of his first literary triumphs. He was the first city editor of the Daily Examiner and it is regrettable that the lure of the filthy lucre drew him from the lofty ranges of the newspaper Parnassus to muck-raking in the sordid purlieus of commercial gain—but, not quite so bad as that either. He is in the publishing business—mere books—all right enough in their way, but they can not lay claim to providing the virtuous poverty that plays like a halo around the bulging brow of the Newspaper man.

Most Wonderful City In World Is San Francisco

Such is the Opinion of Mr. R. B. Dawson, an Old Peterborough Boy, Who is Visiting in City—Building is Going on Rapidly—No Fear of Another Earthquake.

"San Francisco is the most wonderful city in the world," was the statement of Mr. R. B. Dawson, of San Francisco, to an Examiner reporter this morning.

Mr. Dawson is an old Peterborough boy, and has come east for a few weeks' fishing and shooting. He has many friends in the city, who knew him in years gone by, and are glad to renew acquaintances. Mr. Dawson has been in Peterborough only twice in about thirty years, the other time being about two years ago, when he returned from the Klondyke to visit his old home.

Mr. Dawson is an enthusiastic admirer of San Francisco, and its possibilities. The people, he said, although dismayed at the terrible catastrophe, did not lose hope, and a new city is beginning to rise from the ashes of the old.

Of the 250,000 people who left the wrecked city immediately after the 'quake it is estimated that 200,000 have returned, and they are coming in at the rate of several thousand daily. There are at least 100,000 mechanics in San Francisco just now, and the wages paid are very high, the lowest that any one earns being $5 per day. The people apparently have no fear of another earthquake, and building is going on apace. The work of cleaning up the city has not yet been finished, but temporary buildings have been erected all over the city, and some class A structures have been commenced. The newspapers have temporary offices erected and are running as usual.

Mr. Dawson intends to visit Stony Lake before leaving for the south.

Masquerade Ball At Stony Lake Was Success

Juniper Island Was the Scene of Great Gayety Last Night —Some of Those Who Were in Costume for the Occasion.

Special Staff Correspondence.

Stony Lake, Aug. 17.—The gaiety which has been prevalent for some time at the lake was delightfully prominent at the brilliant masquerade ball in the Juniper Island pavilion last night. Although reference to the event was only made a few days ago, the welcome news was rapidly dispersed among the cottagers and visitors at the lake so that last evening the gay ball room, made more gay by the fairy-like figures that encircled it, has very seldom contained a larger company.

The costumes were mostly novel and are worthy of the highest praise, the various fantastic designs being excellent indications of the ingenuity of those who were the means of constructing them. The masquerade was probably in every respect the most successful ever held at the Island pavilion and a credit to the young gentlemen who superintend the popular affair.

The prize for the best dressed lady was awarded to Miss Mollie Young, whose costume represented "Canada". Mr. Fred. Collins as an "Admiral" was the winner of the prize for the best attired gentleman, while Miss Marley Hall, as a negress and Mr. Harry Hall in the character of a clown, captured first places for the best comic costumes.

The committee in charge of the ball were fortunate in securing the services of Mr. T. Randall, of the Heintzman Piano Company, Toronto, to provide the music which was particularly inviting to the dancer.

A few of those present and the characters the yrepresented are as follows:—

OBITUARY.

JAMES KNOX SHEARER.

Last night there passed away at his home, 173 Rubidge street, Mr. James Knox Shearer, a resident of this city for the last 13 years, and practically a life resident of the county. The late Mr. Shearer was 72 years of age and had been ill for about two months, death being due to old age. Deceased had followed the carpentering trade until declining years made it necessary for him to give up manual labour. He had lived, until 13 years ago, in Otonabee, but at that time removed to Peterborough, where he has since resided. He leaves to mourn his loss seven sons and two daughters, some of whom live in this city. He is also survived by his wife and two sisters, the latter living in Otonabee.

The funeral will take place Saturday, at 2 o'clock, from his late residence to Pine Grove Cemetery, Keene, where interment will take place.

CATHERINE POWELL.

Norwood, August 17.—The death occurred on Sunday, August 12, at the residence of her son, Mr. Geo. Powell, of Little Current, Manitoulin, of Mrs. Catharina Powell, wife of the late Isaac Powell. The late Mrs. Powell was formerly years a resident of Norwood. Her husband pre-deceased her some 23 years ago, after which she and her family moved to Toronto, where they resided for some time. She is survived by five children, two sons and three daughters, namely, George, of Little Current, Man.; Brock, of Greenwich, N. Y.; Mrs. Straight Miller, Chicago; Mrs. (Rev.) C. E. Fowler, Clinton, Ind.; and Miss Rebecca Powell, Chicago.

The remains were brought to Norwood on Monday evening, and on Tuesday the funeral took place from the manse.

SURPRISE A PURE HARD SOAP.

ONE OF THE THINGS it is hard to make folks understand is the fact that, with "SURPRISE" Soap, it is not necessary to boil or scald the clothes.

A tea-kettle of hot water is enough—and you don't rub hard. The soap does the work—loosens the dirt and it drops out.

You can use "SURPRISE" Soap any way you wish, but this tea-kettle-of-hot-water way is the best because it's quickest and easiest.

"SURPRISE" is a pure, hard soap of the highest grade. The first cost is n't any more than common soap.

The New York Stock Market

(Furnished by J. R. Heintz & Co.)

New York, August 17.—A sensational advance of 17 points in Union Pacific was the big feature of to-day's market. The reason for this was a declaration of the regular dividend and 2 per cent. extra, placing the stock on a 10 per cent. basis. A dividend of 2 1-2 per cent. was also declared on Southern Pacific. These announcements, together with the fact that both these stocks were heavily oversold, caused a panic among the shorts, and they fell all over each other trying to cover. Union shot up 12 points like a skyrocket, and Southern Pacific, making a run of seven points, not far behind.

The short interest in other directions became frightened, and buying from this source started the entire market up. Penna., the steel stocks, Copper, B.R.T., and Atchison, made big gains. About two million shares were dealt in during the day, the activity continuing to the end with the market closing strong. Wheat was a shade higher, corn and oats weak and lower. Cotton was weak, nearly 20 points off.

Duty Of The School Board

---IN RELATION TO INSTITUTE SITE---

And Normal Site Situation

The Agreement Mutually Adopted by the Dominion Government, the City Council and the School Board--Plan of the Plot Showing the Relation of the Several Sites Agreed Upon.

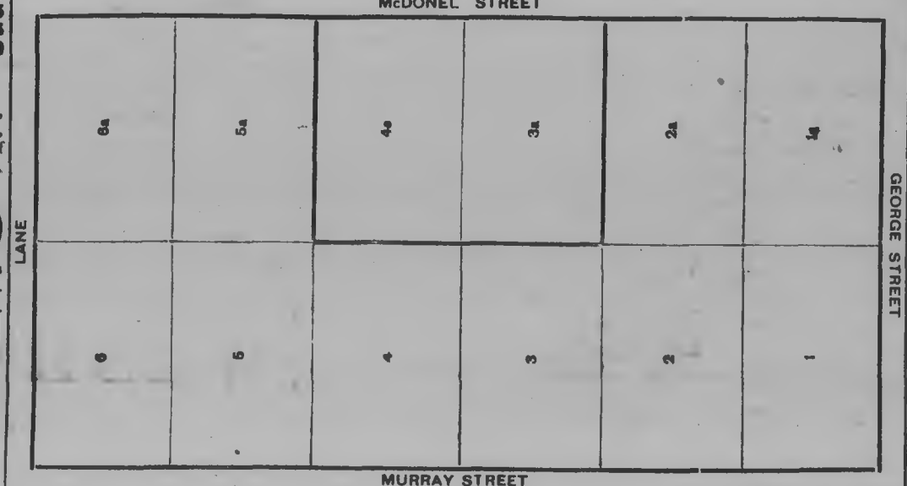
By a most unfortunate misunderstanding, error of judgment, lack of prudence and caution, or otherwise, the official deputation from the Education Department of the Ontario Government were led to select for the Normal School it is proposed to erect in Peterborough, a site which is pre-empted and not available—a site which was purchased and set apart for a new Collegiate Institute building.

The selection made has created complications which may lead to such a condition of friction as to induce the Government, in order to settle the question, to place the Normal School in some other place than Peterborough, though why this should be done it is difficult to understand. There are many other sites available and suitable for a site for the Normal School, and the rejection of other sites, and the assumption of the position by the Government, that Peterborough, in default of surrendering the site chosen for Collegiate Institute, fails to furnish a site for a Normal School building, may constitute an excuse, but not a justification.

In view of the fact that the Board of Education meets to-night to consider and deal with the official communication from the City Council forwarding the letter of the Deputy Minister, informing the Council that the Collegiate Institute site had been chosen as a site for the proposed Normal School—in view of those circumstances, it is considered proper to give our readers and the ratepayers generally, a little light upon the situation.

It is quoting almost ancient history to say that the western three acres of the six acres that compose Central Park, was purchased jointly by the Dominion Government, the city, and the Board of Education, with the understanding that lots 3 and 4 on McDonel street were to be the site for a Collegiate Institute, and lots 3 and 4 on Murray street were for Armories, while lots 5 and 6, facing both Murray and McDonel streets, were to be the common property of the two, each to mutually have the use of the same. In order that the public may better understand the situation, the following sketch plan of the Central Park plot is given:

McDONEL STREET



The above diagram represents the six acres of land, called, for convenience of reference, "Central Park", inclosed by George street, on the east; Murray street, on the south; McDonel street, on the north and a lane, on the west. It's dimensions are 282 feet 10 inches by 685 feet. By virtue of the agreement printed above, lots marked on the accompanying plan 1 and 3 and 1a and 2a, containing two acres compose the actual "Central Park", reserved, and to be maintained, for Park purposes. Lots marked 3 and 4 are set apart, held, and to be used as a site for Armouries. Lots 3a and 4a enclosed in heavy lines for purposes of safety and to distinguish this plot, are set apart, held and to be used as a site for a Collegiate Institute and for no other purpose. Lots 5 and 6 and 5a and 6a, extending between Murray and McDonel streets, a distance of 382 feet 10 inches, with a breadth of 228 feet 4 inches and containing two acres, are set apart, held, and to be used in common by the military and the Collegiate Institute, for parade or drill grounds and play grounds, respectively, and not to be built upon. Here is the situation at a glance, giving proof that the Collegiate Institute site (lots 3a and 4a) are to be used for that purpose alone.

The following is a copy of the report of the city Finance Committee, to whom the matter of the purchase of the Separate School grounds for site for Armouries and Collegiate Institute was submitted. This report was adopted, and officially and formally defines the relations and obligations of the several parties interested:

Peterborough,
September 27th, 1904.

To the Council of the Town of Peterborough:

Gentlemen.—Your Finance Committee begs leave to report as follows:—

The matter of arranging the details in connection with the purchase of the Separate School grounds for a site for a drill hall and the Collegiate Institute, having been referred to this committee, we met with representatives of the Board of Education and discussed the question of the location of the buildings. It was mutually agreed that it would be unwise to place the buildings on the west side of the grounds, as that would result in the parade and play grounds being towards George street, and it would be unsightly to have the bare ground, tramped down and without grass or other evidences of care, within view of the main street. It was therefore decided that the two acres of the Central Park next to George street should be kept as a park, as they are now; that the buildings should be located on the centre two acres, and that the west two acres should form the parade and play grounds. Your Committee appointed a deputation to wait upon the acting Minister of Public Works, as did also the Board of Education and the 57th Regiment, and the deputation was accompanied by Mr. R. R. Hall. The Minister agreed to the location of the buildings as proposed, and also that the Government would contribute $10,000 towards the purchase of the site, the Crown to be given a deed of Lots 3, 4, 5 and 6 north of Murray street. The Board of Education is to have a deed of lots 3 and 4, south of McDonel street, and the county will have to be consulted with regard to this, but in view of the County's willingness to give the whole park for a site for a drill hall, there will doubtless be no difficulty. Lots 5 and 6 south of McDonel street may be vested in any one of the three parties to the transaction, but they are to be kept open and not built upon so as to be available for drilling purposes.

We recommend that this committee be authorized to complete the transaction, and that the Solicitor be instructed to prepare the necessary By-law for that purpose.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

(Signed) FRANK ADAMS,
Chairman.

Peterborough, September 26, 1904.

Adopted.

(Signed) M. A. MORRISON,
Acting Mayor.

September 26, 1904.

It will be seen from this agreement that lots 3 and 4 on Murray street were, and are, designed for the Armouries, and lots 3a and 4a on McDonel street were, and are, set apart for the Collegiate Institute. The above agreement was entered into nearly two years ago—two years, come September 26—and in all the 24 months elapsed since the sites mentioned were assigned to their specific purpose, no one has for a moment thought of lots 3a and 4a as belonging to anybody but the School Board; no one has for a moment thought of these lots being used for anything but a Collegiate Institute building; and no one has any more entertained the thought of purchasing these lots than of purchasing the Postoffice or Customs buildings. These lots were purchased as a site for the Collegiate Institute, and nothing else. They belong to the taxpayers of Peterborough, paid for by them, and set apart for a specific purpose. The Board of Education hold them in trust for the people and the people's children. Will the School Board be true to their trust? They should, and there is good reason to believe they will, be true to it. They are confronted with no difficult task in saying, in answer to the communication of the City Council informing them that the lot which the Government has selected for a site for a Normal School, which the city has promised to purchase, is not a site for a Normal School, but THE site, bought, set apart, held and to behold and to be built upon—a site for a Collegiate Institute for the children of the taxpayers of Peterborough. It is not for sale; it is not for barter for any other site. The city does not own this site, and cannot dispose of it. The School Board, as trustees for the people, own it and control it, and the people expect they will prove true to their trust. A few more hours and we shall, it is to be hoped, know that this heritage of our children remains a heritage. The controversy should be closed at to-night's meeting of the Board.

Combine Formed By Port Hope Smiths

An Increase in the Price for Horseshoeing is Decided Upon—The New Scale.

The Port Hope Times says: — "A combine of the blacksmiths of Port Hope and surrounding districts was formed last week and a tariff of prices has been drawn up to which all the blacksmiths in the combine have agreed to adhere. The tariff embodies an increase of five cents per horse shoe when new shoes are provided and of two and a half cents per shoe when old shoes are used. The reason given by the blacksmiths for the increase is the increased cost of living expensees and of material, which, they say, makes it impossible for them to earn fair remuneration at the old scale of prices.

The new scale of prices for horseshoeing is:

Common shoeing, new shoes per set	$1 20
Common shoeing, resetting per set	50
Bar shoes, new, each	50
Resetting bar shoes	20
Steel shoes, each	35
Hand-made steel shoes, each	50
Heavy draught stallions, new shoes, each	1 00
Heavy draught stallions resetting, each	50

Independent Foresters Had Successful Year

Reports Presented at Annual Meeting in Brockville Show That 1905 Was Satisfactory—263 Net Increase in Membership.

Brockville, Aug. 16.—At the annual convention of the Independent Order of Foresters for Ontario East, which opened here yesterday, the report of the High Chief Ranger, Dr. W. E. Crain, of Chrysler, showed that the membership on the 30th of June, 1905, stood at 13,122, and during the past year 1,458 accepted applications were passed by the Medical Board. At the close of the present year the membership was 13,385, recording a net increase of 263 over 103 deaths, removals and lapses. A large percentage of courts have had members withdraw owing to removal to the Northwest. There are 22 subordinate and 30 companion courts of 15 and under in membership. It appealed to the High Chief Ranger as most important that the membership of weak courts should be increased, or such courts amalgamated with neighbouring courts. This would result in all such courts holding at least monthly meetings. The High Chief Ranger last year commissioned 38 district deputies. There were no appeals and 108 deaths during the year.

The report of High Secretary Dickinson, of Manotick, showed the High Court dues to have been $6,223, an increase of $599.75 over the year previous.

A Fog Signal Injured Horse

Peculiar Accident Which Happened in Lindsay.

A fog signal which was exploded by a heavily loaded wagon passing along Kent street, Lindsay, on Wednesday afternoon last, caused quite a commotion along the street, and a piece of the cap or stone from the street where it was exploded struck a horse in the neck. The horse was standing by the side of the street several yards from the place where the signal was struck by the heavy wagon, and an ugly wound was made in the right side of the animal's neck, which bled quite profusely. How such a belligerent article became deposited in the street is not explained, but it proved itself a dangerous cobblestone.

Ft. Churchill Journey Postponed For A Year

Mr. T. H. Crowley Back From Cobalt Mines—Will Go North With an Exploring Party Next Year—Long Journey by Canoes.

Mr. T. H. Crowley, the local mining prospector, had just returned from a five months' visit to Cobalt, from which place he was called to confer with Anderson J. Hagan and other Pittsburg capitalists at Toronto yesterday, in reference to an exploring and prospecting expedition to Fort Churchill on Hudson Bay. It was decided that, owing to the lateness of the season and the fact that special canoes would have to be built for the journey, the project be postponed until next season, as the party do not want to run any risk of having to winter in the north. The route will be by Temiskaming Lake, thence along the Ottawa River to the height of land, from there by the Abitibi River to Moose Factory on James' Bay, from whence they will coast to Ft. Churchill.

Speaking of Cobalt, Mr. Crowley says that it is quiet at present, although there are miners there from all the mining camps of the world, men from Australia, Kimberley, Montana, Mexico, California and the Klondike. For three miles Cobalt is immensely rich, but outside of that limit it is simply a game of chance, not one in ten striking it rich.

Mr. Crowley will do some prospecting in Ansruther, Chandos and Methuen, in the northern part of Peterborough County, where, he says, mica, asbestos, corundum, iron, graphite and sodalite are to be found.

SOFT, GLOSSY HAIR

It Can Only Be Had Where There Is No Dandruff.

Any man or woman who wants soft, glossy hair must be free of dandruff, which causes falling hair. Since it has become known that dandruff is a germ disease, the old hair preparations that were mostly scalp irritants, have been abandoned, and the public, barbers and doctors included, have taken to using Newbro's Herpicide, the only hair preparation that kills the dandruff germ. E. Dodd, Dickinson, N.D., says: "Herpicide not only cleanses the scalp from dandruff and prevents the hair falling out, but promotes a new growth. Herpicide keeps my hair very glossy." 24th Firing Team Back From Petawawa Camp

Returned From Enjoyable Trip Last Night—Made a Remarkably Good Showing—Those Who Made the Trip.

The firing team of the 26th Field Battery, Canadian Artillery, returned last night from a five days' trip to the instructional camp at Petawawa, Ont. The battery boys report a most enjoyable trip, and their visit to the camp was one not only of pleasure, but also of profit. The section left Peterborough on Saturday night and reached camp on Sunday evening. They were in company with the firing team of the 14th Midland Field Battery. On Monday the examination of gun-layers and fuse-setters took place, and on Tuesday there was firing practice. Wednesday was spent in competitive firing.

The 24th boys, considering that this is their first year, did remarkably well in the competition. Credit for their good showing is due both to them and to Lieut. Gerald Hall, who was in charge of the battery.

The Petawawa camp, which has been in existence just two years, surprised the battery boys with its splendid equipments. It is said that next year it will be made a permanent camp. Last summer there was only a wilderness where now exists a splendid camp with acetylene gas and other improvements. Barracks are also being erected.

The Winnipeg and Woodstock N.B batteries arrived in Petawawa as the local corps was leaving on Wednesday night. Major Grant, of Ottawa, is acting as umpire.

Following were the men who represented Peterborough:

Lieut. Gerald Young, Acting Captain in Command.

The Hibernians Elected Their Officers Thursday

Next Bi-ennial Session Will be Held in Gananoque—Committee on Resolutions Presented Important Reports—Coronation Oath Dealt With—The Lady Delegates to the Convention—Efforts to Double Membership.

The bi-annual convention of the Provincial Division A.O.H. closed its session yesterday afternoon in the T. A.S. Hall, when the officers for the next two years were elected, and the next place of meeting was decided on. In response to an invitation Gananoque was selected as the town in which the convention will be held two years hence. The officers elected were:

Provincial President, C. J. Foy, Perth.
Provincial Vice-President, J. McLaughlin, Ottawa.
Provincial Secretary, W. E. O'Meara, Pembroke.
Provincial Treasurer, A. J. Tobin, Ottawa.
Insurance Secretary - Treasurer, F. Walsh, Toronto.
Medical Supervisor, Dr. Coughlin, Peterborough.
Provincial Solicitor, F. Slattery, Toronto.

The report of the Committee on Resolutions, which was adopted, was as follows:—

To the officers and delegates of the 9th bi-ennial Provincial Convention of the A.O.H., in Convention assembled in Peterborough:

Gentlemen and Brothers,—We, your Committee on Resolutions, beg leave to report as follows:—

1. That the thanks of this convention be tendered His Lordship, Bishop O'Connor, and the Cathedral clergy of Peterborough, for their kind attention to our delegates and for their expressions of goodwill on behalf of our Order.

2. That the thanks of the convention be tendered the officers and members of our Order of the City of Peterborough, for their generous treatment of the delegates attending our convention, and for the hospitable manner in which they have entertained the delegates.

3. That the Convention express thanks to the Provincial President and officers for their untiring services during their two years of office in which time much good work has been accomplished in the interests of the Order.

4. That the thanks of the delegates be tendered the Mayor and Aldermen of the City of Peterborough for their many acts of kindness and for the hospitality during the visit of the delegates to the City of Peterborough.

5. That the sum of $5.00 be paid Mr. P. Kane, caretaker of the T.A.S. rooms for his extra care and trouble in connection with the said rooms during the convention.

6. That the sum of $15.00 be given Division No. 1, of Peterborough, to defray expenses in connection with the hall.

7. That the sum of $10.00 be presented to the Rev. Father McColl, rector of St. Peter's Cathedral.

8. The Ancient Order of Hibernians of the Province of Ontario place on record their confidence in the Irish Parliamentary party and express the hope that Mr. John E. Redmond, the Hon. E. Blake, C. R. Devlin and Douglas Hyde, LL. D., be long spared to the Irish people in their noble struggle for Home Rule.

9. That this convention express the desire to see a Gaelic chair established in our universities, where the Irish language may be taught and where the history of the Irish people will be better and more thoroughly understood, by the Irish youth of the land.

10. That this convention express its unbounded disapproval of the caricaturing of the Irish race, both on the stages of our theatres and the press of our country.

11. That we, the members of the A.O.H. in convention assembled, are entirely in sympathy with the other Catholics of Canada in all questions for the betterment of the conditions of their co-religionists.

12. That this convention express sympathy with the Irish parliamentary party and the Irish people, in the deep loss each has sustained through the death of Michael Davitt, M.P., who so long and faithfully, and with many great obstacles and sacrifices, served the Irish cause during his active career.

13. That the sympathy of this convention be extended to our Brothers and Sisters in the City of San Francisco in the loss which they sustained during the recent calamity that visited that city.

14. That the various Divisions urge upon the Separate School Boards in their respective municipalities, the teaching of Irish History in the Separate Schools and to urge the proper officials to place Irish literature and history on the shelves of their public school libraries.

15. That the County Presidents and the Provincial President be a committee to select the Standing Committees at future conventions.

16. That the Irish in Canada, use their endeavours for the establishment of an Irish Catholic University in the Dominion of Canada.

17. That the delegates in convention assembled, express the hope that His Most Gracious Majesty King Edward will use his every endeavour to see that the oath of allegiance to be taken by the Sovereign of Great Britain on his ascending the throne will be changed, so that the said oath will not be as it now is, an insult to the religious beliefs of his Catholic subjects, as well as to the Catholics throughout the world.

18. That every member of the Order in the Province of Ontario; make a special effort to increase the membership, so that we may double membership before the next Provincial convention.

19. That the thanks of the convention be expressed to the press of Peterborough for the uniform kindness and courtesy extended to delegates attending this convention.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Ladies' Auxiliary.

The delegates who were here attending the convention as representatives of the Ladies' Auxiliary were:

Ottawa—Miss O'Meara, Miss O'Neil, Miss O'Connor, Mrs. Walsh Miss Cassidy.

Toronto—Mrs. Richardson, Miss Malon.

St. Thomas—Miss King, Miss O'Brien, Miss Ronan, Miss Foley.

Stratford—Mrs. O'Donohue, Miss Dowyer.

One matter of interest to the lady members of the Order was taken up at this session. The death benefits were increased from $100 to $150 at the same rate as previously paid. The majority of the delegates left the city last night and the remainder left this morning.

Eyes Worth Having

Did you ever stop to think that with the exception of the heart, the eye is the hardest worked part of the body.

As long as you are awake and your eyes are open they are working in your service.

Three pairs of muscles control the movement of each eyeball.

The two eyeballs move exactly together. Would you know the effect of their not working together—press your finger against one, so that it's position does not exactly correspond with the other.

How important it is that if these muscles tire and you have headaches and require Glasses, that your Glasses suit your eyes—our long experience makes us experts and able to fit you correctly.

Terrorism Reigns Throughout Empire of the Autocrat.

BLOODSHED NOW IN EARNEST

Almost Half a Hundred Assassinations Recorded In One Day—Outbreak Is In Retaliation For the Wholesale Arrests and Repressions of the Governor-General of Poland—250 Jews Killed or Wounded.

London, Aug. 17.—A Warsaw telegram to the Jewish Chronicle says:—'After Wednesday's disturbances, which the police quelled, 250 Jews were killed or wounded by the soldiery.'

Terror the Czar Now.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 17.—Yesterday's despatches from Poland are hardly less grave than those of Wednesday last. At Lodz, after the police station had been blown up and burned, Cossacks and other troops fired volleys into the crowds and more or less strett fighting followed. The casualties are not given.

At Warsaw, street fighting occurred yesterday, especially in the Jewish quarter, and the revolutionists using bombs against the police and troops. One hundred and fifty persons are reported to have been wounded by rifle fire and thirty by bombs.

Terrorism Begins In Earnest.

The war of terrorism which the fighting organization of the social revolutionists declared immediately after Parliament was dissolved seems now to have begun in earnest. From all parts of the empire the telegraph brings the same story of attacks on police officials of all classes, accompanied in the majority of cases by plunder. The Polish revolutionists are especially active, here is a veritable reign of terror from the Vistula to the German frontier. Almost fifty cases of assassinations were reported early Wednesday night.

Some of the despatches from Poland assert that the outbreak of terrorism is in retaliation for the wholesale arrests and repressions of the Governor-General.

Parliament's Rights.

The Government announces that the new Parliament will not be deprived of the right to revise the budget for 1907.

Several Liberal papers have been permitted to resume publication, either under their old names or with new franchises.

Many Casualties at Warsaw.

Warsaw, Russian Poland, Aug. 17.—It is now stated that during Wednesday's massacre thirteen policemen, four police sergeants, seven gendarmes and four soldiers, were killed, and that eight policemen, two sergeants, two gendarmes and six soldiers were wounded. The soldiers in replying to the attacks on the people with volleys and discharging the crowds killed thirteen men and two women, and severely wounded seventy persons and slightly injured ninety-five.

During the night shots were heard in different ports of the city, but the casualties have not been ascertained. At Plock, Russian Poland, five policemen were killed and two were wounded. The assassins escaped.

Seize Police Station.

London, Aug. 17.—A despatch to a news agency from Odessa says that early yesterday fifteen anarchists took possession of the railway freight station there, killing a police inspector and three policemen, who resisted them, and carried off $8,000.

Stoessel Not Indicted.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 17.—The Official Messenger yesterday prints a denial of the recent announcement that the Ropp commission had returned indictments against Lieut.-Gen. Stoessel, the commander of the Russian forces at Port Arthur. The Official Messenger says it is the duty of the commission simply to present the results of its investigation upon which the indictments will be based. The denial is more technical than real.

Constantinople, Aug. 17.—The Sultan has ordered the release of all the prisoners in the empire who have completed two-thirds of their sentence, as a mark of gratification for the recovery of his health.

Miss Jones Recovering.

Owen Sound, Aug. 17.—Miss I. Jones, who was assaulted on the high way Saturday by an unknown, was much better yesterday, but is still unable to give any account of her assailant.

Vexed Question Of Telephone Legislation

Considered by Union of Canadian Municipalities.

THE ELECTION OF OFFICERS

Mayor Sharpe of Winnipeg Chosen as President, and Fort William and Port Arthur as Place of Meeting Next Year — Resolutions Passed re. Telephone Rights, Endorsing the Manitoba Request.

Halifax, N. S., Aug. 17.—A feature of the morning session yesterday of the Union of Canadian Municipalities was the presentation to Mayor McIlreith of a handsome grandfather's clock and a bronze statue of Eros. A number of interesting papers were read.

Long Distance Telephones.

The following resolution was unanimously adopted on motion of Ald. L. A. Lapointe of Montreal, seconded by Mayor Coatsworth of Toronto:

"In the opinion of the Union of Canadian Municipalities, where a telephone company already charges its maximum authorized rate to its subscribers being under the obligation to supply the best and most modern equipment, it is unjust and illegal for the company to make an additional charge under the pretence of supplying an improved instrument called a long distance telephone."

Endorse Manitoba.

This resolution was adopted on motion of ex-Mayor Dyke of Fort William:

"That the Union of Canadian Municipalities endorse the request of the Legislature of Manitoba to the Parliament of Canada for authority to expropriate or purchase all the telephone lines in the province, and affirming the principle that similar authority should be given to the other provinces of the Dominion."

For Free Interchange.

On motion of Mayor Coatsworth of Toronto, seconded by Mayor Flemming of Brandon, it was unanimously resolved:

"That the Dominion Parliament should be memorialized to amend the legislation of last session so as to require the freest interchange of business between telephone companies, whether long-distance or local."

The election of officers took place at the afternoon session, as follows: Mayor Sharpe of Winnipeg was elected president, and Mayor Coatsworth of Toronto, vice-president. Mayor McIlreith and Deputy Mayor Johnstone were elected vice-presidents for Nova Scotia.

Next Year In Port Arthur.

The union decided to meet next year in Fort William and Port Arthur. It was a close race between Lake Superior towns and Toronto, Fort William and Port Arthur gaining by only four or five votes. The meeting will probably take place in July.

The convention adjourned after passing cordial votes of thanks.

GRANTS TWO-CENT FARE.

Metropolitan Railway Manager Issues a Statement Through Vice-Chairman of Railway and Municipal Board.

Toronto, Aug. 17.—Yesterday morning Vice-Chairman Ingram of the Municipal and Railway Board gave out the following statement, which was issued by W. H. Moore as general manager of the Toronto & York Radial Railway Co.:

"The Vice-Chairman of the Railway and Municipal Board, Mr. A. B. Ingram, brought the matter of fares on the Metropolitan division of the Toronto & York Radial Railway Co. to my attention some time ago and demanded that the company should comply with the new law. Immediately upon receiving notice from him, the company's traffic manager began the work of making out a new schedule of fares. It will be readily understood that there is a score of different kinds of tickets in use on the system, and several score of fare zones, all of which had to be revised.

"The traffic manager has not yet completed his work, but, at the request of Mr. Ingram, and pending the completion of a new rate schedule, instructions have been given, that commencing Aug. 17, to-morrow, the maximum fare shall not in any case exceed the maximum rate prescribed by law, namely, 2 cents per mile. All other provisions of the law in regard to fares will be strictly observed.

"Attention has been drawn to the fact by some of the newspapers that there is little agitation on the part of the inhabitants of North York as to change in fares. This is readily understood by reason of their being carried now on the purchase of commutation tickets at a rate of 1 1-4 cents per mile.

"As to what the new tariff will be, I cannot say, but I have assured Mr. Ingram, vice-chairman of the Railway Commission, that what we will submit will be according to the law, and that the law will be carried out both in spirit and letter."

Wellman May Not Go.

London, Aug. 17.—A despatch from Christiania to The Daily Mail says that private letter received there from Spitzbergen state that, owing to the lateness of the season, Walter Wellman, the chief of The Chicago Record-Herald Arctic expedition, has abandoned the project of ballooning to the North Pole this year.

Minister Of Finance In The Election Case

Hon. Mr. Fielding Gives Evidence In Trial At Halifax.

QUESTION OF JURISDICTION

The Case Virtually Concluded and Only Eight Cases Stand for Judgment—Attorney-General Addresses Court For Respondent—Mr. Ritchie To-day — All the Personal Charges Abandoned.

Halifax, Aug. 17.—When the Fielding election trial opened at Liverpool yesterday morning the Chief Justice read a lengthy opinion on the point raised by the Attorney-General at the commencement of the trial. The opinion was to the effect that until the trial had actually commenced any Judge of the Supreme Court could grant enlargements from time to time for the commencement of the trial, and therefore the preceding enlargement, granted by himself, was valid. Justice Russell read a separate opinion, but reached the same conclusion. The hearing of witnesses was then resumed.

Trial of the petition was practically concluded yesterday. The Attorney-General addressed the court on behalf of respondent, and Mr. Ritchie will close the case to-day on behalf of the petitioner. Particulars furnished by the petitioner alleged two hundred and ninety-seven cases of illegal practices, and after the examination of thirty-five witnesses the petitioners were forced to rely on only eight acts by alleged agents which are claimed to be corrupt. In each of these eight cases the Attorney-General strenuously contended that there was no proof of corrupt practices, and also no proof of agency. Petitioner failed utterly to establish any of the personal charges of corrupt acts against Mr. Fielding, and Mr. Ritchie stated before the close of the case that he was forced to abandon them. This left the court to the consideration of whether the eight corrupt acts alleged by the petitioner were proven to have been corrupt, and if so whether they were committed by agents of Mr. Fielding. The net result of three days' trial is therefore that 297 corrupt acts were alleged to have been committed by Mr. Fielding's agents; about sixty witnesses were subpoenaed, thirty-five examined. The personal charges have been abandoned and only eight alleged corrupt acts remain to be considered by the court.

Hon. W. S. Fielding was called and deposed that he was in the riding but a few days prior to the last election. He was then asked as to the bills rendered after the election of 1900, and stated that some time after that election he was told that there were some unpaid bills, and he reluctantly agreed to pay them. At the same time he stated that he would pay no such bills in future. When Mr. Ritchie asked the witness the amount, the court refused to allow the question on the ground that the answer could only relate to corrupt practices in the 1900 election.

Cross-examined by the Attorney-General, Mr. Fielding said that he never authorized any payments or assumed any expenses of the election of 1904. He never authorized directly or indirectly any expenditure for the 1904 election except as shown by the return of his election agent. He had several meetings in the country, and always appealed to the electors to give him their support for legitimate reasons, and legitimate reasons only. This concluded the examination of witnesses.

Asphyxiated In Trench.

Victoria, B. C., Aug. 17.—J. Fins, a married man, employed by the Victoria Gas Co., died in the city ambulance while being conveyed to the hospital yesterday. Fins had been working on repairs to the street gas main, and owing to a leak was overcome. He was resuscitated and returned to work. Coal gas taking some time to mix with the blood, his collapse occurred an hour later.

Effect of Meat Exposures.

Chicago, Aug. 17.—Exports of canned meats in July showed the effects of the packing-house investigation. They were only 1,039,852 pounds, compared with 5,232,797 pounds in July, 1905. The loss in value was $438,000. In the seven months of 1906 exports were 28,788,573 pounds, a loss of almost 15,000,000 pounds, or $1,422,000 over the corresponding period of last year.

The Biter Bit.

Port Huron, Mich., Aug. 17.—Mrs. Minah Troyer, who Wednesday swore out a warrant for Fred Thompson, a Canadian, for stealing $10 and deserting her at the altar steps, is now herself behind the bars. Sheriff Moore recognized her as a woman wanted for illegally living with a man named Vancamp.

Must Drop the "Dr."

Toronto, Aug. 17.—It is J. J. Orr, manager, now.

The powers that be in the medical association have demanded that the genial director of the big fair refrain from using his (proper) title of "doctor."

Bombay Postmen Strike.

Bombay, India, Aug. 17.—About 500 postmen here struck yesterday for increased pay, with the result that the deliveries of mail is almost stopped. Warrants have been issued for the arrest of the ringleaders.

Synopsis Of Canadian North-West HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba or the North-west Provinces, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded upon by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section, of 160 acres, more or less.

Entry may be made personally at the local land office for the district in which the land is situate.

Homestead Duties.—A settler who has been granted an entry for a homestead is required to perform the conditions connected therewith under one of the following plans:—

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year during the term of three years.

(2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of any person who is eligible to make a homestead entry under the provisions of this Act, resides upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for by such person as a homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence prior to obtaining patent may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

(3) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon the said land.

Application for patent should be made at the end of three years, before the Local Agent, Sub-Agent or the Homestead Inspector.

Before making application for patent the settler must give six months' notice in writing to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of his intention to do so.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy of the Minister of the Interior

Sealed tenders addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Lock and Dam" St. Andrew's Rapids, Red River, Man., will be received at this office until the 10th day of September, 1906, for the construction of a concrete Lock and Dam at St. Andrew's Rapids, Red River, Province of Manitoba.

Plans and specifications can be seen at this Department; at the offices of the Resident Engineer of Public Works, Ashdown Building, Winnipeg; Mr. J. G. Sing, Resident Engineer, Confederation Life Building, Toronto; Mr. C. Tiellarding, Clerk of Works, Post Office, Montreal, and Mr. Th. Beland, Clerk of Works, Post Office, Quebec.

Forms of tender can also be obtained at the above mentioned places.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures.

The Contractor will be required to conform to regulations to be made by the Governor General, in Council, respecting the accommodation, medical treatment and sanitary protection of the workingmen employed on the work.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, made payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, for the sum of sixty-five thousand dollars ($65,000) which will be forfeited if the party tendering decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or if he fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
FRED. GELINAS,
Secretary.

Latest News Of Various Sports

A Chicago Lacrosse Enthusiast In The City

Mr. A. H. Mortimer, President Calumet Athletic Association, Here to Spend a Month—Good Prospects for Senior Team's Trip to Chicago.

Mr. A. H. Mortimore, of Chicago for some years president of the Calumet Athletic Association, and a great lover of the Canadian national game of lacrosse, is in the city, and will probably spend a month between here and Chemong. He is a lacrosse enthusiast, and intends to go with the Shamrocks to Lindsay on Saturday. He is very anxious to have the Peterborough team take the trip to Chicago, and a letter received in the city to-day from Mr. Percy Rubidge, states that the prospects for a trip to the Windy City on September 3, Labour Day, are bright.

Arrange Schedule For The Frost Trophy

The Games Which Will be Played to Decide Ownership of Beautiful Cup Donated by Mr. C. E. Frost.

The season is advancing and it has been decided to have the competition for the Frost Cup come off next week. The draw for the preliminary round is as follows:—

1—Skip McIlroy versus skip Talbot.
2—Skip McClelland versus skip Greer.
3—Skip McIntyre versus skip Pratt.
4—Skip Kerr versus skip Matthews.
5—Skip Giroux versus skip Moore.
6—Skip Cox versus skip Belleghem.

Monday and Tuesday only of next week can be allowed to complete this round. It is important that the above skips notify their rinks and arrange with opponents for hours at which to play. As the season is so late any who default must be debarred thereafter from the competition.

The following will compose the next round, which will be completed by Thursday night of next week:—

7—Skip Thompson versus skip Runnels.
8—Skip Medd versus skip Ferguson.
9—Skip Martin versus skip Johnson.
10—Skip Fitzgerald versus skip Waddell
11—Skip McKinnon versus skip Lech.
12—Winner of 1 versus winner of 2.
13—Winner of 3 versus winner of 4.
14—Winner of 5 versus winner of 6.

The above competition is bound to be a very keen one as the magnificent trophy donated to the club by Mr. C. E. Frost, the jeweller, is worthy of the best efforts of any quartette in the city. This beautiful cup is now on view in the window of Frost's jewelry store, No. 349 George street.

Havelock Club Being Criticized

For Playing Belleghen and McMillan of This City in Recent Game.

The Havelock Standard is not satisfied with the action of the baseball club's manager in playing two Peterborough men in a recent game and says:—

The action of the management in playing Belleghem and McMillan of Peterborough, at Hastings last week, is being severely criticised by the club supporters. And quite rightly, too. After playing up to the rules all season, they grew weak-kneed and are now on a par with the other teams in the league, and in no position to demand reform or to ask the support of our citizens another year. This practice of bringing in outsiders cannot be condemned too strongly and will kill the game in local interest and patronage quicker than any other means. As the Campbellford Herald aptly remarks, "If the various teams in the league would stand strictly by the rules the towns would be encouraged to back their teams, and altogether the interest in the games would be greatly increased."

Good Regatta At Sturgeon Point

A Most Successful Event Held There Yesterday.

The regatta at Sturgeon Point yesterday, held under the auspices of the Sturgeon Point Cottagers' Association, was a most successful event, a large number of the Stony Lake and Chemong cottagers attending. The weather was ideal, and the attendance as a result was very large. Some good races were on the card, and all were warmly contested, the majority of the prizes going to Sturgeon Point and Lindsay competitors.

A list of the winners for publication to-day was impossible to procure.

Peterboro' Men Were Well Up

Havelock Men's Narrow Escape

Messrs. Seeney and Keller Nearly Drowned on Moon River.

The Havelock Standard says: Mr. John Seeney has returned from Midland, where he has just finished a contract with the firm of Playfair & White of that town, of bringing their logs down the Moon River to the mill at Midland. While engaged on the contract, Mr. Seeney and Mr. Jas. Keller, of town, had a narrow escape from death by drowning. In taking a heavy punt over Curtain Falls on Moon River, the boat hit a rock and shattered it, and but for the bravery and coolness of Mr. Seeney, both Mr. Keller and himself would have perished in a watery grave. Mr. Seeney informs us that he has engaged 100 men to work for the Cavendish Lumber Co.

Honours For A Former Resident

Mr. "Dan" McDonald Made Presentation by C.M.B.A.

Mr. "Dan" McDonald, of Louisville, Ky., delighted old friends in Lindsay on Tuesday by dropping in upon them unexpectedly. Mr. McDonald some 17 years ago was engaged in the grocery business in this town. Being one of the charter members of Branch 77, C.M.B.A., he was invited to attend a meeting of the Branch that evening, when he was presented with a handsome pipe by the president, Mr. B. J. Gough, on behalf of old friends and in due commemoration of his visit. Addresses were delivered by President Gough, Rev. Father O'Sullivan, J. J. McDonell, J. O'Rielly and M. H. McGeough, to which Mr. McDonald replied in feeling terms. Mr. McDonald left on Wednesday to visit friends in Peterborough. — Lindsay Post.

Fine Programme By Army Band

Delighted a Large Audience in Victoria Park Last Night.

The Salvation Army Band rendered a delightful programme in Victoria Park last night. A large crowd was present and the music of the band was greatly enjoyed. The organization is one of which any place might well be proud, their execution of the different numbers last night showing them to be master musicians:—

Following was the programme:—

March. "Canada" introducing the Maple Leaf

Selection ...."The Unseen Line"

March ...."God's Pardon"

Cornet solo, Band accomp. "Onward, yes, Onward"

March ...."Faith"

Euphonium solo, Band accomp.,"You've carried your burden"

March ...."Southall"

CORDIAL LEAVE-TAKING.

King Edward Goes to Marienbad—Monarchs Conferred Until Midnight—Foreign Office Official's Statement.

Cronberg, Prussia, Aug. 17.—King Edward left Friedrichshof at 6.10 yesterday morning. Emperor William, Prince and Princess Frederick Charles of Hesse-Nassau and the Crown Princess Sophia of Greece accompanied him to the railroad station. The leave-taking of Their Majesties was particularly cordial. The Emperor accompanied the King to his compartment, where they engaged in conversation till the train was ready to move.

King Edward proceeded to Marienbad, accompanied by Sir Francis Lascelles, the British ambassador to Germany, and the Emperor returned to Friedrichshof.

It was learned yesterday that Their Majesties were in conference until midnight, and that Herr Von Tschirsky, the German Secretary for Foreign Affairs, and Sir Charles Hardinge were present.

Not Significant.

London, Aug. 17.—"While not pretending to know what passed at the conference at Friedrichshof," said an official of the Foreign Office yesterday, "you can say that too much significance must not be attached to the presence of Sir Charles Hardinge (permanent Under Secretary of the Foreign Office). King Edward on every trip he has made on the continent, for the purpose of meeting a foreign sovereign, has been accompanied by Sir Charles He is not a member of the Cabinet, and only a Cabinet Minister can agree to anything in behalf of the Government."

Greek Band Slays.

Salonika, European Turkey, Aug. 17.—At Yovitsa, near Florina, on Aug. 14, a Greek band killed [illegible] Bulgarians, including a girl, and kidnappeda and murdered five others.

Strikers Back At Work.

Toronto, Aug. 17.—After a short sharp fight of one week, the carpenters' strike was formally declared off in the Labor Temple shortly before noon yesterday at a mass meeting. Some of the men were not satisfied, but the large majority seemed pleased to get back to work upon the terms arranged by the executive of the unions and the new Master Carpenters' Association. Quite a few are inclined to think that it was but a hollow victory for the union men, as many were already getting more than the minimum rate adopted.

Swindlers Arrested.

Hamilton, Aug. 17.—Two young fellows in sporty clothes were arrested here yesterday on the charge of swindling both Hamilton and Toronto business men. They give the names of Michael Lawry and Frank Kennedy, and their game was to gather money in the name of a football club. In Hamilton it was for the Tigers, and in Toronto for the Wellesleys. They had lists on them of both their Hamilton and Toronto victims, among whom are the mayors of both cities.

Man of Good Reputation Held.

Winnipeg, Aug. 17.—Several women have been assaulted recently in Winnipeg. Wednesday night two girls on bicycles were approached by a man who terrified them by his language and manner. They screamed, and the man fled, pursued by an officer, who fired several shots at him, over his head. He stopped and it developed that he is manager of the retail department of one of the largest stores in the city. The man's reputation is good, and he stands high socially.

LAWN TENNIS

Last night at Nicholls Oval St. John's A. Y. P. A. Tennis Club held a tennis tea, which was well patronized by the members. Tea was over at seven o'clock and a lively hour was spent on the courts. Some fast playing was noticed in places and the members in general are displaying considerable proficiency, notwithstanding the fact that they are, for the most part, novices, this being the first season of the club's existence.

Comprehensive Scheme Proposed By Citizen

Who Suggests That Property be Purchased for City Square in Vicinity of Central Park—A Proposal in Reference to Normal School.

To the editor of the Examiner,—

Sir, — Now that the question of site for a Normal School is open again, would it not be advisable to look at the matter from a broader point of view than that of present need and convenience, or even expense.

Let us have a square in this city that will be a credit to the present, and with which the future will not reproach us.

Would it not be a good move for the city to purchase all the lots from the Baptist church on Murray street to the Y.M.C.A.? None of the buildings on these lots are valuable, and most of them are eye-sores, and detractors from the beauty of the square. These lots would provide a good site for the Normal School, and leave a good site also for a public library, (a necessity of the next decade.) Counting the George street church, Y.M.C.A., and Baptist church, together with the library, Collegiate Institute, Normal School and Armouries, we would have a magnificent group of seven public buildings, around our Central Park.

Five years hence we would feel well repaid for the enterprise, and posterity will not reproach us for being too timorous to grasp future needs.

Perhaps some day we shall build a city hall on George street, facing the park.

Yours, for the future,
PROGRESS.

Methods Of Cordova Management Defended

An Interesting Letter in Reference to the Proposed Re-opening of the Gold Mines at That Place—Necessary to Sink a Number of Shafts, Says the Writer.

A short time ago the Examiner had an interview with Mr. Cutler, of Pittsburg, Pa., relating to the Cordova Gold Mines. This article was reproduced in the Havelock Standard, and inspired the following letter; which the Standard says was written by one who understands mining thoroughly :—

To the Editor of the Standard:

Dear Sir,—We read with great interest your leading article in your issue of the 9th inst., on the Cordova Mine, as copied from the Peterborough Examiner. We crave the favour of a little of your valuable space for a few remarks thereon.

In the article the richness of the mine is treated on; the probability of the mine being re-opened in the near future; also that the operations in the past have proved disastrous. Again, "the trouble however, • • • is that under the last management so much money was spent in sinking shafts on the property that the enormous expense not only ate up the profits made by the operation of the one mine, but was a heavy drain on the reserve resources." We are informed there are in Cordova four "working shafts" ten in all, including "trial pits," in form of shafts. Now it is a true sign of the very best of judgment in a manager to operate an ample number or proper number of shafts. In Cordova with four working shafts, eight would probably be necessary. Let us see: The Ontario Government was well up to general mining usage when it placed in it's Mines Act in 1892, the following:—"In case where the vertical or inclined shaft of a mine has been sunk to a greater depth than 100 feet, and drifting has been carried a distance of 200 feet from the shaft, it is provided that a special escapement shaft shall be maintained to the hoisting shaft through which the mine is entered." Take in all classes of mining and for the want of an escapement shaft being kept down and in proper order and duly connected with the workings, teeming thousands of miners have lost their lives. Why a second shaft? First, for thoroughfare for pure air. Second, a shaft, well-cased and divided into "ship-way" and "tram-way," and timbers being dry, will, on taking fire from a number of causes, burn as fiercely as a chimney burning out. Third, it has been known for shafts to cave in, blocking all passage for long periods. Fourth, hoisting cables have parted when skip, bucket or "kibble," were near surface. In their descent these have gotten into the ladder way and swept it from top to bottom.

"Too many shafts," or we might as well say, "too many stamps," or "too much vein." If 50 men or more, can operate to advantage in shaft No. 1, its drifts, stopes, etc., No. 2 shaft, with its openings, can employ the same number of miners with like advantage, and so on, on the whole stretch of paying property. The great Minesota Native Copper Mine, Ontonagon Co., Mich., had, on about Cordova stretch, but on one continuous lode, 12 shafts in full blast at the same time, the middle shaft being kept deepest, was the only pump shaft for the whole mine. The surest and most practicable means of testing property giving a good surface showing of being rich, is to sink a shaft to prove its value. Company's experts, so often sent out, often think they can see more than the manager in this way, and they having the power to do so, often order shafts sunk that way, hence the few surplus shafts, in the eyes of some.

Now that there has been trouble, disaster, and an enormous outlay of money—some say near a million dollars, is perhaps true. But the Examiner's informant, in attributing the cause of all this failure and outlay to the sinking of "so many shafts," either does not know what he is talking about, or else does not stop to consider. Let us, in courtesy to the informant, admit of five shafts too many sunk, say, 100 feet each at $20.00 per foot, (a high price,) in all 500 feet, at a cost of $10,000. That amount, aside from "eating up all the proceeds of the mine and drawing heavily on the reserve resources," should not impoverish even one small shareholder. Substract the cost of these extra shafts from the million expended and the conclusion must be either that the mine has not proven to be extra rich or that the bulk of the amount has been expended in other ways. But whether injudiciously or not, we decline either to say or judge.

OBSERVER.

Subordinate Lodges May Invest 50 Per Cent. of Their Funds—New Insurance Class Formed—Some Reforms Effected.

Chatham, Aug. 16.—At the Supreme Lodge S.O.E.B.S., proposals seeking the abolition of medical certificates for a member's wife and to relieve rejected beneficiary candidates of the payment of the examination fee was rejected.

A decided reform lay in the Supreme Lodge's decision that on the doctor must rest responsibility for saying when a member was fully recovered from sickness.

In future, before subordinate lodges may invest 50 per cent. of their funds in debentures, first mortgages, or other legal fields, they must have at least $1,000 on hand.

Announcement was made of the inauguration of a new lodge in Durban, South Africa.

One of the most important pieces of legislation was the creation of an "increased insurance department," to be known as class "B."

By this provision members who have taken the full amount of insurance possible in the beneficiary department, may take a policy for $1,000 in class "B."

English Catholic Boys And Girls In Canada

800 Children Placed in This Country This Year by the Catholic Emigration Association of England—Applications for Girls Far Exceed Those for Boys.

The Catholic Emigration Association of England, whose headquarters in Canada at at St. George's Home, Hintonburgh, Ont. (a suburb of Ottawa), have placed out, either for apprenticeship or adoption during the last 12 months, about 800 children, the boys on farms and the girls in domestic service. Their records show that of the children placed during the past five years, of whom absolute details and particulars are filed and tabulated, only four per cent. of the boys and seven per cent. of the girls turn out unsatisfactory. This term is adopted to designate those who change their places a number of times and who are difficult to settle, and does not mean that their characters are necessarily bad. Where a boy or girl shows a bad or depraved character, he or she is deported rather than retained in the country to be a menace to the good name, which others are endeavouring to keep up. This being so, the association are persistent in enforcing the fulfilment of the obligations assumed by an employer of one of its wards, and also require that the child shall receive proper treatment.

While the association recognizes that all children are not equally satisfactory, they require an employer who may have an unsatisfactory child in his care to return such child to the Home, when they will replace the same at their own expense, rather than subject it to treatment which might be construed into cruelty or undue harshness.

Recognizing that during the time elapsing between the annual visits to every child, some may be receiving unnecessarily hard treatment, the Catholic Emigration Association welcome information that may be furnished them on those matters, and treat with strict confidence such communications, at the same time taking immediate action upon the same.

Forms of application, containing full information for the guidance of those applying for children are readily sent on application to Mr. Cecil Arden, St. George's Home, Hintonburgh, Ont., and full inquiries are made regarding each applicant, before a child (boy or girl) is committed to their care. The association has always a number of boys to place out, but fewer girls, though their applications for girls exceed by some two or three hundred per year, those for the boys.

Actress Obeys Order To "Go Hang Herself"

(Examiner Special.)

Berlin, Aug. 18.—Fraulein Georgina Sobjeska is in a private hospital, and is slowly recovering after an attempt to commit suicide.

She is an actress very well known and liked. For some years she was at a Vienna theatre at a salary of $1,250 a year. She was invited to play at the court theatre in Berlin, which being under the Kaiser's eye is considered great promotion. In consequence of this actors receive a very small starting salary until such time as the Kaiser approves of them, when it is generally increased to a fair wage.

Fraulein Sobjeska came to Berlin on a salary of $800 a year. She soon became a popular favourite and received the approval of the Kaiser. She was promised an increase, but months passed and she did not receive it. She had to provide many costumes and accessories and soon found herself in debt.

She applied to the manager for the increase and a sum in advance to pay her debts. He was tangled up with other matters at the time and gruffly told her to "go hang herself." The actress followed instructions, but was discovered in time and cut down. Then the full story came out. A large number of private individuals rushed to her assistance and have befriended her. I tis understood that the Kaiser will also take action on her complete recovery.

Kansas Man Has Had Bad Luck

Was Divorced, Re-married, Robbed and Assaulted in Four Weeks.

(Examiner Special.)

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 18. — Divorced one week, remarried the next, robbed the third, and assaulted the fourth, J. George Braecklein, architect and champion bone solosit, says if this thing keeps up he will have to leave town. He was assaulted in his office in the Gibraltar building and badly beaten up by his brother Carl, who had the active sympathy and moral support of the architect's son Oscar. Last week he was robbed of his watch, fob and chain. The week before he was remarried, after having been divorced the preceding week.

His family has never sympathized with him in his marital difficulties, taking the side, rather, of the first wife, at whose instance the divorce was granted.

Will Work Way Around World

Two American College Graduates Start on Long Trip.

(Examiner Special.)

Washington, Aug. 18. — H. W. T Eglin, a nephew of Rear Admiral Evans, and Richard J. Cook, both college graduates, have started to work their way around the world on a wager of $200. They are clad in working garb and left Washington with enough money in their pockets to take them to Newport News, Va. They earned this money working in a restaurant.

The terms of the wager are that the young men shall return to Washington within the year, and that during that time they shall not receive any financial assistance or beg, but literally make their own way around the globe by any means of travel may be able to employ.

REIGN OF SENSIBLE CLOTHES.

Beau Brummel Would Not Receive Consideration These Days.

"The day of the dude has passed. There was a time when the more extreme a man was in dress the smarter he was considered to be. To-day the importance of observing exactly the prevailing fashion does not weigh so much as the factors of individuality, personal suitability, refinement of taste and good form."

The manager of the Semi-Ready Wardrobe, in subscribing to the sensible diction of the president of the Semi-Ready Company, said yesterday that they had recently received some of the finest and most cultured shades of British worsteds which it had ever been his pleasure to see. The Semi-Ready Company tailors clothes in the physique types, assuring individuality, and people express surprise when they see what good suits can be sold for $15. A. W. A Pleasant Trip In The Northern Section

Rev. E. A. Langfeldt and Ven. Archdeacon Warren Spent a Delightful Week In Visiting Anglican Missions In the North—A Description of the Conditions Found There.

St. Luke's Parish Magazine for this month contains the following interesting account of the recent trip taken by the editor of that magazine:—

The Venerable Archdeacon of Peterborough made a tour of inspection of the missions in the Counties of Peterborough, Haliburton and Victoria. On this tour the Rev. E. A. Langfeldt accompanied him. It was a most delightful trip, rich in gathering knowledge regarding our Diocesan Mission work, and pleasant in the way it was arranged and spent. Mr. Langfeldt left on Monday, July 9th, with a horse and buggy, and reached Mount Julian that night, where Mr. and Mrs. Graham were kind enough to extend their hospitality. The next day Apsley was reached, where Dr. A. Bell entertained the Archdeacon and Mr. Langfeldt. Here a stay of four days was made, during which the different stations were inspected and the new Church in Apsley dedicated to the service of Almighty God. The opening service was most interesting. Through the givings of the people of Apsley, augumented largely by outside friends, Rev. Christopher Lord was enabled to build a fine Church, with Cathedral glass windows, furnace, and oak fittings. The Church is a credit to the people of Apsley. As can easily be expected, the opening service on July 11th was largely attended. A surpliced choir headed the procession, the Archdeacon preached and Rev. E. A. Langfeldt read the service. Church matters look better than ever in Apsley, and the future of the Church appears to be bright. Through the energetic efforts of Mrs. Ayling in Apsley, who is a most devoted Churchwoman, the surpliced choir was organized and equipped, and much is done by her for the support and efficiency of the Church. On Friday night, July 13th Mr. C. R. D. Booth, Reeve of Burleigh and Anstruther, who is a lay reader and a very energetic and loyal Churchman, entertained both the travellers at his hospitable house. Saturday a journey of about 45 miles was made towards Essonville, in the Mission of Carduff and Monmouth. Here they stayed over Sunday, and enjoyed the hospitality of Rev. and Mrs. C. R. Spencer, and preached at the different stations of the missions. On Tuesday the journey was continued to Haliburton, where the Rev. John Lindsay is the incumbent. A service was held on Tuesday night in the pretty Church, which stands on a hill and overlooks a beautiful lake. Wednesday, July 18th, they arrived at Minden and stayed at the clergy house, the guests of Rev. H. Archbold. This mission is a very extensive field. To supply the different stations with services on Sundays requires a drive of about 40 miles for each man. On Saturday Kinmount was reached, where Sunday was spent. This mission is in charge of Rev. A. Cummer, under whose energetic work the church is gaining much ground. A new parsonage has been bought, which is practically paid for, and the people are beginning to talk of building a new Church. On Sunday the Archdeacon and Mr. Langfeldt preached at Kinmount and Burnt River. Rev. and Mrs. A. C. Cummer entertained both gentlemen at the parsonage. From Kinmount they drove to Fenelon Falls, where they enjoyed hospitality and much kindness from Mr. and Mrs. Miles Hamilton. Here the Archdeacon and Mr. Langfeldt parted. The former completed his tour by going to Coboconk, Cameron and Lindsay, while the latter returned home via Bobcaygeon on Tuesday, July 24th. The journey was a most profitable one, and was much enjoyed. The Church people in these northern parts seem to be very happy and contented, and are loyal to the Church. With the right leaders and faithful work the Church under God's grace will be able to fill her mission there as well as everywhere.

REV. E. A. LANGFELDT, Peterborough.

VEN. ARCHDEACON WARREN, Lakefield.

ENGLAND

Hard by the newly-made grave at Welwyn, Hertfordshire, of Mr. Beit, the late South African diamond millionaire, is the most curious tomb in England. It is the tomb of Lady Anne Grimston, daughter of the Earl of Thanet, who died nearly two centuries ago. Upon her deathbed she disregarded the efforts of those who sought to administer spiritual comfort. An Atheist she had lived, an Atheist she would die. "It is as likely that I should rise again from the dead," she said, "as that a tree should grow out of the middle of my coffin." A tree has grown out of the middle of her coffin—an oak—and by its side a sycamore. The vault is square, of brick and granite. The two trees first filled the interior before they could find a way out. When they did burst through the masonry they so spread as completely to envelop the grave. The tomb was originally surrounded by iron railings. These the trees broke, grew round them, and carried them skyward in their growth. A second stiff palisading of iron was added; this, too, the trees absorbed, so that the railings and the trunks are inseparable, the timber having made the ironwork part of itself. Though the trees have but one root apiece, they have so grown that their trunks completely surrounded the tomb; they have reseptus as it were, like ivy. But they have their upward growth. One of them has thrown up what looks like five distinct trees; the other has a couple—sturdy trees—50 or more feet in height.

One of the most picturesque features in the daily, or rather nightly, life of the City of London is threatened by the effort of the Government to effect economies in the military service. A change is in contemplation with regard to the military guard at the Bank of England, by which men from a line regiment may be substituted by Guardsmen. The Bank has had military protection from its earliest days, and this protection has been provided by Guardsmen except in war time, when Volunteers have undertaken the duty. There is a regulation guardroom at the Bank, and a dining-room and sleeping apartment is provided for the officer of the guard. The guard consists of a subaltern, a sergeant, thirty men—and a drummer boy who never sounds his drum. It arrives every evening after six o'clock, four sentries are posted, and the remainder of the men await their turn for duty in the guardroom. The officer is allowed several privileges. For instance a dinner is provided for him by the Bank authorities, and he is permitted to invite a friend to dine with him, in which case an extra bottle of wine is allowed. In olden days he was given a guinea for his services, but some years back this honourarium was stopped. The men, however, still receive a shilling a night in addition to the fee paid by the governors to the military authorities for their services.

John Knill, a one-time mayor of St. Ives, Cornwall, who flourished in the time of George III., conceived a remarkable method of perpetuating his memory. It is still alive in the form of a quinquennial function, and is held on the Feast of St. James. A few days ago, ten little maids, dressed in white, two widows and fiddler wearing white cockade, assembled St. Ives, and were joined by the vicar wearing his chain of office, the vicar of the parish, and the collector of customs. Accompanying them were two mace-bearers in cocked hats and robes, together with the magistrates and police. The procession marched to the top of a neighbouring hill, where the John Keith's mausoleum stands, 50 feet high. A lively air was played and the party waltzed after the fiddler round and round the mausoleum for fifteen minutes, watched by some thousands of people. Later the children received five pounds to be divided equally, the old women receiving one sovereign each and the soldier a sovereign. The latter however must wear his white cockade on his way to church the following Sunday. Knill further directed that £5 should be given every five years to any native of St. Ives who rears the largest family without receiving parochial relief. A further £5 pounds was apportioned for a dinner for the mayor, parson and collector of customs, each to invite two friends.

A young, sprucely attired and well educated man who was sentenced in London to two years' hard labour in the name of Henry Lewis, is one of the most remarkable criminals who have come under the notice of the police in recent years. Barely 25 years old he has single-handed caused more burglary scares than many hardened thieves twice his age. He had received a good college education and was in an excellent situation in an accountant's office. The young man's first conviction was in connection with a number of mysterious burglaries in Hampstead, Kilbourne, and Westbourne Park District. For months detectives were baffled, the reason being that "Lewis" invariably worked alone at night, selected the most valuable and easily portable goods, and disposed of them immediately the pawnbrokers' stores opened on the following morning, and before the police had been notified of the robberies. Moreover during the whole of the time the mysterious robberies were going on he was working assiduously during the day time at a situation. In addition to his daring as a burglar and his ability as an accountant Lewis gained considerable success as a track cyclist.

Two elderly farmers faced each other at the Brentford, Middlesex, court recently and glared. It was simply a case of family pride. For many years they had been as David and Jonathan and now the old friendship was apparently shattered for ever. The trouble arose through a trivial incident, but when an apology was refused the grievance grew and grew, until it culminated in summonses. One of the farmers began to tell his tale, but before he had proceeded very far his voice faltered and he turned with tears in his eyes to look at his old friend in the dock. The Magistrate instantly seized the opportunity of appealing to them to forget all about it and be friends once more. For an instant there was silence, and then they simultaneously stepped forward and gripped each other heartily by the hand. The court was crowded and the incident which had been followed with keen interest, culminated in a wild outburst of applause.

SCOTLAND

A daring burglary was perpetrated in Dundee a few days ago, a safe in the Aston Works being rifled of £60 due to the employees in wages. The burglar displayed extraordinary ingenuity in breaking the safe open. A plank was sawn into two pieces, and a hole was cut into the flooring. Placing one of the pieces of the plank into the aperture in the floor, the burglars intended originally, to force the safe by boring it with a "jimmet," using the wood as a lever. Further examination, however, revealed to them that the safe was comparatively light. This discovery led to a change of plans, and the burglars came to the conclusion that the better way would be to remove the safe from the office altogether, away from the ears of likely passers-by. Wrapping it round with sacks to deaden the noise, the men placed the safe on a small bogey barrow, and wheeled it on to the concrete floor of the lapping department, which is so isolated that there was scarcely a chance of any sound penetrating to the street or neighbouring houses. They smashed the projecting "lug" of the money receptacle with a powerful weapon, and they were then able to insinuate a crowbar into the breach effected. In this way the door was entirely removed from its hinges and the rich haul was unfolded.

Two women are claiming the body of a man who was killed at Glasgow recently in a tram accident. Two men lost their lives in the accident. One only was identified, and the other was eventually buried without his name being known. A few days after the burial, a Mrs. Nellie Kelly came from Ireland to claim the body which she identified from the photograph and the clothing as that of her husband. While inquiries were being made—as compensation is to be paid—another woman came from

The Two Vanrevels

The Carewe had been chosen to sing "The Star Spangled Banner," and she stepped out a little from the crowd to face the young man as the orchestra sounded the first chord. She sang in a full, clear voice, but when the volunteers saw that as she sang the tears were streaming down her cheeks in spite of the brave voice they began to blubber with the others. If Miss Betty Carewe found them worth weeping for, they could afford to cry a little for themselves. Yet they joined the chorus manly and raised the roof with the ringing song, sending the flamboyant, proud old words thunderously to heaven.

That was not the last song of the night. General Trumble and Mr. Chenoweth had invited their young friends to attend, after the ball, a collation which they chose to call a supper, but which, to accord with the hour, might more aptly have been designated a breakfast. To afford a private retreat after the scene of this celebration they had borrowed the offices of Gray & Vanrevel, and Cralley hospitably announced that any guest was welcome to stay for a year or two, since probably neither of the firm would have need of an office for at least that length of time. Nine men gathered about the table which replaced Tom's workaday old desk—the two Chenoweths, Eugene Madrillion, Marsh, Jefferson Bareaud, the stout general, Tom Vanrevel, Cralley and Will Cummings—the editor coming in a little late, but rubbing his hands cheerfully over what he declared was to be the last column from his pen to rear its length on the Journal's front page for many a long day—a description of the presentation of the flag.

This convivial party made merry and tried to forget that most of them had "been mighty teary," as Marsh said, an hour earlier, while Mr. Chenoweth sat with his hand on his son's shoulder, unconsciously most of the time, apologetically removing it when he observed it. Many were the witticisms concerning the difference in rank henceforth to be observed between the young men, as Tom was now a major, Marsh a captain, Will Cummings a second lieutenant and the rest mere privates, except Cralley, who was a corporal. Nevertheless, though the board was festive, it was somewhat subdued and absent until they came to the toasts.

It was Tappingham who proposed Miss Betty Carewe. "I know Tom Vanrevel will understand—nay, I know he's man enough to join us," said Marsh as he rose. "Why shouldn't I say that we may hail ourselves as patriots, indeed, since at the call of our country we depart from the town which is this lady's home and at the trumpet's sound resign the gracious blessing of seeing her day by day, and why shouldn't we admit loyally and openly that it is her image alone which radiates in the hearts of most of us here?"

And no man arose to contradict that speech, which appears to have rung true, seeing that four of these present had proposed to her again that same evening.

"So I give you," cried Tappingham gallantly, "the health of Miss Betty Carewe, the loveliest rose of our bouquet! May she remember us when we come home!"

They rose and drank it with a shout. But Tom Vanrevel, not setting down his cup, went to the window and threw wide the shutters, letting in a ruddy shaft of the morning sun, so that as he stood in the strong glow he looked like a man carved out of red gold. He lifted his glass and toward the table and his companions while they stared at him, surprised, but toward the locusts of Carewe street.

"To Miss Betty Carewe," he said, "the finest flower of them all! May she remember those who never come home!"

And without pausing he lifted his rich baritone in an old song that had been vastly popular with the young men of Rouen ever since the night of Miss Betty's debut. They had hummed it as they went about their daily work, they had whistled it on the streets, they had drifted into dreams at night with the sound of it still chiming in their ears, and now with one accord as they stood gathered together for the last time in Rouen they joined Tom Vanrevel and sang it again. And the eyes of Cralley Gray rested very gently upon his best friend as they sang:

"To Miss Betty Carewe."

"Believe me, if all those endearing young charms
Which I gaze on so fondly today,
Were to change by tomorrow and fleet from my arms
Like fairy gifts fading away.
Thou wouldst still be adored as this moment thou art,
Let thy loveliness fade as it will,
And around the dear ruin each wish of my heart
Would intwine itself verdantly still."

CHAPTER XVII.

IT was the misfortune of Mr. Cummings' final literary offering to annoy one of the editor's friends. The Journal was brought to the new corporal at noon, while he was considering whether he should rise from his couch or sleep another hour. Reclining among his pillows, he glanced through Cummings' description with the subdued giggle he always had for the good William's style, but as his eye fell upon one paragraph he started, sat upright and proceeded to read the passage several times with anxious attention:

"Only two or three sources of regret occurred to mar the delight (in which young and old participated) of that festal and dazzling scene. One was the absence of Miss Fanchon Bareaud, one of the donors; another, that of Corporal Gray; a third was the excessive modesty of Major Vanrevel, who, although present at the time, refused to receive the ladies' sumptuous offering and insisted that Captain Marsh was the proper person to do the honors, to which the latter reluctantly, though gracefully, consented. Also, we were sorry that the major appeared in citizen's dress, as all were anxious to witness him in his uniform. However, in our humble judgment he will become it even better than the blue and buff."

Corporal Cralley Gray read this with a frown. He was not a vain man, but he was sensitive to the opinion of his fellows, and he knew that the omission of his name from the list of those present at the ball would be construed as a slight. He was not invited to the ball, and he knew why. Mrs. Tanberry had not forgiven him for his attitude toward her son, and Mrs. Tanberry was a power in Rouen society. Cralley was not a society man, but he was a man, and he knew that he had been slighted.

He was still frowning when Tom Vanrevel entered the room. Tom was in his uniform, and looked very handsome and manly in it. He had come to receive the congratulations of his friends upon his promotion, and he was surprised to find Cralley in bed.

"Why, what's the matter, old man?" he asked. "Are you sick?"

"No," said Cralley, "I'm not sick. I'm mad. Look at that!" He handed the paper to Tom, who read the paragraph and laughed.

"Why, you don't mind that, do you?" he said. "Cummings is a fool, and you know it. Besides, I'm sure he didn't mean anything."

"I know he didn't," said Cralley, "but I do mind it. I'm not a society man, and I don't want to be one, but I'm not going to be slighted. I'm as much a man as you are, and I'm as much a soldier as you are, and I'm not going to be slighted. I'm not going to stand it."

"Why, you're not going to fight a duel with Cummings, are you?" asked Tom, laughing.

"No, I'm not going to fight a duel with Cummings," said Cralley, "but I'm not going to be slighted. I'm not going to stand it."

"Well, I'm sure I don't know what you're going to do about it," said Tom, "but I'm sure you're not going to be slighted. I'm not going to stand it."

"I'm not going to be slighted," said Cralley, "and

Synopsis Of Canadian North-West HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba or the North-west Provinces, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded upon by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section, of 160 acres, more or less.

Entry may be made personally at the local land office for the district in which the land is situate.

Homestead Duties.—A settler who has been granted an entry for homestead is required to perform the conditions connected therewith under one of the following plans:—

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year during the term of three years.

(2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of any person who is eligible to make homestead entry under the provisions of this Act, resides upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for by such person as a homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence prior to obtaining patent may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

(3) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon the said land.

Application for patent should be made at the end of three years, before the Local Agent, Sub-Agent or the Homestead Inspector.

Before making application for patent the settler must give six months' notice in writing to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of his intention to do so.

W. W. CORY,
Deputy of the Minister of the Interior

Sealed tenders addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Lock and Dam" St. Andrew's Rapids, Red River, Man., will be received at this office until the 10th day of September, 1906, for the construction of a concrete Lock and Dam at St. Andrew's Rapids, Red River, Province of Manitoba.

Plans and specifications can be seen at this Department; at the offices of the Resident Engineer of Public Works, Ashdown Building, Winnipeg; J. G. Sing, Resident Engineer, Confederation Life Building, Toronto; Mr. Desbarats, Clerk of Works, Post Office, Montreal, and Mr. Ph. Beland, Clerk of Works, Post Office, Quebec.

Forms of tender can also be obtained at the above mentioned places.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures.

The Contractor will be required to conform to regulations to be made by the Governor General in Council, respecting the accommodation, medical treatment and sanitary protection of the workingmen employed on the work.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, made payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, for the sum of sixty-five thousand dollars ($65,000) which will be forfeited if the party tendering decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or if he fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
FRED. GELINAS,
Secretary.

Story Of The Two Vanrevels

"Hurrah, colonel!" exclaimed the youth, with a riotous fling of bare feet in the air. "I'll come down!"

"You'll do it!"

"Five!" he shouted, dancing upon the boards. "Five! I'll cross my heart to die I never hea' tell of you or ever knew they was sich a man in the world!"

Carewe bent over him. "No! Say, 'God strike me dead and condemn me eternally to the everlasting flames of hell if I ever tell!'"

This entailed quick sobriety, though only benevolence was in the face above him. The jig step stopped, and the boy pondered, frightened.

"Have I got to say that?"

Mr. Carewe produced a bank bill about which the boy beheld a halo. Clearly this was his day. Heaven showed its approval of his conduct by an outpouring of imperishable riches. And yet the oath misliked him. There was a savor of the demoniacal contract. Still that was to be borne and the price taken, for there fluttered the bill sum before his dazzled eyes. He took a deep breath. "'God strike me dead,'" he began slowly, "'if I ever'"—

"No. 'And condemn me to the everlasting flames of hell'"—

"Have I got to?"

"Yes."

"'And condemn me to—to the everlasting flames of—of hell if I ever tell!'"

He ran off, pale with the fear that he might grow up, take to drink and some day tell in his cups, but so resolved not to coquet with temptation that he went round a block to avoid the door of the Rouen House bar. Nevertheless the note was in his hand and the fortune in his pocket.

And Mr. Carewe was safe. He knew that the boy would never tell, and he knew another thing, for he had read the Journal, though it came no more to his house—he knew that Tom Vanrevel wore his uniform that evening and that, even in the dusk, the brass buttons on an officer's breast make a good mark for a gun steadied along the ledge of a window. As he entered the gates and went toward the house he glanced up at the window which overlooked his garden from the cupola.

CHAPTER XVIII.

CRAILEY was not the only man in Rouen who had been saying to himself all day that each accustomed thing he did was done for the last time. Many of his comrades went about with "Farewell, old friend," in their hearts, not only for the people, but for the usual things of life and the actions of habit, now become unexpectedly dear and sweet to know or to perform. So Tom Vanrevel, relieved of his hot uniform, loose as to collar, wearing a big dressing gown and stretched in a chair, watched the sunset from the western window of the dusty office, where he had dreamed through many sunsets in summers past, and now took his leave of this old habit of his in silence, with a long cigar, considering the chances largely against his ever seeing the sun go down behind the long wooden bridge at the foot of Main street again.

The ruins of the warehouses had been removed, and the river was laid clear to his sight. It ran between brown banks like a river of rubies, and at the wharf the small evening steamboat, ugly and grim enough to behold from near by, lay pink and lovely in that broad glow, tooting imminent departure, although an hour might elapse before it would back into the current.

The sun widened, clung briefly to the horizon and dropped behind the low hills beyond the bottom lands; the stream grew purple, then took on a luster of pearl as the stars came out, while rosy distances changed to misty blue; the chatter of the birds in the Main street maples became quieter and, through lessening little choruses of twittering, fell gradually to silence. And now the blue dusk crept on the town, and the corner drug store window lights threw mottled colors on the pavement. From the hall, outside the closed office door, came the sound of quick, light footsteps. It was Crailey going out, but Tom only sighed to himself and did not hail him. So these light footsteps of Crailey Gray echoed but a moment in the stairway and were heard no more.

It was the vain Mamie.

A few moments later a tall figure, wrapped from neck to heels in a gray cloak, rapidly crossed the mottled lights and disappeared into Carewe street. This cloaked person wore on his head a soldier's cap, and Tom, not recognizing him surely, vaguely wondered why Tappingham Marsh chose to muffle himself so warmly on a June evening. He noted the quick, alert tread as unlike Marsh's usual exit, but no suspicion crossed his mind that the figure might be that of his partner.

A rocket went up from the Rouen House, then another, followed by a salve of anvils and a rackety discharge of small arms, the beginning of a noble display of fireworks in celebration of the prospective victories of the United States and the utter discomfiture of the Mexicans whom the Rouen volunteers should reach the seat of war, an exhibition of patriotism which brought little pleasure to Mr. Vanrevel.

But over the noise of the street he heard his own name shouted from the stairway, and almost instantly a violent knocking assailed the door. Before he could bid the visitor enter, the door was flung open by a stout and excited colored woman who, at sight of him, threw up her hands in tremulous thanksgiving. It was the vain Mamie.

She sank into a chair and rocked herself to and fro, gasping to regain her lost breath. "Bless de good God 'lmighty, you ain' gone out!" she panted. "I run an' I run, an' I come so fas' I got stitches in de side f'um head to heel!"

Tom brought her a glass of water, which she drank between gasps.

"I nevah run so befo' enduin' my livin' days," she asserted. "You knows me, who I am an' whum I cum f'um, nigh's well's I knows who you is, I reckon, Maje' Vanrevel?"

"Yes, yes, I know. Will you tell me who sent you?"

"Miss Tanberry, suh, dat who sended me, an' in a venomous hurry she done de same!"

"Yes. Why? Does she want me?"

Mamie emitted a screech. "'Deed she mos' everlas'in'ly does not! Dat de ve'y exackindes' livin' t'ing she does not want!"

"Then what is it, Mamie?"

"Lemme git my bref, suh, an' you brole yo'ne whiles I tell you! She say to me, she say, 'Is you 'quainted Maje' Vanrevel, Mamie?' s' she, an' I up'n' snsuh, 'Not to speak wid, but dey ain' none on 'em I don' knows by sight, an' none betterer dan him,' I say. Den she say, she say, 'You run all de way an' fin' dat young man,' she say, s' she, 'an' if you don' git dah fo' he leave, er don' stop him on de way, den God 'lmighty fergive you!' she say. 'But you tell him f'um Jane Tanberry not to come nigh dis house or dis gyahden dis night! Tell him dat Jane Tanberry warn him he mus' keep outer Carewe's way ontel he safe on de boat tomorrer. Tell him Jane Tanberry beg him to stay in he own room dis night, an' dat she beg it ou her bented knees!' An' dis she say to me when I tole her what Nelson see in dat house dis evenin'. An' hyuh I is, an' hyuh you is, an' de blessed Jesus be thank', you is hyuh!"

Tom regarded her with a grave attention. "What made Mrs. Tanberry think I might be coming there tonight?"

"Dey's cur'ous goin's on in dat house, suh! De young lady, she ain' like herself. All de day long she wanduh up an' down an' roun' about. Miz Tanberry are a mighty guessifying woman, an' de minute I tell her what Nelse see she s'pec' you a-comin' an' dat de boss mos' pintedly preparin' fo' it!"

"Can you make it a little clearer for me, Mamie? I'm afraid I don't understand."

"Well, suh, you know dat ole man Nelson; he allays tell me ev'yt'ing he know an' ev'yt'ing he think he know, jass de same, suh. An' dat ole Nelse, he mos' 'sessful cull'd man in de worl' to crope roun' de house an' pick up de gossip an' git de 'fo' an' behine er what's goin' on. So 'twas dat he see de boss, when he come in to'des evenin', tek dat heavy musket offn' de racks an' load an' clean her, an' he do it wid a mighty bad look 'bout de mouf. Den he gone up to de cupoly an' lef' it dah an' den come down ag'in. Whiles dey all is eatin' he 'nounce th'ee time' dat he goin' he 'way endu'in' de evenin'. Den he gone out de front de' an' out de gates an' down de street. Den, suh, den, suh, 'tain't no mo'n a half 'n 'our ago, Nelse come to me an' say dat he see de boss come roun' de stable, keepin' close in by de shrubbery, an' crope in de ballroom winder, w'ich is close to de groun', suh. Nelse 'us a cleanin' he harness in de back ye'd, an' he let on not to see him, like. Miss Betty, she walkin' in her gyahden an' Mis Tanberry fan' on de po'ch. Nelse, he slip de house whuh de lights ain' lit an' stan' an' listen long time in de liberry at de foot er dem stahs, an' he hyuh dat man move, suh! Den Nelse know dat he done crope up to de cupoly room an'—an' dat he settin' dah, waitin'! Soze he come an' tole me, an' I beg Mis Tanberry come in de kitchen, an' I shet de do' an' I tole her. An' she sended me hyuh to you, suh. An' if you 'us a-goin', de good God 'lmighty mus' er kep' you ontel I got hyuh!"

"No, I wasn't going." Tom smiled upon her sadly. "I dare say there's a simpler explanation. Don't you suppose that if Nelson was right and Mr. Carewe really did come back it was because he did not wish his daughter and Mrs. Tanberry to know that—that he expected a party of friends, possibly, to join him there later?"

"What he doin' wid dat gun, suh? Nobody goin' play cyahds ner frow dice wid a gun, is dey?" asked Mamie as she rose and walked toward the door.

"Oh, that was probably by chance."

"No, suh!" she cried vehemently. "An' dem gelmun wouldn' play t'night no way; mos' on 'em goin' wid you tomorrer, an' dey sayin' goodby to de'r folks dis evenin', not gamblin'! Mis Tanberry 'll be in a state er mine ontel she hyuh f'um me, an' I goin' hurry back. You won' come dar, suh? I kin tell her dat you say you sutney ain' comin' nigh our neighborhood dis night?"

"I had not dreamed of coming, tell her, please. Probably I shall not go out at all this evening. But it was kind of you to come. Good night."

He stood with a candle to light her down the stairs, but after she had gone he did not return to the office. Instead, he went slowly up to his own room, glancing first into Crailey's—the doors of neither were often locked—to behold a chaos of disorder and unfinished packing. In his own chamber it was remarked for him to close the lids of a few big boxes and to pack a small trunk which he meant to take with him to the camp of the state troops and he would be ready for departure. He set about this task and, concluding that there was no necessity to wear his uniform on the steamboat, decided to place it in the trunk and went to the bed where he had folded and left it. It was not there; nor did a thorough search reveal it anywhere in the room. Yet no one could have stolen it, for when he had gone down to the office Crailey had remained on this floor. Mamie had come within a few minutes after Crailey went out, and during his conversation with her the office door had been open; no one could have passed without being seen. Also, a thief would have taken other things as well as the uniform, and surely Crailey must have heard; Crailey would—Crailey—

Then Tom remembered the figure in the long cloak and the military cap and with a sick heart began to understand. He had read the Journal, and he knew why Crailey might wish to masquerade in a major's uniform that night. If Miss Carewe read it, too, and a strange wonder rose in her mind, this and a word would convince her. Tom considered it improbable that the wonder would rise, for circumstances had too well established her in a mistake, trivial and ordinary enough at first, merely the confusing of two names by a girl new to the town, but so strengthened by every confirmation Crailey's wit could compass that she would no doubt only set Cummings' paragraph aside as a newspaper error. Still Crailey had wished to be on the safe side.

Tom sighed rather bitterly. He was convinced that the harlequin would come home soon, replace the uniform (which was probably extremely becoming to him, as they were of a height and figure much the same) and afterward in his ordinary dress would sally forth to spend his last evening with Fanchon. Tom wondered how Crailey would feel and what he would think about himself while he was changing his clothes, but he remembered his partner's extraordinary powers of mental adjustment, and for the first time in his life Vanrevel made no allowance for the other's temperament, and there came to him a moment when he felt that he could almost dislike Crailey Gray.

At all events, he would go out until Crailey had come and gone again, for he had no desire to behold the masquerader's return. So he exchanged his dressing gown for a coat, fastened his collar and had begun to arrange his cravat at the mirror when suddenly the voice of the old negress seemed to sound close beside him in the room:

"He's settin' dah—waitin'!"

The cravat was never tied. Tom's hands dropped to his sides as he started back from the staring face in the mirror. Robert Carewe was waiting, and Crailey— All at once there was but one vital necessity in the world for Tom Vanrevel—that was to find Crailey. He must go to Crailey even in Carewe's own house. He must go to Crailey!

He dashed down the stairs and into the street. The people were making a great uproar in front of the hotel, exploding bombs, firing muskets in the air, sending up rockets, and, rapidly crossing the outskirts of the crowd, he passed into Carewe street unnoticed. Here the detonations were not so deafening, though the little steamboat at the wharf was contributing to the confusion with all in her power, screeching simultaneously approval of the celebration and her last signals of departure.

At the first corner Tom had no more than left the sidewalk when he came within a foot of being ridden down by two horsemen who rode at so desperate a gallop that, the sound of their hoofs seem being lost in the uproar from Main street, they were upon him before he was aware of them.

He leaped back with an angry shout to know who they were that they rode so wildly. At the same time a sharp explosion at the foot of the street sent a red flare over the scene, a flash, gone with such incredible swiftness into renewed darkness that he saw the flying horsemen almost as equestrian statues illumined by a flicker of lightning, but he saw them with the same distinctness that lightning gives and recognized the former as Robert Carewe, and in the instant of that recognition knew what had happened to Crailey Gray, for he saw the truth in the ghastly face of his enemy.

Carewe rode stiffly, like a man frozen upon his horse, and his face was like that of a frozen man, his eyes glassy and not fixed upon his course, so that it was a deathly thing to see. Once, long ago, Tom had seen a man riding for his life, and he wore this same look. The animal bounded and swerved under Vanrevel's enemy in the mad rush down the street, but he sat rigid, bolt upright in the saddle, his face set to that look of coldness.

The second rider was old Nelson, who rode with body crouched forward, his eyeballs like shining porcelain set in ebony and his arm like a flail, cruelly lashing his own horse and his master's with a heavy whip.

"De steamboat!" he shouted hoarsely, bringing down the lash on one and then on the other. "De steamboat, de steamboat! Fo' God's sake, honey, de steamboat!"

They swept into Main street, Nelson leaning far across to the other's bridle and turning both horses toward the river, but before they had made the corner Tom Vanrevel was running with all the speed that was in him toward his enemy's house. The one block between him and that forbidden ground seemed to him miles long, and he felt that he was running as a man in a dream and at the highest pitch of agonized exertion, covering no space, but only working the air in one place, like a treadmill. All that was in his mind, heart and soul was to reach Crailey. He had known by the revelation of Carewe's face in what case he would find his friend, but as he ran he put the knowledge from him with a great shudder and resolved upon incredulity in spite of his certainty. All he let himself feel was the need to run, to run until he found Crailey, who was somewhere in the darkness of the trees about the long, low house on the corner. When he reached the bordering hedge he did not stay for gate or path, but with a loud shout hurled himself half over, half through, the hedge, like a bolt from a catapult.

Lights shone from only one room in the house, the library, but as he ran toward the porch a candle flickered in the hall, and there came the sound of a voice weeping with terror.

At that he called more desperately upon his incredulity to aid him, for the voice was Mrs. Tanberry's. If it had been any other than she who sobbed so hopelessly, she who was always steady and strong! If he could he would have stopped to pray now before he faced her and the truth, but his flying feet carried him on.

"Who is it?" she gasped brokenly from the hall. "Mamie, have you brought him?"

"It's I!" he cried as he plunged through the doorway. "It's Vanrevel!"

Mrs. Tanberry set the iron candlestick down upon the table with a crash.

"You've come too late!" she sobbed. "Another man has taken your death on himself."

He reeled back against the wall. "O God!" he said. "Crailey!"

"Yes," she answered. "It's the poor vagabond that you loved so well."

Together they ran through the hall to the library. Crailey was lying on the long sofa, his eyes closed, his head like a piece of carven marble, the gay uniform in which he had tricked himself out so gallantly open at the throat and his white linen stained with a few little splotches of red.

Beside him knelt Miss Betty, holding her lace handkerchief upon his breast. She was as white as he and as motionless, so that as she knelt there, immovable, beside him, her arm, like alabaster, across his breast, they might have been a sculptor's group. The handkerchief was stained a little, like the linen, and, like it, too, stained but a little. Near by on the floor stood a flask of brandy and a pitcher of water.

"You!" Miss Betty's face showed no change nor even a faint surprise as her eyes fell upon Tom Vanrevel, but her lips soundlessly framed the word, "You!"

Tom flung himself on his knees beside her.

"Crailey!" he cried in a sharp voice that had a terrible shake in it. "Crailey! Crailey, I want you to hear me!" He took one of the limp hands in his and began to chafe it, while Mrs. Tanberry grasped the other.

"There's still a movement in the pulse," she faltered.

"Still!" echoed Tom roughly. "You're mad! You made me think Crailey was dead! Do you think Crailey Gray is going to die? He couldn't, I tell you—he couldn't. You don't know him! Who's gone for the doctor?" He dashed some brandy upon his handkerchief and set it to the white lips.

"Mamie. She was here in the room with me when it happened."

"'Happened! Happened!'" he mocked her furiously. "'Happened' is a beautiful word!"

"God forgive me!" sobbed Mrs. Tanberry. "I was sitting in the library, and Mamie had just come from you, when we heard Mr. Carewe shout from the cupola room, 'Stand away from my daughter, Vanrevel, and take this like a dog!' Only that, and Mamie and I ran to the window, and we saw through the dusk a man in uniform leap back from Miss Betty—they were in the little open space near the hedge. He called out something and waved his hand, but the shot came at the same time, and he fell. Even then I was sure, in spite of what Mamie had said, I was as sure as Robert Carewe was, that it was you. He came and took one look—and saw—and then Nelson brought the horses and made him mount and go. Mamie ran for the doctor, and Betty and I carried Crailey in. It was hard work."

Miss Betty's hand had fallen from Crailey's breast where Tom's took its place. She rose unsteadily to her feet and pushed back the hair from her forehead, shivering convulsively as she looked down at the motionless figure on the sofa.

"Crailey!" said Tom, in the same angry, shaking voice. "Crailey, you've got to rouse yourself! This won't do; you've got to be a man! Crailey!" He was trying to force the brandy through the tightly clinched teeth. "Crailey!"

"Crailey?" whispered Miss Betty, leaning heavily on the back of a chair. "Crailey?" She looked at Mrs. Tanberry with vague interrogation, but Mrs. Tanberry did not understand.

"Crailey!"

It was then that Crailey's eyelids fluttered and slowly opened and his wandering glance, dull at first, slowly grew clear and twinkling as it rested on the ashy, stricken face of his best friend.

"Tom," he said feebly, "it was worth the price to wear your clothes just once!"

And then at last Miss Betty saw and understood, for not the honest gentleman whom every one except Robert Carewe held in esteem and affection, not her father's enemy, Vanrevel, lay before her with the death wound in his breast for her sake, but that other, Crailey Gray, the ne'er-do-weel and light o' love—Crailey Gray, wit, poet and scapegrace, the well beloved town scamp.

He saw that she knew, and as his brightening eyes wandered up to her he smiled faintly. "Even a bad dog likes to have his day," he whispered.

CHAPTER XIX.

WILL CUMMINGS had abandoned the pen for the sword until such time as Santa Anna should cry for quarter, and had left the office in charge of an imported substitute, but late that night he came to his desk once more to write the story of the accident to Corporal Gray, and the tale that he wrote had been already put into writing by Tom Vanrevel as it fell from Crailey's lips after the doctor had come, so that none might doubt it. No one did doubt it. What reason had Mr. Carewe to injure Crailey Gray? Only five in Rouen knew the truth, for Nelson had gone with his master, and, except Mamie, the other servants of the Carewe household had been among the crowd in front of the Rouen House when the shot was fired.

So the story went over the town how Crailey had called to say goodby to Mrs. Tanberry; how Mr. Carewe happened to be examining the musket his father had carried in 1812 when the weapon was accidentally discharged, the ball entering Crailey's breast; how Mr. Carewe, stricken with remorse and horror over this frightful misfortune and suffering too severe anguish of mind to remain upon the scene of the tragedy which his carelessness had made, had fled, attended by his servant, and how they had leaped aboard the evening boat as it was pulling out and were now on their way down the river.

And this was the story, too, that Tom told Fanchon, for it was he who brought her to Crailey. Through the long night she knelt at Crailey's side; his hand always pressed to her breast or cheek, her eyes always upward and her lips moving with her prayers, not for Crailey to be spared, but that the Father would take good care of him in heaven till she came. "I had already given him up," she said to Tom meekly in a small voice. "I knew it was to come, and perhaps this way is better than that—I thought it would be far away from me. Now I can be with him, and perhaps I shall have him a little longer, for he was to have gone away before noon."

The morning sun rose upon a fair world, gay with bird chatterings from the big trees of the Carewe place and pleasant with the odors of Miss Betty's garden, and Crailey, lying upon the bed of the man who had shot him, hearkened and smiled goodby to the summer he loved; and, when the day broke, asked that the bed be moved so that he might lie close by the window. It was Tom who had borne him to that room. "I have carried him before this," he said, waving the others aside.

Not long after sunrise, when the bed had been moved near the window, Crailey begged Fanchon to bring him a miniature of his mother which he had given her and urged her to go for it herself. He wanted no hands but hers to touch it, he said. And when she had gone he asked to be left alone with Tom.

PETERBOROUGH BRANCH

H. MARDLEY-WILMOT, MANAGER

THE POLICEMAN; HIS POWERS AND LIMITATIONS

A RECENT CASE AT JACKSON PARK

The fact stands undisputed that a very considerable portion of the public regard the policeman as a natural enemy. Victor Hugo apparently spoke for all generations when he placed in the mouth of Javert, the policeman in "Les Miserables," the remark that he "early discovered that society makes outcasts of two classes, those who attack it and those who protect it."

Evidences of the popular antipathy to policemen are afforded the observer at almost any hour of the day, often under amusing conditions. It remains the stock-in-trade of the cheap theatrical performance. The monologue artist may turn broadsides of wit upon his audience and fail to awaken a vestige of a smile; but let him turn loose a hoary joke in which the "cop" is sufficiently vilified and he is certain of a general guffaw in response.

No matter how popular a young man may be with the public at large, let him but be clothed in blue, helmeted and armed with a gun and "billy," and the erstwhile popularity departs. Friends who would gladly help him in his work were he a butcher, a baker, or a candlestick maker, will regard him askance if he requests aid in the sworn duty. A writer has truly stated that "not till a man has been victimized himself will he become the ready ally of a police officer." Exemplifications of this fact are legion, but perhaps it has never been more potently illustrated than in a recent case upon which members of the Montreal detective force were engaged.

Sympathy for the Offenders.

In the course of investigations regarding the midnight pillaging of a store the officers received information which led to the belief that a merchant in adjacent premises was possessed of knowledge—received legitimately—which had a direct bearing upon the identity of the robbers. Though an urgent appeal was made to him by the authorities he refused to divulge the information. It was pointed out to him that his duty to his neighbour and to society generally demanded that he reveal the facts. The assertion that he would probably not appreciate such an attitude on the part of others were he the victimized person, was greeted with a smile. The force of the argument was impressed upon him some three days later, when he appeared before the wicket at the detective headquarters with a request for assistance to apprehend a gang of thieves who had looted his premises on the preceding night.

One of the shrewdest of American police chiefs thus presents the method of procedure in successful police work: "Attention precedes detection; detection precedes detention and detention precedes protection." That is to say that the police officer must give attention before he can detect the criminal—and so on throughout the sequence. The words may be said to indicate in a succinct way what may be termed the cardinal, progressive and logical virtues of the police officer from Alpha to Omega. With the arrest and the procuring of evidence the duties of the police department are at an end.

Singularly enough the popular scorn for the policeman does not have its origin in the worst elements of human nature; but the reverse. The sympathy that goes out to the prisoner at the bar is developed simply by the fact that he is a prisoner; the mob does not analyze or reason; it feels—unless, perchance, it is about to inflict summary punishment at the nearest lamp post or tree.

Not Looking for Trouble.

An impression prevails in many parts of the land that the police officer is always seeking trouble; some individual cases may bear out the assumption. It is true, but a little reflection will serve to show how largely personal tact and diplomacy enter into the desirable performance of a policeman's duty. It can be governed by no written code. In certain directions only, rigid restrictions may be applied; in others hard and fast limitations would be an absurdity. The individual policeman must be allowed scope for the exercise of his judgment, a personal responsibility being, of course demanded. A wide range of variety naturally obtains in the police systems of various countries. In Canada, for instance, the regulations have a much greater elasticity than in Great Britain, where no flexibility in the handling in the individual case of law breaking is provided.

The treatment of the detected offender in all cases is according to rigid standard. A considerably greater latitude is allowed the police officer in Canada and the United States; his personal judgment is called into play and to some extent the record and standing of the offender is considered. To the average democratic Canadian mind, the more elastic system will commend itself. Who more competent to sift and weigh the different issues and considerations of a complicated case than the trained head of a police department? His conclusions are drawn by a personal observation, not only of the details of the crime but of the atmosphere in which it was committed. Under a written course of procedure little distinction can be made between the case hardened criminal and the thoughtless offender whose public conviction would mean social disgrace, and, in most cases, rob him of the self-respect which is a safeguard against a descent into a life of crime. Cases of this nature are of constant occurrence. In other respects there is a wide divergence between the police systems in vogue in Canada and in the Mother Country. The police daily respond to many calls for advice and assistance which are entirely beyond the purview of their official duties. Whenever it is at all practicable the request is always courteously complied with. In England, however, "duty"—neither more nor less—is demanded and permitted by the regulations.

When a Policeman Cannot Arrest.

Much popular misconception exists with regard to the powers and limitations of the police officer. It is, perhaps, not a matter of surprise, when the elasticity of his working orders is considered. A great diversity of opinion, for instance, appears to exist concerning the scope of the policeman's authority to arrest—particularly without a warrant. In this as in many other departments of his official duties, much depends upon circumstances.

Broadly speaking, a policeman will not apprehend without a warrant persons committing a misdemeanour which is not attended by a breach of the peace, though he may arrest, if he deems advisable, anyone committing or attempting to commit, a felony or a misdemeanour in his presence. Under these heads of course, fall practically all the offences in the calendar. Among the most common may be mentioned vagrancy; begging without a certificate signed by a magistrate or clergyman within the preceding six months; indecent exposure of person; disorderly conduct and creating a disturbance upon the street; mutilation of signs; lying or loitering in fields or in public highways, or sleeping in exposed positions without being able to give a satisfactory explanation; assisting at or taking part in prize or animal fights; assault or other breaches of the peace. In every case the arrest to be valid in the eyes of the law must be summary or if not possible on the spot, an immediate pursuit. An arrest may be made in the same manner upon information received, if there is reasonable ground for believing that the arrested party has been concerned in a crime, and the informant is prepared to make an affidavit as to the correctness of his assertions. Considerable is left to the personal judgment of the police officer in arrests of this kind; he is not permitted to act upon any vague or loose suspicion, but should an arrest be made under "justifiable" circumstances he will not be liable for the consequences.

On the other hand an arrest without a warrant is not permitted in the case of an offence committed out of his presence; nor is an arrest upon the strength of information contained in a telegram allowable unless a bona fide of its genuineness is secured. The first duty of a police officer is, of course, to prevent the commission of crime, and considerable latitude is allowed in the apprehension of persons whose intentions appear from circumstances to be criminal; persons carrying dangerous weapons, or house breaking instruments are naturally open to suspicion in this connection. In cases where goods are carried in a manner to lead to the suspicion that they were stolen an examination is authorized.

Powers of arrest by warrant are much easier to define. The officer charged with the execution of a warrant may apprehend the offender within the district in which the jurisdiction of the issuing magistrate extends, or within surrounding districts to the extent of seven miles; beyond this the endorsation of a local magistrate must be secured; a warrant issued for a breach of the city by-laws can in no case, however, be executed beyond the city limits.

What is Arrest.

Modes of arrest differ, the most common being the seizing of the prisoner by the arm and the utterance of the words, "You are my prisoner," or "I arrest you." These words, however, do not constitute an arrest; some restriction of the liberty of the party apprehended is necessary. Actually touching the body is not in every case necessary; where a prisoner places himself under guard an arrest may be considered to have been made. The powers of a police officer to demand assistance from bystanders, when necessary, in making arrest, are well known. Undue violence is not permitted. In conveying prisoners to the police station policemen are instructed to avoid crowded thoroughfares as much as possible.

Confusion arises almost daily from the statements made by prisoners at the time of, and immediately after, their arrest. A caution to the effect that any such statement will be used against them in evidence is always given. Any statement obtained by the police by threat or inducement is inadmissable as evidence later, though voluntary statements may be used if at once written down. Prisoners charged with a criminal offence are searched at the station, while those who are drunk are relieved of all weapons or arms.

Forcible entrance to buildings by the breaking of doors is a portion of the police officer's duty which requires delicate discrimination; only in extreme cases may such a proceeding be resorted to, and then only when an immediate arrest is necessary. Before forcibly entering a building in such a manner he is required to declare his business, demand admission and wait a reasonable time for the opening of the door. He is empowered to enter in this way on a warrant or in levying a fine, in which the penalty reverts to the Crown; also when in pursuit of a person who has committed a crime. An outcry of "murder," or the certain knowledge that a violent affray is in progress within are also sufficient justification. A police officer who, in pursuit of an offender, enters a house which is not the latter's property, is liable for trespass should he not be found within. Constables, needless to say, seldom expose themselves by resorting to such extreme measures unless well advised.

A policeman is empowered to eject trespassers on request of a master of a house; in case the intruder maintains that he has a right to remain a warrant must be secured.

Gambling joints may be entered forcibly, if necessary, upon the authority of the mayor or a magistrate. On such occasions searches may be made, paraphernalia seized, and all persons found within placed under arrest.

Force May Be Used.

Houses of ill-fame may be entered in executing an order, or in restoring peace within. Force may be used, if necessary in entering any hotel, restaurant, saloon or store, where a game of chance or a cock-fight is in progress; likewise, unlicensed places, open to the police, where ~~[illegible]~~ believed liquor is offered for sale.

In his daily rounds the minor disorders of the street are the greatest source of trouble to the policeman. Their name is legion, and many warnings in consequence, are given. Arrests are necessary in a very small percentage of cases. He is authorized to interfere in cases of assault, or affray, and to ~~[illegible]~~ on the spot, if absolutely necessary the disturbers. When it does occur in his presence, however, he not empowered to take anyone in custody unless to prevent a rone of the affair. In extreme cases officer may break open a door in quit of an offender. Drunks, unless ~~[illegible]~~ or unduly noisy, are liable to arrest.

In summer the parks ~~[illegible]~~ necessitate considerable extra watch ~~[illegible]~~ ering is not permitted in the late hours of the night.

The "Peek-a-Boo Bug" Is The Newest Pest

An Ill-manered Insect Which Feeds on the Pink Oases in a Wilderness of Shirt Waist.

Ansonia, Aug. 17.—The "peek-a-boo bug" has made its appearance in this city and neighbourhood. This does not mean that the fashion of wearing peek-a-boo waists has just reached here; that came the first time the mercury climed high the thermometrical ladder.

The "peek-a-boo bug" is an insect, not a fad. The young women of Ansonia have given the bug its name because it delights to feed on the many oases of pink flesh that dot the deserts of peek-a-boo waists and open-work stockings.

The bug is as voracious as ill-mannered. It has already interrupted three proposals of marriage. Just when the lovely young woman was about to murmur "Yes", she shrieked "Ouch!" and tried to grab her shoulder blade or her ankle bone.

Physicians have treated many young women whom the peek-a-boo bug has bitten. All the doctors can do is to prescribe soothing lotions, and oftenest they have prescribed in the dark, so to speak. The doctors have not been able to classify the "peek-a-boo bug," yet they give it a scientific name, said a prominent physician to-night:—

"I have seen many bites by this new bug; many other bites I have not seen, but prescribed for. The insect looks like an ordinary house-fly, but isn't. The virus it deposits is very poisonous, for the swelling that follows its bite is great and does not yield to treatment quickly. The flesh around the bite becomes hard and the skin leathery but painful."

Bradford, and, describing articles in the dead man's pocket, which were not mentioned to the police, she claimed the body. The Irish woman retained a solicitor to establish her claim.

A determined attempt to wreck the East Coast express from Edinburgh to London, one of the fastest trains in the kingdom, was frustrated by the intervention of a heavy goods train, recently. At Beltonford, a place between East Linton and Dunbar, Haddington, the goods train ran into a heavy obstruction on the line which proved to be a large piece of timber, on the top of which two huge stones had been placed. The construction was right on the verge of a bridge, which crosses the road at a great height, and if the fast passenger train had ran into it the consequences would most likely have been terrible. As it was, the heavy guard of the goods engine was broken.

Shortly after her husband, a gardener at Neilston, Renfrewshire, left the home recently, Martha Strang entered the room where her three little girls were sleeping, with a razor in her hand, and is stated to have attacked the youngest child, aged six years. The eldest sister awoke, and seeing what was happening, cried out, 'Oh, mother, don't do that," but the woman then drew the razor across her own throat and died almost immediately. The children ran from the house, the youngest bleeding profusely from wounds in her throat, and she died in a few minutes.

A novel prosecution under Workshops and Factories Act, the first of the kind in Scotland, came before Sheriff Mackenzie in Glasgow recently. John Kane, master of the steamship Templemore, was charged with failing to provide secure passage between the shore and the ship at the general terminus, Glasgow, for labourers engaged in loading coal. The case was the first of the kind under the new dock regulations. On going on board the vessel by means of a ladder, a dock labourer missed his footing in consequence of a broken rung, and fell between the ship and the quay, and was drowned.

The other day the East of Scotland Otter Hounds, after a nine hours' hunt, succeeded in killing the largest otter ever killed by hounds in Scotland, and only beaten in weight once in the whole history of otter hunting. He weighed close on 32 lbs., and is only beaten by the 33-pounder killed many years ago by the old Kendal pack in the lake district.

The Glasgow Health Convener recently reported to the Glasgow Corporation the prevalence of the mysterious disease styled "spotted fever." Since March 69 cases had been treated in hospital, of whom 48 had died, besides 12 others who had not been conveyed to hospital. The deaths were all of children under 10 years of age.

The unusual case of a child being poisoned by its own blood was notified at Leith, Midlothian, recently. Owing to a malformation of the heart, the valves did not operate properly, with the result that the pure blood which was being pumped into the veins was poisoned by impure blood returning from the child's system. This led to gradual poisoning.

IRELAND

Mr. J. J. O'Mahony, D.C., Knockavorneon, County Cork, owes his life to an Irish terrier, the property of a rural postman. Mr. O'Mahony was recently fiercely attacked by a bull, which knocked him down and made several attempts to gore him. Two men, who were mowing in an adjacent field, came to his assistance, and notwithstanding their combined efforts, the enraged animal, bellowing loudly, again made a dash at O'Mahony, when, fortunately, the terrier came on the scene. The dog immediately tackled the bull, and, urged on by the men, it worried the animal so successfully that Mr. O'Mahony and the other men had ample time to escape.

The shortest route for the American mails to London has been inaugurated by the opening, a few days ago, of the Fishguard and Rosslare Harbours and Railway. This opening completes a large enterprise of the Great Western Railway Company of England and the Great Southern and Western Railway of Ireland. New turbine steamers will cover the distance of 54 nautical miles between Fishguard and Rosslare well within three hours. There will be accommodation for ocean liners at the new harbour at Fishguard, and by making this the first port of call from America passengers and mails from New York will reach London about six hours earlier than at present.

A tale of terrible suffering at sea was narrated at Queenstown recently by the crew of the steamship Eva, who were rescued from starvation in mid-Atlantic, by the steamship, Vandalia. The Eva, which was voyaging from Monte Video to Havre experienced adverse winds, and being heavily coated with barnacles made very slow progress, with the result that all the provisions and water were exhausted. Having been for several days without food, the crew were finally obliged to eat the vessel's cat and dog. Distress signals were unavailing and Captain Anderson and his eight men were so weakened by starvation that they were unable to work the vessel. The hapless men had practically abandoned all hope of living when the Vandalia saw the distress signals. The men were then lying scattered on the deck almost presenting the appearance of skeletons, many of them being too feeble to speak.

While his comrades were chatting in a room at Ballycastle, County Mayo, Police Constable Casey suddenly darted into their midst and began to belabour them with a heavy pair of tongs. It soon became evident the man was mad, and a rush was made to seize him, but he sprang towards one of the windows. A policeman who tried to prevent him from jumping out was carried through the opening by the infuriated man, who, while on the ground and suffering from loss of blood, as the result of injuries from the broken glass, struggled frantically with the other policemen. Casey had a large gaping wound in the vicinity of the jugular vein, but every effort to staunch the flow of blood was frustrated by the maniac, who tore off the bandages. He died from exhaustion before medical aid could be secured.

MARTYRDOM DESCRIBED

Kingston Man tells how he Suffered and How he was Released.

"For years a martyr," is how Chas. H. Powell of 105 Raglan Street, Kingston, begins his story. "A martyr to chronic constipation, but now I am free from it and all through the use of Dr. Leonhardt's Anti-Pill."

Many who are now suffering from this complaint will be glad to learn from Mr. Powell's story that there is hope for the most stubborn case. He continues: "I was induced to try Anti-Pill by reading the testimony of some one who had been cured of constipation by it. I suffered for eighteen years and had taken tons of stuff recommended as cures, but which made me worse rather than better. Doctors told me there was no cure for me."

Dr. Leonhardt's Anti-Pill is for sale by all Druggists or by The Wilson-Fyle Co., Limited, Niagara Falls, Ont.

Mr. Powell will verify every word of these statements. 503

Berlin Swells Outdo The Newport "400"

Berlin, Aug. 18.—The fashionable swimming club at Meissen, Saxony, has just given a remarkable banquet at the swimming baths on the river Elbe. The newspaper Bohemia gives details.

The president of the club, a stout and middle-aged banker, was recently presented with a loving cup by the club and decided to celebrate the event with the most unique entertainment possible. So he sent out invitations for the banquet. All invited came in swimming costume. A floating table, raised a few inches above the water, occupied the centre of the bath. It was covered with a damask cloth and silver and glass utensils and decorated with flowers. A waiter in the regulation black coat swam about showing the guests their places and later serving dishes and pouring out champaigne. Guests swam around the bath, occasionally treading water at the table while helping themselves or eating. The affair was a great success.

She Caught On.

THE fashionable girl had accepted him, and the young man was wondering how far his $30 a week would go. "You must remember that life is not all golf and tennis," he murmured. "Why, of course it isn't," she responded, brightly. "There's boating, and coaching, and bridge, and ever so many things."

Goldsmith Who First Curved Ball A Bartender

F. E. Goldsmith, who first used the curve in professional baseball, and who has been in the limelight of the fans since away back in the '70s, has been located. He's tending bar at Albuquerque, N. M.

Fred. left Detroit two years ago to umpire the big territorial games and he is still there. For many years he was in and out of Detroit where he is well known. He tended bar in several places here and ran a cigar stand.

In 1870 "Goldie" used to hang around the Yale practice grounds, Hamilton Avery, then pitching for Yale, taught him how to curve a ball. "Goldie" used the curve for the first time in a professional game [illegible] a year or two later and the way his team walked away with the tournament was a caution.

About that time scientists at Brooklyn were declaring that the curve was impossible. "It's against all rules of philosophy," they said.

About the same time "Goldie" was twirling the ball for London, Ont., and that aggregation pulled down the world's championship three consecutive years—'76, '77, '78.

"From the Londons I went to Springfield, Mass., then pitched for the Troy, New Yorkers, in the National," says "Goldie". "The next five years—'81, '82, '83, '84 and '85—found me with the Chicago White Stockings. I finished up with the curve in Baltimore and transformed myself into an umpire, remaining in that capacity with the American association until a few years ago."—Detroit News.

Marvelous Magic Of India Described

How a Fakir, by a Single Command, Fastened a Dozen British Officers so Firmly to Their Chairs That They Could Not Budge Without Permission.

Feats of Hindu magic have taxed the logic of science. Many wonderful stories have been told, but none more wonderful than those related in the Sunday Magazine by James Welton Gray, who quotes the experiences of the late Captain John Gladwin Jebb of the English army.

Captain Jebb said that, with a dozen fellow officers, he was once sitting at mess in India in a room 25 feet long and 15 feet wide, lighted by a row of 20 gas jets along the cornice. A fakir appeared soliciting alms. The officers promised the fakir liberal contributions if he would give them a novel exhibition of magic.

He lifted his left arm and pointed his finger at a gas jet in the corner of the cornice; after a moment it went out. He pointed at the next one, and it was extinguished also; and at the next, and the next. In this way he had soon made the circuit of the room, and there now remained only one gas jet alight. By that time, as you may suppose, we had become a good deal interested. The man stopped to rub his left arm lightly with his right hand for a few moments; then he pointed at the final gas jet, and out it went, leaving us in total darkness.

"Do the sahibs wish the lights restored?" asked the voice of the fakir out of the darkness. We intimated that we did, and immediately the light which had been last extinguished appeared again, and over its illumination we saw the fellow in the same attitude as before, except that this time it was with his right finger instead of with his left that he was pointing. To make a short story of it, he re-lighted every burner in reverse order until the whole 20 were going again. "Now are the sahibs satisfied?" he asked.

They were, of course, astounded, but they feigned indifference in the hope of seing further wonders.

He seemed a little annoyed; but after standing with his hands folded in front of him and his head bent on his breast for a minute, he looked up, and his eyes met those of every man in the room, one after the other. He then said, in slow, measured tones, "No sahib may leave his chair," and turned round and walked out of the room.

We laughed, and supposed that he had given us up as too sceptical for his purposes. We resumed our conversation, and in 10 minutes had forgotten all about him. Then one of us, General Gataore — though he wasn't a general then—said that he must be getting back to his quarters, and started to rise from his chair; but after seeming to struggle for a moment, he settled back, and his face turned red. "What the deuce is the matter?" he exclaimed. "I can't get up!"

Some of us laughed; but I remembered the last words of the fakir, and made an effort to stand. I could not stir from my seat. Lieut. Cholmondeley, my neighbour on the left, saw my predicament, and tried to get up himself. He was pinned to his place, just as Gataore and I were.

At that, every man caught the idea, and for several minutes there was as queer a scene as ever I saw — twelve strong young fellows striving their best to get up out of their chairs, and every one of them as helpless as a paralytic.

The sensation, as I felt it, was an odd one—something like one's failure to remember a name or a word that is on the tip of the tongue, only this was a physical instead of a mental disability. I could not bring power to bear at the right point. By and by we all gave it up.

We had sat there a good half-hour before the old rascal's head appeared round the door post, and he asked, in his whining voice, 'Do the sahibs require any other experiment?"

No, we had had enough; and he went away with more plunder in his wallet than he had ever collected at one time before. All he did was to say, "The sahibs may now rise," and we were all on our feet in an instant but it was worth the money. Of course, the thing can be explained on the theory of hypnotism; but whatever it was, it was impressive.

Frank Woods Succeeds Peter Small.

Toronto, Aug. 17—At a Cabinet meeting of the Ontario Government yesterday afternoon, Frank W. Woods, an exalderman of this city, was appointed to be bailiff of the tenth Division Court of York vacant by the death of Peter Small.

Twelve Killed by Explosion.

Espaso, Texas, Aug. 17.—Information was received yesterday from Chihuhua, Mexico, that twelve men were killed and twenty injured, many of whom will die, as a result of a dynamite explosion there Wednesday afternoon.

Who Gets the Most Out of Life?

Not the wealthiest, not the most learned, nor the idler—but the man who has good health and works for his living. This truth is trite, but not trivial.

Every man should guard his health as his most valuable possession. The more so because health is easier to retain than regain.

Keep your grip on health by regular exercise, reasonable care in eating and requisite sleep. Take Beecham's Pills occasionally, to tone the stomach and keep the liver and bowels in good working order. And don't worry.

BALKANS TROUBLED AGAIN.

Bulgarian and Anti-Greek Disturbances Assuming a Serious Phase.

Sofia, Bulgaria, Aug. 17.—The anti-Greek movement in Roumania and especially in Bulgaria, is daily assuming greater proportions and threatens to become a serious danger to peace. The Bulgarian Government, it appears, will be forced to take exceptional measures to terminate the disturbances which are due to the anti-Greek feeling with which the entire population of the principality is imbued.

As Viewed In London.

London, Aug. 17.—The reports received at the Foreign Office here fully confirm the seriousness of the trouble between the Greeks and the Bulgarians, but the officials look upon the disturbance more as tribal than as national, the belief being that the Bulgarian Government is making every effort to prevent clashes, though, thus far, without great success.

New Household Science Faculty.

Toronto, Aug. 17.—The university governors met yesterday and established the new faculty of household science as follows:

Miss L. A. Laird was appointed associate professor of household science, and Miss C. C. Benson associate professor of physiological chemistry.

The following sessional appointments were also made in connection with the new faculty. Miss A. M. Edie, lecturer; Miss Beatrice Tamblyn and Miss O. Patterson, instructors; Miss M. Proctor, laboratory assistant; Dr. Amyet, lecturer.

In the biological department the following permanent appointments were made: Dr. Edmund Walker, lecturer in zoology; R. B. Thomson, lecturer in botany.

Thief Shoots a Galician.

Brandon, Man., Aug. 17.—A serious and probably fatal shooting affray took place at Kemnay early yesterday morning, and a Galician is not expected to live. An unknown man entered the boarding car, the object being robbery, but some noise awoke one of the sleeping Galicians, who got out of his bunk and walked towards the door. The thief seeing he was discovered, sprung at the Galician and pulling a revolver shot him through the breast and then made his escape in the darkness.

Fruit Growers Prosperous.

Toronto, Aug. 17.—Hon. Mr. Monteith, who attended at Grimsby Park on the occasion of Farmers' Day, yesterday, before leaving spoke warmly of the prospects of fruit growers in the province. The association meetings which he has attended indicate the best spirit as existing among the growers. Much satisfaction is expressed over the establishment of the Experimental Farm, presented by M. S. Rittenhouse of Chicago.

Cigar Imperils Hotel Guests.

Charlottetown, P. E. I., Aug. 17—The Acadia Hotel at Tracadie, one of the well-known north side summer resorts, was burned to the ground Wednesday night at midnight. The fire started in the piazza, where a cigar had dropped between the planks. Almost all of the sixty guests were in bed at the time, and many of them lost all their effects, including considerable sums in cash.

To See England and France.

Ottawa, Aug. 17.—Sir Frederick Borden will sail for England on the Virginian on Aug. 31, and will be absent six weeks. While in England he will meet the representatives of the Coventry Ordnance Co., which is contemplating the erection of a factory in Canada. Sir Frederick will spend some time in the north of France before his return.

Possibilities of Peat.

Ottawa, Aug. 17.—At an early date Hon. Wm. Templeman proposes to give his attention to the possibilities connected with the peat deposits of Canada. Shortly before the close of Parliament, a petition signed by many members of Parliament and others, urged that the mines branch be instructed to make a thorough investigation.

Wm. Anderson is Dead.

Toronto, Aug. 17.—W. N. Anderson, whose death occurred yesterday morning, was assistant treasurer of the province until last year when he retired, after twenty-seven years' service. Prior to this he had been general manager of the Bank of Commerce. He is survived by three children.

Walter Barwick's Estate.

Toronto, Aug. 17.—The estate of the late Walter Barwick, K. C., will total about $90,000. As there was no will, one-third of the estate as probated is payable to Mrs. Barwick, also claim has been made against the railway for a large sum.

Mr. J. H. Scriver Replies To The Nurse Letters

In Reference to the Question of Hoop Nets—He Offers Some Contributions to the Controversy in Respect to the Seized Nets.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Sir,—We have read Mr. Nurse's "charges" against Inspector Johnston, of June 11th; his "Something More" of July 5th and his "Arguments Against the use of Hoopnets" of July 19th. We would have replied earlier but for lack of time. Personally, we do not know the Nurses, nor do we wish to enter into any controversy, but for his false insinuations and charges we would have kept silent.

As to chargee made against Overseer Johnson, relating to a petition, said petition did no. ask for license for Mr. Jas. Wedlock and was circulated four months before Mr. Johnston was appointed.

As to his "Something More" the writer is interested. The Hoopnet in question was stolen from him a year last April and is his property. The thieves very likely set it near Duck Creek last January. Here it was discovered, lifted, identified, reset, and reported to Overseer Johnston. Acting on his information we went in search of net and located it in Bruce Johnston's drive house. If Nurse tells the truth. Mr. George Nurse admits having stored it there. Our deductions are from "Sensational Charges" and "Something More", that the party or parties who stole the net set it, that the same person lifted and stored it in Mr. B. Johnston's drive house and the yarn about Mr. McAllister saying "he was justified in seizing the net" is only a red herring. If Mr. Nurse reported to Overseer McAllister, it was his duty to go and seize the net and not tell Mr. Nurse he was justified in so doing. If Mr. McAllister ordered Mr. Nurse to seize the net, why did he not take it to his own place or to Mr. McAllister.

As to license, I did fish on the grounds I applied for and from the papers I hold that such would be forthcoming. I felt justified in so doing Mr. McAllister did not order me to lift my nets after examining my letters or any other Overseer. When the time was up, I lifted nets and went to the river, as an experiment, under the supervision of the Overseer and employ of another party.

As for catching 'lunge, we never said I did not, but I challenge Mr. Nurse to give a single instance that I appropriated any or any game fish was not immediately returned to the water as the law requires or any "person visiting us" was ever given to understand "his presence was not wanted". We now come to his "Arguments against the use of Hoopnets" which is on a par with his other arguments. Our deductions are, he is howling to cover the beam in his own eye, by trying to make out that there is a mote in the other fellow's. I am able to inform Mr. Nurse, I never had to get up a petition to secure a license, but did circulate one to counteract the false reports spread abroad by such characters as himself. I never approached any person with such language as given out by Mr. Nurse, and such petition only asked that "Hoopnet License be issued to a few reliable residents, to catch such fish as destroyed the spawn of game fish". I have seen and turned out quite a few 'lunge and only in one instance did I see a fish marked, but have caught them on trawl far worse injured.

We here say, no net is as harmless as a hoopnet. The legal size of meshes is 2 1-2 inch extension measure. Very small perch and suckers, sometime do get caught in the leaders and 'lunge, if small enough, is no exception. As for catfish not going into drown lands, etc., some of the best catches, as soon as ice will permit, are made in the back drown lands, with net two or three rods from shore and far end of leader on shore. The farther back, the better. 'Lunge do not come into marsh or drown land first, nor does it take them or any other fish a month to mate and spawn. We never saw a 'lunge spawn in a net. The spawn is deposited about last week in April or first week in May, by which time all nets have to be out of the water. We are curious to know how Mr. Nurse knows so much about hoopnets. Did he ever hold a license? My nets were interfered with frequently as well as the one stolen. As for Mr. McAllister's story about coming "across countless numbers of dead game fish in the vicinity where these nets were set, if true, were never in these nets. Only one lunge, and no more than a dozen bass found their way into the nets set within his territory; not one of which was injured when returned to the water. Suckers were also returned to the water as there was no demand for them.

The "party" fishing in the river had nothing to do with the party from Peterborough, coming down. They simply raised their nets in their presence to show how the fish got into them and I did not know they were coming until Monday morning on our way to lift the nets. No one explained to them about how they were eating up the game fish spawn, nor did anyone "tell them that no game fish of any size were got into the nets". We did that morning lift a net with a large turtle in front tunnel—no unusual thing. Each net has two tunnels, the front eight inches square, the back one four inches. No turtle of any size ever passes the back tunnel. The three nets lifted in the presence of the Peterborough party were untouched from Saturday until Monday between 2 and 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Mr. Nurse's insinuations that the draw strings had been tightened is as "slimy" as all his other charges and statements.

"It is a noticeable fact that the fishery overseer, wherever these nets are in use, is on friendly terms with them". He soon learns he has nothing to fear from them. They have too much at stake and his time is better occupied looking after men of the Nurse type. We confess the press is of little use in a neighbourhood where one or two unprincipled gossiping liars reside. Men who are a law unto themselves, fish in closed seasons, set gill across entrances into marshes, kill fish in out-of-the-way places, sometimes get caught and fined, then howl and try to make out some one else is as bad or worse than themselves. Yes, these are the fellows to watch, whether farmers or not. Is Overseer Johnston the only one who ever fined a Nurse? During the season of 1904 one hundred hoop net licenses were issued and not one charge of any kind was made against any of these fishermen. How is that Mr. Nurse, for "fish Mongrels". We challenge Mr. Nurse to prove his charges and insinuations. His failure will prove he is a faithful disciple of that universal personage known as the "father of liars".

It may be of interest for the public to know that licensed fishermen are hedged in on every side. If he is caught appropriating any game fish to his own use, giving to others, bartering, or shipping, his license may be cancelled, become subject to a fine of from $10 to $50 and his boats and nets confiscated or destroyed. Should one have suspicions that he is dishonest, all he has to do is to notify the local Overseer, or the Department, with his proof and any barrel or box containing same be detained and examined anywhere between shipping point and destination, within the province. What has become of the game fish? There are guides who find plenty and others fail. We fail to see how they can be plentiful. Forty years ago there was plenty, but only the few settlers, and Indians fished, with inferior baits and boats. To-day hundreds of tourists fish with superior tackle and boats to every one who fished then. For every hour fished then, weeks are occupied now from morning to night, boats may be seen trawling. How many guides say to their employer, "We have our limit and must quit". How can they increase with such wholesale slaughter?

That catfish destroy the spawn of game fish we know from examination of stomachs during spawning season. We have good reason to believe that hoopnets do not injure game fish if properly attended or any other fish. We know mudcats and bass to be in a lost net from 4th December to 28th March and come out fresh and plump as if at large. We know of a 'lunge and three bass to be in a hoopnet, frozen in the ice from 15th December to the 10th March and when liberated showed no marks of injury or lessening of vitality. There are several reasons why 'lunge in Rice Lake, do not go so far back in marshes as heretofore. Since the slueeways were built in the Hastings dam the water has never been allowed to rise so high and this keeps them out. The cold winters of 1903-04 made a great depth of ice. In the springs following, great blocks of ice carrying acres of rice beds with mud out into the lake, distributing them far and near so that some of the best fishing grounds become a mass of rice and weeds. This too, has changed the resort of smaller fish. Fresh water fish are located in their habits, only when led by instinct during spawning season, after which they resort to their feeding grounds at various seasons of the year. Why should fish be different in their habits from the fowls of the air or man. Are not all governed by the same universal laws. The Department is fully aware that some of the best waters for angling have been destroyed by the increase of mudcats and suckers, while they have been partly restored by removal. With the annual deposit of silt, which aids the widening of the rice beds, the day is not far distant when there will be more mud and rice beds than open water in Rice Lake. In these grounds the mudcat finds plenty food and his increase secured. With his increase game fish will diminish and the only means to head him off is by the hoopnet.

O'KEEFE'S Pilsener Lager

"Pilsener Lager" is world famous. The town of Pilsen, in Bohemia, is situated in a beautiful fertile valley at the confluence of the Mies and Beraun Rivers, about 52 miles south of Prague. It was at Pilsen that the formula for this special brand was introduced and the first Pilsener Lager brewed. The beer from Pilsen has a noted reputation all over Europe for purity and flavour.

O'Keefe Pilsener Lager, "The Light Beer in the Light Bottle," is brewed from exactly the same formula. Nothing used in the brewing but pure barley malt, choicest hops and filtered water. The beer is filtered again before bottling, and after which it is pasteurized. O'Keefe's Pilsener is absolutely pure.

The O'Keefe Brewery has taken Pilsener as its model in making this lager, because German beers are noted the world over for their purity and health-giving qualities. Adulterations or substitutions for malt are unheard of in Germany, because the heavy State penalties of fine and imprisonment for an infraction of the health laws. No American lager enters Canada that is brewed solely from pure barley malt, hops and water, as all beer should be brewed.

Goes After Egg Eating Record

Rhode Island Man Swallows 39 in Two Minutes and a Half.

(Examiner Special.)

Providence, R. I., August 18.—Thos. O'Brien, of Blackstone, Mass., a town about fifteen miles from this city, swallowed three dozen eggs in a saloon in that town last night on a bet, and is alive to-day.

The bet was for a nominal sum and the time was set at five minutes. O'Brien and his friends had been discussing the digestive qualities of an egg. O'Brien contended that he could do away with three dozen in five minutes.

A wager was then made and a man was sent out to get the eggs. He returned with the required three dozen. O'Brien placed four in a glass of liger and drained the mess. This operation was continued nine times, and at the end 36 eggs had disappeared.

Then, to show that he could stand a little more, O'Brien calmly drank three extra eggs in a milk shake. He had won the bet, the 39 eggs having been swallowed in two minutes and 50 seconds.

The only result of this egg gorging process was that O'Brien suffered from depression for a short time.

ALL RUN DOWN

Weak---Nervous---Unstrung.

Thousands get run down and become invalids before they realize anything is wrong. By permitting low vitality to develop, the way is paved for fevers, pneumonia and diphtheria. To put off makes it all the harder to get well. The time to repair the system is right now, before the damage gets any worse. The remedy is Ferrozone; it revitalizes, renews, builds up vitality that outlasts old age.

FERROZONE is a genuine invigorator that banishes weakness, and instils surplus force and vigor into every organ of the body. Ferrozone sharpens the appetite, produces rich nutritious blood, and thereby contributes that sense of buoyancy that adds so enormously to one's pleasure and usefulness in life.

For all forms of debility, weakness, lack of blood or nerve tone, sleeplessness, tiredness and exhaustion, there is no medicine so vitalizing and potent as Ferrozone. Even one trial demonstrates its rapidly and certainty of action.

To restore the energy of youth, to get back your vital stamina and reserve force, there is positively no treatment so certain as Ferrozone. You have only to try Ferrozone to know the enormous benefit it invariably brings to all in poor health.

FERROZONE

Miss Dorothy E. Leduc of Chester gives the following convincing evidence of Ferrozone's power: "My work compels me to rise early in the morning and work ten hours daily as a saleslady. Last Spring I was run down, lost my color, and fell off in weight. I seemed to lack ambition and the life was out of me. A friend recommended Ferrozone, and I took one tablet after meals with wonderful results. Ferrozone brought back my complexion, and has given me new strength and abundance of energy and spirits. I would advise all young ladies to use Ferrozone."

Mrs. H. G. Wilder of Dexter says—"My daughter was not very well last Winter, and lost her strength completely when the Spring came. I gave her Ferrozone, and am glad to say it did wonders. After six boxes were used my daughter was strong, and looked the picture of health."

Gave New Strength

It makes the weak strong, the sick well, and assures lasting good health.

WARNING—Beware of any substitute for Ferrozone; it alone can cure you. Sold by all druggists and dealers in medicine, only in 50c boxes containing 50 chocolate-coated tablets. By mail to any address if price is forwarded to N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont., or Hartford, Conn., U.S.A.

The North Monaghan Township Tax Rate

Was Struck at the Council Meeting Held on Monday—Will be 11-10 Mills for This Year—$694 to be Raised —Requisitions for School Moneys.

Examiner Special.

North Monaghan, Aug. 14.—The council met in the town hall on Monday, August 13th, at 7.30 p. m. There were present, Messrs. Madill, Brown, Fowler and Morrow, the reeve presiding. The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

Gravel certificates were presented from Samuel G. Bennett, 79 yards, Div. No. 3, ... $7 90
Leary's gravel pit, ... 4 90
49 yards, Division No. 3, ...
These were ordered to be paid.

The clerk reported having received an order from the County Judge, confirming the decision of the Court of Revision and dismissing the appeal of the Canadian General Electric Company against their assessment of river lines etc., in the township. This was received and the judgment ordered to by fyled.

The Reeve reported for the Committee on Repairs to South Monaghan boundary, that it was agreed upon by the Council of South Monaghan and the committee to expend the sum of $50, jointly in grading and gravelling this road.

On motion of Messrs. Brown and Morrow, this report was received and adopted.

Mr. Morrow reported for the committee to investigate the complaint of water lying upon Chamberlen street, that the Road Commissioner of Road Division No. 4, had been instructed to put in a tile culvert which was deemed sufficient at the place. This was received and approved.

Requisitions for school monies were received from the several boards of public school trustees in the township and the Roman Catholic Separate School Board of the City of Peterborough for 1906, as follows:—

Union School Section No. 1	$505 00
School Section No. 2	475 00
School Section No. 3	430 00
Union School Section No. 4	450 00
Separate School	80 00

The estimate of receipts and expenditures for the year 1906 was then prepared as follows:—

Receipts.

From fines	$ 15 00
From Licenses	94 00
From dog tax	158 08
Com. of Statute Labour	300 00
Com. arrears of taxes	140 00
Com. sale of gravel	25 00
For County levy	1,201 25
For school levy	1,797 78
Total	$3,735 03

Expenditures.

County rate	$1,616 06
County schools	85 19
Township schools	1,707 78
Provided by special rate	$3,409 03
Election expenses	15 00
Charity	20 00
Board of Health	25 00
Municipal government	400 00
Law costs	10 00
Interest	50 00
Printing, etc.	50 00
Grading and gravelling	900 00
Roads and bridges	300 00
Overdraft 1904-5	200 00
Miscellaneous	50 00
Total	$5,479 03

Leaving a balance of $694.00 to be raised by a General Township Rate. The total assessment of the township being $640,869.00, this will require a rate of 11-10 mills on the dollar.

By-laws No. 569 and 570, to levy county, township and school rates were then introduced and finally passed.

Council then adjourned until the regular meeting in October.

THE TENNIS GIRL.

THE GIBSON WHITE LINEN TAILORED COSTUME STILL SMART.

To Dress Well For a Tennis Tournament Is Half the Battle—Never Wear Lace Trimmed Petticoats. Appropriate Neckwear and Hats.

The typical tennis girl, the sort of girl one would expect to find in a Gibson picture, is gowned in dazzling white linen of severe make and wears a shirt and a straw panama or linen hat. The only relief she affords herself is a hatband and waist belt in colors which probably proclaim the college or the club of some masculine relative or friend. More becoming if less ostentatiously sporting is a ribbon of pale blue to match blue eyes or a pale pink to accentuate a delicate complexion. Perhaps most alluring of all is the entirely white ensemble. The tournament girl should remember to dress well for her matches. We all know what a tremendous incentive is the sympathy of onlookers on such occasions. Indeed, onlookers are quite as alive to the appropriateness as to the prettiness of a player's costume, and they give a perhaps unconscious backing to the girl who is clever enough to combine these desired objects. Not knowing either of the players, they want the one who looks the most charming to win. And she is swayed to her best exertions by this thought, probably openly expressed in applause of her good strokes.

For this girl the ideal apparel is that described above. Every garment must, of course, be of spotless freshness. Nothing is likely to prejudice the minds of an audience as any lack in this respect, and this means a clean white skirt every day of a tournament week. The underskirt also forms a consideration of essential importance. On no account should a lacey petticoat be worn for tennis. Great as is the attraction of such lingerie, there is danger of the foot catching in it. The embroidered substitutes are now so lovely that one can give up the less suitable alternative without regret. A white silk petticoat is likewise delightful for tennis, as it is so easy to move about in, and it may be made with an embroidered muslin overflounce, so that no effect of daintiness is lost.

The question of hats and neckwear is not so easily disposed of. Some tennis players have never swerved from their devotion to the sailor hat, and custom has inured them to its weight and made them oblivious of any discomfort arising from its hardness. Others, however, have adopted the panama and linen hats, both of them preferable from the picturesque point of view. The Peter Pan waist is a popular sporting model this summer. With its turnover collar, elbow sleeves and flaring cuff it is indeed both comfortable and becoming.

The tennis costume illustrated is of white linen. The skirt is laid in box plaits and stitched ten inches from the waist. The little jacket is on the kimono order and elaborately worked in English embroidery.

AMY VARNUM.

BATHING CAPS.

Made of Silk Covered Rubber to Match the Suit.

Natty and becoming are the caps to go with the new bathing suits this season, and very far removed are they from the old style rubber cap, which made even the prettiest of women look plain and homely.

Made of silk covered rubber to match the color of the suit, they are most fetching and attractive. Formed of a tricornered piece of material, there is cunningly concealed beneath a rubber cap of oil silk to slip over the hair, one point of the cap coming just over the forehead, the other two ends being brought up and tied in a bowknot.

Still another shape, when tied, forms a pretty ruffle in front, which is exceedingly becoming. Nor are these caps only for show. The introduction of the oil silk cap renders them very practical, and a girl can not only paddle about the shore, but actually swim, without fear of getting her hair wet—that is, unless she essays to dive, when no bathing cap made can be kept in place.

Besides caps in plain colors, some are lined with white which when tied show the contrasting shades, or still others are made from silk which has a dainty flowered pattern over it. Either the two toned or plain colors are best liked, the effect of the figures being more common.

Along with the new bathing caps come cunning little silk pockets which have a particularly old fashioned flavor, being in appearance like those that grandmother used to carry with her handkerchief, glasses, etc., when she went out to tea. For the summer girl, however, who doesn't wear spectacles, they are intended for her handkerchief, bath keys or any valuables she may wish to keep with her. They are fastened to her belt securely and are of the same material as the bathing suit. It is quite unnecessary to say that the girl who wears this accessory to the new bathing suits has no intention of getting her feet wet, but, rather, is got up for the purpose of promenading the beach, to see and be seen.

An Economical Fashion.

That deep band of color used to edge the coverings of down quilts or the lightweight cotton filled ones so satisfactory for summer weather is there for a purpose quite aside from that of beauty or effectiveness. It is always the edges that soil first, and it was to protect them that the bands of solid color, usually much darker than the material of the quilt, were first used. If your summer quilts haven't these bands they are easily applied and as easily ripped off and fresh ones substituted when they finally succumb to soil. Only choose a material that is closely enough woven, so that the design of the foundation may not show through.

"Peter Pan" Things.

First came the "Peter Pan" hat, a queer little plaided Scotch affair, with quills.

This was followed by the "Peter Pan" blouse, with low round collar, short sleeves and patch pocket.

Now there's an entire "Peter Pan" suit, which youngish girls are wearing with immense delight, because of its simplicity and girlishness.

It's merely a shirt waist suit, the blouse whereof is like that described above, and the short round skirt plaited or plain. For country wear, mornings, picnics, etc., it's a very pretty sort.

So far that's all the "Peter Pannish" modes, though possibly those new belts of bright Scotch plaid silk belong to that category.

Winter Clothes.

When packing away winter clothes try dried lavender, cloves and other fragrant spices with them, instead of the inevitable camphor or moth balls. Pleasant odors will prevent the moths as effectually as disagreeable ones, provided they are sufficiently pungent.

LA MODE'S FANCIES.

Blouse Suits Smart For Small Girls and Boys—Point Gaze Lace.

Russian blouse suits for small boys and girls are always in vogue and always, too, in good taste. They are made simple and are rich in design. On some of them there is hand embroidery in a neat pattern that is very effective.

Point gaze lace has a pompadour effect, and is admirable as a halfway measure between real and imitation laces.

Kimono shaped sleeves are very fashionable for nightdresses, trimmed with bands of lace finished at the elbows with soft bows of ribbon.

Long black gloves—long enough to wrinkle up on the arm—are being worn with all kinds of gowns.

Straps evidently hold sway in the slipper world, from suede to patent leather, varying from a single strap to eight in number. Some of these straps are open work, carrying out the effect of more straps to the end of the slipper.

Iridescent effects are suggested in gold and silver belting. In one light the belting shows nothing but gold; in another it breaks into two or three shimmering shades.

The waist pictured may be carried out in any of the charming silks of the season. The original neck finishing gives character to the model and, together with the three-quarter sleeves, brings it quite up to date.

SAFETY FOR CHILDREN.

Liquid medicines advertised to cure stomach and liver disorders and summer complaints, contain opiates and are dangerous. When a mother gives Baby's Own Tablets to her little ones she has the guarantee of a government analyst that this medicine does not contain one particle of opiate or harmful drug. The prudent mother will appreciate that in Baby's Own Tablets there is absolute safety. An occasional dose to the well child will keep it well—and they promptly cure the minor ailments of childhood when they come unexpectedly. Mrs. G. Hamlin, St. Adolphe, Que., says, "I have used Baby's Own Tablets for colic and bowel troubles and find them safe and speedy in their cure." Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. Keep the Tablets in the house.

Embroidered Parasol.

Something novel in the way of an embroidered parasol is shown in the illustration, and, with the growing fondness for having all of one's personal belongings marked, it is fair to suppose that the initial or monogram parasol will have great vogue. At present only linen sunshades are marked in this way, and the letters are always worked solid and not too heavily padded. To be effective the monograms or interlaced initials should be four or five inches high and not too elaborate in design. Should one wish to work her monogram on a ready made parasol it is best to clip the stitches which hold the cover to the frame and rip the section which is to be worked partly off the frame before doing the embroidery. When the work is finished and pressed it will be only a few minutes' work to sew the section in place again. Of course, if one is accustomed to doing the satin stitch embroidery, as well as the padding in a frame, it will not be necessary to rip the covering from the frame of the parasol.

CHILD'S PLAY TABLE.

CAN BE TURNED FROM TABLE TO SAND BOX.

Invented by a Clever Kindergartner—It Is Little More Than Four Feet Long, Two and a Half High and of Lesser Width.

An ingenious play table for children which has been adopted by many kindergartens in this country and even in Germany is the recent invention of Miss Frances A. Greenlaw, a young kindergarten teacher of Marinette, Wis. It saves space and time, serves as well in an ordinary nursery as in the schoolroom and amuses the little folk by its very capacity of transformation.

The table is a little more than four feet long, two and a half feet high and of lesser width. The varnished top is ruled in squares, helpful in dressmaking, plaiting colored papers, designing and exercises in measurement. When the small students weary of such lessons, the top is tipped over on its hinges, oft regardless of the dolls that crash headlong to earth, and a large box of white sea sand is disclosed. This sight usually evokes the enthusiastic mariner's song, and then the children ply their spades in the hope of finding pearls or sunken ships. The wise teacher sees that there is something new to be found each time.

But the possibilities of the sand box are endless. Houses are built on the beach to the accompaniment of the carpenter's song, the forester sings and plants a grove of evergreens, the farmer builds his dwelling far inland, and the mother hangs out her clothes on the toothpick poles. The sand box is so much fun that it is a question whether the students will ever be willing to have the top restored and go back to the common toils of dressmaking and designing.

Miss Greenlaw is a most enthusiastic kindergartner. Having a practical knowledge of carpentry, she not only invented the play table, but built the first full size models herself. Her implements were saw, plane, turning lathe and a hammer, which never mistook the wielder's thumb for a nail.

What the Baby Needs.

The less noise a baby hears, the less he is carried about and played with for the first six months of his life, the better it will be.

It is seldom necessary to take him from his crib except for his bath and meals. The habit of tossing him about and trotting him on the knee makes him nervous and wakeful and cannot possibly do any good.

His undeveloped system calls for rest, yet he is often denied that privilege.

Children as well as older people are to a great extent creatures of habit, and they cannot acquire habits that are conducive to proper development and health of the body at too early an age.

It is during sleep that the building up forces work without interruption and the child gains in flesh and strength.

Have regular hours for his naps and see that everything is favorable for sleep at that time. There should be no tight bands to hinder respiration.

Place his crib in such a position that the light will not shine directly upon his face, preferably in a cool, quiet corner. Do not cover him too warmly. Change his position occasionally, and he will sleep longer.

Slips For "Best" Blouses.

Some girl with a love of pretty things hit upon the clever idea of making great bags and slips, with which she covered her best bibs and tuckers, of flowered stuff instead of the usual plain white muslin affairs. The open door of that closet reveals a pretty sight instead of a rather funereal effect the muslin shroudings are bound to give. Choosing a closely woven material, so that the dust is as safely defied as when a stout muslin is the shield, is the only point that need be looked to. Have some of the covers big, sheet-like affairs. There are certain gowns which keep in better condition if something is folded carefully about them than if they are slipped into the roomiest of bags. And put loops upon bags or wrapping sheet, so that their weight, little as it may seem, will bear directly upon the closet hooks instead of adding its mite to dragging the delicate skirt or blouse out of shape.

VANITY'S VAGARIES.

Lingerie Hats In New Combinations, Cloth Applique Designs.

The lingerie hat appears again in some novel combinations. These hats, with parasols to match, are good investments, since they launder well and have an air of great chic.

A number of stunning cloth street gowns are decorated with designs cut from the cloth. This adornment is a relief from the much braided and button trimmed costumes that are so tiresomely popular.

The newest hatpins are spiral, and, while more easily put in than a straight one, they are perfectly safe and will not fall out. They are said to hold the hat more firmly than the old straight kind.

Wreaths and half wreaths of tiny ribbon flowers for the hair evolve themselves from the clever fingers of the girl at the department shop ribbon counter.

Twilled surah is coming back into favor and is to be seen in charming shirt waist suits.

Very smart and attractive is the little tailored hat seen in the cut. It is of cinnamon brown straw simply trimmed at one side with a tight bunch of parma violets and their leaves. A band of brown velvet encircles the crown.

BOARD REFUSES

—AFTER CONSULTATION—

TO GIVE UP SITE

Resolution to This Effect Was Unanimously Carried at Meeting Last Night.

Several Strong Reasons for this Action are Set Forth in the Resolution.

"That the secretary of the Board be authorized to reply to the City Council respecting a site for the Normal School, stating that this Board cannot consent to any arrangement which will exclude the Collegiate Institute from Central Park for the following among other reasons:

That the Central Park property purchased for a site for an armoury and for a Collegiate Institute, has been appropriated—the south two acres for an armoury and the north two acres for a Collegiate Institute—subject to a pledge to the Dominion Government that the unoccupied ground of the Institute in rear of their building should be kept open for use by the military for parade and drill purposes.

The Government at Ottawa, on this understanding contributed $10,000 towards the purchase of the land and without the sanction of the Dominion Government and the approval of the people who voted the money for the purchase of the site and the erection of the Institute, it would not be in the power of the Board to surrender their site for the purpose of a Normal School.

The above resolution, moved by Mr. Hill, and seconded by Mr. Crane, expresses the decision of the Board of Education arrived at last night's special meeting to consider the Normal School site question, as far it it regarded the giving up of the Central Park lots upon which the Board proposes erecting a Collegiate Institute. There was no hesitation in the matter. The Board was unanimous in the opinion that they had no right, even if they were willing, to give up the Collegiate Institute site for Normal School purposes.

While there was considerable discussion over the matter it concerned the determining of the best way of announcing their decision, rather than over any difficulty in arriving at that decision itself.

Pledged to Government.

The opinion was expressed that in view of the fact that the Board was pledged to the Dominion Government to have lots 5 and 6 in common as a parade and play ground, and that with this understanding, the Government had contributed $10,000 towards the purchase of the property, the Board would not have power to surrender their property without the sanction of the Dominion Government, and the approval of the citizens who voted the money for the site and the erection of a Collegiate Institute. A proposal was made that a deputation from the Board should wait upon the Deputy Minister of Education, and lay before him the reasons which compelled the Board to object to the giving up of their Central Park property.

There were present at the meeting Messrs. W. G. Ferguson, chairman, D. W. Dumble, W. H. Hill, J. Crane, Wm. Pringle, Dr. Morrison, Dr. Burnham, and R. Fair.

In opening the meeting Chairman Ferguson read a letter from the city clerk, enclosing the letter received from Mr. Colquohoun to effect that the Central Park site was the only one desirable for Normal School purposes.

The chairman, in commenting on the situation, remarked that he did not see why the education authorities had been shown the Central Park site at all. There was certainly no authority from the Board to do so, as they had unanimously expressed their opinion at the joint meeting that that site should be retained. Some one must have pointed the site out to the visiting officials as being available for Normal School purposes

Seems to be a Farce.

Mr. Fair asked how the Government men had obtained their information. The Central Park lots were no more available than were the St. John's church grounds. "It seems to be a farce," he said in conclusion; "we should have an investigation."

"What's the use?" asked Mr. Dumble; "if we found him we could not hang the man."

Mr. Pringle remarked that he understood that the chairman had told Mr. Colquhoun that the site was not available, a statement which Mr. Ferguson confirmed.

Mr. Hill said that it was the duty of the Board to refuse to give up the site, and notify the council accordingly. Even if the Board were willing they couldn't, for lots 5 and 6 were held in common with the Dominion Government. The Ontario Government would not accept the lot unless they understood that it was absolutely free. They should never have been shown the lot. The Board was bound to keep its agreement with the Dominion Govern-

Three Hundred Houses Make A Record Season

Fully That Number Erected or in Course of Construction In City.

AND NO CESSATION EITHER

Three hundred houses under construction or erected up to this time for this season is the record for this city—and in all probability—for any city of its size, under normal conditions in the Dominion of Canada. A reputable building man stated to the Examiner last night that fully that number had been completed or were in course of construction now in Peterborough. He had fifteen houses under way himself, and could have more, if he could get the men

Wants More Men.

Fifteen men were on his pay roll, and he would like to have double that number. According to his belief this season he would not see the finish of the building activity in this city, because the industrial conditions would demand a large number of new houses to accommodate the persons coming to the city to reside.

Expects To Get Master Bakers' Convention

Peterborough Delegates Return From Last Meeting in London.

Mr. H. Long, who introduced the resolution at the Master Bakers' Association meeting in London, to hold the next annual meeting in this city, has good hopes that the executive will decide to come here. With the other Peterborough bakers who attended Mrs. T. Lush and Mr. T. Hooper, Mr. Long returned to the city last night and reports having spent a most enjoyable week at London, where about 150 Master Bakers held their convention. They were well treated by the London Master Bakers, taken for a run to Springbrook, and Port Stanley, where a banquet was tendered them.

Mr. Long states that he tried to impress upon the convention the fact that Peterborough was centrally located, and that if they decided to meet here next year they would be given a good time.

Renfrew Has Two Monstrosities

A Two-Headed Calf and Double Egg on One Farm.

Mr. Geo. McQuitty of Horton, had two noteworthy incidents on his farm within the last week. On Friday his two year old heifer was delivered of her first calf, and it had two distinct heads, two necks springing from the shoulders. The calf—unfortunately from the spectacular standpoint—did not live; but many neighbours called to see the carcass of the curiosity. Then, later, Mr. McQuitty found on his farm a twin hen's egg—two well formed eggs, joined by a connecting link, an inch and a quarter long. From end to end the twin measured five inches. —Renfrew Mercury.

Mr. Emmet Doherty, the secretary of the local Divisions has been specially energetic in the visitors' entertainment.

Warm Praise For Decorating Firm

Letters From Berlin and Alvinston Speak of Turners' Good Work.

When it comes to decorating, J. J. Turner & Sons are "it", as the following letters from Berlin and Alvinston show. That from Berlin reads:—

Dear Sirs,—On behalf of the Decoration Committee and also the citizens of this town, I beg to express the feeling of every one when I say that they were very much pleased with the decorations put up by yourselves in this town during the Old Boys' Re-Union, August 6th, 7th and 8th. It is a great saving of time and expense to any town holding a celebration to do their decorating the way in which you did, as it takes a great deal of work off the hands of the committee.

Yours truly,
A. VANDERHART,
Chairman Decorating Committee.

The Alvinston letter is as follows:—

Alvinston, Aug. 16, 1906.

To whom it may concern:

This certifies that J. J. Turner & Sons, of Peterborough, decorated our town for our Old Boys 'Re-Union held here August 13-15, 1906, and would say that their work was done to our entire satisfaction. They proved to be a trustworthy and gentlemanly firm to deal with and have no hesitation in recommending them to any corporation requiring their services on similar occasions. This testimonial was presented without any solicitation on their part.

What We Eat And How It Affects Us; Some Hard Facts

A man died in Toronto last Saturday, having been poisoned by a prepared kidney stew he ate at a restaurant. At Ingersoll the eldest son of a prominent citizen died the same day, having eaten canned pork and beans at one of his meals. On the same day again two children at Toronto Junction died after partaking of ice cream. What happened to these might just as well have happened to any of us, for nearly all of us drop into a restaurant now and then, all of us are treated to canned food of some sort at our homes, and the ice cream man is one of the institutions of the country. It is a fearsome prospect, really, this knowledge that in every can of food opened for use at the table there may be the deadly ptomaines. Taking our food has come to be the most perfunctory part of living, and the one about which every effort is made to minimize labour and trouble. Civilization has its advantages, but its perils also, it would seem.—Montreal Herald.

New Letter Box On Aylmer Street

Mr. J. M. Donovan's Application Was Successful.

Through the application of J. M. Donovan, who conducts a grocery store at the corner of Aylmer and McDonel streets, a new letter box has been placed on that corner, close to Mr. Donovan's store, where postage stamps, etc., can be had. This convenience no doubt will be highly appreciated by the people living in that vicinity. Mr. Donovan has also had a new sign with his name, placed under his new plate glass window. It is a splendid piece of workmanship and is a credit to Mr. J. A. Gibbs who made it.

Miss Miller Got A Good 'Lunge

After Some Difficulty a Crawford's Grove Camper Landed a Twenty-Pounder.

Yesterday afternoon, Miss Emily Miller, a young lady who is camping at Crawford's Grove, had rather an exciting experience with a lunge about two miles below the grove. She was paddling down the river with a trawling line out, when she hooked a lunge, which after considerable trouble and some assistance, she landed. It weighed slightly over 20 pounds.

JACK THE HUGGER IS QUICKLY PINCHED

(Examiner Special.)

Altoona, Aug. 18.—"You look good to me," exclaimed Herman Schuler, of Columbus, O., as he seized a pretty girl on Eleventh Avenue and after giving her a tight hug, implanted a kiss on her lips.

Patrolman Murphy appeared as the girl screamed and arrested Schuler, who is being held pending an investigation into the numerous jack-the-hugger cases recently reported to the police.

Cincinnati Party Off To Kawartha

A Jolly American Party Fraternizes With Local Gentlemen.

It is rather a far cry from Cincinnati to Kawarthadom, but that evidently was no difference to th jolly party that went up the lakes yesterday. The following were the party who registered at the National Hotel:

Robert J. Carew, Max. Ranch, H. Yaegar, F. J. Blain, J. W. McCreery, D. C. F. Winton, B. S. Armstrong, A. C. Weiss.

All these are representative citizens of Cincinnati, who were to have been joined en route by a party from New York. The latter however failed to make the necessary connections.

Very complete arrangements had been made for the comfort and entertainment of the visitors by Messrs. J. D. and W. W. Armstrong city, who had charted Mr. R. B. Rogers', house boat and launch for their accommodation.

All but two of the party were visiting the Peterborough district for the first time, although Mr. Carew was returning after an absence of about thirty years. Needless to say he was enthusiastic in regard to the progress and the appearance of the city.

The visitors were joined here by a local party, amongst whom were Messrs. A. P. Poussette, Dr. Bradd, G. K. Martin, S. J. Sheridan, R. B. Rogers, G. M. Roger, J. D and W. W. Armstrong, and left on Mr. Rogers' trim little steam yacht for Lakefield, via the lift lock and canal. Mr. Rogers kindly furnished all the information in regard to the lock to the strangers who were evidently greatly impressed by the vastness of the structure and the smoothness of its operations.

On arrival at Lakefield, the party boarded the house boat, which had been nicely decorated for the occasion, and found that Chef Trombley had prepared a dinner which would have been no discredit to any hotel in the city. He will be in attendance during the trip, which fact ensures the creature comfort of those on the boat. They are a most jolly and whole souled crowd, and left for their tour of the lakes amidst a burst of cheers and merriment.

It is expected that Judge Weller, Mr. Stone of London, and a number of Peterborough gentlemen, will join the party during the coming week.

TRUSTEES PREPARE

—THE THANKSGIVING DAY—

ROAD RACE RULES

Prospects are That a Large Number of Contestants Will Enter This Race.

The Conditions Under Which the Event Will Be Held—A Second Prize Given.

The success of The Examiner road race seems to be an assured fact. Already a number of fast runners have signified their intention of entering the race, and they have commenced training for the event. This week a letter was received from Tweed making inquiries in reference to the race, which fact is an evidence of the widespread interest which it is creating.

In view of the fact that there will in all probability be a large number of entries, it has been decided to offer a second prize of a gold stick pin, which, of course, becomes the property of the contestant winning it.

The Regulations,

The trustees of the shield, Messrs. W. Crowley, R. M. Glover and W. Kelly, have drafted a set of regulations governing the race, and these will be the conditions under which it will be run:

To be run annually, on Thanksgiving Day, and open to all bona fide amateurs who have resided in the County of Peterborough for at least two months previous to the date of the race.

Course.

The course is to be 10 miles, starting at the 10-mile post in front of the Tremont House, Lakefield, to proceed through the Township of Smith, and finishing at The Examiner office, Peterborough. All entries to be made not later than Tuesday evening at 9 o'clock, preceding the day of the race.

The race is to start at 10 a.m. sharp. Each contestant will wear a number. No pace-makers allowed. The officers of the race shall comprise referee and starter, and assistant referee, patrol judge and course timers at each mile post.

The Prizes.

First prize — The Stratton Shield. Presented by Hon. J. R. Stratton of The Peterborough Examiner, which will be held by the winner for one year, and a gold ring to be the winner's property, presented by The Examiner Printing Company.

Second prize—Gold stick pin, presented by the Peterborough Examiner.

As a favour, The Examiner asks all those who contemplate entering this race to send their names to this office.

European Rights For The Lorimer Machine Sold?

Brantford Despatch Says N. D. Neill Completed Deal Recently.

THE AUTOMATIC TELEPHONES

A Brantford despatch says:— Mr. N. D. Neill, the telephone magnate arrived in the city last night. He has just returned from Europe, where he has been for some considerable time negotiating for the sale of the European rights to the Lorimer automatic telephone.

While in this city, Mr. Neill is staying with his mother at 136 Alfred street. He leaves to-morrow for Toronto, and will probably return to this city again in a short time. As a result of his trip over the water Mr. Neill is looking very hale and well.

Rights Sold.

To-day he is making a large number of calls on old friends. A reporter was unable to see him, but from information gleaned from other sources, it is understood that negotiations are being closed for the sale of the European rights on a satisfactory basis.

Italians In A Nasty Quarrel

As a Result Two Men Were Rather Badly Stabbed.

A number of Italians employed on the railway made things lively around Maynooth one night last week and used their knives freely. Louis Brisette, who was mixed up in the row, was badly stabbed, and Mr. Simon Rouse, who tried to take an axe from one of the men, had his hand cut.—Bancroft Times.

Vegetables And Small Fruits

Were Plentiful and Sold Freely at This Morning's Market.

There were plenty of vegetables and fruit on the market this morning to gladden the heart of the housewife. The market was a large one, the predominant feature being the quantity of small fruits and vegetables offered. Upstairs there was a good crowd of buyers and sellers. Eggs were plentiful, the prevailing figure being 18 cents. Chickens were not so plantiful, and sold at 65 to 75 cents per pair. Butter was retailed at 25 cents, there being very little variation from the figure. Plums and green gages were in evidence, and there were plenty of harvest apples, for which there was great demand. Mush melons were also among the delicacies shown.

Some of the prevailing prices were:

Harvest apples, 20c per basket.
Green gages, 2 qts. for 25c.
Lombards, 2 qts. for 25c.
Thimble berries, 2 boxes 25c.
Musk melons, 15c each.
Peaches, 35c, 50c, and 60c per basket.
Green corn, 10c per dozen.
Eggs, 18c per dozen.
Butter, 25c lb.
Chickens, 65c to 75c.
Radishes, carrots, lettuce and other small vegetables sold at the usual figures.

Another Site Suggested

Lots on Murray, Immediately West of the Y.M.C.A.

A citizen to-day, speaking of the Normal School site question, remarked that in his opinion the most suitable site for a Normal School would be the lots on the south side of Murray street, immediately west of the Y.M.C.A. The site would be centrally located, and would have the advantage of facing on Central Park.

REMAINS WILL BE TAKEN HOME

The remains of Arthur H. Randlett, about whose death there has been so much excitement, will leave Peterborough on the midnight C.P.R. train for his late home in Northboro, Mass. Mr. Lombard, of the J. C. Ayer Co., with which the deceased was employed, is in the city to-day making arrangements for the taking home of the remains.

WORK WILL BE SOMEWHAT DELAYED

The work of renovating the bridge on Charlotte street, over the creek, which was to have commenced at the end of the month, will be delayed owing to the fact that some of the material will not arrive for several weeks.

Had a Bad Leg.

"For twelve years I was a great sufferer with eczema on the inside of the leg. There was a raw patch of flesh about three inches square, and the itching was terrible. Dr. Chase's Ointment completely cured me, took away the itching and healed up the sore."—Mr. Alex. McDougall, Postmaster, Broad Cove, Marsh, N.S.

THE CITY'S NARROW ESCAPE FROM PICKPOCKETS

Peterborough may thank its stars that the few thefts of money reported last week were all the misdemeanours committed, for it has been learned that for at least one day, Thursday, August 9, what is looked upon as the greatest gang of pickpockets and thieves in the country had their habitation in this city.

The gang that in all probability operated here on circus day is constituted as follows:

Harry Tompkins, alias Woods, alias Baker.
Mrs. Tompkins, his wife.
Harry Martin.
Mrs. Hattie Dineen.
Wm. Lennox.
Mrs. Lennox.

That this gang was here that day there seems to be no reason to doubt. Harry Tompkins was in the city and registered at the Oriental Hotel as "H. Tompkins, Montreal." He was not here alone, either, and while the others were not registerd at the Oriental, there is every reason to believe that they were here, and that they were not idle during their brief stay.

This is the same gang which was arrested in Toronto, and speaking of their appearance in court, the News says:

Under a charge of vagrancy two of the men and the three women who were arrested by the detectives yesterday in their raid in the two boarding houses on Church street, appeared in the police court this morning and were remanded for a week to allow the police time to make inquiries about them. Heavy bail was demanded by the Crown, and the prisoners remained in custody. An old charge of theft was brought against Tompkins, and he was also remanded.

The names of the prisoners with the charge and bail, are as follows:

Harry Tompkins, Toronto, theft, did not plead.

Minnie Tompkins, his wife, vagrancy, $1,000 bail.

Charles alias "Kentucky" O'Neil, Niagara Falls, N.Y., $1,000.

Wm. Lennox, alias Catlett, Montreal, $2,000.

Nellie Lennox, his wife, $1,000.

Mrs. Hattie Dineen, New York, $1,000.

The police believe that these form part of an organized gang of shoplifters and pickpockets, who have been operating very extensively in all parts of Ontario and also in Quebec Province since early spring. There are known to be over a dozen members of the gang, Toronto and Montreal being the headquarters.

Recently eight of the gang went down to Cornwall to operate during the celebration there, and their movements and the return of five of the party were followed by the police.

On one of the men was found a list of a number of cities and towns in Ontario, both east and west, including Peterborough, and it is believed that all of these were visited. They operated as pickpockets chiefly on the trains, especially between Toronto and Hamilton, and here and Ottawa, and Montreal, finding this more secure than in the cities themselves. The complaints of money lost through them, it is believed, goes into the scores.

In view of all these facts, it is a most fortunate circumstance for Peterborough that this city was let off so easily, the only thefts reported being from a few persons whose pockets were relieved of some small sums of money, and probably $150 or $200 would cover the whole amount taken from this city and reported to the police.

It is probable that had it not been for the vigilance of the local police the operations of the gang here would have proven much more costly to the citizens.

SATURDAY, AUG. 18, 1906.

THE MATTER SETTLED.

The Board of Education at its meeting last night, politely, but firmly, informed the City Council, that the Collegiate Institute site in Central Park, selected by the representatives of the Education Department as a site for a Normal School, was not to be surrendered. In this matter the Board has done the right thing, and has met public sentiment in regard to retaining the excellent site provided for a Collegiate Institute building. It is highly desirable in the interests of primary edgation and other interests, that a Normal School building be erected in Peterborough, as the most focal and in other respects most suitable urban centre in Eastern Ontario, for such an institution; but it is not so important as to demand the sacrifice of the interests of secondary education in Peterborough, especially when, as is well known, there there are many sites available for the Government building. So far as the site is concerned, the matter is where it was a month ago, only the City Council and the Government now know that the Collegiate Institute site is permanently reserved. It now becomes the duty of those representing the city in any and every capacity, to take prompt steps to remedy the error that has been made.

THE PEACEMAKER.

King Edward, who has well-earned the title of "Edward the Peacemaker," has added another bar to his claim. He has been visiting his nephew, the somewhat bumptious Emperor of Germany, and the cordial personal relations between the two sovereigns developed by the visit seem to point to the fact that King Edward has brought the Emperor to the edge of an entente cordiale which will improve the rather raspy state of friction which has existed between the German and English newspapers, with a good deal of "biting of thumbs" and bellicose bluster. The King of England furnishes good evidence that he is the son of his mother, who, many times in her illustrious career, steadied the balance of power when the scales were dipping dangerously towards the abyss of war. It is the wonder of history how a little speck like Great Britain upon the map, in physical ratio to the great states of the world, like a fly on a mountain side, can sway a controlling power in the councils of the nations, with a world-wide influence not only as a military and naval power, not only as a commercial power, but as a power with incomputable moral influence in the realm of all the best that proceeds from the highest development and extension of Christian civilization.

"THE MAKERS OF CANADA."

The receipt simultaneously of vol. VII and volume XII, of Morang & Company's splendid publication enterprise, "The Makers of Canada," if fortuitous, is a most happy chance; if designed, is a most happy calculation. The two volumes mark the beginning of two great movements which, since the date of the epochs dealt with, have rolled on with cumulative force. Volume VII, "Joseph Howe," by J. W. Longley, introduces us to the beginnings of constitutional and responsible Government in the extreme orient of Canada; Vol. XII, "Mackenzie, Selkirk, Simpson," unfold the beginnings of the revelation of the immensity of area and inexhaustibility of the resources of the West and extreme West of the Dominion—the revelation by exploration of a territory of imperal expanse and boundless fruitfulness and richness in soil production and mineral wealth. If the other volumes are complementary to the splendid work of popularizing and recording in a permanent, accessible and compendious manner the achievements of the Makers of Canada, as revealed in the two volumes to hand, the completed series will be of inestimable value to the Canadians who love their country for what has been, for what it is and for what it is destined to become. The events and the factors in the events succeeding the beginnings of our political and material development, respectively, furnish material of the first character for the pen of the historian and analyst of historical events.

One can honestly felicitate Morang & Company upon the inception of the brilliant idea of issuing such a work, upon the excellent mechanical quality of the production, printed in bold, clear type upon heavy paper. One can, if judgment is formed from the way in which the compilers of the well massed historic lore of the two volumes mentioned, have performed their task, congratulate Canadians upon having gained in the series named, one of the most creditable and comprehensive additions to national literature and national hitoriography yet made.

A reading of either of the two volumes mentioned will warrant the application to them as descriptive, the title, of sugar-coated history; that is to say history robbed of its traditional dryness and invested with the charm of romance; history masquarading in the guise of charming literary attire, which covers, but does not conceal, the under-dwelling truth, as a mist veil softens, but does not hide, the face of a rocky cliff.

In "Joseph Howe" we have a strong limned sketch of one of Canada's greatest statesmen, one of Canada's greatest orators, one of Canada's greatest imperialists and patriots, a man who was a force to reckon with for the forty years of his active public life, from 1830 to 1873. It is engrossing reading from introduction to appendix.

"Mackenzie," "Lord Selkirk" and "Sir George Simpson," form a story of intrepid exploration and attempts at settlement in the dawning days of the Northwest and West, and Mr. George Bryce has woven these doings into a story as interesting as a Walter Scott historical romance. Not only in incident and exploratory adventure does the interest consist, but the story, tersely and pointedly told, is an inspiration to us of this day. The faith which these great pioneers of civilization felt in the country seems to have been founded upon foreknowledge. With prophetic eyes they saw visions of the greatness yet to be, they saw, generations in advance, the boundless possibilities of this magnificent moiety of a continent, such as we, partially realizing them, can even now hardly believe. The splendid faith of these men of our early days has become works in these days.

PRAISE FOR SIFTON.

Mr. Thomson, formerly of Caintown, who went to Manitoba a few years ago, is now located at Douglas station. He has, says the Brockville Recorder, seen that new country when it was not so prosperous as now, and his opinion is entitled to some weight. He says that the conditions of settlement, transportation and immigration, were entirely unsatisfactory until Hon. Clifford Sifton became head of the Interior Department. When he took hold of the solution of the great western problems and applied business methods to the management of that vast territory, new life at once was infused, and the prosperity that awaited an opportunity to assert itself, at once became evident. The question of transportation and provision for the moving of the great wheat crops so as to secure the best returns for the farmer, Mr. Thomson says, was one of Mr. Clifford's first acts. The influx of hundreds of thousands of people to aid in developing the country gave an impetus to the farming industry and enhanced the value of the holdings of those who had taken up lands when the outlook was not so promising.

In the wonderful strides made by the great western country are seen the wisdom and strength of Hon. Clifford Sifton's policy, and Mr. Thomson is but a sample of the sturdy men who have gone into that country and realize the benefits of that policy.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The despatches state that on King Edward leaving Germany, the Emperor entered his carriage while the train was making ready and the two held a long conversation. The natural inference is that they were discussing momentous topics of state, but it is possible that the best brand of cigars or conn salve may have engaged their attention. Kings are men even if they are Kings and don't necessarily spend their time exclusively in talking shop to each other.

The Mail and Empire is always ready to strain a point to gain a point against its political opponents. The protested election trial of Hon. Mr. Fielding is in progress. He swears that he paid some long overdue election accounts, and the Mail and Empire tortures this into a statement that the Liberal workers held up the Minister. Men with ordinary ideas of honesty would give a man credit for paying for a dead horse. The longer the time a bill has been outstanding the greater the reason for paying it. Therefore Hon. Mr. Fielding is entitled to credit for paying long-due election bills. Evidently he had not been asked to pay the bills before or he would have done so.

THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN THE TWO.

When a Government office is made vacant by death, or by the retirement of the incumbent, it is naturally expected the succeeding appointee will be from the ranks of the party in power. And when a governemnt makes an appointment on this basis there can be no possible objection. This is not a condonment of the "spoils system." There is a great difference between the two. The latter requires the ejection from office of the appointee under a previous government, and the subsequent filling of the office with one of the right stripe. The "spoils system" in politics was exemplified in the dismissal of Mr. S. T. Bastedo by the Whitney administration. But despite the fact that the government would have been considered perfectly within its rights to have appointed a Liberal, the Laurier administration has demonstrated what liberality in politics means, in appointing Major L. W. Shannon, a prominent Kingston Conservative, and owner of the Conservative newspaper in that city, paymaster of Eastern Ontario Canadian militia at a salary of $1,800 a year. This action exemplifies the difference between the Laurier and the Whitney Governments.—Galt Reformer.

George Powell Fined At Toronto

For Pulling His Horse, "Orillia Belle," in Race.

The Toronto Star had the following turf note of local interest last night:—"The second day of the big harness meet at Dufferin Park provided a great day's racing. The 2.20 class furnished a great finish in every heat. James Powell driving Tim Alert and his father, George Powell, was behind Orillia Belle. They made a grand stand finish in each heat, but the judges thought the diver of Orillia Belle did not try to win the fourth heat, and they fined him $10 and costs and called all bets off on the heat.

Violent Headaches.

"I was troubled for a long time with headaches, which would come on with such violence that I could not eat or do my work. Headache powders and quick cures did no good. Eight months ago I took six boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and I have not been troubled with a headache since."—Mr. O. Barber, Simcoe, Ont.

WITH THE SMALL FRY

We are sorry to hear that several of our citizens had their pockets picked at the circus on Thursday last. Had they deposited their money in the Bank of Toronto Savings Department before going this would not have happened.—Millbrook Reporter.

Our baseball team, after having defeated the Canton team so easily, are looking for larger fields to conquer. They intend playing Kendall team after harvest.—Zion correspondent to Port Hope Times.

Mr. James Webber, of Campbellcroft, celebrated his birthday last Friday and James did not know whether it would be legal for him to have a birthday or not as the new regulations do not refer to birth days.—Elizabethville correspondent to Port Hope Times.

It is said on good authority that one of our young business men went up to Stony Lake on Saturday evening intending to return on Monday evening but became so enamored of the Hurl-y-burly style of life at that resort, that he lost all track of time and he suddenly awakened to the fact that it was Thursday and he was still at Stony Lake. He silently and sorrowfully packed his grip in the morning and caught the early boat for home.—Lakefield News.

Some things we would like to know: What attracts so many of our young men to Hartley? Was the road west of that village very muddy a week ago last Sunday night? If not, how did a certain young man get his new buggy so muddy? Where did the boys get the new style for wearing their hair?—Cambray correspondent to the Lindsay Watchman-Warder.

Magistrate Lovekin spent Friday in Toronto, and we are acquainted with two or three rather unfortunate fellows from the township, who wish he had forgotten to come back until next Xmas; they could then have presented him with turkey enough for the entire festive season, and still have been in pocket.—Newcastle Independent.

We had thought the building of the subway had solved the summer fresh meat trade of the G. T. R., but it seems the conclusion was erroneous, for Frank Branton reports having a jersey heifer slaughtered at Clarke's crossing last Friday, just as in days of old.—Newcastle Independent.

John Tuff spent Tuesday in Toronto. He is now a full-fledged kneader of the staff of life in its raw state, and the only way open for our baker to get another apprentice before going into partnership in the business, is by praying and advertising, as we long ago told some of our bachelor friends down at Newtonville, since which time they have had bread enough and to spare and one of the Government officials and all the preachers have increased their emoluments; but still there are others perishing from hunger with bakers on every hand to comfort and relieve.—Newcastle Independent.

Shamrocks Look Good For Further Honours

Toronto Star Picks Local Juniors for One of Five Teams in Junior C. L. A. Race at the Finish.

The Shamrocks are likely to amount to something yet, according to the Toronto Star, which says:—

The fight for first honours in the Junior C. L. A. promises to be an exciting one this season. Fred. Waghonne's age limit amendment, which was adopted last spring, seems to have been just the thing that was needed to give stimulus to the junior series. As it was last season the word "junior" was a misnomer, applied to some of the men and even some of the teams that played in that class. The youngsters didn't get half a chance until this year.

Five teams are shaping up strong for the finish of the series. They are Peterborough, Alliston, Owen Sound, Elora and Toronto Junction.

The Rocks of Elora seem to be sweeping things before them in the old-fashioned way. Peterborough looks good enough to beat out the Beaverton bunch of juniors, and Alliston will have a battle royal with Owen Sound to go up another rung on the ladder. The Junction juniors hadn't much trouble in disposing of Newmarket's youngsters, and Fred. Waghonne, who calls them his pets, is confident that they will make it interesting for a few other aggregations before the leaves begin to fall.

A Busy Week At The Brookside Bowling Lawn

Aicheson versus Tutterson.
L. Taylor versus E. Howson.
S. Taylor versus W. Hamilton.
Doane versus Wescott.
Davidson versus Morris.
Bagshaw versus Crane.
Bradd versus Switzer.
Cunningham versus T. E. Fitzgerald.
Davey versus Mark.

First Roadmaster Of Midland Railway Retires

Mr. James A. Cheer, Who Was Engaged in Constructing Midland Railway From Port Hope, Leaves G. T. R. Service.

Orillia Times: Mr. J. A. Cheer, G. T. R. Roadmaster, has retired after forty-five years' active service, and will devote his energies to a less arduous occupation. Mr. Cheer commenced railroading in 1861, and was active in the construction of the Midland Railway from Port Hope to Midland, the line reaching Orillia in the early seventies. He was roadmaster of the Midland division until nine years ago, when he was promoted to a larger supervision. After such long and arduous service Mr Cheer considers himself entitled to a period of relaxation, and has severed his connection with the G.T.R. It is his intention to take a trip to the Pacific Coast, and he will probably leave next week, visiting other places of interest on his way across the continent.

Lakefield Church Has Secured New Pastor

Rev. S. S. Burns, B.A., of Stirling, Will be Transferred to the Peterborough Presbytery—Meeting Was Held Yesterday at Belleville.

A special meeting of the Kingston Presbytery was held at Belleville yesterday when the question of the call of the Lakefield congregation to Rev. S. S. Burns, B.A., of St Andrew's church, Stirling, was considered. The Lakefield congregation was represented by Mr. Graham and Mr. Fairbairn, who ably supported the call. Rev. J. G. Potter also addressed the meeting, representing the Peterborough Presbytery. The Stirling church was also represented with a delegation, and they gave reasons why the call should not be sustained. The Lakefield people won out, however, and Rev. Mr. Burns was transferred to the Peterborough Presbytery, and will shortly assume the pastorate of the Lakefield church.

Mr. Burns has been stationed at Stirling for ten years, and during that time has placed St. Andrew's church in a most satisfactory position. The membership has materially increased, and from a financial standpoint the church was never in such a good condition.

The Lakefield congregation is to be congratulated upon having secured Mr. Burns.

Polite but Prudent.

RochesterHerald.

MATT W. RANSOM, late Senator from North Carolina, made politeness a point of conscience. One day he saw the very worst bore of his acquaintance, and with a short 'Howdy do?" brushed swiftly past. The bore evidently hurt, proceeded sadly. Ransom's conscience smote him. After ten steps, he turned back, and, with a pleasant smile, called back, "Good-bye, Simpkins, I've been thinking a mighty heap about you lately, Simpkins." The bore's face relaxed. "Ah," said he, returning. Ransom waved him back wildly with both hands, crying, "I've been thinking a mighty heap about you lately, Simpkins, but don't come back, Simpkins, don't come back."

Glass Cut His Leg.

—Mr. Thos. Austin had his leg badly cut on Tuesday by a large pane of glass falling from the fan light over the door of his shop and striking him in its fall. It penetrated his clothing and inflicted a cut about an inch long and three quarters of an inch deep. The cut required two stitches, but is doing well.—Fenelon Falls Gazette.

An Explanation.

—The publication of the outs of Rev. E. A. Langfeldt and Ven. Archdeacon Warren in two issues in succession requires an explanation. The original intention was to have used them in connection with the article describing their visit to the north, but by a misunderstanding they were inserted in yesterday's paper instead. The article appears to-day.

A Grand Spectacle.

—The stage which will be occupied by the spectacle of "Ivanhoe," at the Canadian National Exhibition, and which is to be given nightly from August 28 to September 8, inclusive, will be 700 feet long, and 300 feet deep. The walls of the castle of Tourquilstone will tower into the sky upwards of 100 feet, and when they fall will collapse with a realistic crash and a blaze of light, that will illuminate the sky far and near. No fewer than 500 people will be employed in this magnificent spectacle, including a bevy of young ladies who will give dances of the period.

Returns To City After Forty-Seven Years Away

Mr. S. H. Firth, of Kalamazoo, Left Here Forty-Seven Years Ago—He Tells of Some of the Changes Noticed in Peterborough.

Mr. S. H. Firth, until 47 years ago a resident of Peterborough, but now living in Kalamazoo, Mich., is in the city this week on a visit to Mr. Chas. Miller, 611 Stewart street. Mr. Firth has not been in Peterborough for 20 years, and naturally he sees a number of changes in the place in that period. He paid a visit to The Examiner office this morning, and stated, after going through the establishment, that in no place had he seen greater things than in this office, which had kept step with the march of progress in the city. He related how, 50 years ago, when he was a young boy, he came to The Examiner office and waited until the papers were run off—sometimes quite a wait, too—on the old hand press.

Mr. Firth's place of adoption, Kalamazoo, is a progressive city of 30,000 people, and is rapidly taking it place among the manufacturing centres of the State. He will probably be here a few days yet.

Electrocuted By Live Wire To Save Others

Young Man Electrocuted In the City of Hamilton.

TRIES TO CUT LIVE WIRE

Electric Light Wire Fell, and Harry Smith, Fearing It Might Hurt Someone, Tried to Cut It Off With a Pair of Pinchers—They Were Unsuitable and He Was Killed on the Spot—Badly Burned.

Hamilton, Aug. 18.—Harry Smith, 246 Mary street, was electrocuted last night at the corner of Park and York streets. An electric light wire fell to the ground, and for fear that it might hurt someone, Smith tried to cut it off with a pair of pincers. They were not adapted to the work, and Smith was killed on the spot. A plank was thrown against the wire, and in that way the body was freed. It was horribly burned. Smith was 23 years of age, and unmarried.

Farmer Killed by a Bull.

Ottawa, Aug. 18.—With his body badly torn, covered with blood, and showing unmistakable signs that he had been bitten several times, James Busbie, a respected farmer, aged 53, was found dead in a field early yesterday morning at his home, three miles from Cumberland, near Ottawa. He was attacked by a savage bull, probably some time Thursday night, as he had been dead several hours when laborers found his body.

The bull was a powerful, vicious animal, and some time ago, had to be dehorned, so it is thought the animal, while enraged, knocked the farmer down and then bit and buffeted him until he lost consciousness. Busbie lived alone.

Teamster's Neck Was Broken.

Toronto, Aug. 18.—Richard Mino, aged 32, a teamster employed by T. A. Clark, contractor, was hauling a load of clay along Galley avenue. Near Roncesvalles avenue the wagon wheel struck a stone, jolting him from the seat. The wheel went over his neck and chest, and he died instantly. His neck was broken. He came from Limehouse, near Georgetown, where his parents reside.

Boy Killed at Ottawa.

Ottawa, Aug. 18.—Harold Plunkett, aged 10, was riding on a cart when another boy threw a corn-cob at the horse. It jumped, and Harold fell under the wheels, which ran over his neck, breaking it, and killing him.

Boiler Explodes.

London, Aug. 18.—Injuries painful, but fortunately not serious, were received yesterday afternoon by Assistant Superintendent A. F. Hallet of the Rolling Mills. He was hit in the side and leg by flying pieces of iron from a boiler that exploded. He will recover.

Struck by Train.

Cornwall, Aug. 18.—William Lalonde, a sectionman on the G. T. R. was struck by a freight train and had one rib broken and his back badly injured. He is in a critical condition.

Rope Breaks; Three Hurt.

Ottawa, Aug. 18.—Three men were hurled through space for 20 feet at the Government mint building yesterday morning, by a scaffolding rope breaking. E. Peterson, stonemasons' attendant, was so badly injured he will likely die. James Alderdice, stonemason, is severely injured, while the third man escaped injury. Peterson struck on his head, and is suffering a hemorrhage of brain and fracture of the skull. Recovery is improbable.

Severely Burned.

Belleville, Aug. 18.—Mrs. Norman Phillips was severely burned Thursday night. Her clothing caught fire while she was baking.

Wm. Matthews Drowned.

Toronto, Aug. 18.—The police last night received a telegram from Chicago, saying:

"Locate brother William Matthews, drowned in Chicago to-day."

Fifty Men Entombed.

Bristol, Va., Aug. 18.—Fifty men are entombed alive in the Clinch Mountain tunnel at Clinchport, Va., as a result of a cave-in. It is not known whether the men are dead or alive.

CARS OFF THE TRACK.

Four Coach Loads of Harvesters Get a Shaking Up.

Barrie Aug. 18.—As the first section of No. 65, the C. P. R. excursion harvesters' train was pulling into the station four passenger coaches left the rails. The trucks of the first coach ploughed into the sand for 30 feet, and the third and fourth remained standing.

The engines, 219 and 569, did not leave the rails, and the passengers crawled out through the windows. No one was injured.

The line was opened for traffic in a couple of hours. The greatest confusion reigned for an hour.

Larkin Barns Burn.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Aug. 18.—Fire yesterday morning destroyed several of the large farm buildings of J. D. Larkin on his beautiful farm, below Queenston on the bank of the Niagara River. The total loss to buildings, farm implements, one thousand bushels of grain, and three stacks of grain will reach $25,000.

Miners' Candidates Win.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 18.—The first election for the delegate to Congress from the district of Alaska has passed off quietly. Cale and Waskey, the candidates of the miners of Alaska for delegates to Congress, have carried the Nome country, known as the second judicial district, by handsome pluralities. Their election is now conceded.

Adam Lloyd Dead.

Belleville, Aug. 18.—Adam Lloyd, the old man who last Assizes here was tried for killing his wife and acquitted, is said to have died recently. He was living with a son at or near Detroit, and had of late been insane.

How to Pack Apples.

Ottawa, Aug. 18.—The fruit division of the Department of Agriculture is arranging a series of demonstrations in boxing apples to be given by an expert, who has been brought from Oregon specially for the purpose. The division is seeking to introduce in the fruit districts the system of packing in boxes, particularly of fancy grades of apples.

CATARRH OF THE STOMACH THREATENED HIS LIFE.

Finds Prompt Relief In Pe-ru-na, the Reliable Catarrh Remedy.

PROF. ALBERT J. SMITH.

A PROMINENT PROFESSOR OF DANCING, WELL-KNOWN IN AUSTRALIA, LONDON AND CANADA, RELATES HIS WONDERFUL EXPERIENCE WITH THE USE OF PE-RU-NA.

Albert J. Smith, the well-known professor of dancing, formerly of Ferndale Academy, Paddington, Sydney, after touring London and Canada, has now located in Carlton, Victoria, (Australia) at 485 Cardigan street.

He writes to the Peruna Drug Mfg. Co., Columbus, Ohio, (U. S. A.), regarding his use of Peruna, as follows:

"I was troubled with catarrh of the stomach for a number of years, which finally resulted seriously.

"It was when the disease was at its worst and I could not sleep, eat nor work that I began using Peruna and found that it was doing me good every day.

"My stomach began to feel much better, my appetite increased, and I did not feel so nauseated upon rising in the morning.

"My bowels were soon in better condition, my sleep undisturbed, and the catarrh gone.

"Peruna is a perfectly wonderful medicine and I certainly recommend it for catarrh."

Some years ago it was thought that catarrh was confined to the head and nose. However, all the respiratory and digestive organs are lined by mucous membranes, and catarrh will attack these membranes at any point.

The most reliable remedy for catarrh, no matter where located, is Peruna, an internal, systemic catarrh remedy. It has proven its efficacy by years of use in thousands of families.

HOUSE BOATS INCREASE PLEASURE OF RESIDENTS IN THE KAWARTHA REGION

A Description of the New House Boat Built for Mr. James H. McGill of Washington, D.C.—Is a Veritable Palace on the Water--This Style of Residence Will Probably Become Very Popular at Stony Lake.

A gentleman who has spent considerable time each year around the lakes recently, gave a glowing description of what would take place within the Ontario waterways should the time come when the house boats could enter the canals and find a way from the American cities to our quiet and beautiful lakes. But the pleasures of the Kawartha Lakes are so attractive that the people who like a summer holiday of the kind afforded in our lakes and rivers, are building their house boats here, and one which is, no doubt, the finest on the system of waterways, has just been completed in Lindsay by Mr. McGill of Washington, D.C., who has been a visitor at these resorts for twenty summers, and the Examiner is able to furnish its readers to-day with two excellent illustrations of this commodious boat, through the courtesy of the Lindsay Watchman-Warder, which paper publishes them this week.

Mr. McGill has had a notable success in planning and completing this floating house, and a description of it will be of interest to our readers, some of whom may be contemplating building similar outing homes for themselves.

Beginning at the stern of the boat there is a large back verandah 8 x 20 feet, with a railing around it, and gates opening out at each side. A door from this verandah enters into the gentleman's lavatory. Another door leads to the kitchen, which is 14 x 15 feet. It contains a sink with hot and cold water, a cooking range, which can be regulated to burn wood, coal or charcoal, according to the supply which may be obtainable where the boat may be anchored. Opening off the kitchen is the cook's berth, furnished similar to a steamer berth, and at one side of the kitchen there is a commodious pantry, with a refrigerator and all conveniences.

The main room is 12 x 20 feet. Lounges are built across each end, under which are receptacles for packing things away. These lounges may be used to sleep on, if the rooms are filled with guests.

The ceilings are 7 feet 6 inches high, and the windows are large, giving plenty of light.

Upstairs there are four bedrooms, so arranged that each room has two windows, and space for a full sized metal bed, which can be placed far enough from the windows to avoid drafts. On the same floor there is a bathroom.

The water tanks, instead of being on the roof, are under the boat, and the water is raised by compressed air. The hose which is provided for fire protection will by the pressure throw a stream for a distance of about fifty feet.

All the rooms are lighted by electricity, and the fittings were put in by Mr. Reesor, of the Light and Power Company, Lindsay, the Canadian General Electric Company, Peterborough, furnishing them.

The house rests on a sort of raft, built of four layers of 16 x 10 inch timbers. The raft is 22 x 50 feet and 36 inches deep, and draws about 31 inches of water.

For a protection in case of collision with heavy craft, there is a raft three timbers wide, running all around the boat. On these timbers there is a floor, making a nice walk.

The electricity for illumination is supplied from storage batteries in a small boat which can be despatched to the nearest power house when the batteries are exhausted.

Mr. McGill has provided everything but a garden, and the walks around the boat can be easily utilized for that purpose if gardens on house-boats become the fashion on the Kawartha Lakes.

One Hundred Moderate Rental Houses Wanted

A Correspondent Says This Number Could Easily be Filled in This City—Want Houses to Rent From $10 to $12 a Month.

Wanted:—100 houses in the city of Peterborough, at once. This is the way an advertisement, if dicatted by a correspondent to tuhe Examiner, would read. This gentleman, who is actively identified with large manufacturing interests in the city, sends a communication to this paper, in which he makes the statement that there are needed in this city to-day not less than that number of houses, for the accommodation of the working men, who are employed in the manufacturing establishments of the city, or who will be employed in the very near future.

The class of houses he recommends is a house which will cost to erect, from $1,500 to $1,800 and will rent for $10 to $12 a month. They should be fitted with baths and other modern conveniences, because the mechanics of to-day are demanding these conveniences in their dwellings, as they should do.

The fact is, however, that the growth of the city, from the standpoint of population is being retarded because of the fact that there are not sufficient houses of the kind specified to accommodate all those who are demanding them. There is, too, no immediate likelihood of the demand decreasing. For the next year, at the very least, the population of the city is bound to increase, and consequently, the demand for houses will conitnue.

Great Activity Reported At South Beach Hotel

This Popular House is Filled to Overflowing—By Far the Most Successful Season on Record—Some Great Catches of Fish Are Recorded—Guests Enjoy the Bathing at the Beach.

Special Staff Correspondence.

South Beach Park Hotel, Aug. 17.—Additional guests at the Park Hotel since Tuesday, the 14th inst., when last reported, are as follows: Mr. A E Nelson, manager of the Fairlie Clothing Co., and wife, Rochester; Mr. John Hall, Hamilton; Mrs. Mary Hurley, Rochester; Mrs. Jas. O'Shea, Mona M. O'Shea, Peterborough; Mr. Geo E Waymsburg, Pa.; Marsh D Gordon, Rochester, Pa.; Geo J Marshall, Rochester, Pa.; John Howe, Rochester, Pa.; Chas Metzger, Rochester, Pa.; W Menzies, Peterborough; Mrs. Robt Hicks, Peterborough; Miss Isabel Menzies, Peterborough; Fedor Willimick, Rochester; H Pfaefflin, Rochester; E C Brown, Rochester; J L Montgomery, Rochester; R W Tod and wife, Toronto.

During the whole of this week seldom has a steamer passed this point without leaving a passenger at South Beach Park Hotel. It will have been noticed, too, that the guests registered here are tourists from nearly every quarter of the continent, so that South Beach is becoming widely known in a remarkably short period of time. This year, perhaps, has shown an astounding increase in pleasure travel at all our Stony Lake resorts, but nowhere has the big increase been more noticeable, or the character of the tourists more cosmopolitan than here. The demand for accommodation at the hotel this month has been so incessant that sleeping quarters have had to be arranged for at Young's Point, and quite a number of guests have been provided with comfortable rooms over Mr. Kearney's store and at the D'Arcy House, the proprietors of both places having kindly accorded Mr. Brooks the much-needed help in time of need for his overflow guests. These walk over from South Beach to the Point in the evening for the night, and enjoy a pleasant stroll back in the morning through the beautiful pine grove known as "Lovers' Walk."

"I've no quarrel with nature, but if I could arrange matters I'd ship four Augusts into the year," remarked Mr. Brooks yesterday evening as he beheld his hard-working house help planning how to make accommodation for seven extra guests who had just arrived off the steamers Stoney Lake and Majestic. "With four months like this I would start to build a series of cottages that would afford greater comfort and less doubling up to our guests," said the delighted host.

You ought to see the swimming pond about 11 o'clock every forenoon. It's a sight to make any man keep young in heart to witness bunch after bunch of young girls take their daily plunge in their picturesque bathing costumes. (And to their credit be it said, they don proper costumes, that never a suggestion of abbreviation dare be hinted at. The bathers are principally ladies from Toronto, Peterborough and Rochester, and because of the fact that no danger is possible in the water in which they exercise, they feel themselves at liberty to disport themselves with the heartiest of merriment and freedom. If girls would all enjoy themselves as they do at South Beach they would go back to the duties of life with added strength—like little giants, refreshed—satisfied that their holidays have done good in every way and that they will feel the good effect for many weeks to come.

The George Jenny party from Rochester, who closed an interesting holiday here on Wednesday, returned home with at least their legal share of bass and maskinonge. The evening before their departure they made an exhibition of the best of their catch of fish. They strung on a strong wire 14 bass and 10 maskinonge, which must have weighed over 100 pounds. Several snapshots of the fish were taken by their kodaks in various positions, to be afterwards passed around to friends as souvenirs of their visit.

A yacht race was arranged to come off this afternoon on Clear Lake, but unfortunately the wind went down before the yachts arrived, and it has been postponed until to-morrow, wind and weather permitting.

A DOUBTING THOMAS

Had His Falling Hair Stopped, and Dandruff Cured, Without Faith.

H. B. Fletcher, Butte, Mont., Oct. 20, 1899, says: "Like many other people, I have been troubled for years with dandruff, and within the last few months my hair came out so badly that I was compelled to have what I had left clipped very close. A friend recommended Newbro's Herpicide. I confess that I doubted his story; but I gave Herpicide a trial; now my hair is as thick as ever, and entirely free from dandruff." "Destroy the cause, you remove the effect." Herpicide is a delightful hair dressing for regular use. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Editor Post Card Column:

Dear Sir,—Can you furnish a key to the situations—that is a post office box key. I lost mine and found on application to the local department that I couldn't get another key within three weeks. I could not get permission to have a local key-smith make a key for our box—it must be obtained through the red tape department—a three weeks' job, when an ordinary blacksmith could make one in three hours. Red tape may be all right in its place—if I had used it to tie my key round my neck, I wouldn't have lost it—but when it sends me for my mail to the wicket to meet sour looks for three weeks, I can't appreciate the boom.

Yours truly,
KEYLESS LASS.

P. S.—I was trained in the belief that the post office was maintained for the convenience of the public. I now publicly recant.

Dear Sir,—We want more desk room for the public in the post office. Down in the corner where the stamp wicket was formerly located would be a good location. Present desks are always overcrowded.

Yours truly,
CROWDED OUT.

P. S.—I would also like to give post office authorities a rub on blotting paper. Give us a clean piece on the desk occasionally.

Landed Fine 10 Lb. 'Lunge

Mr. John Lefevre Believes in Fishing at Home.

Mr. Jack Lefevre, the well known barber evidently believes in patronizing home industry even as far as fishing is concerned. Did You Ever Visit The Planet Mars? Leyson Did

A Psychical Research President Going 282,000,000 Miles in 40 Minutes and Saw Sights—He Tells What Was Revealed to Him.

Syracuse, Aug. 18.—Sackville G. Leyson, of this city, President of the Society for Psychical Research, says he recently paid a visit to Mars, and although the distance is 141,000,000 miles his spirit went there and back in forty minutes, while his body was in his residence, No. 131 South avenue. In describing his visit he said:

"When I approached Mars it looked like a big globe of fire and it seemed as if I was about to plunge into a molten mass. It was surrounded with blood-red clouds, mixed with others of a greenish hue.

"There are two tribes of people on Mars, one so large that I only came up to their knees and the other so small that they only came up to my knees. None wore clothing and all were covered with hair.

"The larger species had huge ears, a nose like a lion and only one eye in the middle of the forehead. Their lungs did not move up and down in breathing, but the expansion was crosswise. The little men lived in holes in the ground or in rocks and the larger ones had houses made of rocks. The little ones had web feet and slipped over a moss-like substance as though skating. They could walk up perpendicular walls like flies. The small ones have two eyes, one in each temple. They had no nose, but there was a hole in each cheek.

"The trees looked as if made of rubber and I saw none decayed. There was a substance which looked like snow, but which was not cold, and easy and soft to walk upon. Down in a deep chasm I saw men working with some sort of machines which were guiding lights across transparent rocks and the rays seemed to be reflected clear to the atmosphere of the earth."

PLEASANT MOMENTS.

It has been said with a great deal of truth that you can never become really acquainted with a man until you have supped with him, and in order to ensure a pleasant time good tea must be used. During the past sixteen years "Salada" has become a familiar word to every newspaper reader, and the fact that the demand is steadily increasing requires no comment, it tells its own story, "Salada" is king.

Bishop Scollard To Erect New Convent At The "Soo"

Evidences of Progress Being Made by the Church in New Ontario—Convent Site Being Secured.

His Lordship Bishop Scollard has not been idle since he assumed charge of the new diocese of Sault Ste. Marie. On the contrary, the rapid expansion of business in the new country which made the creation of the new diocese necessary, has continued unabated, and the church enterprises have kept pace with the material progress of the country. A despatch from Sault Ste. Marie states that His Lordship, Bishop Scollard has been in that city for the purpose of selecting a site for the new Convent which [illegible] at the See City of the diocese in the near future. That the church is in a flourishing condition in that city is indicated by the fact that there are two large churches, two schools and a hospital maintained by the Roman Catholic community and now Convent is to be added to those institutions. In future it will not be necessary for the young women who wish to take instructions in a convent to go outside the boundaries of the diocese to do so. That Bishop Scollard, in whom Peterborough people take a special interest, has succeeded in successfully placing the church enterprise upon such a satisfactory basis is a matter for deep gratification to his many warm friends here.

HIS LORDSHIP BISHOP SCOLLARD who is to erect a new Convent at Sault Ste. Marie.

Automobile Classed As A Banana Cart

And is Now Called an Obstruction Under Certain Conditions—When Without a Rear Lamp it Has No Rights on the Streets.

The automobile has fallen, says the Toronto News.

The Legislature made it distinguished by reserving a special page for it on its law books, and its owner had the privilege of paying fines under a special schedule.

Btu Daniel Lamb, J. P., has brought it down till it stands shorn of its pride, beside a banana push cart, of its pride, beside a banana push cart, become an "obstruction."

The automobile of W. H. Lee, of Crescent Road, which heretofore, about a dozen times or more, has remained true to the prerogative of motor cars in having its rear light out, was captured in front of the owner's house on a dark night with its lamps trimmed and burning. Surely this was sufficient, but no.

"You are not allowed to leave a wagon on the street at night without horses, and an automobile is a vehicle 'without horses'," declared the clerk, Arthur Webb, yesterday afternoon.

"There is no question of it; this does not come under the automobile law, but the city bylawy against 'obstructions on the streets.' It will be two dollars without costs."

And Magistrate Lamb turned to his list again.

East City Boys Charged With Throwing Stones

They State in Police Court that Complainant Hurled Missles at Them—An Old Friendship Costs Wm. Boyd $10.

Wm. Boyd used insulting language towards Mrs. Kearney, his boarding house landlady, with the result that he appeared before Magistrate Dumble this morning. A friend, whom he had not seen for 20 years was the primary cause of Boyd's trouble. The acquaintance renewed, an invitation to drink followed, and after it and several more had been disposed of, Boyd went home and picked flaws in the character of his landlady. Unfortunately, his observations were not made mentally, but were hurled broadcast to the world, or at least to a large part of Water street. Boyd expressed his guilt and sorrow in one breath this morning. The magistrate thought an honourarium of $5 or a 15-day vacation in Castle Nesbitt would fit the needs of the situation. Boyd had $3.50 and wanted to compromise on the instalment plan, but the magistrate couldn't see his way clear.

Jas. Gorman and Chas. Stevens were charged with throwing stones at John Wicker. The latter's story was to the effect that as he was passing a group of boys in East City a stone was thrown at him grazing the brim of his hat. On returning, a fusilade of stones were thrown, one of them striking him on the knee. He immediately gave chase and succeeded in rounding up Stevens.

Both Stevens and Gorman and another witness named Ferguson stated that they did not see any stones thrown at Wicker, but that that worthy had bombarded them. Gorman said he was hit twice.

The magistrate enlarged the case until next Wednesday to allow of more evidence being taken. Mr. Dumble reminded Wicker that he must not take the law into his own hands, and stated that if he heard of his throwing any more stones the would impose a fine on him.

APPRECIATES MUSIC OF SALVATION ARMY BAND

Editor Examiner:

I had the pleasure of hearing the Salvation Army Band last Thursday evening in Victoria Park, and I was agreeably surprised at the quality of music furnished on this occasion. The blending of the different and difficult parts was simply perfect, and one of the selections, "Onward, Yes, Onward" was the feature of the evening, the solo parts, especially being delightful to hear.

It reflects great credit upon Mr. Greene, as Bandmaster for the painstaking and energetic manner in which he has brought this organization to its present very high standard of efficiency. I think that persons who appreciate good music should turn out in large numbers to the weekly concerts given by this band, and by so doing encourage the members of the band to greater efforts.

A Lover of Good Music.

Eyes Worth Having

Did you ever stop to think that with the exception of the heart, the eye is the hardest worked part of the body.

As long as you are awake and your eyes are open they are working in your service.

Three pairs of muscles control the movement of each eyeball.

The two eyeballs move exactly together. Would you know the effect of their not working together—press your finger against one, so that it's position does not exactly correspond with the other.

How important it is that if these muscles tire and you have headaches and require Glasses, that your Glasses suit your eyes—our long experience makes us experts and able to fit you correctly.

Board Refuses To Give Up Site

ment. To give up the lot would be a breach of faith in every shape and form.

Citizens Opposed to Change.

Mr. Pringle stated that the people had voted the money with the understanding that it would be used for buying that lot for Collgiate Institute purposes. So far as he had heard he was quite certain that four-fifths of the citizens were opposed to any change.

Mr. Hill—"Yes; ninety-nine per cent."

Mr. Pringle continuing said that the Board had no right to give up the lots. He would be sorry to have the Normal School lost to Peterborough, but did any man mean to say that there was no other lot available for Normal School purposes?

Mr. Crane remarked that as he had said at first that if the Government were going to put up a handsome building, better than the Collegiate Institute, it might be better to give up the lot. Now, however, he felt, in view of the agreement with the Dominion Government, and the feeling of the people, that the Board simply could not give up the site.

Deputation to Toronto.

Dr. Morrison advocated the sending of a deputation to Toronto to interview the Education authorities and explain to them the Board's reasons for refusing to give up the lots.

This was supported by several of the members, but the suggestion that these reasons be expressed in a resolution, was thought to be a good one and the resolution given above was carried unanimously.

Other Business.

Mr. Pringle, chairman of the Building Committee, brought up the matter of adornment for the main door of the new school.

On motion it was decided to have constructed an arch of rough Longford stone.

The matter of inspecting the plumbing material put in the new school was left in the hands of the chairman.

The Board then adjourned.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube, when this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Bobcaygeon Has A Very Bright Canine

It Found Its Way Home From Omemee After Having Been Shipped by Train—How Did It Find Its Way?

The Bobcaygeon Independent has the following somewhat remarkable story: Some few weeks ago Mrs. D. Cain, went to Omemee to visit her sister, Mrs. Dick. She had a collie dog, named Collie, about three years old, and as she expected to be away some little time, she requested that the dog be sent to her. Collie was accordingly placed in the baggage car of the train here, and went to Lindsay, where he was transferred to the Grand Trunk line, and sent to Omemee, chained in a baggage car. He left Bobcaygeon for the first time in his life on a Tuesday morning, and reached Omemee that day. Thursday morning when Mr. D. D. Cain opened his door, the first thing to greet him was Collie, wagging his tail, tired looking, but evidently much pleased to be home again. At first it was thought that he must have broken away from the car and jumped out, but at mid-day the mail brought a post card from Omemee dated Wednesday afternoon announcing that the dog arrived safely, and at the time of writing was tied in the shed. There was then no doubt that the dog had made his way from Omemee across country somehow, among turnings of concessions and sidelines innumerable which he had never seen before. How did he start from Omemee in the first place, and how did he select the right turns? Was it merely a matter of instinct, or are you quite sure there was no reasoning power?

Great Damage From Severe Quake in Chile

May Be Another San Francisco In Valparaiso.

FATE MAY BE CONJECTURED

For There Is Absolutely No News Coming Through From the Stricken Chilean City—Los Andes Destroyed and District Devastated—Evidence of Great Disturbance Recorded at Washington—Partial News.

Except for a few private messages received yesterday, reporting an earthquake in Chile and damage to buildings in Valparaiso, no direct news from Chile has as yet been received. The early reports coming from different points stated that the earthquake had resulted in great loss of life and widespread damage to property. Up to 11 o'clock last night, however, there had been nothing to confirm these reports.

The Associated Press correspondent at Buenos Ayres cables that it is feared that the Town of Los Andes, in the Province of Acondagua, has been destroyed. At the same time, he points out that Buenos Ayres has no direct communication with the disturbed district. No official information has reached Washington from Chile, and, while positive information is lacking, New York officials of the cable companies express the opinion that the first reports of the earthquake were exaggerated.

All cables reaching New York from Chile and Valparaiso early last night were evidently much delayed, according to the statements of these officials, who are themselves unable to get any information bearing on the situation, other than the fact that an earthquake has occurred; that the disturbance has disarranged telegraphic apparatus and interfered with communication.

The First News.

New York, Aug. 18.—The City of Valparaiso, Chili, is reported badly damaged by earthquake. One report received here is that the situation in Valparaiso may prove to be as serious as the San Francisco disaster.

Practically every building in the city is damaged, and there are fires in different parts of the city. Many persons are reported killed and injured.

Los Andes Stricken.

Buenos Ayres, Aug. 18.—The newspapers last night publish telegrams from Mendoza (an entrepot for the trade between Buenos Ayres and Chile) to the effect that many houses in the Los Andes district were destroyed by the earthquake, and that there have been a large number of casualties. The interruption of all means of communication with Chile causes much anxiety. Many rumors of disaster are afloat.

British Companies Lose.

Liverpool, Aug. 18.—Most of the British fire insurance companies have interests in Valparaiso, Chile, but the amount involved is not nearly so great as was that at San Francisco.

Wire Down.

Buenos Ayres, Argentina, Aug. 18.—All the attempts made here to obtain telegraphic communication from Chile regarding the reported earthquake were fruitless up till late yesterday afternoon, on account of the interruption of wire communication.

Business Suspended.

New York, Aug. 18.—A private cable despatch to W. R. Grace & Co., from Valparaiso, received by way of Lima, Peru, says that the earthquake in Valparaiso is severe, and that business in the city has been totally suspended.

Commerce Paralyzed.

London, Aug. 18.—Some London firms trading with Valparaiso have received telegrams from their agents there. One, to James and Alexander Brown, says: "Severe earthquake. Commerce paralyzed. Town afire. Staff safe."

Other despatches give no details, and merely record the safety of their offices and staffs.

The Hamburg firm is alleged to have received a despatch stating that numerous districts in Chile had been partially or totally destroyed; that Valparaiso had been practically demolished; that many ships had been lost and that over 100 persons had been killed and many hundreds injured. This despatch, however, is not well authenticated.

Several Hours Duration.

Washington, Aug. 18.—The weather bureau yesterday issued the following earthquake bulletin:

"A very heavy distant earthquake was recorded on the seismographs at the weather bureau in Washington yesterday afternoon, beginning at 5 minutes and 23 seconds past 7 p. m., 75th meridian time. Complete and perfect records were obtained of both the north and south and the east and west movements of the earth.

"The earth tremors at Washington were of comparatively slow and deliberate motion, each complete movement covering from 15 to 40 seconds of time. The earthquake lasted continuously for several hours, and finally ceased at about midnight. The most violent shock occurred at 7 hours 42 minutes 26 seconds p. m.

"From press reports this is evidently a record of the great Chilean earthquake of Aug. 16, and is the heaviest recorded in Washington since the San Francisco earthquake."

Where Valparaiso Is.

Valparaiso is a fortified seaport of Chili, and the most important commercial town of the western coast of South America. It has a population of about 150,000. It is the capital of the province of the same name, and is situated on a fine bay in the Pacific Ocean, seven miles west northwest of Santiago, with which it is connected by rail.

Tenders For G. T. P. Bridges.

Ottawa, Aug. 18.—Tenders for the construction of bridges on the Quebec-La Tuque section of the Transcontinental Railway have been received from the Dominion Bridge Co., the Canadian Bridge Co. and the Locomotive Co. of Montreal. The contracts will be awarded some time next week.

Will Maintain Law.

Paris, Aug. 18.—The Cabinet Council discussion of the church and state separation question yesterday resulted in the Government's firm resolve to maintain the law.

The Election In Shelburne Declared Void

Corrupt Acts By Agents Unseat Hon. Mr. Fielding.

VIEWS OF THE TWO JUDGES

Personal Charges Dismissed With Costs—The Chief Justice Impressed With the Hardship of Making Respondent Responsible For the Corrupt Acts of Agents—May Be Again Returned by Acclamation.

Halifax, Aug. 18.—Chief Justice Weatherbe and Judge Russell, comprising the court which tried the petition against the return of Hon. W. S. Fielding, Minister of Finance, as member for Queen's and Shelburne, at the election of November, 1904, last night gave decision at Liverpool dismissing the personal charges of corrupt acts against Mr. Fielding, but declaring the election void, the court holding that the agency of E. M. Farrell of Liverpool had been established, and that the payment of $550 by the latter to John Seldon a week before the election was an illegal act, although Seldon swore that the money was expended for legitimate campaign purposes.

The Chief Justice.

The Chief Justice, in delivering judgment, said that he was impressed with the hardship of making a statesman, whose sole desire was to serve his country, responsible for the corrupt acts of a few agents among so many persons who innocently assisted in securing his election. The rules of agency were relaxed in election cases, and it was important for the Judge to inform himself of the practice of the election courts. He was sorry to relax the rules, but he felt himself bound by the decisions to hold that Farrell was an agent, and that Mulhall and Seldon were also agents. Mr. Fielding had to depend on these men; if not, on whom could he depend? The money paid to Seldon was paid without the knowledge of the Liberal association and was evidently a secret fund. Proof was clear that it must have been used illegitimately.

Judge Russell's Deliverance.

Judge Russell reached the same conclusion, but read a lengthy opinion. He was in doubt whether the other persons mentioned were agents, but it was unnecessary to decide if they were, as Farrell clearly was. It was clear that the respondent did not authorize the corruption of any person, and there was no evidence that he had any knowledge of such acts. Nevertheless he was bound by the authorities to decide that the election was void. An order was made dismissing the personal charges with costs and voiding the election. Mr. Ritchie, K. C., strongly contended for all the costs, but the court thought he was not entitled to the costs of witnesses improperly subpoenaed and examined.

No Gain to Conservatives.

The vacating of the seat will be of no political advantage to the Conservative party, as Mr. Fielding will probably be returned by acclamation, and by a large majority if, indeed, any opposition should be offered to him. Mr. Fielding has always been so scrupulously careful in complying with the provisions of the election law that his unseating on account of the unauthorized act of a supporter is regretted by the best men of both parties.

RESULT OF MEETING.

King and Kaiser Thought to Have Promoted Friendly Relations.

Berlin, Aug. 18.—The correspondent at Homburg of the Lokal Anzeiger quotes British Ambassador Lascelles as describing the result of the meeting here on Wednesday of King Edward and Emperor William as likely to be of great advantage in promoting friendly relations between Great Britain and Germany.

The Frankfurter Zeitung's Homburg correspondent states that King Edward and the Emperor were in conference with Sir Charles Hardinge, the under Secretary of the British Foreign Office, and Secretary of State Tschirschky from early Wednesday evening until 2 o'clock Thursday morning.

To Ask Intervention.

London, Aug. 18.—A despatch from Athens states that King George is going to Marienbad, where he will meet King Edward, whom he will ask for intervention in favor of the Greeks against Bulgarian excesses.

ARREST 210 REVOLUTIONARIES.

Members of the Militant Section Taken In Three Days.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 18.—It is announced that 210 members of the militant section of the Social Revolutionists were arrested in St. Petersburg and Moscow during the last three days.

Warsaw Casualties.

Warsaw, Aug. 18.—It is now known that forty-three persons were killed here Aug. 15, of whom eight were policemen, and that eighteen policemen and about a hundred citizens were wounded.

During Thursday, throughout Poland, eleven policemen and one gendarme were killed and four policemen were wounded.

China Must Insist.

London, Aug. 18.—A despatch from Tokio to The Daily Telegraph states that Great Britain, the United States and Japan have intimated to China the necessity of insisting that Russia establish customs stations in Northern Manchuria.

Observing the Open Door.

London, Aug. 18.—The Daily Mail's correspondent at Tientsin telegraphs that, having made a tour of Northern Corea and Manchuria, he found that the Japanese are now more strictly observing the open door.

Military Training In Schools.

Ottawa, Aug. 18.—The Minister of Militia will hold his proposed conference with the representatives of the Provincial Governments in regard to military training in the schools upon his return from England, where he will be about six weeks.

H. M. S. Dominion.

Quebec Aug 18.—H. M. S. Dominion passed inward at Fame Point at 8 o'clock last evening.

MRS. BRIDANT'S DEATH.

Bridant's Lawyer Took Letters—Dying Woman Took Pills to Please Her Husband.

Toronto, Aug. 18.—There were some rather startling developments at the resumed hearing yesterday morning of evidence in reference to the charge of causing the death of Mrs. Agnes Bridant preferred against Edmund Bridant, husband of the deceased woman, and Mrs. Miller of the De Voss Medicine Co. They are accused of having provided her with certain medicines which led to her death.

Mrs. Villiard of Kingston, mother of the deceased woman, stated in reply to the Crown Attorney that Mr. Neville, the male prisoner's lawyer, had taken away some of the letters at the rooms where the Bridants were staying. Crown Attorney Corley at once demanded that the documents should be handed over, the Magistrate also insisted and stopped the case until they were forthcoming. After half an hour's adjournment they were produced, and Mr. Neville had to submit to censure for what he had done.

The only witness was the mother of the deceased, who had to undergo a painful examination in regard to the last moments of her daughter. The latter, it appeared, had stated on her dying bed that she took the pills to please her husband, who did not wish her to have children. Mr. Neville sought to show that a man named Driscoll caused the husband to be jealous, but the witness said she could not throw any light on the matter.

Arrested For Raising Cheques.

Toronto, Aug. 18.—Charles Darragh was arrested yesterday at Port Burwell on a charge of having passed a bogus cheque for $15 on the T. Eaton Co. purporting to be signed by his brother, A. T. Darragh, manager of the Canadian Show Case Co. at Toronto Junction.

Accused of Bigamy.

Toronto, Aug. 18.—Abigail Brown, 34 years of age, married, Canadian born, housekeeper by occupation, was arrested last evening on complaint of Willian Koln charged with bigamy.

SHOWS FAMILY SKELETON.

Daughter of Bank Wrecker Stensland Tells All She Knows.

Chicago, Aug. 18.—Mrs. Inga Sandberg, daughter of Paul O. Stensland, wrecker of the Milwaukee avenue State Bank, is said to have told the authorities all she knows of her father's affairs, especially those relating to Mrs. Leone Langdon Key, the statuesque and dashing brunette to whom her father was so generous.

"I do not know where my father has gone," she said, "and I do not know much about his financial affairs. I knew he spent much money on women. He installed in his home Leone Langdon Key, whom I introduced to him, and this compelled me to go to Madison and teach music."

There were two more tragedies Thursday as a result of the Stensland Bank trouble. Gustav Turkhardt, a depositor, went mad and was locked up. Mrs. Mary Jara, another depositor, also became crazed and was locked up to prevent her from killing her children.

Four Boys Admit Murder.

San Francisco, Aug. 18.—With a coolness that amazed the police, Fred Peterson, William Meares, Walter Westwood and Frank McAuliffe, four youths still in their teens, Thursday night confessed that they composed the gang of four who committed the series of hold-ups which culminated in the killing of Fred Mullineaux on the Ocean boulevard last Sunday night. Peterson admitted that he fired the shot which killed Mullineaux when the latter resisted robbery.

NASTY CHICAGO.

Regular "Plant" Where Decayed Food Is Manufactured For Saloon Give-Away Purposes.

Chicago, Aug 18.—That the free lunch served to hundreds of saloons in Chicago is largely composed of meat in a condition absolutely unfit for use, was discovered by Food Inspector Murray, when his force of assistants raided a barn at 124 Illinois street, owned by Wm. Davidson.

The place contained thirty stoves, over which six men were working in an endeavor to prepare decayed pork and beef into semblance of its original form, and thereafter "manufacture" it into free lunch for the saloon trade.

The men were arrested on warrants sworn out by Inspector Murray, and, with Davidson, are accused of violating the health ordinances of the city.

This raid followed the inspection of a cold storage public warehouse, where Inspector Murray found 25,000 pounds of meat unfit for use. A search of the books of the company showed that this meat was the property of Davidson.

In addition to equipment at the barn for converting unsaleable meat into cuts from supposedly good roasts, the inspectors found a plant for the manufacture of sausage of different kinds, and other articles of food which usually adorn the free lunch counters in cheaper middle-class saloons.

AN INDIAN TREATY.

Title of Ninety Thousand Square Miles Is Given to Ontario.

Ottawa, Aug. 18.—After two years canvassing the wilderness of Ontario, north of the Height of Land, a treaty has been made with the Indians as far as James Bay and the Albany River.

There are about three thousand Indians in the region and they surrender their rights to 90,000 square miles of land. The Government undertakes to establish a reserve for each band, of a square mile for each family of five.

In addition there is to be an annual payment of $4 per head each year. The treaty was made necessary by the opening up of the country by the G.T.P. and the proposed lines to James Bay. The title of the land goes to the Province of Ontario.

Harvester Takes Carbolic Acid.

Winnipeg, Aug. 18.—An unidentified man, well dressed and believed to have arrived during the day on the Ontario harvest hands excursion, drank carbolic acid and last night lay dying in the hospital. He entered a drug store, asked for eight ounces of the poison and swallowed the whole of it a moment later, falling in the street in convulsions. There was nothing in his pockets to indicate his name or home.

Rev. Hugh Black.

The Rev. Hugh Black has decided to go to America, and Edinburgh has metaphorically put on mourning, says M. A. P. It is almost as difficult to picture an Edinburgh without Hugh Black as without Arthur's Seat or Scott's Monument, Holyrood or the Castle. And yet he has been in Edinburgh for barely a decade. When I was in the Scottish capital eight or nine years ago (writes a correspondent) it was as much the fashion to go to Free St. George's to hear Hugh Black preach as it is in London to visit the Opera on a Melba night. Everyone went, even an occasional Roman Catholic! Lord Rosebery was among the young preacher's staunchest admirers, and had him at Dalmeny as an honored guest when Royalty sat at the board. No one except a Kubelik or a Paderewski ever aroused more fervent admiration in the hearts of womankind. He was not unlike a musical genius in appearance, pale, slim, and of no great height, with the face of an enthusiast and abundant hair. Like most of the Scots clergies who have achieved fame, Mr. Black sprang from the people, and he has never been ashamed of his humble beginnings in beautiful Rothsay. As in the case of the celebrated Father Burke (who was fond of gaily declaring that he belonged to the "best-bread" Burkes in Galway), Hugh Black's father was a baker. While still at college in Glasgow his reputation as a preacher was made, and there was almost a religious war when Free St. George's tried to woo him from his first congregation in Paisley. He married a Paisley girl, and his Edinburgh congregation came out nobly in the way of furnishing his house for him and presenting a handsome cheque. Some comment was aroused by the fact that in his early days as a benedict, Mr. Black used to announce his wife's "At Home" days from the pulpit, but it was done with the kindliest and best of motives. The gifted pastor writes as well as he speaks, and he is certain to fill with distinction his professional chair in a New York theological seminary.

Girl Courts Funeral Pyre.

An extraordinary story of suicide by fire comes from Codsall, a pretty rural village near Wolverhampton.

Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Walker, of Woodfield Oaken, in Codsall, were awakened at an early hour one morning recently by a smell of smoke. They saw fierce flames in the yard, which Mr. Walker extinguished with a garden hose. The fire appeared to be in a heap of wood and shavings that had been saturated with paraffin.

The village policeman was called, and Mr. Walker's household mustered, when it was discovered that the cook, Eliza Davies, was missing. An examination of the remnants of the fire disclosed charred human remains, which were identified as those of the missing cook.

It appeared that the young woman found paraffin in the kitchen, and made her exit by a window to the yard, where she built and ignited her funeral pyre. The reason for her act is a mystery. She had been in Mrs. Walker's service two years, and was well conducted.

Greek Fire.

Greek fire, which had several other names—wild fire, liquid fire, wet fire and fire rain—descriptive of its destructiveness, is said to have been the most destructive engine of war previous to gunpowder. Discovered by Callinicus, a Syrian, it was first used in the siege of Constantinople, 673-78, and at Mecca, 690.

4,000 Harvest Hands.

Toronto, Aug. 18.—Despite the fact that in some circles a falling off of Ontario farm labor excursionists to the Northwest harvest fields was predicted for yesterday, the C. P. R.'s estimate of 4,000 was easily realized. Six special trains of 11 and 12 coaches each were required to convey the travelers to North Bay, where 33 coaches were filled with those arriving there on the Grand Trunk.

Temiskaming Commission.

Toronto, Aug. 18.—The T. & N. O. Railway continued their sessions all day yesterday, but had only routine proceedings to report at 6 o'clock.

Later, the members of the Commission left for the north with the intention of proceeding over the line to the end of the track.

Construction has reached McDougall's Chute.

Two-Thirds Subscribed.

Toronto, Aug. 18.—While Hon. Mr. Matheson is absent, the new provincial loan is coming along very nicely, and Mr. Sproule of the Treasury Department reported yesterday morning that the amount subscribed had already reached $2,000,000. The total amount of the loan is $3,000,000, so that intending purchasers of the debentures should make no delay.

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 18.—The board of review has added more than $7,000,000 in the personal property assessments of thirty-three estates judged to have been undervalued by the county assessors.

Morocco Factions Clash.

Tangier, Aug. 18.—A fierce fight occurred Thursday outside the gate of the city between followers of Raisuli, the pretender, and Sujera tribesmen. Several on both sides were killed, wounded or taken prisoners.

The New York Stock Market

(Furnished by J. R. Heintz & Co.)

New York, August 18.—Some more big advances were recorded in stocks to-day. It was a great big bull movement from start to finish. Union Pac. soared to 168. Southern Pac. made a new high. Reading, Penna, Copper, the Steels, Louisville & Nashville and C. P. R. were all strong with the lower priced issues up in proportion. The market closed active and strong at about the high of the day.

Chameleons.

Chameleons always change their color on the approach of a storm and assume a neutral hue, darker than their customary tint.

The Irish Language.

The Irish language has only eighteen letters. The chief difficulty in learning it is that there are innumerable abbreviations for words and phrases. The words, too, are rarely a key to the correct pronunciation.

Cigarette Smoking.

Cigarette smoking in England dates back to 1844. The great impetus to their increased use was caused by the Crimean war of 1854-56, when numbers of military and naval officers adopted this method of smoking from the inhabitants of Russia, Turkey, Malta, the Levant and other parts of Europe.

Ostrich Eggs.

The largest egg is that of the ostrich. It weighs three pounds and is considered equal in amount to twenty-four hen's eggs.

Origin of Bush Fires.

The discovery has been made that recent great bush fires in New South Wales and Victoria were caused by phosphorous paste laid out to kill rabbits. As soon as the mixture dried the sun's rays set fire to it.

The Deepest Well.

The deepest well in the world is situated in the village of Speremberg, about twenty miles from Berlin. It has a depth of 4,194 feet.

They Burned Cloves.

From the middle of the sixteenth century until 1824 the Dutch regulated or sought to regulate the clove trade and the price by annually destroying a portion of the crop in order to enhance the price of the remainder. The burning of cloves took place annually, from a quarter to a half of the crop being thus destroyed. The last clove burning was in 1824.

CONSTRUCTING BOMBS

INGENIOUS ENGINES OF DEATH FOR WHOLESALE TRADE.

The Dangers Incident to the Manufacture of Infernal Machines and the Methods Adopted Abroad For the Destruction of Unexploded Bombs—Typical Bomb and Bomb Concealed in a Bouquet.

This is a remarkable age, and it takes all sorts of strange people to make a world, yet it seems hardly credible at first that the work of making bombs with which to assassinate people should grow almost into the proportions of a recognized industry. The attempt on the life of King Alfonso of Spain and his Queen has directed attention to the frequency of the use of the bomb in assaults not only upon sovereigns and rulers, but upon private citizens.

The bomb was was thrown at the King of Spain and his fair bride on their wedding day was concealed in a bouquet, and none knew that behind the flowers was a terrible weapon of destruction—none but the man who threw it at the happy royal pair and his confederates, if such there were. The manufacture of bombs for the killing of human beings is a dangerous and an abhorrent industry, yet it is carried on upon a scale of surprising extent, and into it enter the inventions and discoveries which form some of the marvels of modern science.

The bomb thrown at King Alfonso and Queen Victoria on their wedding day, though it missed them, killed twenty-four persons in their escort and injured many more. It was a scientifically constructed bomb and was made by a man who understood both the theory and practice of chemistry. In a chemical bomb a tube containing sulphuric acid is generally used to ignite the charge and scatter the scrap iron. In another type bomb water soaks through blotting paper and heats sodium, which detonates mercury. The detonation of the mercury causes the explosion of the dynamite. A clockwork infernal machine contains a clock which at a certain moment closes the circuit of an electric induction coil and so ignites the charge. Percussion bombs and bombs with fuses are out of fashion now among anarchists who are up to date in their methods.

In Paris outrages committed by bomb-throwers have become so frequent as to call for the creation of a municipal department for the protection of the public so far as possible against such dealers in violent deaths. This unique civic department has taken advantage of all the achievements of science in order to circumvent so far as may be the misdirected energy of social malcontents. When a suspicious looking object is discovered the service of explosives of the municipal laboratory is telephoned at once, and soon the bomb automobile van is on the scene.

An experienced chemist lifts the supposed infernal machine into the rear compartment of the van, which is filled with threaded wood fiber, and away the vehicle is hustled to the nearest "bomb farm." Here the evil-looking engine is destroyed. If it appears to be a bomb of the type which may be set to go off at a particular time it is first radiographed. A bomb of this kind is constructed by use of electrical science. It contains a clock, the minute hand of which at a given time closes the circuit of an electric induction coil and so ignites the charge. Such a bomb may be carried in a valise and left where it is planned that it should explode without exciting any suspicion. But if the assassin's plans miscarry, and he is not ready for the detonation of the charge when the time for which the machinery of the bomb is set arrives, it is an inconvenient thing to have around. Some years ago a man with such a bomb got into a London bank and entered a vault. He set his machine and then discovered that the door of the vault had closed behind him and locked on the outside. Having once fixed the time for the explosion, he could not readjust the clockwork without causing an immediate ignition of the explosive. He was condemned to the agony of hearing the clock tick off the seconds separating him from his approaching fate and when the instant selected arrived he was blown to pieces.

When the Paris officials find an engine of this kind the operator at the bomb farm plants himself behind armor plate and by means of the radiograph discloses the moment at which the wire from the induction coil is fixed for contact with the minute hand. Armed with this knowledge, he puts the bomb in the hydraulic press and the monster machine slowly descends upon the murderous little engine and crushes it out of existence before it has a chance to do harm.

Bomb making has called the discoveries of the chemists into play and the up-to-date anarchist has to be an expert in practical and theoretical chemistry. Morales, who threw the bomb at Alfonso and his Queen, was such a man. In one type of chemical bomb a tube containing sulphuric acid ignites the charge and scatters scrap iron. In another, called the reversible bomb, there is a tube filled with fulminate of mercury, sodium, pieces of blotting paper and water. When the bomb is reversed water soaks through the blotting paper and ignites the sodium, which fires the fulminator and so explodes the dynamite cartridges. If a bomb of this kind happens to get tipped before the anarchist is out of the range of its effects and results are bad for him. Accidents of this kind are frequent. In Warsaw not long since there was an explosion among a room full of workers engaged in the making of bombs. When the smoke had cleared away their mangled remains were found mingled with the fragments of the death-dealing implements upon whose manufacture they had been engaged.

LORD HADDO.

Marriage Arranged Between Lord Aberdeen's Heir and Mrs. Cockyane.

London society was a bit staggered at first by the announcement that a marriage had been arranged between Lord Haddo, eldest son and heir of the Earl of Aberdeen, and Mrs. Cockyane, a linen draper's widow heretofore unknown among the fashionable elect, but recovered its composure on learning that his fiancee has lots of money. That is a commodity with which the earldom of Aberdeen is not abundantly blessed. Such a marriage, even if it lacked the financial justification, would be quite in accordance with the traditions of fraternity and equality in which the future earl was brought up.

LORD HADDO.

His mother, Lady Aberdeen, as far as concerns her own household, carries her democratic notions even farther than does the Socialist Countess of Warwick, and it was from the arrangement of her menage that J. M. Barrie gathered some of the ideas that were turned to account in "The Admirable Crichton."

Mrs. Cockyane married her first husband in 1881, and she is almost old enough to be the mother of Lord Haddo, who is only 27 years of age. She has a son who is 24. He and Lord Haddo were at Balliol together. In marrying a woman who has much the advantage of him in seniority, Lord Haddo is following a custom in favor now. Lady Magheramorne and Lady Florence Astley, brides of last year, were both much older than their husbands, as, to go back farther, were Lady Randolph Churchill, Mrs. Langtry, Lady Lothian, and Lady Howard de Walden.

Birds and Wires.

Sportsmen in France are becoming furious advocates of wireless telegraphy. It appears that after carefully watching for three years a kilometer's length of telegraph wire in a district not overpopulated with birds an interested observer has proved that one and a half head of game, such as partridges, pheasants, quail, and so on, are impaled yearly on every wire of this length in France, which means a total all over the country of 40,000 annually. Many of the victims, especially of the migratory kind, lose their lives through nocturnal flights, so unless these can be induced to travel by day wireless telegraphy seems the only French game law in future worth supporting. It would be interesting to find out if in England also bird intelligence is still of the pretelegraphic period.—London Chronicle.

Medical English.

The following sentence, printed in the current number of a prominent medical journal, explains why there is no great demand for professional periodicals by the laity: "The virulent spirillum possesses a greater number of bacteriolytic and agglutinable haptophore groups or these groups are endowed with greater binding power for uniceptors and amboceptors than the avirulent."

"In It."

In the first chapter of Dickens' "Bleak House," which was published in 1852, the phrase is to be found, and is inclosed in quotation marks, too, as follows: "Every chancellor was 'in it' for somebody or other when he was counsel at the bar."

DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

THE OLD SUIT AND THE NEW

AN EASTER FANTASY.

The Old Suit—How d'ye do, Mr. Spickenspan? Let me welcome you to the clothespress.

The New Suit—I'm pleased to meet you, Mr. Passe! Delightfully cozy quarters, these. I trust we shall get on together very nicely.

The Old Suit—Don't worry yourself about that, dear boy. We shan't get on together at all.

The New Suit—Why, I hope you—

The Old Suit—There, there, I beg of you, don't misunderstand me, for I rather like your looks. You are right up to date. But, as I said before, we shan't get on together.

The New Suit—And why not?

The Old Suit—Simply because our master can only wear one of us at a time, don't you see?

The New Suit—Oh! Ha, ha! Deucedly clever, doncherknow! I suppose that is what is called a joke, eh? You will have to coach me, old chappie, for as yet I'm a bit unused to the ways of the world.

The Old Suit—Oh, you'll get on to all the wrinkles soon enough. It didn't take me very long to do so. You wouldn't think it to look at me now, but I was brought home here the day before last Easter looking like a dream, and now—

The New Suit—And now?

The Old Suit—Now, I've every symptom of a Welsh rabbit nightmare. Look at these shiny spots on my elbows. Ah, my boy, if you could realize how much it cost our master to make these elbows shine so resplendently! If you but knew how many times he has said, "That's good!" as he dragged the cards toward him for his deal, rubbing disconsolately the while these sleeves against the green cloth! Excuse these weeps. Some of my recollections are very bitter ones.

"LOOK AT THESE SHINY SPOTS ON MY EL BOWS."

The New Suit—Come, come, old chap! Don't take on so! Don't get so down in the knees about it!

The Old Suit—So you have noticed the drooping expression of my knees, have you? Ah, but the causes which led to their downfall were happier ones! Yes, my boy, the happiest moments of my life were moments my master spent upon his knees and mine! I can hear him yet. "Ah, fairest creation of sweetest loveliness, my heart, my fortune and my future are all yours—yours! Will you be mine?" And I can see her turn the incandescent light of her beautiful eyes full upon him as she replied, "Take me, Cholly!" Oh, it is a glorious memory, shrouded though it may be by the fact that she eloped the following week with a shoe drummer and never sent back the ring.

The New Suit—But surely you don't despair? You will see as much of the world as formerly, will you not?

The Old Suit—No; my happiest hours are over now. For a time to come you will do all the mingling necessary, just as I did when I was young and handsome.

The New Suit—But our master remembers you, doesn't he?

The Old Suit—Only when the tailor who made me reminds him of my existence. When we lose our beauty we are soon forgotten and neglected—nothing remains of us save an entry on the tailor's ledger and a moss covered and unreceipted bill.

The New Suit—I'm afraid you take a pessimistic view of everything, old chap.

The Old Suit—Pressimistic, my boy; pressimistic is the word. I've been pressed so often that all my original lines of beauty are lost. The creases and crow's feet of old age are over and about me. I'm a baggy kneed, wrinkled up old has been. I am being saved up for a rainy day—saved up for a rainy day, that's all.

The New Suit—Oh, but I say, old chap, you—

The Old Suit—There's no use talking, my boy; I am older than you, and I know from experience just what will happen. You will be trotted out in the bright sunshine and shown off before an admiring multitude; I will be trotted out when it's raining cats and dogs and soaked to my innermost linings with shrink producing liquids. You will be hung up carefully with all sorts of newfangled arrangements to support you; I will be hung up at my uncle's if my owner thinks he can get enough on me to make the trip worth while. You will be carefully groomed and brushed every day; I will be thrown down behind a trunk and left there to fret my life away, until some day a tramp will come along and I will go to join the army of the unwashed. Oh, it's the old, old story of the survival of the fittest! You are new and elegant, therefore the fittest. Twiggy vous?

The New Suit—Then there are many happy days in store for me, you think?

The Old Suit—Oh, yes; lots of them. Pretty soon will be taken out to see all the lovely girls our owner knows, and probably you will be permitted to put your arm around some of their waists, while I shall be left alone here in the darkness, with nothing to remind me of the good old days except an unpaid florist's bill in my inside pocket.

The New Suit—I'm jolly, well sorry for you, old chap. I am—

The Old Suit—Don't mention it. Your day of sorrow will come soon enough. Your trousers will probably be the first to get the turndown—mine were. By the way, are you American or English?

The New Suit—English, old chap.

The Old Suit—I thought your tone was a trifle resonant. And then those checks are formidable and foreign in appearance. We Americans run more to stripes. How's the prince?

The New Suit—Very well, I fancy. I shall keep my trousers turned up, for, doncherknow, he'll be reigning in London one of these days—ha! ha! Deucedly clever, isn't it, old chap? I saw it in Punch, and Punch says some beastly clever things. I remember another—

The Old Suit—Pardon me. I don't wish to be rude, but what did you cost?

The New Suit—I believe our owner promised to pay £10 14s. for me, and blow me if I'm not worth it, eh?

The Old Suit (aside)—Yes, you're like a singed cat—you're uglier than you look. (Aloud) Well, he promised to pay $46 for me—$6 down and the rest when convenient. My tailor got the $6, but it hasn't been convenient yet. I hope your tailor has better luck. Of course, though, the copyright laws will protect him. Sh-s-s-s-s-h, here comes our owner. It is Easter morning, and he is going to take you out on the highways. Good luck to you, my boy. Put on a bold front, and don't scare the cable cars.

The New Suit—Goodby, old chap. Very glad to have met you. I'll see you later.

The Old Suit—About daylight probably. I know him better than you do. Look out for the bobbies, and don't get pinched.—New York Herald.

Br'er Rabbit in China.

A fat, life sized rabbit, in warm tinted china, is intended to be placed on the breakfast table on Easter Sunday morning. Its ruby eyes have a wise, wary look. It is no surprise to find that the head and shoulders of the long eared Br'er Rabbit come off as a lid, to show your breakfast provision of boiled eggs within. The crouching position of the rabbit is well copied. It would scarcely startle you if bunny leaped up and clicked his heels together. Keep the dish for eggs, but when you make a Welsh rabbit for the family on the chafing dish, late at night, have the china bunny placed on the table.—Newark Call.

The Sweetest Thing on Earth.

I went to church on Easter morn,
And peace was in my heart;
I went to church to pray and sing
And do a Christian's part.

I heard the organ peal as if
'Twere all a dream; I heard
The preacher read his sermon, but
I can't recall a word.

I didn't sing a single note;
I knelt, but didn't pray;
The peace I had was gone, alas,
Before I came away!

I do not know the maiden's name
Nor what her thoughts may be;
All that I know is that she sat
Across the aisle from me.

I went to church on Easter morn
To raise my voice in praise—
Ah, why will women dress themselves
In such bewitching ways?

—Cleveland Leader.

Then as Now.

"See here," remarked Miss Singleton rather sharply to Miss Pepprey, who had been abroad for some years, "Maud was just telling me what you said to her about my appearance."

"Er—yes," replied Miss Pepprey, "I told her you looked just the same now as you did when I left."

"Why, she told me you said I looked old."

"Well?"—Philadelphia Press.

Checkless.

"You may try to hold me in like you did last year," drawled the callow youth in the purple hatband, "but I will see that I go through my vacation this summer unchecked."

"That's what you will!" snapped the old gentleman. "I'll see that checks to you are cut out altogether."—Detroit Tribune.

Just Possible.

Clara—I wish I could believe what he says, but—

Maude—What does he say?

Clara—Why, he says he loves me, yet he has only known me two days.

Maude—Well, perhaps that's the reason.—Pick-Me-Up.

A Theory.

"What makes Dumley keep talking about hot weather?"

"I suppose," answered Miss Cayenne, "it's to get his mind off it. He's one of the people who never give any thought to what they are talking about."—Washington Star.

Contingent.

"Oh," exclaimed the minister, "fishing on the Sabbath! What will your father say?"

"Can't tell yet," replied the bad boy. "If I don't catch nothin' I'll catch it; if I do I won't."—Catholic Standard and Times.

His Reason.

Johnny—Mamma, when I grows up I wants to be a saint.

Mother—Oh, you darling! And why?

Johnny—Why, I was reading that boys never grows up to be what they wants to be.—Judge.

A PRAYER.

God of the morn,
Thou who hast made the earth and moon and sun,
I praise Thee, with all praises, Thou the One.
In Whom all things are born.

God of the day,
Amids tha tumult of the shouting throng,
I lift my thoughts to Thee, for Thou art strong;
Help me, and guide, I pray.

God of the eve,
As in the West the golden sun sinks low,
Shed on me here heaven's glorifying glow,
And these deep shadows cleave.

God of the night,
On through the solemn stillness and the dark
Upbear and guide, I pray, my little bark,
At last unto the light.

—William T. McElroy, Jr.

THE GOLDEN RULE.

The golden rule proves its divine origin by solving every individual and social problem, whenever applied. The only arguments ever advanced against it are by those who do not want to apply it. The more a man loves himself, the more absurd it seems to him to love his neighbour as much as that. He even argues that it would not be good for the neighbour, or work out rightly —and he can always convince himself, and other selfish people, that he is correct. But the golden rule remains as strong, as perfect, as binding, as ever.

WITH THE SAGES.

A sunny, cheerful view of life — resting on truth and fact, co-existing with practical aspirations, ever to make things, men and self better than they are—that, I believe, is the true healthful poetry of existence.—Rev. F. W. Robertson.

Avaunt all the post-mortem kindnesses that ever burdened men with the curse of hypocrisy! Enwreath your friend's brow in life, and plant your flowers within his heart, not save them to decorate his grave.—Rev. A. E. Salmon.

With love the heart becomes a fair and fertile garden, glowing with sunshine and warm hues, and exhaling sweet odors; but without love it is a bleak desert covered with ashes.—Charles Warren.

Life is hardly respectable if it has no generous task, no duties or affections that constitute a necessity of existing. Every man's task is his life-preserver.—G. B. Emerson.

I am very sure that any man of common understanding may, by culture, care, attention and labour, make himself whatever he pleases, except a great poet.—Chesterfield.

It is wonderful what strength and boldness of purpose and energy will come from the feeling that we are in the way of duty.—John Foster.

Work is not man's punishment; it is his reward and his strength, his glory and his pleasure.—George Sand.

Every duty which we omit obscures some truth which we should have known.—Ruskin.

What we hope ever to do with ease, we must learn first to do with diligence.—Johnson.

Things don't turn up in this world until somebody turns them up.—Garfield.

Genius is talent concentrated in the right place.—Ivan Panin.

Dispatch is the soul of business.—Chesterfield.

HOME RECIPES NO. 1.

(St. Luke's Parish Magazine.)

1.—Overwork him in body and soul.
2.—Don't let him christen the baby.
3.—Keep the other children from Sunday School.
4.—Don't bother "so long as they go somewhere."
5.—Leave your religion to the women and children.
6.—Come to Sunday School and stay from church.
7.—Give nothing a week regularly and then wonder why they want "so many collections."
8.—Keep away or go to another church when there is a special preacher or some unusual service.
9.—Consider yourself neglected whenever the parson does not know you are ill.
10.—In a large and scattered parish complain if he does not visit you monthly.
11.—Put a wrong meaning on all your parson says or tries.
12.—Give him credit for a lot he never says or thinks at all.
13.—Don't read his Parish Magazine.
14.—Light your pipe with his reports and printed appeals.
15.—Talk as if "the Church" means "the Parson" and not you.
16.—After a time you will see him break down.
17.—Your objec twill thus be obtained.

N. B.—Serve while hot, with mint sauce, and Hebrews xiii. 9-22.

S. S. LESSON.

Lesson VIII.—August 19.—The Judge the Pharisee, and the Republican.—Luke 18, 1-14.

GOLDEN TEXT.

God be merciful to me a sinner.—Luke 18,13.

NOTES.

According to the view here held, the series of discourses of which the last lesson formed a part, preceded the raising of Lazarus and the retirement to Jerusalem is indicated by Luke, in chapter 17. 11. This was probably circuitous from Ephraim, "along the borders of Samaria and Galilee," thence into Perasa. The healing of the lepers probably occurred near the beginning of this journey. The discourse (Luke 17, 20-37) which immediately precedes the lesson, while containing many sayings that are found in the discourse on the Mount of Olives (Matt. 24 and parallels), was probably uttered in the connection assigned to it by Luke.

Place.—In Perasa.

Time.—Probably in March, year of Rome 783; that is, A. D. 30.

The first parable is connected in thought with the previous discourse about our Lord's return. The second is linked with the first, since both give instruction in regard to prayer. "To end like the widow, one must begin like the publican." (Van Oosterzee).

CRITICAL NOTES.

Verse 1.—Unto them; The disciples (17, 22, 37).—Not to faint; To become discouraged.

Verse 2.—A judge: The municipal judge (comp. Deut. 16. 18.)

Verse 3.—A widow in that city: The Old Testament specially demanded judicial protection for widows. — Came oft; "Oft" is inserted to bring out the force of the tense, "kept coming."—Avenge me of mine adversary: or, "do me justice of," and so throughout. The justice of her cause is implied.

Verse 4.—Would not for a while: The delay is an important point in the parable.—Said within himself: This soliloquy reveals the utterly abandoned character of the man; he was not ashamed for his recklessness.

Verse 5.—Because this widow troubleth me: He would award justice for an unjust reason.—Lest she wear me out: Literally, "smite me in the face," or, "beat me black and blue"; a figure for the effect of incessant demands.

Verse 7.—And shall not God: The "much more" is implied in the contrasts of the characters.—That cry to him day and night: Their importunity is assumed.—And yet he is longsuffering over them: "Longsuffering" implies "slow to punish"; hence the marginal rendering, "and is he slow to punish on their behalf?" "Them" refers to the elect, and hence "bear long with them" is misleading. God seems to delay justice to his people, yet his longsuffering is really on their behalf. This is brought out by supplying "yet."

Verse 8.—The son of man cometh: As predicted in chapter 17, 22-37.—Shall he find faith; Greek, "the faith." This points, not to a creed, but to a particular form of faith, probably faith in Christ's return. To refer it to saving faith leads to extreme and pessimistic conclusions.

Verse 10.—A publican: The two represented the extremes of Jewish character, in popular esteem.

Verse 11.—Stood: As if in a prominent position.—With himself: suggesting soliloquy rather than devotion; pride, not piety.—God, I thank thee: This gives the language the form of prayer.—Not as the rest of men: "The rest" as in verse 9.—This publican: The tone is that of contempt.

Verse 12.—All that I get: Not "possess". The Pharisees prided themselves on giving tithes on every business transaction. "Systematic beneficence" in the interest of pride.

Verse 13.—Standing afar off: In an unconscious place.—His eyes unto heaven: Probably the Pharisees lifted both eyes and hands upward.—Smote upon his breast: A common sign of grief and contrition.—God, be thou merciful: Or, "Be thou propitiated." "Thou" is properly inserted, as it is implied in the Greek. The publican's language may have recognized the propitiatory character of the temple sacrifices; at all events such a thought was befitting the place and his attitude.—A sinner: Literally, "the sinner". This certainly shows that he had no thought of others, but only of his own guilt.

Verse 14.—Went down to his house justified rather than the other: "Justified" here as always in the New Testament, means "regarded as righteous," usually by God, as in this case. The tense points to a permanent res... "The other" accounted himself r... ous, and did not feel the ne... of God's acceptance of him.—S. S. Times.

A Fish Story From Millbrook

Mr. Fred. Clarry of Hastings Figured In It.

The Millbrook Mirror says: Messrs. Victor Martin and W. H. Coombe were guests of Mr. L. Fred Clarry, barrister, Hastings, for a few days this week. Mr. Clarry accompanied his friends in his yacht on a pleasure trip, which was much appreciated. They did a little trolling and captured seven good-sized lunge. Mr. Coombe, who is one of Millbrook's leading merchants, had a rather exciting experience with a large one which gave considerable trouble and almost upset the gasoline launch. However, just as they were about to haul it in, the line broke and away went the monster to seek a quiet spot in which to digest the hooks. The exact weight of the lunge could not be obtained as it carried away the scales, but a fish that could nearly upset a gasoline launch (and it not a small one), must be nearly as large as the "sea serpent" in Lake Simcoe.

The Best Eye Instrument

By the use of which the whole interior of the living human eye is illuminated and made visible, is in use for a few days from 10 to 12 a. m., and from 2 to 5 p. m., at the Optical Rooms of Messrs. McDermid & Jury's Drug Store.

J. W. Browett, Dr. of Optics, of Philadelphia, is teaching opticians throughout Canada the use of this instrument, and many persons are taking the opportunity of Dr. Browett's visit to Peterborough to have free examination of the eyes for Glasses, thus benefitted by this instrument and Dr. Browett's skill, resulting from twelve years successful practice in Canada and the United States. The most modern eyeglasses are being made to prescription for those who desire them at ordinary prices. Artificial Eyes are also being fitted. Difficult cases are not too difficult, and easy cases are getting the benefit of accurate work with no extra expense. If you wish to know the condition of your eyes, or if you would like to see the interior of the eye, inquire for particulars at

RICE LAKE CONTRIBUTES ITS DROWNING CALAMITY

A Sunday Afternoon Drowning Accident—Mr. James Clarke Loses His Life in Rice Lake.

This season's first drowning accident in Rice Lake took place on Sunday afternoon, resulting in the death of James Clark, son of a prominent Alnwick farmer, Mr. George Clark.

Young Clark and two companions, Orra Montgomery and Oliver Varcop, went out bathing at Margaret's Island, near the confluence of Rice Lake and the Trent River. Young Clark was unable to swim and had provided himself with the inner tube of a bicycle tire. This he inflated and placed under his arms in the belief that it would support him. But when he got beyond his depth he sank, and his companions were unable, by the most strenuous efforts in their power, to save the young man from death.

The deceased was an estimable young man, highly respected, both on his own account and on account of his father, who is a very highly respected and influential farmer of Alnwick.

The remains were interred this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Albert Ament Living Now At Fernie, B.C.

A Man Who Registered as Being From Peterborough and About Whom There Was Some Apprehension Felt, is Said to be Safe at Fernie—His Mail is Taken From Post Office.

The Fernie Free Press of a recent date, republished the article from the Examiner in reference to the suspicion that Albert Ament, who registered at Claresholm, from Peterborough, had met with foul play, and adds the following information.

Enquiry by a Free Press reporter at the Fernie post office threw some light on the above mystery. A registered letter arrived at that office for Ament on May 24th. It was not called for and was sent to the return address, Walker and Hance, Claresholm, on June 4th.

Since that time Ament has apparently turned up. The post office clerks are not sure that he has applied for his mail, but it is regularly called for by a man named Topping who carried mail for a number of men. It is persumed that Ament works at one of the adjoining mills.

Enquiry at the provincial and city police quarters resulted in no further information, they having never heard of the case before.

Struck By Edison Car; Escaped Almost Unhurt

Arthur Elliott Tried to Cross in Front of a Car Going at Full Speed--His Injuries Fortunately Were Slight.

Arthur Elliott, 464 Donegal street, had a very narrow escape from serious injury and perhaps death this morning. He was going to the C. G. E. works where he is employed and not seeing an Edison car approaching at full speed, tried to run across in front of it. He was struck by the fast moving car and hurled to the ground. Although stunned by the shock and badly shaken up, the young man escaped with but few bruises, his left shoulder being the most injured. He was carried into the car and taken to his home. It was thought at first that he was seriously hurt and his escape from injury was thought upon as miraculous.

Hastings Bids High For Radiator Company

Village Solicitor in Peterborough To-day in Connection Hastings' Offer of Inducement.

Hastings is radiating enterprise these days in preparing for the radiation of heat at a later stage. To-day Mr. L. F. Clarry, barrister, Hastings, is in town, in connection with the submission of a village by-law to implement an agreement with the Peterborough Boiler and Radiator Company, by virtue of which the company engages to establish its industry in Hastings, to erect buildings to the value of $75,000 and employ 25 hands the first year, the village to give the company $5000 cash and exemption from taxation payers of Hastings about the middle of September. Mr. Clarry's visit to-day is to complete arrangements, for ten years. The bylaw will be submitted to the vote of the ratepayers of Hastings about the middle of September. Mr. Clarry's visit to-day is to complete arrangements, for ten years. The bylaw will be submitted to the vote of the rate-

Politeness in the Home.

Newark Evening News.

THE late Alex. Muir of Toronto, author of the "Maple Leaf," Canada's national anthem, was interested all his life in the divorce laws, which were too often, he claimed, unfair to women.

Mr. Muir frequently declared that men, not their wives, were in nine cases out of ten responsible for unhappy marriages.

"The trouble with too many husbands," he once said, "is that they treat their wives, as a Toronto man used to do.

"This man sitting in the drawing-room on a coolish evening, cried out, fiercely:

"Shut that door, confound you! What's the matter with you anyway? Do you want to freeze me?"

"The cook appeared calmly in the open doorway.

"'Do you know who you are speaking to, sir?' she said, in a stern voice.

"The man, taken back, stammered:

"'Oh, excuse me; I thought that it was my wife.'"

Peterborough Boy Wedded In Sidney

Mr. H. A. Frowde One of the Principals in Interesting Event.

The many friends in this city of Mr. H. A. Frowde, of Sidney, B. C., formerly of this city, a son of Mrs. Jas. Frowde, 17 Walton street, will be interested in the following report of his wedding from the Sidney Record:—

A very pretty home wedding was solemnized this morning at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth McKinnon, north Esplanade, when their youngest daughter, Emily C., was united in marriage to Mr. H. A. Frowde, of this city. Rev. John Howie, an uncle of the bride, performed the ceremony and was assisted by Rev. J. L. Beatty, pastor of the Jubilee Methodist church. The event was witnessed by only immediate relatives of the contracting parties. The young couple were unattended. After partaking of a dainty wedding breakfast, Mr. and Mrs. Frowde left on the early express for a trip which will include leading points of interest in Great Britain. That the young couple were very popular was evidenced by the large number of friends who were at the station to see them off.

Eko Camp Club's Pleasant Outing

The Members Returned To-day After Ten Days at Stony.

The members of Eko Camp Club, after spending a pleasant ten days in camp at McCracken's Landing, returned home this afternoon. The majority came to the city by the club yacht, sailing down from the Landing through the canal while a few returned by train. They report one of the most pleasant and successful camps in the history of the club. The social events at the Victoria House and at other places at the Lake were made more lively by reason of the presence of the Eko boys, who are always popular with the lake residents.

"Canada" Changes Its Head Office

In Future the Business Will be Handled From Toronto.

The chief Canadian offices of "Canada," the illustrated weekly published in London, England, for the promotion of Canadian interests in Great Britain, have been removed from Montreal to Toronto. For the present the headquarters will be at Room 38 James Building, Yonge street; later on, permanent offices will be opened. The Canadian management of the paper has been assumed by Mr. Fred G. H. Williams, for twenty-five years actively identified with the Canadian daily press, and for the past three and a half years a member of the staff of The News. The policy of the new management will be largely the diversion to British manufacturers of trade in goods which are at present almost entirely imported from the United States and other foreign countries special attention will also be paid to Canadian industrial and financial interests, with a view of developing trade between the Dominion and the Mother Country, while the halftone illustrations will be continued on a lavish scale. Canadians who have been in England this summer speak in the warmest praise of the work which the new weekly is doing to interest people in the Dominion and its development.

150 Will Leave Here For The West

Od the C. P. R. Harvesters' Excursion on Wednesday.

It is expected that at least 150 people of this district will leave on the C.P.R. Harvesters' Excursion, which departs from Peterborough at 10.15 o'clock Wednesday morning. The demand for help in the harvest fields in the West is great and it is said that many of those who leave on Wednesday will find permanent homes in the western country. Horace Greeley's advice is being followed by the young men of Peterborough county. A large number of them have already gone, with many more preparing to follow.

A Bold Attempted Burglary At Ops

An Exciting Experience Which a Family Passed Through.

While the inmates of Mr. John Jackson's House in Ops, were peacefully resting in slumber on Wednesday night, his eldest son was awakened by the sound of footsteps in the kitchen, and on arising to investigate were confronted by two very rough characters. A lively tussle ensued but the burglars escaped by an open window, through which they must have entered as the house was all locked. Two ladies from Toronto, who were visiting the family, were overcome by nervous prostration when they heard the cause of all the excitement, but they soon recovered and were able to appear at breakfast the next morning. — Lindsay Post.

BRAINS IN BUSINESS.

A Greater Force Than the Genius of the Profession.

We have heard of the artist's brain, of the salesman's brain, of the brain of a soldier. But what makes the world run smoother is the business man's brain. It's a pleasure to do business with a man who knows his business because he mixes brain in his work. Semi-Ready Tailoring was a stroke of genius, and the Company have been particular to select for each Semi-Ready wardrobe in Canada a man who knows the tailoring look. Importuning you to buy is bad form not known in the Semi-ready shop. A. W. Cressman, agent for Peterborough.

MONDAY, AUG. 20, 1906.

CANADA COMES ON.

Our neighbours to the south are noting the prosperity of this country, and drawing lessons from it. The New York Sun says: "The fiscal year just closed, was for Canada the greatest in the history of her commerce." The Philadelphia Record has this to say:

The foreign trade of Canada, without the aid of robber Trusts to curse it, amounted last fiscal year to $552,000,000, against $2,980,000,000 for the United States. But Canada with 6,000,000 inhabitants, has only one-fourteenth of the population of this country. While the foreign trade of the United States amounted last year to $35 per head of the population, that of Canada amounted to $92 per head. The exports of the Canadians increased last year $44,000,000, or $7 a head, and the exports of this country increased in the same time but little.

While Canada's foreign trade was thus increasing by leaps and bounds, and outstripping its neighbours, its home trade expanded so that the manufacturers had a hard time to meet the demand. Everybody was working, labour was scarce, times were good, and the manufacturer was prosperous.—Hamilton Times.

GIRL EMMIGRATION.

These harvest excursions to the Northwest, a hard-headed and tough-hearted bachelor suggests, are too one-sided in the matter of sex. He thinks we could spare a good many girls, who are merely vegetating in Ontario. He thinks that so many young men have left Ontario that there is a surplus of girls whose chances of marrying are greatly reduced by the exodus of eligible bachelors to the Northwest. Now, he argues women are scarcer in the West and consequently at a premium. If the girls went to the West they would be snapped up immediately and become wives and mothers of families, thus contributing their share to the populating of the western region. As it is they stay at home and grow into old maids from sheer lack of eligible husbands. A confirmed bachelor may regard the situation in the manner indicated, but we can better spare unmarrying bachelors than our good girls. Sending a bachelor west is the best way to cure him. Put him where he can't get a wife and he will rapidly develop a want for one. But keep him in Ontario where eligible wives stand thick on every side, and the contrariety of human nature crops out. What we have in abundance we don't appreciate. Young, the poetic pessimist, in his gloomy "Night Thoughts" remarked "How blessings brighten as they take their flight," and if our bachelor friend saw Ontario girls flocking to the Northwest, he might be brought to his senses.

ONTARIO, TOO.

We are accustomed to hearing so much about the wheat crops of the Northwest, that we almost come to consider that region as the chief contributor to the productive agricultural wealth of Canada. The Western fever has affected our Ontario people—in some respects—adversely to the interests of this province, and, to a certain extent, affected the volume of productive resources of the soil. The wheat crop of the West will this year be worth in cash probably sixty millions of dollars, and if we add half as much more for the other staple crops, barley and oats, we have a grand total of half as much more, say thirty millions, or a total of ninety millions of dollars. But take the Province of Ontario alone. The field crops of the present year are worth, no doubt, between one hundred and forty and one hundred and fifty millions of dollars. They were one hundred ant thirty-four millions in 1904. Add to this the dairy products and we have, perhaps, an additional value of thirty-five millions; then add these to the live stock trade—cattle, swine and poultry, and fruit and vegetables and we have a grand total of close upon two hundred millions, more than twice the soil, wealth production of the West. But it is remarked that the West is a new country. That is true, but its immense area and virgin fertility of soil must be borne in mind, and it must also be remembered that for years Ontario has been compiling immense returns of agricultural wealth. In the census year of 1901 the dairy products of Ontario alone amounted to thirty-five millions of dollars. Proud as we are of the great West and its magnificent wheat yield, we do not want to forget that Ontario, which is contributing much of its best blood to build up and develop the West, is still a factor to be reckoned with in creating wealth of Canadian agricultural production. The West with an annual wealth production from the soil of ninety million, or thereabouts, the Transvaal, with its annual production, in coal, gold and diamonds, of about one hundred millions still fall far short of the record of Ontario, whose annual extraction of wealth from her soil reaches a total twice as great.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Ottawa City Solicitor gives it as his opinion, that the payment of expenses of delegates to civic conventions, is illegal. Officials who go to meetings of the Canadian Union of Municipalities, and other such meetings, will have to pay their own expenses hereafter.

Hon. Mr. Templeman, the Minister of Inland Revenue, has returned from the Lower Provinces, and brings back word that business is on the hum down there, that the crops are good and labour scarce. North, south, east and west, the same story of good times is told.

THE TEMAGAMI ISLANDS.

The policy of the Whitney Government in leasing islands in the Temagami district instead of selling them outright, has not proved a success. Over 1,100 islands were put up for lease, it being expected that they would be quickly leased in consequence of Temagami being an attractive resort for tourists. Although the islands have been on the market for a considerable time only thirty have been leased. The cause is that few people desire the islands, unless they can get a title to them. Many who would be agreeable to paying handsomely for islands which they could call their own object to paying a rental of from $20 a year upward for a term of 21 years. They have no desire to lavish money upon summer cottages and improvements unless they can secure titles to the land.

The policy of the late Government was to popularize the Temagami district by selling the islands outright upon conditions that the purchasers would within a reasonable time, erect summer cottages and perform other duties, looking to the preservation of the natural beauty of the district. This policy has in the past proved the better one. Even to-day in the Georgian Bay District, where the old system of selling the islands outright as a fair price has been continued, twice as many islands were disposed of this summer as in Temagami.

Unless the Government reverts to the policy of its predecessors, it seems likely that much of the tourist traffic will be diverted from the Temagami and Temiskaming districts. Let the islands be disposed of on terms within the reach of people of moderate means and the Highlands of Ontario will become one of the greatest pleasure grounds in the world, visited annually by thousands of tourists.—Ottawa Free Press.

Illuminating Gas Under The Streets Of Cobourg

An Agitation to Re-commence the Drilling for Gas--Belief That There is Wealth Under the Ground There.

The Cobourg Sentinel-Star says:—The idea seems to be impressed on the minds of some people in Cobourg that a mine of wealth lies beneath the surface of the corner of Division and King streets. Once on a time, some years ago, we struck natural gas there, and it did some good illuminating for some time, until the kickers stopped the work. The drilling went down for several hundred feet, and gas, mingled and other valuable possibilities developed. Why not try to develop our underground wealth. We know what we have on the surface, but God only knows what we have beneath the surface. If we never venture, we cannot hope to win. Is there not enterprise enough among our people to open up and develop what there is underneath our town? If not, let the undeveloped and unforeseen wealth rest in peace, and our sluggish people go on their weary way.

WHITNEY GOVERNMENT INCONSISTENT.

Canadian Graphic.

The Whitney Government is nothing if not inconsistent at present in dealing with corporations. Their treatment of the Murphy Syndicate and of the Electrical Development Company scarcely chime together. In the case of the Syndicate, the Government has been willing to allow that the progress made by the Right of Way Mining Company carries with it some sort of vested right as far as further development is concerned. But no such consideration is shown to the Electrical Development Company. This company after they had built their coffer dam at Niagara at great expense, discovered after the unwatering of the forebay that there was a much greater depth of water than they had supposed. To take advantage of this the company asked that its franchise be enlarged to include 125,000 additional horse-power, for which they agreeed to pay in rental and royalty according to the terms of the original agreement. This perfectly reasonable request was acceded to by the Ross Government, but the agreement has been cancelled by the Whitney administration. Now is the only time to act in the matter. While the coffer dam is still holding back the stream, the enlargement of the intake, if permitted, would be a comparatively simple matter, but after the dam is removed to provide for additional horse-power would be a tremendously greater engineering feat involving great expense not only in expenditure but the loss occasioned by the necessary closing down of business. Just why the Electrical Development Company should be placed in such a position while the Murphy Syndicate go on their way rejoicing can with difficuly be explained. The mildest expression that can be used is that the Government is inconsistent.

Brig. Turner To Farewell Tuesday

He Will Also Present New Band Instruments.

Brig. Turner will be in the city to-morrow and will accompany the Salvation Army on their excursion to Jubilee Point, which takes place to-morrow. At night he will say farewell at the Barracks. The Brig. is leaving this province to go to the northern provinces. At the meeting to-morrow night the presentation of the four new band instruments recently received from England, will take place, Brig. Turner making the presentation. The new instruments, which include a cornet, tenor, baritone and middle bass will increase the efficiency of the band, which even at the present time, is winning laurels for itself.

$1000 PILE CURE.

A Thousand Dollar Guarantee goes with every bottle of Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid—the only certain cure for every form of Piles.

George Cook, St. Thomas, Ont., writes:—

"Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid cured me of a very bad case of Piles of over ten years' standing. I had tried everything but got no permanent cure till I used Hem-Roid. I had Blind and Bleeding Piles, and suffered everything. Ointments and local treatments failed, but Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid cured me perfectly."

Hem-Roid is a tablet taken internally which removes the cause of Piles. $1.00, all druggists, or The Wilson-Fyle Co., Limited, Niagara Falls, Ont.

Deceased's Letters Were Produced

The Adjourned Randlett Inquest Will be Held To-night.

Mr. Lombard, the representative of the J. C. Ayer Company, of Lowell, Mass., for which firm the late Arthur H. Randlett was employed, and who was sent there to take charge of Randlett's remains, left on Saturday with the body, which will be buried at his former home.

The letters received by Mr. Randlett and Mr. Todd, during the former's illness, were handed over to P. C. Newnall by Mr. Todd, and will be produced to-night at the adjourned inquest, which will be held in the council chamber at 8 o'clock.

Figuratively Speaking.

A STORY is going the rounds of a couple of young people, who attended church recently. When the collection was being taken up the young man commenced fishing in his pocket for a dime. His face expressed his embarrassment, as he hoarsely whispered, "I guess I haven't a cent; I changed my pants." The young lady, who had been examining the unknown regions of woman's dress for her purse, turned colour and said, "I'm in the same fix."

Music at St. John's.

—The offertory solo at Matins, "The Shepherd King," was well rendered by Mr. Jos. Halpany. At Evensong Ernest Nicholls' beautiful vesper, "O Life Everlasting," was sung. Mr. George Chandler, a recent arrival in the city from Kent, England, sang the solo very tastefully, and a quartette composed of Mrs. R. J. Devey, soprano, Mrs. Seward, alto, Mr. Allen, tenor, and Mr. Halpany, bass, sang the refrain, a beautiful effect being obtained by an unaccompanied repeat pianissimo.

Chemong Regatta Thurs. next Aug. 23

Messrs. Bruce Lee & Co. have arranged for the transportation of those who are attending the regatta from Peterborough. The auto car will run trips to and from the park every hour during the morning, and up until 2 o'clock, leaving the Snowdon House. Buses will also be run at intervals. In the evening care has been taken that sufficient accommodation will be provided so that everyone will have no difficulty in reaching home. 2d41

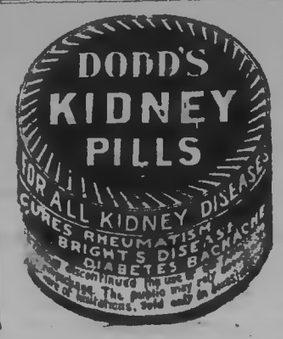
Mr. P. Mongovan of the "Catholic Register," is in town. He has been over a great portion of the provinces of Ontario and Quebec, and reports that the wave of prosperity which made its appearance just as the Liberals reached power, has not yet shown any signs of subsidence, and hence the cry, "It's time for a change," cannot be heard.



SOUVENIRS OF PETAWAWA

There are on exhibition in the window of "Mac's" cigar store several articles which are arousing much interest. They are souvenirs of the 24th Field Battery's recent trip to the instructional camp at Petawawa. One of these is a fragment of the first lyddite shell ever fired in Canada, and the other is a sample of the 12-lb. shells fired by the 24th Battery.

Harvesting And Threshing Over And Under Way

Good Crops Safely Harvested—Ravages of Grasshoppers—Threshing in General.

Mr. J. N. Telford, of Ennismore, was in the city to-day, and reports fairly good crops in the Island Township. Oats will be a good crop, but peas, though there is abundance of vine will only score a half crop record. Harvesting is nearly over—al week more will clean up the bulk of it, only peas remaining to be harvested. The crop has been gathered with great difficulty. The rapid growth made the weak straw easily prostrated by rain and wind. As a consequence much of the grain could be cut only by using the reaper in one direction—against the slope of the fallen grain. This made the work slow.

Grasshoppers have made sad havoc with grain, standing oats especially, some fields losing as much grain in this way as 10 or 12 bushels per acre.

Harvesting being practically over, threshing is in full swing. Mr. Telford, as he came through Ennismore to the city this (Monday) morning, heard the whistles of no fewer than four threshing engines, and his farm staff of our men are to-day assisting at three threshing bees.

The pastures continue good, the abundance of rain helping to keep them in a green condition, so that there is less falling off in the flow of milk than is usual this time of year.

Cute Little Fire-Fly Caused Trouble

Peterborough Dentist Took it for a Light in a House.

A good story is being told at the expense of a young Peterborough dentist. With several companions he drove out to McCracken's Landing yesterday, to spend the day there. Difficulties were encountered on the return journey, none of the young men were certain of the right road and finally they lost all idea of the direction. The dentist in question thought he saw a way out of the difficulty when his eagle eye marked what was apparently a light in a house across several fields. He clambered out of the rig and over a ditch and two fields only to find that he had been in active pursuit of a fire-fly. The well is drawn on what followed.

"Absent Treatment" Was Prescribed

Magistrate Thought a Vacation Would be of Benfit to The Boyds.

The inconsistency of womankind is admirably illustrated by the last two cases at police court. On Saturday morning Wm. Boyd was fined $5 for being drunk and expressing his opinion of his landlady in language that was far from being complimentary. His better half at that time handed out a few references about "keeping the glass out of his mouth" that would lead one to believe that she was a charter member of the W.C.T.U.

Sad to say Mrs. Boyd fell from grace that afternoon herself. She apparently did not keep the glass out of her mouth, or else she drank out of the bottle, for her condition was such as to warrant bringing before the court this morning.

City Clerk Armstrong, who presided, thought that a holiday from the city would do no harm either to Mrs. Boyd or her husband and would have a beneficial effect upon the community at large. Accordingly Mr. and Mrs. Boyd left this morning for parts unknown.

OBITUARY NOTICE.

EUGENE BUCK.

The many friends of Mr. John Buck of Ennismore, will sympathise with him in the death of his son, Eugene Buck, who died this morning at the age of nine years. The deceased was a bright little fellow, and was a favourite with all who knew him. The funeral will take place to-morrow morning to the Ennismore cemetery.

VIVA HEASLIP.

The death occurred yesterday of Viva Heaslip, the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Heaslip, 715 George street. The deceased was one month old. The sympathy of a large circle of friends will go out to the bereaved family. The funeral took place this afternoon at 1.30 to the Little Lake cemetery.

Thought Police Station Was Hotel

Strange Mistake Made by Two Women on Saturday.

The Chief of Police has an amusing story to tell of two women from the country, who called at the police station on Saturday afternoon. The chief was sitting at the door when the women approached and asked to be shown the sitting room. A little surprised but not disconcerted the police officer lead them into the office. They had hardly got in when one lady saw the sign "Police Station" on the window and hurriedly decamped. It transpired that they thought the Police Station was the Munro House.

(Furnished by J. R. Heintz & Co.)

New York, Aug. 20.—To-day's market was one of the biggest bull markets seen in years. Transactions were of an immense volume amounting to about three million shares for the day. The entire railroad list was up from one to five poijnts. Atchison was the feature, going up to 105, the best ever recorded for it. Reading jumped over six points, St. Paul made a new high price, while Mo., Pac. went over par with a rush. Southern Pac. and U. P. continued on their upward march. Profit-taking on an enormous scale was in evidence but the offerings were well taken in most cases.

During the afternoon, Louisville and the Steels were put up while profits were taken in U.P., St. Paul, Copper and others which had advanced in the past three days. The close was active but generally at recessions from the best prices.

Board Advises The City Council

Of Its Decision in Reference to Normal School Site.

There is nothing new in the Normal School site situation. On Saturday afternoon the city clerk received from the secretary of the Board of Education a copy of the resolution passed by the Board at its meeting on Friday night. It is probable that the mayor will call a special meeting of the Council in a few days to consider the situation as it now stands, since the refusal of the Board to relinquish the Central School lots.

Dr. Bingham Advises The Medical Council Revision

Local Medical Health Officer Contributes Interesting Letter on Interesting Subject — He Deals With Castleton Doctor's Expulsion From Medical Council.

Dr. Bingham, Peterborough's Medical Health Officer, has contributed to the Toronto Globe, the following letter bearing upon the now celebrated Crichton case, in which Dr. Crichton, Castleton, was suspended from the Medical Council for alleged unprofessional conduct in advertising a cure for la grippe.

To Editor of the Globe,—Without in any way defending Dr. Crichton's advertising exploit, this might be an opportune time to review briefly the attitude of the Medical Council towards the medical profession, not only at the present time but also in the years gone by. It is curious, too, that all the members of the Council in private life, are excellent gentlemen and an ornament to society, but immediately organized into a council they drift into evil ways. In the trial of Dr. Crichton, for instance, the Council has made some clumsy movements. They tried the doctor at Cobourg, where they acted as judge, jury and prosecutor. One party tells us that the doctor was tried for "infamous and disgraceful conduct in a professional sense," but the president of the Council on the 7th instant, in a letter to the Globe, said that they tried the doctor for fraud. Now, fraud is defined to be deceit, treachery, artifice, and this implies design on the part of the actor, and it will keep all the Council busy to prove whether the doctor is acting from design or delusion, or from full confidence in his cures. Then the President, with full steam on, makes a header for the Medical Act. He informs us that the Council never had the power to discipline a doctor for breach of medical etiquette, but section 33 of the Medical Act, states distinctly that the council has power to do so.

Again, there is a general impression among medical men of judicial training that the council is not competent to try a fellow practitioner on any charge, because that traditional rivalry among all men of the same craft has touched the medical profession in an acute degree. A juror must be unprejudiced and impartial, and the lack of these qualities in the Council would in a court of justice cause them to be requested to be set aside. But the Council in Dr. Crichton's case, without waiting to prove intentional fraud, and without waiting to see if utter failure would snuff out the delusion, put on the black cap. In taking a retrospect of the past, it was found that in 1891, the Council in a stealthy manner obtained an act of Parliament which gave them ample power to disqualify any medical man in Ontario, if be refused or neglected to pay his annual fees. That law is still in vogue, and every year we get a certificate, a sort of dog collar, giving us permission to practice another year. Most of the profession took offence at this law, and many men joined a medical defence association who held the bridge against the encroachments of the Council, "in the brave days of old."

But, passing over other objectionable movements in the governing body towards the profession, we will only mention one which is still in full force. It looks as if the Council has laid a deep scheme for a dictatorship in the near future, and the stratagem is laid with a cunning and secrecy which might prove the envy of Nicholas himself. The plot is this: Just before a student goes up for his final examination, and while he is trembling in his boots for the result, he is ordered to go before a J. P., and swear allegiance to the laws of the Medical Council for all time to come. The form of this oath has been kept from the public with Clan-na-Gael secrecy. They dare not publish it, and in a few more years there will be three or four thousand more sworn in to obey the mandates of the council, and of these professional slaves it may be said, "Thou art chained to the wheel of the foe by links, which a world cannot sever. With thy tyrant through storm and through cloud thou shalt go; and thy sentence is bondage forever."

From this brief review, is it not time that both the Medical Act and the Medical Council were severely revised?

Peterborough People Holiday In The West

Mr. W. S. Taylor Tells of a Camp Near Saskatoon—A High Old Time Higher Latitudes--An Interesting Description of a New Phase of Life in the West.

The Examiner has received from Mr. W. S. Taylor, of French, Sask., the following letter, descriptive of a pleasant outing enjoyed by a party of which he was a member. It will no doubt be read with interest, as it deals with a phase of life in the West not often touched by writers. He says:

About 35 miles southeast of the far-renowned, yet baby city of Saskatoon there is a settlement second to none in the Province of Saskatchewan for industry and thrift, and composed principally of Canadians, a goodly number of the most prominent coming from the old town of Peterborough, Ont., and neighbouring hamlets, and often during the summer months this community is visited by friends of these particular people coming direct from the East and brimfull of Peterborough news.

So, in the month of July, 1906, it happened that a Mr. Joseph H. Taylor, with his wife and daughter, Gertrude, from Keene, Ont., and a Miss Flora Baskill, from Port Hope, were visiting at Mr. Jas. Harvey's on their farm. Mr. and Mrs. Taylor, after having spent a few days renewing old acquaintances and looking the country over, left again for Peterborough, leaving their daughter, Gertrude, behind them, as she intended remaining in the West. Incidentally, these young lady visitors, Miss Taylor and Miss Baskill, after having formed the acquaintance of some of the young folks residing in the neighbourhood, managed to put in a very fine time of it, but the crowning success of all their outings was the picnicing and exploration trip to the famously picturesque, wood-capped mountains, situated some 18 miles northeast called Hunnicane Hills. These ideal camping grounds are indescribably beautiful at this season of the year, and are bound to be the summer rendezvous of many of our local pleasure seekers in time to come. Now, among the party in question were Mrs. Jas. Harvey and her daughter, Hazel, formerly of Norwood, Ont.; Mr. Wallace Harvey, formerly of Peterborough; Mr. W. S. and Miss Rubye Taylor, formerly of Peterborough; Miss Gertrude J. Taylor, Keene, and Miss Flora Baskill, of Port Hope. No doubt their many friends in the East will be pleased to learn of them being alive and existing so pleasantly, and will almost envy them their good time. The whole party drove to the bush in carriages laden with camping requisites, provisions, etc., the drive proving most pleasant. We left early in the morning when everything was fresh and the air cool, going by farm houses for some miles, then leaving all civilization behind. Our route was by no means a direct one, but wended around the hills, among pretty round lakelets bordered with willows and teeming with wild fowl, while the prairie was simply fragrant with wild flowers of all varieties and hues. The drive was most delightful and lasted for several hours. On our way, and nearing our destination, we came upon a very curious settler's dwelling, constructed wholly of logs, put together without a nail and thatched with straw. We became curious at once and, the proprietor being absent, we left our vehicles and indulged in a thorough investigation of the whole premises. We discovered a cellar, and in the cellar the owner had apparently been living while his dwelling was being constructed, for it contained a rude bed of straw, a stove, a bottle of some kind of spirits, also some curious and very old-fashioned farm implements, consisting of a spade, a long buck-saw, a scythe and a trowel. Together with these we saw a very funny pitcher made of wood, with a wooden handle, and a broom made of willow twigs. After having satisfied our curiosity inside the building, we took a stroll outside, where we found a small bed of onions growing in the clay that came out of a well he had dug. We learned afterwards that the proprietor was a Galician, and that most likely he brought his primitive furniture and ideas with him from his native land. We all regretted not having a camera along to get a snap-shot of that most antiquated residence. When we finally reached our destination our enthusiasm was at its height. We camped on the top of a wooded mountain, while just below us in the valley was a beautiful mirror lake, looking not unlike a body of quicksilver. Beyond the lake, and all around was a continuation of woods and lakes and park-like grounds, altogether making a perfect paradise, gloriously picturesque, a feast to the eye, a long-to-be-remembered haven of bliss. Our white tents showed up a striking contrast against the dark green trees.

We turned our ponies loose, fed them their corn and let them roam at will. They simply helped themselves to the lake water, and to the sweet, juicy grass until they couldn't eat any more. At night, however, we tethered them. We spent our time sometimes reading, joking and jesting, laughing and singing, going and bringing water and wood for cooking our food; composing and rhyming, walking and climbing, hunting and fruiting, hunting and shooting, and getting birch-bark until it got dark, then

Sitting by the campfire
In its hazy light,
Making bark mementoes
Far into the night;
Making canoes and postcards
Far into the night,
And—
Listening to the hooting of the drowsy owl,
As in the distant thickets the hungry wolves did howl;
Until the glowing embers ceased to lend us light.
Yet we still continued singing far into the night.

During our stay in the mountains we discovered a spring of water flowing out of the side of a hill. It was and sparkling, and came in just fine for our lemonade and cool drinks.

One of our party, Miss Gertrude J. Taylor, is an ardent lover of flowers, and made good use of this splendid opportunity by gathering a large selection, which she pressed to take away with her. Another member, Miss Flora Baskill, proved to be a fine narrator and aided much in the general amusement of all. Miss Rubye Taylor helped along the entertainment and kept up the good cheer with her splendid singing, while Wallace Harvey proved himself an efficient nimrod by keeping the larder supplied with game. W. S. Taylor acted as guide and general chaperon during the whole episode.

One comical feature was our experience under canvas during a thunder storm, the dazzling flashes of the lightning and the tremendous reverberations of the thunder in the forest causing in us sensations long to be remembered. The wind was so strong that we had to hold on to the tent poles to keep them from giving way. The storm, though severe, did not last long and was most comical to think of afterwards.

We acquired much amusement by manufacturing trinkets out of birch-bark, and surprised ourselves with some of the results obtained. We made private postcards, miniature canoes, napkin rings, purses and albums, many of which have already been sent to friends.

When the time came for us to break up camp we were all loth to leave, and promised ourselves if we ever have a chance that we would return to the same camping ground and make arrangements beforehand for a much longer stay. We got back home without any adventures, not the least bit tired, and well pleased with our outing.

Yours respectfully,
W. S. TAYLOR.

Traction Engines Must Carry Coloured Lights

Sections of the Act Which Regulates Their Passage on the Public Highway—A Precaution Against Injury.

The season when persons driving in the country are likely to meet with traction threshing engines is practically upon us. It appears that many of the owners and engineers of traction engines are not familiar with the law in respect to these machines while on the road and for their benefit the section of the Act, Chap. 242; Revised Statutes of Ontario are quoted, they are as follows:—

Section 6—In case of any difficulty on the prospects of any difficulty in meeting or passing of an engine upon the highway by any mounted horseman or vehicle, it shall be the duty of the Engine driver to stop the engine and in every possible way to assist such mounted horseman or the person in charge of such vehicle to pass the engine.

Section 7—Every engine run after dark shall carry a bright red light in a conspicuous place in front and a green light in the rear of the train.

Section 8—No engine shall be run through a city, town or village unless a messenger is sent at least fifteen and not more than thirty rods in advance carrying a red flag by day and a bright red light by night. The fine for neglect of these conditions may be $25.

August Cheese Yield Will Show A Decrease

Hot Weather Has Affected the Flow of Milk—Not as Much Cheese Will be Manufactured as in August, 1895.

The Canadian Dairyman says:—The hot weather during the latter part of July and first part of August, has seriously affected the milk supply at many factories throughout Ontario. Chief Dairy Instructor G. G. Publow estimates that the decrease in Eastern Ontario amounts to 10 to 15 per cent. at least. At many factories it has been much larger. In the Bancroft section, it is reported recently, that the pastures had dried up to such an extent that it was difficult for the cattle to get good feed.

The representative of the Dairyman, who recently drove through portions of Northumberland, Hastings and Prince Edward counties, found that Fat many of the factories the milk supply had dropped 1,000 to 2,000 lbs. a week. Unless there are frequent showers during the balance of the month the August make of cheese this syear will be much lighter than a year ago.

New Pastor's Induction At Lakefield, Sept. 4th

Rev. S. S. Burns, B.A., Will Leave Stirling With Deep Regret of the Congregation—Has Done Excellent Work There for Ten Years.

Confirming the report in Saturday's Examiner to the effect that Rev. S.S. Burns, B.A., had been transferred from the Kingston to the Peterborough Presbytery, and would take charge of the Lakefield church, the following report of the meeting has been recieved:

At a special meeting of the Kingston Presbytery, held in St. Andrew's church, Belleville, on Friday last, the call from Lakefield Presbyterian church to the Rev. S. S. Burns, B.A., of Stirling, was considered. The Rev. J. G. Potter, of St. Andrew's, Peterborough, represented the Peterborough Presbytery, and Messrs. Robt. Graham and Andrew Fairburn the Lakefield congregation. A large delegation from Stirling and West Huntingdon was present opposing the translation of their minister, referring in a most emphatic way to the excellent work of Mr. Burns, and to the worth of Mrs. Burns in all the departments of church life and work.

The call, being placed in Mr. Burns' hands, was accepted by him.

The Rev. James Binnie, Moderator of Presbytery, spoke of the brotherly feeling that had existed between himself and Mr. Burns, and felt that his removal would be a personal loss.

Mr. McKay, of Madoc, referred to the excellent spirit manifested by Mr. Burns during the nine and a half years he had been in Stirling. In example and precept he had been an inspiration, and a true leader; while Mrs. Burns had taken a very deep interest in all the departments of the church's work.

Mr. Wilkins, Clerk of Presbytery, added his testimony to the value Mr. Burns had been to the church from the very beginning of his days in the mission fields in Kingston and Brockville Presbyteries.

A committee was appointed to draft a suitable minute to be engrossed in the Presbytery records relative to the high regard in which Mr. Burns was held.

The installation as pastor at Lakefield on Thursday, September 6, at 2.30 p.m. There will likely be reception in the evening.

Cressman's

A Fine Association At Collingwood, Ont.

Mr. H. A. Pearson, the General Secretary of the Y.M.C.A. There, in the City on a Visit—Has Recently Completed Erection of New Building Costing $10,000—Work in Splendid Shape—Collingwood Shares in the Universal Prosperity.

Mr. H. A. Pearson, general secretary and physical director of the Y.M.C.A. at Collingwood, is in the city on a visit with friends. He will go to Chemong to spend a few weeks before returning to Collingwood, where he has charge of one of the finest associations in the Province. Mr. Pearson, who is a graduate of the local association, has made a success of his work since he entered it. After spending a year at the Soo, he went to Collingwood, where he has been for the past three years. A new association building, costing $18,000, has been completed and is now in use, and the result of the handsome new building, which Mr. Pearson states is superior to the local Y.M.C.A. building, has been seen in the large increase in membership, 200 joining between the middle of June and the same date in July.

Collingwood is essentially a young men's town. The shipbuilding works employ 825 hands, and the great majority are young men. Speaking of the shipbuilding industry, Mr. Pearson states that it is developing into a most important one. There is now in course of construction the largest steamer ever built in Canada—a 600-foot freight and passenger boat, with a freight capacity of 120,000 bushels of grain. This steamer will be put into service on the great lakes. The dry-dock at Collingwood is the largest in Canada, its dimensions being 625 feet long, 70 feet wide and 30 feet deep. It is large enough to accommodate any steamer on the lakes, and its construction has proved a great boon to the town, for every winter a number of steamers come there for repairs. The Government has also recently constructed a new cement dock. The population of the town is now 8,000 and is steadily increasing.

Mr. Pearson has just returned from Orillia, where he has been with his boys' camp, 43 young men from his association spending three weeks in camp.

Oddfellows Are Pleased With Treatment Here

Past Grand Master Blewett Writes to Col. Miller Expressing Appreciation of Efforts of Local Members --Newspapers Also Come in for Some Praise.

Col Miller,, the Chairman of the local Oddfellow committee having charge of the arrangements for the Grand Lodge has received a letter from F. R. Blewitt, past Grand Master, which speaks for itself. It is as follows:—

Now that I am back home again, and somewhat over the rush caused by my absence from my own business, permit me to thank you, and each and every member of your local committee, especially your indefatigable Secretary Brother Matchett, also the Mayor and Council of Peterborough and the citizens generally, and your local newspapers, particularly The Review and Examiner, for their individual and collective assistance in making the last session of Grand Lodge one of the most pleasant and satisfactory we ever had—it reminded me very much of our previous sessions at Brockville—in both Peterborough and Brockville particularly we could not have been more kindly treated. The newspaper reports of our meetings were excellent and I wish you would kindly tender the proprietors my congratulations and heartiest thanks, for the accurate, complete and interesting reports given so kindly of our proceedings, and don't forget Captain Roy for the delightful trip he gave us through the lift lock, in short, thank one and all for me and tell them their kindness will not soon be forgotten nor will the progressive, prosperous and beautiful City of Peterborough by the Oddfellows.

Yours fraternally,
F. R. BLEWETT.

Inspector Suggests A New Normal School Site

Mr. J. Coyle Brown Proposes One on Shores of Otonabee North of London Street—Would Entail Closing of Part of Two Streets.

As a site for the Normal School, Mr. J. Coyle Brown, County School Inspector, makes the following suggestion:—

Close up Dublin street east of Harvey street to the water; close up Waterford street, north of a point midway between London and Dublin streets north to the water. The Dickson Company own the three parcels of surrounding land, on two of which are frame buildings easy of removal. These five parcels embrace somewhat more than three acres, one and a half blocks from the Central school grounds. No better or more beautiful site for a Normal School can be found in the city.

Grand Opera House Opens September 5th

Comic Opera, "Dolly Varden," Will be Opening Attraction--A Good List of Shows for This Season Already Booked--Black Dyke Band to Come.

The Grand Opera House will open the season of 1906-07 with the comic opera success, "Dolly Varden," on Wednesday, September 5, and from that date until the close of the season the house will show some of the best on the road. "Dolly Varden" is one of the most tuneful operas on the boards to-day, and not better choice for a house opening could have been made.

During this season the Grand will give its patrons some splendid shows. The Black Dyke Band, which spent a week at Hanlan's Point, Toronto, has been secured for Small's circuit, and will be here on September 20. This band is said to be the best all-brass band in England, and it will be a distinct treat to Peterborough theatre-goers to hear these clever musicians.

The many admirers of Rosella Knott, who was seen here in "When Knighthood Was in Flower" last season, will be glad to learn that she will be here again, this time in "The Duchess of Devonshire." She comes here on October 26. For fair night, September 26, the comic opera, "The Gingerbread Man," will be the attraction. This opera is being played at the Ottawa fair, and is said to be one of the best bookings for the season. "The Smart Set" will be here on September28, and some of the other important attractions, for which dates have already been fixed, are: "Arrival of Kitty," John Griffith in "Richard III.," "Red Feather," Eugene Blair in "The Woman in the Case," and "Kerry Gow" on November 21.

OBITUARY.

MRS. HUGH NESBITT.

After a very short illness, Mrs. Hugh Nesbitt, whose maiden name was Catherine Cobourn, passed away yesterday morning early at the age at her home on Lafayette avenue, of 21 years. On Wednesday last Mrs. Nesbitt was taken ill with appendicitis, and since it was the fourth attack her condition rapidly became serious, and she passed away yesterday, as stated. Deceased was married seven months ago to her now sorrowing husband, and they resided on Lafayette avenue. She also leaves two sisters, Helen, and Mrs. Ash, both of whom live in Cobourg, and two brothers, Gordon and Sidney. Her parents are both dead.

The funeral will take place on Tuesday, at 2o'clock, from the family residence, Lafayette avenue, to the Little Lake Cemetery.

ROBERT NELSON.

This morning, Mr. Robert Nelson, a former resident of Douro, but who for some years has lived in Peterborough, passed away at his residence, 585 Aylmer street, after a long illness, during which he suffered from heart trouble. While he has been a sufferer for some years, his death was sudden, as it was not anticipated that he was in a serious condition.

The late Mr. Nelson was born in Otonabee on February 29th, 1836, and was married in 1865, to Margaret Plunkett, who, with one daughter, Mrs. C. Harvey, survives him. The funeral will take place at two p.m. on Wednesday, from the family residence, to the Keene cemetery.

WILLIAM GRAHAM.

Intelligence has been received here of the death in Winnipeg, of a native of Peterborough, Mr. William F. Graham, a nephew of Mr. Edward Green, 326 Water street, city, and with a large circle of relatives and acquaintances in Peterborough. The news of his death, however without particulars, was received here to-day. The deceased, who was born here in 1860, was formerly well known, till about 12 years ago, when he removed west.

Clothing Firm Enters 3rd Year

Messrs. Lang & Maher Have Reputation for High Class Goods.

To-day Messrs. Lang & Maher, the high class clothiers, enter upon their third year in business in this city. On Saturday night they closed their second year's business, and a member of the firm stated to-day that the volume of business done the second year was very greatly in excess of that of the first year, and they are highly pleased with the business done since they opened their store.

Their aim has been to develop and cater to a high class trade, and the result is that to-day this store is recognized as a place where those who want goods that are right may go with an assurance that they will get what they are after. That the men of the city appreciate the fact that this firm caters to the best trade is evidenced by the increasingly large number of well clothed men who go there for their furnishings.

Lang & Maher, however, are not content with past successes. They are planing still greater things for the future, and the stock of goods being placed in stock for the fall trade is of such a character that it will surprise the tasty dressers with its universal excellence. Nothing but the very best goods will be kept in stock and those who are after the newest and most high class furnishings may go to this store with the assurance that their wants will be supplied

TURNER'S TENTS FOR ANTIPODES

Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons this morning received an invitation for quotations for their lines of goods from a large wholesale establishment in Melbourne, Australia. Our Australian cousins are right under our feet, but it requires a tour of about 20,000 miles to reach them. It is quite a feather in the cap of the local firm that the fame of their goods has travelled around the world.

It Was Not So Hot After All

Thermometer Only Registered 86 in Shade Yesterday.

Yesterday was one of those days when a scientific instrument appears to be an unreliable indicator of heat. Though everybody was sweltering, and apparently the thermometer should be registering about 100 in the shade, the highest that instrument recorded during the day was but 86 degrees. The oppressiveness of the day was caused by the humidity, or moisture, in the air, conjoined with a fairly high temperature.

The Automobile And The Animal

Adventure of Two Young Dudes, a Horse and an Automobile

This morning the Chemong auto-bus and a horse driven by two young ladies, were the elements of an adventure which fortunately had no serious results. The two Misses Milburn were driving into the city. They saw the auto coming and the horse saw it too, and threatened to make a considerable fuss over it. One of the young ladies alighted to open the gate of a farm yard, Mr. Isaac Milburn's, where they proposed taking shelter till the auto and the dangor were past. But the auto drawing nearer, the horse made a dash and came into collision with the gate post, wrecking the harness so badly that the journey to town had to be abandoned. Fortunately no one was hurt.

The auto people stopped and offered to take one of the young ladies, who is employed in the city as a stenographer, to Chemong, and then back to the city. This offer was declined. Mr. J. T. Telford who was coming to Peterborough, happened along opportunely and brought the young lady in with him.

NOT JUST AS GOOD

Did you ever inquire at a store for certain articles and get for a reply "We have something just as good"? Did it ever occur to you that "Something just as good" is something the dealer has been able to buy much cheaper than the articles you inquire for? This is true in drugs, fabrics, groceries, hardware, and in fact every line, including silver-plated ware. If you inquire for 1847 Rogers Bros.' Knives, Forks or Spoons, don't accept any bogus Rogers' stamp because your dealer tells you it's just as good.

SIXTY PER CENT. OF VALPARAISO HAS BEEN SWEPT AWAY

Eighty-Two Quake Shocks Thursday Night and 300 More Since--2,000 People Were Killed--Two Hundred and Fifty Millions of Dollars is the Estimated Loss--Compared With the San Francisco Disaster the South American City Is the Greater Sufferer--Earthquakes Ruin Many Villages.

Valparaiso, Chili, Aug. 20.—At 7.52 o'clock last Thursday evening, Valparaiso experienced an earthquake of great severity, and during that night eighty-two shocks were felt.

Most of the buildings of the city either were ruined or damaged. The loss will be enormous, probably reaching $250,000,000.

2,000 Persons Killed.

Two thousand persons killed is considered to be a fair estimate of the casualties.

Vina del Mar, three miles from Valparaiso, and having a population of over 10,000; Quilpue, 225 miles to the southward, with a population of 2,500; Limache, fifteen miles to the northwest, with a population of 6,500; Quillota, 25 miles to the northwest, with a population of 10,000, and villages all round were destroyed. Most of the damage was due to fire, which started immediately after the first shock.

Whole Population Sleep Outdoors.

The whole population is sleeping in the hills, the parks, or the streets.

Food is very scarce. Milk costs two Chilian dollars a litre and it is almost impossible to obtain meat even at high prices.

The railroads are all destroyed.

Rain, which began to fall immediately after the first shock, stopped an hour afterwards.

Worse Than San Francisco.

The nights are very cold and windy and the people sleeping in the open are suffering greatly. The captain of a steamship which has arrived from San Francisco says that the situation here is worse than that following the disaster at San Francisco.

Covered Hundred of Miles.

Lapaz, Bolivia, via Galveston, Texas, Aug. 20.—Reports of a general character, together with some details, received here show that the earthquake Thursday night was severe in most parts of Chili and Argentine. It was very severe in South Chili and covered an area of hundreds of miles, extending from Valparaiso over the Cordilleras to Buenos Ayres.

Sixty Per Cent. In Ruins.

London, Aug. 20.—In a despatch from Valparaiso, without date the correspondent of The Daily Mail says:

"Sixty per cent. of this city has been completely destroyed. The death roll is very heavy.

"There has been 32 shocks during Thursday night and there have been three hundred more since then. The tremors still continue.

"One hundred thousand people are homeless and destitute. Water is giving out. Surrounding towns have been destroyed, and the railroad has been cut.

Panic Ameliorating.

Lima, Peru, Aug. 20.—The latest advices received here from Valparaiso say that the panicky condition of the people is ameliorating. Great damage was done in Almendral, the principal business section of the city.

The funds collected in Chile for festivities in connection with the inauguration of President-elect Monat, will be distributed among the sufferers from the earthquake.

SMALL TOWNS RUINED.

Santiago Badly Shaken—Public Buildings Were Dismantled by Shock.

Santiago de Chili, Aug. 20.—It is known so far that eight lives were lost in this city as a result of the earthquake. Other bodies may be found later.

Several person's became so panic-stricken during the tremblings of the earth that they threw themselves from the balconies of their homes and were killed.

The fires, which followed the earthquake, were promptly extinguished, but while they lasted they greatly augmented the terror of the people.

Many Villages In Ruins.

As all the telegraph and telephone lines were more or less damaged the exact situation throughout the country is not yet known, but advices have been received that the towns of Virlage and Casablanca were entirely destroyed and that San Felipa, Rancagua, Millipa and Llalilal are severely damaged.

At Concepcion the shock was severe, and a number of persons were killed or injured. The towns of Rengo, San Perando, Quillota and San Antonio and many villages are in ruins.

All railway service in the central zone is either interrupted entirely or greatly delayed and commerce is practically at a standstill.

Damage In Santiago City.

In the City of Santiago much damage was done. Many public buildings, particularly churches were dismantled. The buildings of congress, the municipal buildings, the normal school, the courts, the Peruvian legation, the residence of President Riesco, the central market, the prefecture of police and the national telegraph office were all seriously damaged. The lines of electric tramway system and the electrical light wires were short circuited, interrupting street car travel and plunging the city into darkness.

Distressing Scenes.

The scenes at the hospitals and prisons during the excitement were distressing in the extreme. The prisoners tried to escape from the jails in the hope that they might reach a place of safety, and prison guards were obliged to fire into the air in order to intimidate and quiet their panic-stricken charges.

Several return shocks of slight intensity have served to continue the state of public alarm. The astronomical observatory, however, has given out a statement to the effect that there probably will not be a repetition of the severe shocks.

Saturday night many persons slept in the open air in the public squares and streets.

The Government has taken steps to restore order. An inspection of all houses left standing has been ordered, and directions have been issued for the distribution of relief supplies to those in need. A troop of cavalry has been sent to re-establish communication with Valparaiso.

Train Shaken.

A traveler who came here by express train tells that when the train was near Las Vegas, about half way between Valparaiso and Santiago the cars were shaken violently and the engine nearly left the track. All lines of railway to the north and the line to Talca are greatly damaged.

In the City of Santiago a majority of the victims of the disaster were residents of the poorer sections, where many small houses were thrown to the ground.

Several deaths from nervous excitement and heart disease are reported.

Great as 'Frisco's.

London, Aug. 20.—Prof. J. Milne, the seismologist, reports from the Isle of Wight that his records indicate an earthquake as great as that of San Francisco, lasting for five hours, apparently located along the coast, considerably north of Valparaiso.

Compared With 'Frisco.

Valparaiso, via Galveston, Aug. 20.—Proportionately, the catastrophe here is considerably greater than that which befell San Francisco. Valparaiso and neighboring towns are wrecked and partially burned. As yet no authentic news has been received from Santiago, although a courier is shortly expected.

Quakes occur from time to time, but are steadily diminishing in force. As to the dead and wounded, an accurate estimate is as yet impossible, but it is believed the former will exceed 1,000 in this and surrounding towns. The authorities have the situation well in hand and have assumed the distribution of food.

Couriers have been despatched both north and south for troops, provisions and thousands of tons of flour and wheat and rice are held in store here and afloat. It is not believed a food famine will occur.

Martial law has ruled in Valparaiso since the first day of the shocks and the entire population is encamping in the open.

The only wires working are subterranean and sea cables to Central Southern American countries, which escaped unhurt.

The Treacherous Waters Claimed Many Victims

Many Canadians Go Down to Death By Drowning.

VERY SAD CASE AT WINGHAM

One Young Man Tried to Save His Friend Who Got Out of His Depth While Bathing, But Drowning Man Clasped His Rescuer and Both Were Drowned—Another Almost Met the Same Fate.

Wingham, Aug. 20.—A sad drowning accident occurred here yesterday. A number of boys and young men were bathing in the Maitland, when Frank Mee got beyond his depth. Clayton Grisdale, seeing his comrade's danger, jumped in, and was at once clasped by the drowning man. Both sank together. Another young man, Harold Buchanan, also plunged in and was seized by Grisdale and had hard work to escape being dragged under. The bodies were recovered. Both were young men of good character and about the same age.

Bather Loses Life.

Wiarton, Aug. 20.—Albert Hide, a young man whose parents reside at Wiarton, was drowned while swimming at Lion's Head Saturday night.

Deckhand Falls Overboard.

Kingston, Aug. 20.—Robert Parsley of Sorel, 35 years of age, a deckhand, fell overboard from the steamer Belleville Saturday afternoon and was drowned.

Drowned Near Picton.

Picton, Aug. 20.—The body of Albert Petit, a farm laborer, 45 years of age, was found in the lake near here yesterday morning. Deceased was employed on Waupoo's Island, and, it is supposed, was drowned some time Saturday night, while going from the island to the mainland.

Boy Drowns In Toronto.

Toronto, Aug. 20.—William John Gorman, the 7-year-old son of C. J. Gorman, storage merchant at 277 East King street, fell from the boat house wharf into the inlet of the bay at the foot of Sherbourne street at 8 o'clock Saturday evening, and was drowned. The body was recovered half an hour later.

Ten Bathers Drown.

New York, Aug. 20.—Ten persons lost their lives in the waters about New York Sunday. Most of the victims were bathers.

BOY KILLED BY AUTO.

Sir Montague Allan's Machine Did Deadly Work at Lachine.

Montreal, Aug. 20.—Sir Montague Allan's auto ran over a six-year-old boy on the Lachine road Friday night. The boy was running out of the way of a carriage and ran right in front of the auto, which was slowed down and hardly moving to get past the carriage. The boy, whose name is Fleming, is dead.

He was in a private ward at the Royal Victoria, and all that medical skill can do was done to save him. Sir Montague is in England. Mr. J. B. Allan was in the car.

Bull Attacks Farmer.

Ingersoll, Aug. 20—Attacked by a bull which he was driving from the pasture field, Simeon Sage, a West Oxford farmer, 79 years of age, residing two miles south of Ingersoll, Saturday afternoon received injuries which, it is thought, will result fatally. Several times the infuriated beast charged the old man when he was helpless on the ground, but neighbors, armed with pitchforks and axes, drove the animal off.

Dies From Broken Back.

Toronto, Aug. 20.—Thomas Davidson, living in York Township, near Prosper Cemetery, fell from a scaffold on a house he was building on Thursday evening last, breaking his back. He was taken to the Western Hospital by William Speers' ambulance, and died there on Sunday evening. He leaves a wife and one child.

PREPARATIONS MADE FOR THE REGATTA

A very large number of Peterborough people will attend the regatta and for their benefit Mr. Porter, the proprietor of the Chemong Park Hotel, has made special preparations and will be able to satisfactorily look after their comfort. The Palace Auto Car will make frequent trips, a conveyance that will be much appreciated. The 57th band will supply music for the dance that will take place in the evening.

SAFE BIND, SAFE FIND, WAS SHAKSPERE'S MIND

There is no desire to play an alarmist role, but to be on the safe side citizens would do well to follow the Shakaperian injunction, "Safe bind, safe find." The city has been for some time infested with thieves who are responsible for many acts of petty larceny and attempted house-entering. These have by no means all been reported. Recently some attempts at entering private residences in the west end and recently in East City. There were three minor burglaries or attempts in one night. At one place nothing was obtained, at another a cash box was taken, but as it contained nothing but legal papers it was left on the outside of the house, when it was found next morning. On the top of the bureau where the thieves found the cash box, was an envelope containing $25, enclosed, ready for sending by mail. This the thieves overlooked. The same night an attempt was made to enter another house in the vicinity, but the sounds were detected and disturbed before they gained an entrance. These attempts are evidently made by amateurs, perhaps, idle, worthless persons belonging to the city, who will not work and are desirous of having a portion of the city belong to them. Yet is as well for householders not to leave portable articles of any value outside at night, and to make their premises secure by bolt and bar.

Editor Post Card Column:

The canoe trade of Peterborough is the largest in the world, but there is one thing that is wrong with it, viz: the goods are not union made and people that take pleasure crusades in non-union boats endanger their lives.

Why not all canoe builders join hands and unite in this great work? Union is strength. So canoe builders think over this matter.

Thanking the editor for this valuable space, I remain the canoe builders'

Synopsis Of Canadian North-West HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba or the North-west Provinces, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded upon by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section, of 160 acres, more or less.

Entry may be made personally at the local land office for the district in which the land is situate.

Homestead Duties.—A settler who has been granted an entry for a homestead is required to perform the conditions connected therewith under one of the following plans:—

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year during the term of three years.

(2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of any person who is eligible to make a homestead entry under the provisions of this Act, resides upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for by such person as a homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence prior to obtaining patent may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

(3) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon the said land.

Application for patent should be made at the end of three years, before the Local Agent, Sub-Agent or the Homestead Inspector.

Before making application for patent the settler must give six months' notice in writing to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of his intention to do so.

Shamrocks Defeated The Beaverton Team Saturday

Score in a One-Sided Game Was 9-1—First Stage in the Semi-Final Series Passed—Shamrocks Completely Outclassed the Beaverton Bunch.

The Junior Shamrock Lacrosse Club took another stride pennantwards in Lindsay on Saturday, when they defeated the fast Beaverton twelve, winners of group No. 11, of the Junior series in a sudden death game, in the first round of the Junior C.L.A. semi-finals. The score was 9 goals to 1. The play was much more even than the score indicates and the Beaverton has the best defence the locals' home has bucked up against yet, and they made the boys work for every goal they scored. They watched every man very close and especially Bassitt, who at times, had as many as three players covering him.

During the first two quarters the play was very even and although the Shamrocks had slightly the better of it, they could not locate the nets. In the second half the Beaverton aggregation soon began to show symptoms of tiring and at the close of the game they were completely fagged.

The game was not very gentle especially in the last quarter when penalties were quite numerous. There was an absence of deliberate fouling, the roughness being caused by the eagerness of the players.

Referee Ambrose Regan on Saturday easily earned the title of being the silk O'Loughlin of lacrosse. He is one of the best officials seen in some time His work was most satisfacory and everyone was well satisfied.

The locals played a great game and if they keep up their present gait, there will be nothing to it but another championship for Peterborough. The star of Saturday's game was "Daddy" Tucker, the clever little Shamrock centre, who was undoubtedly the best man on the field, and to him goes no small credit for the result of the game. The locals were minus Saunders and Gilman, but Seymour and McFadden, who took their places put up a stellar article of lacrosse. "Buck" Doris was perhaps the most prominent player on the defence, and his work stamps him as a winner. He was the means of breaking up many of the well-meant Beaverton combinations. On the home every man played good lacrosse and the Beaverton defence gave them the hardest afternoon's work they have had this season.

The stars of the Beaverton aggregation were Hickson in goal, E. Walton and J. Reilly of the defence, while Moore was the star performer of their home.

The teams lined up as follows:—

Shamrocks,		Beaverton.
McFadden	Goal.	Hickson
White	Point,	E. Walton
Devlin	Cover.	J. Rielly
Doris	First Defence.	McFee
Dusty	Second Defence.	C. Walton
Seymour	Third Defence.	Martin
Tucker	Centre.	Burgess
Feeney	Third Home.	E. Rielly
Jimmie McNichol	Second Home.	Overend
Bassitt	First Home.	McDonald
Dobson	Inside Home.	Moore
Jack McNichol	Outside Home.	Cave

Defence—Ambrose Regan.

Goal umpires—H. Morgan, Dr. Collison.

Penalty—H. B. Clemes.

Timesn—W. Crowley, Mr. Talbot.

First quarter.—The game started off at a terrific pace and it was only a half a minute before Tommy Tucker was benched for two minutes for slashing and during his sojourn on the fence Moore scored for Beaverton their only goal. Time one minute.

The Shamrocks rushed again and again but it was next to impossible to get through the Beaverton defence, who were putting up a great game. After five minutes' play on Dobson, Feeney and Jack McNichol carried the rubber right into the Beaverton nets, and the latter scored, tieing the score.

N. Riley was benched for slashing Tucker, and he was soon joined by Feeney and McDonald, who had a slight altercation. Beaverton pressed hard but the local defence was as solid as a rock and they could not make the slightest impression. The ball was passed up to Tucker who placed the rubber between the poles, on a pretty shot. Shamrocks 2; Beaverton 1.

Second quarter.—For several minutes after the beginning of the quarter Beaverton bunched before the Shamrock goal and it seemed as if they would score but at a critical moment Dusty got hold of the rubber and transferred it to the other end, where the Beaverton goal was assaulted time and again. The green shirted boys now pulled off one of the prettiest combinations of the day. Dusty got the ball near the Shamrocks' net. He transferred it to Tucker, who handed it to Bassitt, to Feeney and the latter in turn handed over the merchandise to Jack McNichol, who notched the third goal for the Shamrocks. Time 15 minutes.

Jimmie McNichol scored again in two minutes on a pass from Tucker. Soon after this goal was scored half time was called and the score board read Shamrocks 4; Beaverton 1.

Third quarter.—The Shamrocks set a terrific pace at the start. Tucker drew the rubber, passed to Bassitt to Feeney, who bulged the nets. Time, half a minute. Score, 5-1.

Bassett mistook one of the Beaverton players for a tree and as a result served three minutes with the timekeepers. After fourteen and a half minutes' play Jack McNichol scored again on a pass from Dobson. Score, Shamrocks 6: Beaverton 1.

Fourth quarter.—During this chapter the game was rather rough and a number of players were injured as a result. Jack McNichol started the procession and he was soon followed by Feeney and McDonald, who, it seems could not agree when on the field. Seymour was also presented with a seat ticket, and after Dobson was hurt and E. Riley went off to even up. Bassitt scored on a combination with Dusty and Feeney. Score 7-1. Time 71-2 minutes.

Devlin was benched for slashing and when he was off Bassitt scored on a pass from Jack McNichol. Score 8-1. Time, four minutes.

A minute later Jack McNichol scored again, making the final score Shamrocks 9, Beaverton 1.

J. S. Knapman's Yacht Won Saturday's Race

An Exciting Aquatic Event Pulled Off at South Beach on Saturday—W. H. Hamilton's Yacht Also Entered --A Corn Roast on Friday at Park Hotel--Many Amusing Features.

Special Staff Correspondence.

Park Hotel, South Beach, Saturday, August 18. — The weekly Stony Lake yacht race was pulled off this afternoon on Clear Lake, opposite "South Beach. The race was twice around a three mile triangular course, the starting buoy being placed a short distance out from the steamer's dock in front of the Park hotel. No actual measurements were made in placing the buoys, and it was evident the distance must have been more than three miles. The course marked out was a beautiful stretch of clear open water. The view from the beach was excellent, the banks of the green lawn affording excellent opportunity for thousands to witness the event, if they had been present. As it was the guests of the park Hotel were the principal spectators, and they were all delighted with the privilege which the association, through Mr. Knapman, their secretary, afforded them on this occasion. Unfortunately the wind was very light, and it was hardly expected that any of the yachts would put in an appearance. But about two o'clock two sails hove in sight and came crawling down the lake, to the starting buoy. These two yachts were the only ones that appeared. They were the Tige, manned by Harry Hall and his crew, and the Signet, manned by J. S. Knapman. After a few preliminaries, both yachts got off from the starting buoy at 2.40, in a light breeze. The yachts after an uneventful and rather unexciting contest, passed around the home buoy in the following order;

First Three Miles.

Signet, 58 minutes.
Tige, 58 3-4 minutes.

Second Three Miles.

Signet, 55 minutes.
Tige, 59 minutes.

The Signet is owned by Mr. J. S. Knapman, and the Tige by Mr. W. H. Hamilton, Peterborough.

A Corn Roast.

Last night a genuine corn roast was the feature of the evening. A huge fire was built on the shore, and about a bushel of new corn in the cob was provided for the occasion. All the guests circled round the fire and partook of the fire corn, which was deliciously served by the ladies in genuine souther style, and amid much merriment.

Other Amusements.

This evening, after dinner, a number of the ladies selected sides for a combination baseball match, which was played in the park southeast of the hotel. Half the players were composed of Toronto ladies, and half were young men from Rochester. The game was a great exhibition of ball—the young men were expert players, but their gallantry to the amateur lady players and their many concessions in batting and scoring errors, won the admiration of the spectators, who were afforded an unusual amount of mirth and laughter.

In the evening an animated dance was held in the ball-room of the hotel, at which there was a large attendance of guests. After the dance, a programme of excellent vocal music, interspersed with a vaudeville of attractions, closed a most delightful day. Miss M. McCabe, of Peterborough, and Miss Montgomery, Lakefield, efficiently presided at the piano, their services were much appreciated.

Mr. W. S. Davidson is the Secretary of the committee to whom all entries should be made.

In the evening a dance will be held at the pavilion for which music will be supplied by the 57th band.

PETERBOROUGH JUNIORS OUTCLASSED PORT HOPE

The Oshawa Reform has the following to say of the lacrosse game there a week ago Saturday:—

The C. L. A. game for the championship of this district was played here between Peterborough and Port Hope, to decide the tie in this district, on Saturday last. When the men took the field the Port Hopers had the preference physically, and looked as if they might prove to be the victors easily. For the first and second quarters it was simply a matter of carrying the ball from one end to the other with comparatively barren results; but by that time they had more knowledge of each other, and to play more effectively. The little fellows began to show greater endurance and to make combined efforts more effectual. What appeared singular to onlookers was the fact that, when Peterborough made their second score, they seemed to understand and thwarted the efforts of their opponents, and scored almost a will, by pursuing the same line of tactics, without Port Hope sizing the situation or being in any way able to profit by it.

Bowlers Pleased With Reception

Peter Campbell Says They Were Met With Kindness on All Sides.

London, Aug. 18.—The Dundee Advertiser has a letter from Mr. Peter Campbell, a member of the British bowling team, from Toronto, saying that the team received a most kindly and enthusiastic reception on their arrival at Montreal. "So far as we have gone nothing could exceed the kindness and cordiality of our reception everywhere. All the Canadian bowling greens have suffered much from want of snow to protect them from the frost, hence all are unusually brotchy and generally in bad order, but everything that could be done to mend them has been done. The Canadian style of bowling is very like our own, only not so ill-mannered as ours by running up to jack after each ball. The pavilions are not nearly so commodious as ours." Mr. Campbell thinks something will be learned on both sides.

Violent Headaches.

"I was troubled for a long time with headaches, which would come on with such violence that I could not eat or do my work. Headache powders and quick cures did no good. Eight months ago I took six boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and I have not been troubled with a headache since."—Mr. O. Barber, Simcoe, Ont.

Toronto Junction Here On Saturday

To Play the Shamrocks in Semi-Final C. L. A.

The Shamrocks will now go up against the Toronto Junction Junior team for the next round in the C.L.A. semi-finals. President Miller was communicated with to-day and stated that the next game would be played here on Saturday, with the Junction team, and the return game in Toronto on the following Wednesday. The Toronto Junction team is a fast aggregation, and the game on Saturday should be the best of the season so far. In view of the fact that the Shamrocks have had four successive trips away from home, the president agreed to give them the home game in this series first. There should be crowds out to see it.

Oshawa Curlers Already In Line

In Spite of the Heat They Are Preparing for the Winter.

An Oshawa despatch says: — "A preliminary meeting of the Oshawa Curling Club was held on Wednesday evening of last week, and a goodly number of enthusiasts gathered together to discuss prospects for the coming season. Last winter owing to the fact that tube club had no rink, things were dead and it seemed as if the glory of the well known Oshawa Curlers had departed. However things are now on a better footing."

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube, when this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

STONY LAKE STILL CONTINUES AS LIVELY AND GAY AS USUAL

Although End of Season is Not Far Away—Many Week-End Visitors—Mr. Knapman Won the Clear Lake Yacht Race—Other Breezy Items.

Special Staff Correspondence.

Stony Lake, August 20. — There are no signs that the end of the season at Stony Lake is drawing near, and the resort is as lively and jolly as ever. The up traffic on Saturday was as heavy as any this year, a very large number of people spending the week-end at the lake to escape the sweltering heat of the city. Both the afternoon and evening boats had numerous calls to make. Little more than two weeks of the real summer season remain, so the inhabitants of this fairyland community are making the most of their opportunities to enjoy themselves.

Pavilion for East End.

A pavilion for Crowe's Landing, at the east end of Stony Lake, seems assured. Already over $200 has been subscribed, and one gentleman has promised to donate a piano, so that the Juniper Island of the East will begin to make the western centre look to its laurels. The cottagers and campers will meet on Wednesday night for the purpose of electing officers and forming an association. Among other things the pavilion question and the daily mail service will be discussed. A petition, advocating the latter has been signed by every cottager and farmer for miles.

There was divine service at Crowe's Landing last night in the open air. Rev. F. D. Roxburgh, of Smithville, preached an inspiring sermon, and there was a large congregation present from the islands.

Signet Won Race.

The sailing race which was announced to be held off South Beach on Clear Lake, on Saturday, was won by Mr. J. S. Knapman in the Signet. The wind was very light, and the run necessarily slow. Only two boats competed for the flag, one being the "28" and the other the Tige in charge of the "hungry five"—Harry Hall, J. Davidson, W. Cox, C. Lech, and Keith Lech. The Tige led in the first round but was overtaken in the second round, and finished eight minutes behind.

Service at Juniper.

The service at Juniper Island yesterday was conducted by Rev. J. J. Clokey of Braddock, Pa., who is in camp on Juniper Island. Mr. Doherty of the Mendelssohn choir, Toronto, contributed a solo, "Jesus, Saviour, Pilot Me," during the offertory. The service was largely attended and was much enjoyed by those present.

Rev. Mr. Battersby of Young's Point, conducted the services at Viamede Sunday morning and at St. George's church in the evening.

A large number of campers and cottagers to invited to Fort Royal to spend the evening on Thursday. A very enjoyable dance was held, after which games were played and refreshments partaken of. The Fairview camp attended in a body. The event which has been given every summer for some years is much enjoyed, and next year's is looked forward to with pleasant anticipations.

Good Music At Charlotte Street

A Number of Excellent Solos Rendered Yesterday.

The music at Charlotte Street Church yesterday was of more than the usual excellence. At the morning service Mr. Jas. Brown sang with splendid effect, "Will he not come home again?", and at the offertory Miss Bellegham sang "Prayer" by Tosti, rendering that difficult selection in a thoroughly acceptable manner, her splendid voice being heard to good advantage. At night Mr. Freund sang "Wandering Child come home".

Heaviest Rain In Quarter Century

Was That Which Fell at Minden Recently.

The storm of last Friday in this locality was very severre, much damage was done to the ripening grain, Mr. Joseph Hoyle of Snowden had eight pigs killed, several horses and cattle were also killed by lightning the rain fall was the heaviest to be so long continued, that has occurred here in the last quarter of a century.—Minden Echo.

Peterborough Man Shared In Profits

One Man Who Was in on U. P. Rise and Cleared Up Nice Sum—New York Investor Was Lucky—A $2,000,000 Profit—Abraham White Made Enough Money in Two Hours to Buy McCall Residence.

The recent big advance in New York stocks has proved a very profitable one to a few investors in this city. One local man is reported to have cleaned up about $1,000 in the big jump which Union Pacific took.

It is not believed that there were many Peterborough investors in on this stock, unfortunately. In view of the fact that the stock market has recently made some new millionaires the following story from the New York World will be of interest:—

A sturdily built, modest-looking man whose well-shaped head was crowned with very curly and very red hair, his forehead covered with perspiration and his blue eyes twinkling merrily, sat yesterday afternoon at his desk next to a window looking out upon the passing crowds on Broadway. He chuckled gleefully when a clerk came in and said:

"Mr. Blank has just telephoned he'll give you $50,000 more than you paid for it. What will I say?"

"Tell him that a hundred thousand more won't get it, or if you think he'll take that up, make it two hundred thousand. I'm going to hold on and won't sell at any price. That is going to be my home until I die."

The sturdy red-headed man who did the talking was Abraham White, a name not very widely known yesterday, but it will be after to-day. In twenty-four hours Mr. White made enough money to purchase and maintain the most gorgeous country place in America, the great palace built near Long Branch by the late John A. McCall when he was President of the New York Life Insurance Company.

The place, erected on the crown of a hill overlooking the Atlantic Ocean, with its fifty-eight acres of park and its wonderful furnishings, representing in all a cash outlay of $850,000, was formally transferred to Mr. White yesterday.

What he paid for the place was not definitely stated, the sellers saying "something under $500,000." The actual price is believed to be in the neighbourhood of $400,000. After he had signed a check for the property Mr. White signed another check for $250, representing payment for five Jersey heifers, the last remnant of the blooded cattle which Mr. McCall had on the place.

The tremendous bulge in Union Pacific and Southern Pacific on Friday made it possible for Mr. White to purchase this great country place. News of the sale spread through the financial district, and men who were only moderately rich before the U. P. bulge and were very rich yesterday also aspired to ownership of the property. Mr. White was offered $10,000, $20,000, $30,000 $40,000 and finally $50,000 more than he had paid, but every offer was turned down.

A Good Official Is Deprived Of Position

What the Toronto News Says of the Dismissal of Fishery Inspector Brown of Rockdale—No Complaints Against the Officer.

The Toronto News, referring to the dismissal of Mr. John Brown, of Rockdale, says:—

"The axe still swings in the villages and along the side lines and concessions and day by day good Conservatives pass into the land of plenty. It is just announced that Mr. John Brown, of Rockdale, Fishery Overseer for Belmont and Methuen, has been dismissed by the Government by order of the local patronage managers, and that his successor has been duly appointed. It seems that no complaints were laid against Mr. Brown in the Department, that he has been a magistrate since 1884, that he has been Warden of the county, County Councillor and Reeve of Belmont and Methuen, and yet singularly enough, is incapable of the efficient performance of the duties of Fishery Overseer. What a lot of hungry Tories there were in this Province and how freely and lavishly the bread of patronage is being broken to the hungry and needy of the flock.

Ontario Crops Better Than Those In West

A Traveller From Manitoba Says Peterborough County Crops are Superior to Western Grain—Ontario Farmers Do Not Appreciate Fully Their Fortunes.

The people of Ontario don't half appreciate the fact that this is the most favoured part of the Dominion. The crops of the Northwest have been, and will be the topic of conversation all through Ontario for the next month, while as a matter of fact, if one can believe what reliable witnesses state, the grain crops in this province this year are much superior to these of the great West. The Examiner was informed last night that a gentleman who had been here visiting from the West, stated that the crops here were better than they were in any part of Manitoba or the new provinces.

This year has been a most favourable one for the farmers, at least of this county. From all parts of the county come reports that the crops are the best in years. While the storms have done some damage in spots, taking the grain in the county as a whole it will be a splendid yield. Threshing, which is now general reveals the fact that the farmers of Peterborough this year will add considerably to their wealth.

An Alternative Route For C. P. R. Short Line

A New One, It Is Stated—An Easy Route For It To Connect With Main Line West of the City.

A gentleman who is very deeply interested in the city and is anxious that the new C.P.R. short line should touch it, called on The Examiner last night and suggested a route which, while it has not yet been surveyed, is, according to his opinion, the most feasible of all those mentioned. He proposes that the line should cross the G.T.R. near the high level bridge at Lily Lake, and pass along the natural ravine, through the Wallis and Eastland farms, joining the C.P.R. near the Roman Catholic Cemetery. This will alleviate the necessity of cutting through the hill to the west of the city, and would, he believes, give an easy entrance with a low grade.

He considers it a most unfortunate thing that the City Council mixed in what was none of its affair, and, by the course pursued, possibly sent the line to the north of the city, and as a result, it may not touch Peterborough at all. He suggests that, since the persons who were objecting to the line, as staked out, were not residents of the city, the Council was going out of its way to take the matter up at all.

Belleville Wants The School, Too

Intelligencer Thinks That is Place New Normal Should Be.

The Belleville Intelligencer says:—Peterborough is kicking up an awful fuss about the new Normal School site. The Government can now see what a mistake they made in passing over Belleville. This city would have provided a site without any grumbling. And this is just where the school should be, too.

Children On Wagon Ran Into A Team And Were Seriously Injured

Grenville B. Richardson's Two Sons Hurt at Noon To-day at Corner of McDonel and Bethune Streets—On a Play Wagon They Ran Into R. Hicks & Company's Team.

This afternoon about one o'clock, two children, sons of Mr. Grenville B. Richardson, 580 Aylmer street, met with a narrow escape from death. It appears that the two boys were riding down McDonel street on a small express wagon, a pastime which the boys in that in that neighbourhood frequently indulge in. The incline on that street is quite steep, and the momentum is sufficient to send the wagon across Bethune street. They were enjoying themselves in this way this afternoon when a team belonging to R. Hicks & Co., was coming from the yard to commence work for the afternoon. They happened to be crossing Bethune street just in time to run into the horses, the driver of which could not see them coming, for the high board fence which surrounds the yards. The boys, too, did not notice the horses in time to stop their wagon, the result being that they ran into the team, which, naturally, was frightened when the wagon ran between their legs.

The boys both fell off the wagon, and were trampled on by the horses. One boy had his finger badly crushed, and will probably lose it, while the other was more seriously injured. One of his arms was broken, and a leg suffered the same injury, while he was internally injured, the extent of his injuries not having yet been fully determined. He was taken to the Nicholls Hospital, where a physician was soon in attendance upon him. His brother, who was more fortunate, was taken home. No blame can be attached, so far as can be learned, from the circumstances as related, to the driver of the team, but the cause must be attributed to an accident, pure and simple.

More People Travel Than Ever Have Before

Railways Report This Summer's Business Far Exceeds That of Any Previous Year.

Th local railway authorities report that the volume of passenger traffic from this city, this summer, has greatly exceeded that of any previous year. Never in the history of Peterborough have there been so many persons travelling.

The trains on both railways are invariably crowded when they leave this city, and the station platforms upon the arrival of the trains are always filled with those waiting to go away, and with their friends, seeing them off.

This is an indication of the fact that the people of Peterborough are prosperous — it takes money to travel — and that they believe in extracting what pleasure they can out of their money.

This condition prevails in respect to both railways, and it is doubtful if from any other city in the province, except Toronto and Ottawa, do the railways do as large a business as in Peterborough.

Fifteen Days For Boyd; Will Retire For A Term

The Advice to Get Out of Town Was Not Heeded—Dispute Over Labourers' Wages Brings Contractor Into Court.

For the second time in four days Wm. Boyd showed the light of his countenance in the police court this morning. The joys of the wine cup seem to have an irresistible attraction for Mr. Boyd, and this liking is shared by his better half. They were ordered to shake the dust of Peterborough off their feet yesterday morning, but pedestrian exploits were apparently not congenial in view of the hot weather, and the pair decided to spend the day in the city. In the afternoon they added a little variety to every-day life on George street by giving a remarkable exhibition of jiu jitsu and other forms of fancy wrestling to the accompaniment of language that would make a bowery policeman take notice.

As a result, Mr. Boyd was a visitor at the police court again this morning and pleaded guilty, at the same time attempting to give a lengthy explanation of the episode. Magistrate Dumble, however, cut him short with a $5 fine or 15 days in jail. Boyd had not the necessary "root of all evil," and as his wife departed last night for parts unknown, he decided that he would make a noise like a hermit for two weeks.

Claimed Wages.

Praxdley Porey, a gentleman with a strong habitant accent and an equally strong grievance against a local contractor, was also a prominent personage in this morning's proceedings. Porey claimed $8.16 wages which he said were due him. Porey's efforts with the pick and shovel are said to have been not very successful, and hence he was not paid all that he should have been, although the contractor claimed that he was willing to pay him. Judgment was given for $7.95 in favour of the complainant.

Charged With Throwing Stones.

A young lad was charged with throwing stones, and the case was enlarged until to-morrow. P. C. Nowhall was the only witness this morning and told of the manner in which the boy was rounded up. Complaints had been received from the neighbourhood of the convent, and the officer went out to investigate. He did the old sleuth act behind a shed and saw the lad with other boys, all of whom, he said, were throwing stones at a barn, and he had run right into his arms and, on being asked for his name and address, refused to give either. The boy's coat and shirt were torn by his violent efforts to get away.

Haliebury Was Visited By Fire

A New Ontario Town Swept by The Flames.

Examiner Special.

For Teething Children.

AN excellent gruel for children that are cutting teeth is made as follows: Tie a quarter of a pound of wheat flour in a thick cloth, place it in one quart of water and boil for three hours. Remove the cloth and expose the flour to the air until it has become hard and dry. When wanted grate from it one tablespoonful, put it into a pint of new milk. Place over the fire and stir until it comes to a boil, then add a pich of salt, add a tablespoon of cold water.

Three Were A Crowd.

AN Irishman in order to celebrate the advent of a new era, went out on a toot. He didn't get home till 3 o'clock in the morning, and was barely in the house when a nurse rushed up and, uncovering a bunch of soft goods, showed him triplets. The Irishman looked at the clock, which marked three, then at the three of a kind in the nurse's arms, and said:

"Oi'm not superstitious, but Oi thank Hiven thot Oi didn't come home at twilve."

Mixed Morality.

"JAMES, my son," said a man who was mixing milk and water, "ye see what I'm a-doing?"

"Yes, father," replied James, "you're a-pouring water into the milk."

"N; I'm not, James. I'm a-pouring milk into the water. If anyone axes you if I put water into the milk, you tell 'em no. Allus stick to the truth, James. Cheatin' is bad enough, but lyin' is wuss."

DOCTOR BRIGHAM SAYS

MANY PHYSICIANS PRESCRIBE

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The wonderful power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over the diseases of womankind is not because it is a stimulant, not because it is a palliative, but simply because it is the most wonderful tonic and reconstructor ever discovered to act directly upon the generative organs, positively curing disease and restoring health and vigor.

Marvelous cures are reported from all parts of the country by women who have been cured, trained nurses who have witnessed cures and physicians who have recognized the virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and are fair enough to give credit where it is due.

If physicians dared to be frank and open, hundreds of them would acknowledge that they constantly prescribe Lydia E. Pinkham Vegetable Compound in severe cases of female ills, as they know by experience it can be relied upon to effect a cure. The following letter proves it.

Dr. S. C. Brigham, of 4 Brigham Park, Fitchburg, Mass., writes:

"It gives me great pleasure to say that I have found Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound very efficacious, and often prescribe it in my practice for female difficulties.

"My oldest daughter found it very beneficial for female trouble some time ago, and my youngest daughter is now taking it for a female weakness, and is surely gaining in health and strength.

"I freely advocate it as a most reliable specific in all diseases to which women are subject, and give it honest endorsement."

Women who are troubled with painful or irregular periods, bloating (or flatulence,) weakness of organs, displacements, inflammation or ulceration can be restored to perfect health and strength by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. If advice is needed, write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. She is daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham and for twenty-five years has been advising sick women free of charge. No other living person has had the benefit of a wider experience in treating female ills. She has guided thousands to health. Every suffering woman should ask for and follow her advice if she wants to be strong and well.

TUESDAY, AUGU. 21, 1906.

A DIFFERENCE.

The uproar in Kingston because a Conservative in the militia has been promoted to a paymastership is likely to result in the cancellation of the appointment. Apparently the Reform view of office holding is that at Ottawa the party must have all the offices, because it is in control there, while at Toronto it is an outrage and an evidence of the adoption of the spoils system if a Conservative should be appointed to a public place.—Mail and Empire.

The organ in its treatment of this incident is normal — not quite honest. There is as much difference between the two cases cited as there is between chalk and cheese. It is recognized as fair that in making appointments, any Government is justified in appointing persons of its own political faith, but it is also recognized that the "spoils system," an odious adaptation of Yankee political methods to administrative acts, consists in dismissing officials appointed under a previous régime to give places to persons politically in sympathy with the succeeding regime. The Laurier Government has not practiced the "spoils" system; the Whitney Government has practiced the "spoils" system. It has dismissed hundreds of officials appointed by a previous Government — efficient and capable officials, to give places to Conservative hangers-on. The Liberal Government, at Ottawa, has not done that. It has—as many think, with undue generosity — retained in office many persons of Conservative sympathies, who are not loyal to their bread and butter, who are caballing against, and hostile to, the Government that keeps them in employment, and an appointment like that of Mr. Shannon is properly regarded as an extreme stretch of generosity.

NORTHWARD.

To the world at large, the region in the vicinity of Hudson Bay, has been, from all time, an ice-bound terra incognita known only to the few who have read the romantic history of the Hudson Bay Company's factors and coureurs du bois, and the explorations of Mackenzie, Simpson and Selkirk. But this region is to be invaded by the great civilizer, the railway. At a meeting of the provisional directors of the Prince Albert and Hudson Bay Railway, it was decided to put surveyors on the proposed line at once, and begin construction at the earliest possible moment. With this railway constructed and in operation, and with the Temiscamingue and Northern Railway extended to James Bay, an immense area of territory, and an immense expense of fruitful sea, will be made tributary to the commercial wealth of Ontario, and the West. We in this far-flung Canada of ours, don't yet know half the extent of its material wealth of resources, nor half appreciate its inconceivable commercial magnitude and importance.

THE MAIN INFLUENCE.

The material conditions, making for successful farming operations, in the Northwest, and for happy home-making, are doubtless to be regarded as the primary motive leading American farmers to immigrate to Canada. But there is an underlying, and it may be, sub-conscious, motive, consisting in the better civil, social, moral and educational conditions, the immigrant will find in his new home, which permits of its being made a home in the broader and higher sense of the word. The energy of Canadian law, its superior constitution, and, above all, its infinitely superior administration, have, it is probable, an immense influence. When one contrasts the swift, sure, straight and conscientious course of Canadian justice, with the tardy, halting, crooked course of American law methods, as asserted by those called upon to defend it, the contrast appeals strongly to thinking farmers of the United States, who are anxious to improve their conditions and environments. Nothing has perhaps so largely contributed to this respect and admiration of Canada's law conditions, as the record of the Northwest Mounted Police force, backed by the spirit of the Dominion Government, whose motto is the stern administration of justice, to the end of maintaining law, and regardless of expense. It cost the Dominion Government $200,000 to capture, convict and hang a single murderer who had operated on the Yukon trails. It will be remembered that a gang of American desperadoes "held up" a Canadian Pacific Railway train in the passes of the Rocky Mountains, not long since. Did they escape scott free, as they, perhaps, had done, or as other gangs had done, on the American side of the boundary? By no means. The machinery of Canadian law and justice was set in motion, the toughs were captured, tried, convicted and sentenced to long terms of imprisonment. This was done with, to the people across the line, a dizzying velocity. Yet everything was done decently, and in order, with due deliberation, and regularity of procedure. The fame of these things has reached the ears of farmers in the United States, and there is little doubt that at bottom this was the prompting factor in deciding their selection of Canada as a home. These instances, and scores of others which could be cited, are merely representative of the spirit that characterizes Canadian administration of justice, and this, in turn, is representative of conditions of citizenship which appeal irresistibly to those who in their home life and environments have been handicapped by opposite conditions. Canada, as a land, where sound, sane laws are enacted, where law is faithfully and honestly administered, becomes a country, where from ocean to ocean, not only life and property are safe, but the corrollary, a sense of security, the moral atmosphere, and all that goes to constitute happy and prosperous citizenship, exercise a drawing influence, which its fertile soil, and material conditions could not alone exert. American farmers who make homes in the Northwest will not become annexation propagandists. They will think not only twice, but many times, before they will move to re-create under a brighter sky, a state of things from which they escaped when they made their homes in Canada.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

"I done it!" shouts the Toronto World, referring to the ukase of the Railway Commission, ordering a two-cent-a-mile rate on the Metropolitan Railway.

Col. G. T. Denuison is back from the meeting of the Chambers of Commerce of the Empire. Mr. Joseph Chamberlain being now authoratively advised can proceed with his imperial preference scheme as fast as he can.

Conservative newspapers are suggesting that the mines on the right-of-way of the Temiskaming Railway may, as a last resort, be developed by the Province itself, as the mineral resources of the Gillies Limit are to be developed.

But if the Temiskaming Commission and the Whitney Government cannot handle a simple lease of rights without terrible bungling and display of gross favouritism to party friends, can they be expected to restrain their cupidity in the operation of valuable mines?

What opportunities there would be for "the boys" under State operation with such a Government! — Ottawa Free Press.

The unseating of Hon. W. S. Fielding, representative of Shelburne in the House of Commons, and the best Minister of Finance Canada ever had, is a sweet morsel to Conservative journals of the class of the Mail and Empire. It calls the unseating Mr. Fielding's "downfall." The circumstances contradict this. Mr. Fielding is completely absolved from the least knowledge of complicity in the acts of zealous local politicians. The judges who heard the petition took care to say that while there was a breach of the election law sufficient to annual the election on account of the acts of others, for which he was not responsible, Mr. Fielding was "absolutely innocent of any violation of the law, and, in fact, had done what he could to see that no breach of the law was committed during the election." The Mail and Empire is true to its precedent in attacking judges when their decisions oppose the ex-parte opinion it has formed by assailing the judges who, with the fullest knowledge of the facts, of the demeanour of witnesses and other special means, declared Mr. Fielding "absolutely innocent" of wrong-doing in the case. Vindictiveness seems to be the basis of action of his opponents in the election matter. He was served with a subpoena in the election trial in order to prevent his attendance at the funeral of a colleague, the late Hon. Raymond Prefontaine. No doubt party feeling runs high in Nova Scotia, where the Conservatives have met with sweeping defeat, and this, combined with the natural desire to remove a strong man like Mr. Fielding, accounts very largely for the assault made. Mr. Fielding will doutless stand for re-election, be returned, and take his seat at the November session.

VALPARAISO.

The name Valparaiso, the city almost annihilated by earthquake and fire, signifies "vale of paradise." The long, narrow city, extends bow-like around the bay. At its feet roll the waters of the broad Pacific; behind it rise the rocky cliffs of the Cordilleras. Upon the sandy soil, which borders the sea, and upon this almost perpendicular ridge, the city is built. In the bay, drawn up in lines, like men of war for review, are hundreds of vessels, bearing the flags of every nation on earth. Seen at night from the sea, Valparaiso presents a most singular appearance. This city of hills, its houses resting tier upon tier, with their myriad of sparkling lights, reminds one of the facade of some immense public building with its gala-day illuminations. As the city has grown the rocky cliffs have been terraced, irregular rows of houses of different shapes and sizes rise up against the precipices. It would seem as if a convulsion of nature had placed them there, and that a volcanic eruption would send them tumbling into the sea. The civilization of the old and new world is seen here. Progress is denoted by the many beautiful houses, architecturally as fine as any in the world, with their handsomely carved facades, their palatial proportions, their every evidence that millions of money is represented under their roof. Electric lights are placed upon the crests of the cliffs, a street car line encircles the city, and the large and commodious shops contain luxurious and costly articles. It is said that what can be found in London or Paris can as easily be purchased there. French styles are affected and English tailors patronized. Yet their method of working seems primitive in the extreme. Four-teamed carts, drawn by oxen, do the heavy hauling. Garden produce, milk, bread, fowl, etc., are peddled from house to house by men and women mounted generally on donkeys. The climate of Valparaiso, is as cold as that of Richmond, Va., but the people have an idea that fires are unhealthful, and except in houses built by English, Germans or Americans, residences are without grate, stove or chimney.

Women's Work at Toronto.

—The Women's Building at the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto, this year, can hardly fail to be one of the most interesting of all the departments. The exhibit of laces in particular bids fair to be exceptionally good while the products of the skill of school children, in both quantity and excellence, are bound to attract a good deal of attention.

Miss Ethel Turner of New York, who has been visiting with her mother for some time returned home to New York to-day.

A New Feature.

—A merry melange of mirth and melody, sparkling dialogue, bright repartee, a host of pretty girls, and a big cast, are treats in store for theatre goers, who visit the Central Canada Fair at Ottawa this year, where the fanciful fairyesque, "The Gingerbread Man," will be the night show attraction. The scenes are laid in the mythical land of Santa Claus and the adjoining kingdoms of King Sugar Plum and King Bunn, and people of such friends of our childhood as Kris Kringle, Margery Daw, Jack Horner, The Man from our Town, Simple Simon, etc., will be seen. The lyrics were written by Frederick Ranken, and the music by A. Baldwin Sloane, who have many individual successes to their credit.

Christ's Coming Probable On About May 2nd, 1929

Mr. J. Jays, of England, in the City Proclaiming That Christ Will Shortly Come to Reign for 1000 Years The World—Twenty Coming Events.

For the past few nights, those who frequented the corner of Simcoe and George street have had an opportunity of being instructed in matters pertaining to the future. Mr. J. Jayes, of England, has been giving addresses on "Coming Prophetic Events," and during the day he has been distributing booklets entitled "Twnety Coming Events," dealing with events which it claims will take place between 1906 and the end of this age, in 1929-31. Among these events are:

Wars and revolutions between 1900 and 1919.

Confederation of Ten Kingdoms about 1919.

Coming of a Napoleon as King of Syria about 1922-23, and President of the Confederation from 1925-27 to 1929-31.

Ascension of 144,000 Christians to heaven (without dying (probably about February 26, 1924, or February 2, 1926).

Great tribulation and persecution for three and a half years, from August, 1925 or 1927.

Descent of Christ at Jerualem (probably about May 2, 1929, or April 11, 1931) to reign over the nations for 1,000 years.

To-night at the corner of Simcoe and George streets Mr. Jayes will give an address in which he will deal with some of these events, including the translation to heaven without dying of 144,000 Second Advent believers. Flight of millions of remaining Christians into a wilderness for three and a half years, during which the socialistic Antichrist will massacre all Christians who do not worship him or his image, according to Revelations xii. and xiii.

Mr. Jayes will remain in Peterborough until Friday, and during his stay here will distribute 3,750 copies of his booklet. He goes from here to Berlin, and will visit 15 other places in Ontario before returning to England. The cost of his expedition as well as that of printing and distributing the booklets, is borne by Mr. Baxter, who is the editor of the Christian Herald, London, England, and of the Prophetic News. Referring tto the coming of Christ, the booklet says:

We cannot help knowing seven years beforehand the exact time of Christ's personal descent upon this earth at the end of this age, because, according to more than two hundred expositors of the prophecy of the Seventy Weeks in Daniel's 9th and 11th chapters, a "Prince that shall come," who (will be "King of the North" (i.e. Syria), "shall confirm a covenant with many of the Jews for one week of seven years, even until the Consummation," so that the Covenant must be made seven years before the end of this age, or Consummation, and therefore about 1922-4, if the end is to be in 1929-31.

May be the Liver Is at Fault

It is customary for many people to blame the stomach when the liver is responsible for the troubles of digestion.

Such symptoms as headache, coated tongue, disgust for food, vomiting, feelings of weight and soreness, dull pain near shoulders, muddy complexion, constipation, alternating with looseness of the bowels, irritability of temper, are sure indications of biliousness or torpid liver.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are marvellously prompt and certain as a cure for sluggish action of the liver. While awakening the liver they also regulate the bowels and invigorate the kidney action.

In this way the filtering and excretory systems are thoroughly cleansed of all poisonous impurities and the cause of pain, sickness and suffering removed.

In every family there is need of just such a medicine as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to cure constipation, backache, biliousness, indigestion and prevent dangerous and fatal diseases of the kidneys and bowels. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. 12

MUST DECLINE CORRESPONDENCE

The Examiner has received a postcard communication referring to matters associated with the Todd-Brandlett inquest. This is a quasi judicial inquiry, and it seems that any external influence intended to modify procedure or affect the course or decision of the coroner or jury respectively, can easily be construed into contempt of court. The Examiner has also received a longer letter dealing with the inquest in question, in a way to prejudice the position of the coroner and those concerned in the matter. The appearance, even, of evil will be avoided by withholding the letters.

For the Man Who Works at a Desk

Not Doctors, But the Right Kind of Food is What He Needs.

You work at a desk and you are shut up in an office all day long, your brain overworked, your body absolutely idle. You get "out of sorts" and your meals don't please you and what you eat doesn't agree with you.

Maybe you think you are sick, but you aren't. You need one of two things—exercise or better food, or both.

It may be impossible for you to get the exercise. It's the easiest thing in the world to get the right kind of food. Ask your grocer for Malta-Vita.

This famous food is the whole of the wheat thoroughly steamed and cooked in absolute purity and mixed with finest malt extract, a powerful digestive agent, which quickly converts the starch of the wheat into maltose,—malt sugar. Maltose is great food, and the weakest stomach digests and assimilates it without effort. The malted wheat, rolled into little flakes, is baked under such intense heat that when it comes from the great ovens, every flake is crisp, brown Malta-Vita—the most delicious food in the world. Always ready to eat.

A perfect breakfast is impossible without Malta-Vita and it's good three times a day. All grocers sell it. Now 10 cents per package.

Common ranges make the coal man smile. The Pandora Range makes the thrifty housewife smile.

Pandora Range

It is comparatively easy to build a range that will make a lot of heat, but it requires the exact science of Pandora Range building to produce a range that will use all the heat in the coal without waste.

A common range may burn twice the coal that a Pandora will, and yet do only half the work.

If you use a Pandora Range you can be certain that your coal money is not wasted, but used.

Sold by enterprising dealers everywhere. Write for booklet.

More Evidence On The Randlett Inquest

Case Was Resumed Last Night—Cross-Firing Between Messrs. Wood and Todd—Some More Light on Christian Science.

The inquest into the death of Arthur H. Randlett was resumed last night at the Council Chamber, with the coroner, Dr. Gray, presiding. There was a large number of interested spectators, including many Christian Scientists, who followed the case eagerly. Evidence was received from Dr. Boucher as to the post-mortem examination, and from Mr. Todd and other witnesses. Not much of it was new, but Mr. Wood, who conducted the investigation, took a new line in inquiring what was done with the property of Randlett after his death. Mr. Todd was on the stand again, and there was considerable cross-firing between him and Mr. Wood. Coroner Gray threatened once to commit Mr. Todd to jail if he refused to answer question. Mr. Todd claimed that medicine killed more than famine, war and pestilence, and that the Christian Science treatment was the best known in the world. Some of his statements were greeted with clapping of hands from the Christian Scientists in the audience, and P. C. Newhall had to warn them to keep quiet. The inquest was adjourned for three weeks until September 18.

Dr. Boucher's Evidence.

Dr. Boucher said that he had made an autopsy, assisted by Dr. Marshall. It showed that the deceased had died from hemmorrhage of the bowels as a complication of typhoid fever. It was, he would say, a fairly severe attack of the disease. He thought that his chances of recovery with proper treatment would have been very good. There was a phase of the disease called walking typhoid, the patients being able to be up and move around. Nothing had been said to him about deceased's belongings.

To Mr. Todd witness said that he had never heard of any disturbances about his (Mr. Todd's) house.

"You go on," said Dr. Boucher, "and treat in your peculiar way cases that you shouldn't treat, and then come to me or some other physician, when death is near, and try to get out of it by getting a certificate of death." He had considered it his duty to report the case. He did not think he could have saved the patient if he had been called an hour ahead. The man's chances would have been a great deal better had he been properly treated. He could swear that medicine was a healer.

4000 Years of Medicine.

Mr. Todd questioned him as to what book on medicine he had read. "Have you '4000 Years of Medicine' in your library?" he asked. He then wanted to quote from Dr. Benj. Rush, but was stopped by Mr. Wood, who said he wouldn't be allowed to state it as an authority. He wanted to show that medicine had killed more than war, pestilence or famine.

"That's not true," said the coroner. "All medical men know that."

Dr. Marshall.

Dr. Marshall said that he had assisted Dr. Boucher in the post mortem examination, and agreed with Dr. Boucher that Randlett died of hemmorrhage as the result of typhoid fever, and also with the answers given by Dr. Boucher. He had had experience with typhoid, and had practiced nine years, having had hospital experience.

Mr. Todd.

Mr. R. J. Todd, asked as to his occupation before he commenced Christian Science work, said he was a carriage builder and general blacksmith. He had gone through a course of Christian Science treatment for 12 days. He was fitted then, he said, to take up a case and heal in half an hour afterwards.

"Were you fitted, if you had been called upon at that time, to treat a case of this kind?"

The witness refused to answer the question, and said that he wanted British fair play.

"I don't want to be domineered over," he said. "I know that I have the highest form of healing that the world has known to-day."

At last, witness said he would be prepared to try to heal the case.

"You must answer or I commit you," said the coroner.

"All right, then, and I'll go to jail. I'm ready now," said Mr. Todd.

Application of Truth.

Mr. Wood returned to the statement made by witness that he had applied the truth to the inner consciousness of the patient. Part of this was from Mrs. Eddy's book and part from the Bible. He had that answer ready before he ever saw the man. On Friday deceased owed him for his treatment and for his keep at his house. He had paid $5 on account. This was all that he had got from him. He had not got $13 from him at the National. He did not see him produce money there. He had not touched his pocketbook until after the deceased had passed out. He did not call it death. He got $40 after Randlett was dead. Witness thought that it was an honest way to do it. The remainder had been given to Mr. Lombard. There was something under a dollar.

"I thought he belonged to the clique?"

"What do you mean by the clique?" asked Mr. Wood.

"The doctors," answered Mr. Todd. He had not looked in deceased's pocketbook before he died.

Would Do the Same Thing.

"If you had another patient to-night, would you do the same thing over again?" asked Mr. Wood.

"Yes, just the same," replied Mr. Todd.

"That is, two prayers to God daily, at $5 per week," said Mr. Wood.

"I couldn't treat more than one at once," witness said, in answer to another question.

He had got deceased's watch and kept it in his room in his secretary drawer. He did not refuse to give it up, but did not volunteer to tell where it was.

"What right had you to take the man's money after he was dead?" asked Mr. Wood.

"I thought it belonged to me," said Mr. Todd.

"You'll find it didn't belong to you," said the coroner. 'You confiscated it, or worse."

"That was $5 you didn't confiscate, anyway," said the Christian Science leader.

Cure all Disease.

Mr. Wood here concluded the examination, but Mr. Todd wanted to go on to show that every from of disease could be cured by his treatment, which, he said, was an absolute healing principle. He said that it was the doctors who were trying to overthrow the principle. Here a juryman asked about Mrs. Hannah, and Mr. Todd said he had not inquired at the hospital since Mrs. Hannah was taken there.

"I can bring proof," said the juryman.

"Bring it," said Mr. Todd, "I defy you."

At this there was an outburst of applause from the back of the room, where there were a number of Christian Science people, and Constable Newhall had to threaten to put them out.

The witness went on to talk about Mrs. Hannah's case, and was called to order by Mr. Wood, who said it had nothing to do with Randlett's death.

"We don't want to stay here all night," he said, "listening to your rubbish."

Treatment not Infallible.

Dr. Gray said that witness stated that his treatment was infallible, but had left his patient die on his hands and didn't even know he was dying half an hour before his death.

Mr. Todd wanted to go on, but was compelled to stop.

Mrs. Todd's Evidence.

Mrs. Todd, (wife of the previous witness, said she knew that Mr. Randlett had passed out or died at her house. She had not waited upon him when he was ill. All the nursing he got from Mr. Todd. He gave a large part of his time to him. She didn't know of any medicines given to him. He had got ice cream for the patient, and had bathed him. Patient had got milk and white of egg; once a cup of tea. She knew the patient had money, and saw some bills, but did not see the denomination of them. She didn't get any of the bills. The house was quiet during the patient's illness. She knew her husband had Randlett's watch. Her husband had said nothing about the watch to her. He took the watch and put it away. The police had asked her about the watch. She didn't tell the police that she had last seen the watch in her husband's hand.

Didn't Think it Was Dishonest.

"Do you think that was honest?" asked Mr. Wood.

"I don't think it was dishonest," was witness's reply.

She didn't know, how much money there was. Her husband had told her there was $40.

To Dr. Gray, witness said that her husband had a tenant in a part of his house. She was civil and paid her rent. Her husband had given her notice to quit before Randlett's death, because he wanted the house.

P. Engele's Evidence.

Perry Engele said he was clerk at the National Hotel. He saw Randlett at the hotel on July 18, and saw Todd there several times, but did not know who he was. Mrt. Todd was there nearly every day for a week. Randlett had a good-sized roll of bills when he settled his account, and had paid with two $10 bills. His bill came to $13.50. He thought there was $100 in the roll. Mr. Todd was not with Randlett when he left.

To a juryman, witness said he would swear there was over $45 in the roll that Randlett carried.

The inquest then adjourned for three weeks.

Necessity For Curfew Bell

Is There a Reason Why Peterborough Should Adopt It?

The Lethbridge Herald has the following remarks on a subject which might perhaps have a local bearing:

"The need of a curfew law in Lethbridge grows more apparent every day. No matter, where you roam on the streets at night, you run against youngsters gadding about the streets when they should have been in bed hours before and they are the nerviest, sauciest, foulest mouthed kids too. If their parents cannot keep them off the streets, the council should pass a curfew bell law, providing that they shall stay at home after a certain hour in the evening."

Papers Live In Peace To Together

W. A. Buchanan's Course Met With Approval.

"Billy" Buchanan's fellow editors in the West evidently think well of his newspaper methods. The Magrath Pioneer says:—

"The Lethbridge papers are keeping up a good lick and unlike some other papers in big cities, are at peace among themselves. It would be hard to find two papers in one town so gloriously harmonious and so energetically engaged in playing the game of 'boost.' Among our exchanges there are none more welcome than these papers."

RICHARD HALL & SON

Suggests Water St. Site For New Normal School

A Citizen Who Thinks That Best Place is North of St. Paul's Church--Property Could be Bought for $12,000.

Another site has been proposed for the new Normal School, in view of the fact that the one selected by the Deputy Minister is not available. Today a citizen called at the office to suggest that the most advantageous site, in his opinion was that north of St. Paul's church, on Water street, bounded on the north by McDonel street. On this property there are three buildings. A frame house immediatel north of the church, a three-house terrace and the store and dwelling on the corner. He believed that the whole property could be bought for about $12,000, and would, according to his belief make the best possible site for the new school. To the rear of this property on the east, is the school ground, which could be utilized if necessary, while the fact that the Central School was so close, would be, in his estimation, a decidedly favourable circumstance.

Says Lindsay Is Legitimate Site

For the Location of the New Normal School.

The Lindsay Post thinks that the little difficulty over the Normal school site, here, may result in the institution being located in Lindsay. It says:

"There is a tidy row on between Peterborough Board of Education and the Provincial Education Department. Representatives of the latter body sent to Peterborough to select a site for the new Normal School, committed the indiscretion of choosing a portion of Central Park already set aside by the Board for a new Collegiate Institute about to be erected. There are wigs on the green as a result of the disagreement, but the trouble is barely likely to result in the removal of the Normal School to the only legitimate site—the town—of Lindsay."

Supplying Men To Lumber Company

Mr. Turcotte of Tweed in the City With Two Gangs To-day.

Mr. Turcotte, of Tweed, arrived in the city to-day with a gang of 16 men for the Cavendish Lumber Co. He turned them over to Mr. T. Cavanagh, and returned to Tweed at noon. He will arrive again to-night with another lot of men for the same company.

Stole Horse From A Stable

Mr. George Hatton Met With Serious Loss Last Night.

It doesn't pay to go out of the city and leave one's stable door unlocked, as Mr. G. W. Hatton will learn to his sorrow when he returns home. During last night some unknown persons entered his stable and took from it his pony after having broken down the fence.

The first that was known of the theft was this morning, when the man whom Mr. Hatton has engaged to attend to the horse went to the stable to feed him and found the door open and the pony gone. Diligent search was at once instituted, but it was unavailing for no trace of the missing animal could be found.

The animal was recovered this morning tied to a tree in a swamp.

Bricklayers Are Scarce At Present

Contractor Bogue is Having Troubles of His Own in Securing Labour.

The difficulty of obtaining bricklayers is making itself felt in the erection of the new public school. Con Contractor Bogue is having trouble in getting enough brick layers and at present only three or four are at work. The stonework was finished over a week ago, and things are in shape now to rush the brickwork if enough labour was at hand. Mr. Bogue was in Lindsay yesterday and succeeded in securing several bricklayers and is on the still hunt for more. The scarcity of this class of labour is another evidence that the building trades were never so busy in Peterborough as at the present time.

For a few days beginning Wednesday morning you can buy Factory Cotton at 5cts. yd.; the best Print regular 12 1-2c, for 10c; Fancy Serim Muslin regular 25c, for 15c; Hemstitched Handerchiefs Fine Linen, 4 for 25c. Clearing sale of Silk Blouses on Wednesday—be sure and see them.

Mr. G. N. Brown Is Grand Organizer

Was Re-elected to This Position At Brockville.

At the meeting of the High Court of the Independent Order of Foresters for Ontario East, held at Brockville last week, Mr. G. N. Brown, who is well known in this city, was again chosen as the Grand Organizer for the eastern branch of the Order.

Chinaman Was Transported

Lakefield Laundryman Had an Enforced Holiday.

The steamer Empress of the Stony Lake route, may have to face a serious charge—nothing less than the abduction of a Chinaman. The Celestial, who rejoices in the possession of a pig-tail, and the name of One Lung, or something similar, is a guardian of the fine linen of Lakefield. While the Empress was preparing to leave Lakefield yesterday, One Lung, or whatever his name is, got on board as usual with his laundry bag, to solicit washee-washee orders, but the steamer left rather suddenly with the Chinaman still on board. The crew of the steamer refused to turn back, and the poor laundryman was taken right up to Stony Lake, and was shipped back on the steamer of that name to Lakefield. The beauties of the resort had no attractions for him, and during the whole voyage he mourned his unhappy fate.

Eyes Worth Having

Did you ever stop to think that with the exception of the heart, the eye is the hardest worked part of the body.

As long as you are awake and your eyes are open they are working in your service.

Three pairs of muscles control the movement of each eyeball.

The two eyeballs move exactly together. Would you know the effect of their not working together—press your finger against one, so that it's position does not exactly correspond with the other.

How important it is that if these muscles tire and you have headaches and require Glasses, that your Glasses suit your eyes—our long experience makes us experts and able to fit you correctly.

Peterborough Doctors Attend The Convention

A Number of Members of the Medical Profession Going to Toronto—Greatest Gathering of Medical Men in History.

A number of the physicians of the city have gone to Toronto to attend the meeting of the British Medical Association, which opens to-day in that city. Among those who attended from this city were, Dr. Amys, Dr. Scott, Dr. J. Malcolm, McCullough and Dr. Neal. Others will go this evening and to-morrow. Dr. J. R. Fraser, of Lakefield, is also attending.

Speaking of the gathering the Toronto Globe says:—

The arrival of more than eight hundred prominent physicians yesterday to attend the meeting of the British Medical Association indicates that the convention record of that body may be broken by the gathering in Toronto. From near and far throughout almost every part of the empire members have come, making one of the most important assemblages ever convened in this city. The kings of the medical world in Great Britain are here, along with representatives from outposts of empire like India, South Africa, Australia, Egypt and the West Indies. Visitors from Germany and France, not to speak of a host from the United States, have arrived to give and to receive counsel in the most learned profession in the world. All day the University main building was a scene of the greatest activity. At times the clerks in the registration stalls could scarce control the crowds who sought to enter their names. Delegates from the Pasteur Institute in Paris meet on common ground with a native doctor from India, with professors from perhaps a score of United States universities, with the best that England can send, all bringing their knowledge for the benefit of the most inexperienced Canadian student who may attend.

Detroit Will Give The Visitors A Good Time

Members of Association of Cemetery Superintendents Which Mr. F. Wise is Attending, Will Enjoy Visit in Detroit—The Programme.

The Detroit News of Sunday said: The twentieth annual convention of the Association of American Cemetery Superintendents will be held in the Hotel Cadillac, Aug. 21-23, and at the same time the first annual meeting of the Michigan Cemetery association will be held, the only difference in programme being that the latter meeting will be held on the afternoon of Aug. 20, in the same place.

The officers of the American Association, Edward G. Carter, Chicago; J. C Cline, Dayton, O.; and Bellett Lawson, Paxtang, Pa., will all attend. The local committee is made up of F. W. Higgins and Matthew H. Winters of Woodmere cemetery; Alexander W. Blain, of Elmwood; John Reid of Mt. Elliott and Mt. Olivet; John Sherrill of Forest Lawn; Christian Schroetter of the German Lutheran, and Frank Errich of Woodlawn. Mayor Codd will deliver the welcoming speech and Judge Murphy will also make an address. On each of the afternoons the convention is in session the members will go by special cars or automobiles on tours of inspection of all the local cemeteries, landscape gardening, "Satan in the Cemetery" and other matters will come up for discussion. On the afternoon and evening of the last day the convention will go to the Flats for a good time.

Mount Pleasant Wants The Electric Railway

A Proposal to Have the Radial Railway Build a Line to Touch Omemee and Mount Pleasant—Harvest About Completed is Satisfactory.

Examiner Special.

Mount Pleasant, August 20. — Miss Ella and Miss Flora Marsh of Richmond Hill, are visiting their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. McLean, Mount Pleasant.

Mr. T. W. McLean has returned, after visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Marsh, Richmond Hill, and spending a short time with his brother and his family, who are holidaying at Kew Beach.

The baseball club are making preparations for the coming picnic, to be held here on the 24th inst.

Mr. Joe Morden has removed to Omemee.

Mr. Thomas Handley will occupy his late place of residence here.

Mr. and Mrs. William Greig have been at Stony Lake holidaying at the home of A. P. McLean, of Peterborough.

Mr. George Jamieson and wife had a pleasant visit to Niagara Falls and Buffalo.

The harvest is almost over, and the farmers appear to be satisfied with the good crops. Some of them have threshed to make room for the extra large crop.

The shortening of the distance between here and Peterborough may be the means of bringing pressure on the manager of the street railway at Peterborough to extend their line out here to Omemee and Lindsay. The Cavan long swamp drain when completed will remove all obstacles out of the way of opening the road in the swamp.

Gypsy's Horse Strayed Away

Left Camp and Came in to See Sights of City.

The Gypsies, who are encamped on the Omemee road, not far from Jackson Park, are mourning the loss of a black horse. The animal was left in a field last night, and this morning it was gone. Several of the camp were in the city to-day looking for it, but beyond the fact that it was seen in town to-day, could learn nothing of the horse. It belonged to Jack Williams, and was a jet-black animal, standing about 16 hands high, and rather thin. Information as to its whereabouts may be left at the police station.

Awaiting Owners At Police Station

A Letter and Child's Purse Among the Articles Found.

Several articles are awaiting ownership at the Police Station just now. The number and variety of the articles picked up and taken to the station is remarkable, and some of these are never called for. There is a letter there now which was found on the street and which is addressed to "Mr. J. Dodds, Peterborough." A child's purse has also been at the station for a week and the chief is desirous of finding its owner.

Attend Dinner Of 1896 Class

Two Local Physicians Will Take In Graduates' Dinner.

During this week in Toronto the members of the graduate class of 1896 of Trinity Medical College, Toronto, will hold a dinner, and it is probable that the two members of that class in Peterborough, Dr. Morgan and Dr. McNulty, will attend this dinner.

THE WEATHER

The weather for several days has been very warm and sultry, and to-day the temperature is higher than ever, at noon the thermometer recording 88 degrees in the shade, with good prospects of going above 90 degrees before the day was over. Cooler weather is now promised, which will be a welcome change indeed.

Was Injured In Lively Runaway

Ernest Jackson Was Thrown Out of Rig and Had His Leg Wrenched.

Mr. Ernest Jackson, who drives a rig for J. J. Howden, was injured in a lively run away on Crescent street last night. With his little son he was driving a sheep rig, and near the corner of Doon and Crescent street his horse became frightened at a passing street car. The animal dashed down Crescent street at a lively rate, and near the cemetery upset the rig, throwing the occupants out. Jackson had his leg badly wrenched, but his son escaped uninjured. The rig was demolished before the horse was stopped.

OBITUARY NOTICE.

ELLEN O'DONOGHUE.

The death occurred in the Nicholls Hospital of Ellen O'Donoghue, daughter of Dennis O'Donoghue, of Lindsay, after an illness of seven months in St. Joseph's Hospital here. The deceased was a sister of Mrs. J. F. Crowley, 788 Water street, city. Other relatives are Mrs. Wm. O'Boyle and Mrs. Wm. O'Neil, of Lindsay. She was well and favourably known in Lindsay, where the funeral will take place, the remains leaving on the 5.30 train this evening.

The New York Stock Market

(Furnished by J. P. Heintz & Co.)

New York, Aug. 21.—To-day's stock market was very irregular. Opening prices were mostly lower than last night's closing. Atchison, Steel preferred, N.Y.C. and Penna. opened nearly a point off while Louisville and Erie nearly that much higher.

During the greater part of the day fluctuations were for the most part confined to a point or two, backward and forward without any special tendancy. Louisville was put up to 154 and Colo. Fuel shot from 57 3-8 to 61 3-8 in a run. Specialty movements in Leather, Cotton Oil, and Va. Chemical gave the market a rather unhealthy look after noon and on large profit-taking of to-day the general list weakened very much off well around. The market showed no vigour and attempts to put some ginger into it did not meet with much success. The close was weak at the low prices of the day.

Diarrhoea

MAY attack you at any time of the year, but it is more prevalent during the summer months. When this trouble attacks you, it does not pay you to experiment with untried remedies, but always procure one that has stood the test of time. Such a one is Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. It has been on the market for 60 years and is considered by thousands of people as the best cure for all bowel complaints.

MRS. WILFRID TOMLINSON, Victoria Harbor, Ont., writes: "I always keep Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry in the house, knowing from past experience that it is a safe and efficient remedy in diarrhoea and kindred bowel complaints."

First Games In Frost Competition Played

Singles Competition Also Started Yesterday--Bowlers Will Have a Busy Week--Yesterday's Scores Complete.

This is a very busy week at the Brookside Bowling Green, when the competition for the Frost Cup and the singles competition are being played off. Two games in the single competition were played yesterday afternoon with the following results:—

Cunningham, 14. Fitzgerald, 6.
Smith, 15. Kidd, 12.

Two exciting games were played for the Frost Trophy in the evening, which created considerable interest. McIntyre and McIlroy were the two winners. The score was as follows:—

D. Davidson	A. Talbot
K. Crane	A. Bellegham
C. E. Frost	A. Kidd
W. McIlroy, sk. 19.	W. Talbot, sk. 11.
Chas. Wood	T. E. Fitzgerald
R. Davidson	W. J. Green
F. Sturgeon	W. Deyman
J. M. McIntyre, sk. 20.	T. E Pratt, 12

A friendly game was also played last night between rinks skipped by Mr. Geo. Giroux and M. J. Carswell, of Oshawa. The latter was defeated by the following score:—

Ken. Crane	J. E. A. Fitzgerald
W Talbot	Kidd
R. Kerr	S. Bellegham
G. H. Giroux, sk. 10.	J Carswell, 8

Peterborough Juniors Made Good Impression

Lindsay Post Thinks They Look Good for the C. L. A. Finals and Maybe the Championship—They Completely Outclassed Beaverton on Saturday.

The Lindsay Post of yesterday reported the lacrosse game in that town on Saturday says :—

It dawns slowly upon us that Peterborough junior Shamrock lacrosse team will see the finals in the C.L.A., but whether they will win the championship is another question. On Saturday afternoon last they defeated the Junior Checkers, of Beaverton, in the first game of the semi-finals by the score of 9 to 1. In this game they easily demonstrated, as they did against Oshawa and Port Hope, that they play a far better game all through with the advantage of good staying power. They have won their district by large scores and their next opponents will be the Bracebridge twelve, who won their district from Sudbury last week by the score of 10 to 2. When the Peterborough and Bracebridge teams meet there will be something doing, but those who are in a position to judge are inclined to favour Peterborough's chances on winning. In the finals they will bump up against the Toronto juniors and here they will have no easy mark, as the Toronto Junctioners are singled out by many to win the junior C.L.A. high honours. But anyway, no matter what happens, the Peterboroughites are likely to give a good account of themselves, as they have a well-balanced dozen, who make a redoubtable, and like their hockey team of old, never cease at just over-stepping the score, but pile it as high as possible.

For Peterborough "Daddy" Tucker was the best man on the field. He played a great game and as one rooter remarked, "Daddy" always had to start the ball rolling". He played a horse of a game making several startling stunts. Jack McNicholl was also in grand trim. Bassett and Doris also figured in the front ranks.

STRUCK OUT 25 MEN BUT STILL LOST HIS GAME

A remarkable game was played yesterday at Mahoney City, Pa., in which John Wolfe, of the Lost Creek team, made a world's record in several ways. He struck out twenty-five men, giving the catcher the same number of put outs, for her got all the balls, and at that lost the game, for only one hit was made off him, and that was made for a home run, the only tally on either side. Only three balls were hit, one to third base, which was fumbled, but the player got the man out trying to steal; one to Wolf, who threw the man out at first, and the home run before mentioned. The outfielders did not have a ball sent their way, second base and third had nothing to do, and the only ball first base got was the one tossed to him by the pitcher. There were no wild pitches passed balls, or bases on balls charged against the Lost Creek team. Wolf is only seventeen years old.

Higher Prices Probable For Cheese To-morrow

The Market in Montreal Was Stronger Yesterday—Reason to Look for Active Demand at Good Prices.

Prospects for good prices at the Cheese Board to-morrow are good, according to the following summary of the market in the Montreal Star, of yesterday(s)—

The market for cheese was stronger than ever to-day, prices in the country last Saturday passing the 12 1-2 cent limit.

At the boat this morning about 4,000 boxes sold at 12 to 12 1-8 cents, which was an advance of about 1-4 cents on last week's prices.

Locally, prices were higher than at any period since last spring, Quebecs being quoted at 12 1-8 to 12 1-4 cents. Townships at 12 2-8 to 12 1-8 cents and Ontarios at 12 5-8 to 12 3-4 cents.

The strength seems to be due to demand from the other side, though it is thought that there are a few shorts here also, who are in need of the goods and whose efforts to obtain them are a strengthening factor.

It is yet rather early in the week to speak definitely of the demand, but there is every reson to look for activity during the coming week.

The Liverpool public cheese cable was firm at 58s 6d for white, and 59s 6d for coloured.

Receipts of cheese reported on the Board of Trade to-day were 12,979 boxes.

SOME ADVICE HANDED TO THE MAN WHO KNOCKS

Talking of "knockers" W. A. Buchanan in the Lethbridge Herald says :—

"If you have a hammer in your left hand hip pocket, please use it on the dry-goods box loafer who says that you should do something for him, and let the town take care of itself. Some people spend their time in looking for windfalls instead of boosting the town and then taking what will come his way. They hand the town a black 'bunch,' and kick because they are too lazy to work. Some people would like to see this or that happen—not for the town's good, but because it will swell their resources—but will not do a thing towards helping their scheme because it might help some one else at the same time. Take your mouth from the pie and put your shoulder to the wheel of the band wagon and move up the hill. At the top there is prosperity and plenty, but you will have to share it with the others who put the 'feast in sight.' The fellow who says 'don't put any competition in the town and then I can live,' is about the handiest man we know of for the job of chief chambermaid to a livery stable."

Hurled Stone Through Window

A Mysterious Missle Which Smashed Lumber Co's Glass.

Some person, at present unknown, threw a stone through the large plate glass window of the Peterborough Lumber Company, this morning. Six or seven people were on the street outside, and although all heard the crash of falling glass, no one could tell from what direction the missle came. It was undoubtedly promiscuous stone throwing by the ubiquitous small boy that caused the trouble.

MEETING OF CITY COUNCIL TO-NIGHT

There will be a meeting of the City Council to-night to consider and deal with the situation arising out of the selection of a site for the proposed Normal School.

Another Sudden Death Game Now

Shamrocks Will Play Them at Lindsay.

The game announced to take place here on Saturday between the Shamrocks and the Toronto Junction team will not be played. Word was received to-day from Mr. Miller, president of the C.L.A. to the effect that the Toronto Junction team objected to home and home games and the result is that another sudden death game will be played on Saturday in Lindsay, with the Junction twelve. The western team has had a good season and has swept their district. The game should be a good one and the team that wins will have a pretty good chance for the Junior championship. It is probable that a special train will be run again to Lindsay to enable those who wish to see the game to do so.

OLD TIME BOWLING.

At the banquet given the British bowlers in Guelph, Mr. Hugh Guthrie, M. P., who made a very eloquent speech, said the most dramatic game of bowls ever played was that which took place on the afternoon of July 19, three hundred and eighteen years ago. It was in Plymouth at a gathering of sea captains. Never before had there been such a gathering of notable sea dogs, and never had there been since. Amongst those present were Sir Francis Drake, Sir John Hawkins, Sir Martin Frobisher, the Lord High Admiral of England, Sir Walter Raleigh and other notables. A game of bowls was being played when the sail of a ship was sighted approaching Plymouth. The ship reached port, the captain landed, and made the announcement that the Spanish Armada had been seen on the coast line. Immediately everyone wanted to quit the game and seek their ships. Drake protested, saying there was time to finish the game of bowls and finish the Spanish afterwards. He succeeded in his wish, the game was played and as the last shot was scored the captains left their skips to enter the battle with the same zeal—and pluck that had characterized their game of bowls.

WIRELESS TELEGRAPHY

Marconi—the wireless wizard — did not stumble accidentally upon the principles of his marvellous invention.

It was only by deep and prolonged study of the cause of certain known phenomena in nature that he was able to produce the startling effect.

Many people, in speaking of Hair Restorers, have a way of bunching them altogether without discrimination.

Editor Post Card Column :

In the press I notice that the 57th Band has been engaged to play at the Toronto Exhibition on Friday, September 7th. I have been wondering when this band is to play the three concerts which they are short on the twelve they were engaged to give during the summer. If they go out of the city on the first Friday in September, they will probably not feel inclined to commence their weekly concerts again, and the result will be that the citizens will be minus the entertainments for which they have already paid. The band should either give the three concerts or refund one-quarter of the grant of $500. Surely they will not take $125 of the citizen's money which they have not earned. I noticed a letter in this column a few days ago on this same subject, and the sentiments expressed there, I heartily endorse. Will the editor please tell me when the three concerts are to be given.

B FLAT.

Note.—The Examiner is not in a position to answer this question. The writer of the letter should call up Mr. Gliddon, the bandmaster, who will, no doubt, be in a position to furnish him with the desired information.

Editor Post Card Column :

Will our council never wake up to the fact that their interests in regard to icing of the public drinking founts are being abused? It is possible to find the Police Station fountain three days out of the week without ice.

Why is the taxpayers' money expended without proper value being received in return.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, I remain,

House Building Was Never So Active As This Year

A Glowing Report Presented by Local Correspondent to Labour Gazette—A Great Quantity of Building in Progress--All the Industries Busy--Good Crops Reported and Help Scarce--District News.

The report that Ald. W. J. Johnston presentead to the Labour Gazette this month is a very roseate one. He says:—

There has been no cessation of work of all kinds. Never in this city has the house building trade been so brisk. The demand for labour considerably exceeded the supply. The greater number of the houses being erected were for workingmen, who were building houses for themselves so as to avoid paying rent. Houses that some years ago rented for $4 of $5 per month, are now renting for $10, and are hard to secure.

The new public school and fire hall were being hurried to completion. The dredging of the Otonabee River continues, and a first-class harbour front was being made. The new sand-stone plant was completed, and commenced operations with a capacity to produce twenty thousand bricks per day. The City Council let contracts for $10,000 worth of sewer work to be completed by autumn. On the Trent Canal a large staff of men were very busy.

The Cordage Company was very busy, being behind with orders. This company employes a very large staff and its pay-roll monthly amounts to $6,000.

Condition of Local Industries.

Agriculture.—Hay and fall wheat were being harvested and good crops were reported. A shortage of help was felt.

Fishing.—Splendid catches were reported from all parts of the district.

Lumbering.—This industry was very active. A great number of logs were being forwarded, and all mills were running full time.

Manufacturing.—All lines were very active, and a great many shops were working over-time. The Gas Company had large gangs of men at work putting in a new storage tank. This company was also laying threee miles of larger sized pipes in several parts of the city. The American Cereal Company was increasing its staff, and was working day and night to keep up with orders. The Peterborough Cereal Mill Company was enlarging its premises and branching into a new line of industry. This company is doing a large export trade, and has shipped to Australia twelve thousand Canada Flakes as a trial order. The Wm. Hamilton Company was very busy on large orders, and the Peter Hamilton Agricultural Implement Manufacturing Company was very busy making binders and other harvesting machinery. The different sawmills in the city were working to their full capacity to keep up with local and export trade. The Canadian Electric Company, Peterborough Shovel Manufacturing Company, G. W. Green Foundry Company, Auburn Woollen Company, Colonial Weaving Company, Ackerman Harness Company, Canoe factories, Central Milling Company, and other smaller industries were all active. The J. J. Turner Company was extremely busy with decoration work in many places during the holiday festivities. A new rolling mill company capitalized at $200,000 is likely to locate in Peterborough if sufficient inducements are offered.

Condition of Particular Trades.

Building.—These trades were all active.

Metal, Engineering and Shipbuilding.—All employees were active or very active, excepting bicycle workers who were quiet.

Printing.—These trades were very well employed in all departments.

Clothing.—Journeymen tailors and garment workers were active, and glove makers quiet, but boot and shoe workers were very active.

Food and Tobacco Preparation.—Bakers, confectioners, cigarmakers and ice handlers were active. Butchers and meat cutters were also active.

Leather.—Activity prevailed.

Miscellaneous.—Barbers, broommakers, clerks, stenographers, delivery employees, hotel and restaurant employees, and theatre employees were active, and furriers quiet.

Railroad Construction and Employment.—All classes were very busy. Teamsters and expressmen, steamboat workers, street railway employees, cab drivers and carters were very active.

Unskilled Labour.—Actively prevailed.

District Notes.

Cobourg.—The Crossen Car Company had contracts for one hundred box cars for the Canadian Northern Railway Company, to be delivered in time to assist in moving this year's in Western Canada.

Lindsay.—The assessment rate is placed at twenty-eight mills.

Port Hope.—A bylaw was carried to exempt the Central Foundry Company from taxes for ten years, excepting school taxes.

Peterborough District. — Cheesemaking in all parts of the district is now a very active industry; thousands of boxes are made and sold for high prices each month to buyers, who send it to all parts of the world. Business and industry was very active throughout the whole country. Market produce is very largely handled, principally new potatoes, beans, peas, beets and berries. New potatoes were 30 cents per peck; butter 22 cts. per lb.; eggs 18 to 20 cts. per dozen; chickens, 75 cents; lettuce, onions, beets, &c., 5 cents per bunch.

Parents Blamed For Children's Misdeeds

"One Who Knows" Contributes an Interesting Letter on the Deportment of Parents in the Home—The Marriage Question Dealt With.

The Examiner has received the following letter, signed "One Who Knows," with a request for its publication. This request is complied with, the letter being published exactly as it was written:—

Editor Examiner:

I noticed in your issue of a few nights ago a paragraph containing a complaint of a lady concerning a number of boys and young men on a certant corner, who use bad language and all this sort of thing, but I would like to ask the question from whence does all this bad conduct spring from? The answer is in most cases, from the parents, and before I conclude this letter will endeavour to show that when I say parents, in a good many cases are responsible for this conduct, I mean exactly what I say. Take for instance the parents and home and it will be found in some cases, coming from experience that the home is not what it should be. In the first place there is the home where quarrels abound, where the father and mother very seldom say a kind word, where very often, if a conversation is started, the father and mother will say, "Oh shut your mouth, we don't want to hear this and that." But to just such parents as these I would like them to know that a soft answer turneth away wrath, but grievous words stir up anger. Then, again, there are parents of this type who when a child has left school, and they are put to work, will take all the money said child has made, away from them until a child has become twenty-one years of age; simply to satisfy their own selfish wants. Then, worse still they in another scheme which has come to my notice, and it is on the same basis as before, that when a child is put to work at some trade or calling, they will take the boy's of girl's money and put it into the bank, in his or her — the child's — name, with the promise that when the child becomes of age they will hand the money over to them, but it does not take place in some cases, and the child does not see his money. Then, again, is the attitude of some parents on the marriage question. They will go as far as to tell their sons and daughters: "If you marry so and so, we won't have nothing to do with her, you can never come back into our house again," and this and that, thus making the home very unpleasant, and causing the boys to drift away. In conclusion, Mr. Editor, I would say this is not hearsay or false theory, but genuine fact, as they have from time to time appeared. Would like to hear our Police Magistrate's opinion on this.

Yours truly,
One Who Knows.

Mr. Gillespie Got The First Choice

Of Cheese at Lindsay Yesterday and Paid 12 7-16c.

The top price for cheese at the meeting of the Victoria cheese board in Lindsay, yesterday, was 12 7-16c. The bidding was keen, too, and Mr. Cook offered 12 3-8c for the board, Mr. Gillespie, of this city, however, took the first selection at a sixteenth higher. The Lindsay Post reporting the sale, says:

At this morning's meeting of the Lindsay cheese board the factories were offered and got a good price for cheese, viz., 12 7-16c, which figure is within one-sixteenth of a cent of the highest outside market this season. The quantity of cheese offered was less by 224 pounds than the sale of two weeks ago. The hot and dry weather is regarded as the cause of the falling off since a couple of weeks ago.

Tweed Woman Married Twice

Arthur Clarke Found That Fact Out To His Sorrow.

A farm labourer named Arthur Clarke, 29 years of age, who is at present engaged with a farmer in Prince Edward, reports that he was married in this city on August 1st, last, to a woman whose name he was led to believe was Mary Ellen Woodcock. The latter comes from Tweed, but she has been a resident of this city for many years, being generally employed around hotel kitchens acting in various capacities. Clark now alleges that he has learned of the woman's marriage to a man in the city of Rochester in July, 1904 and that her husband is still living. — Belleville Ontario.

Big Crowd Expected At Chemong Regatta

Excursions From Stony Lake and Sturgeon Point—Many Peterborough People Will Enjoy Half Holiday in the Park.

The Chemong regatta on Thursday, in view of the fact that it is held on the weekly half holiday, will attract a big crowd of Peterborough people. Another event has been added to the programme, which should prove interesting. It is an open sailing race for boats 18 feet and under for a prize of a silk Canadian flag. Mr. Rollie Denne has donated a barrel of Quaker flour for competition in the single skiff race. The sailing race for 14 feet dinghies for the championship of the Kawartha Lakes, will commence at 1.30 o'clock, if there is a breeze at that hour. There will be a big excursion from Stony Lake and another from Sturgeon Point, which will considerably augment the size of the crowd.

The palace auto car will leave Bruce Lee's livery stable every hour beginning at ten o'clock, and will continue until the crowd is brought home in the evening.

Late Mr. Randlett Was Most Highly Respected

A Lowell, Mass., Paper Refers in Complimentary Terms to Young Man Who Recently Passed Away Here—Statement From Dr. Stowell, of the J. C. Ayer Company—Was One of the Best Travellers the Company Had—His Death Deeply Regretted at Lowell.

A clipping from a Lowell, Mass., paper, sent to Mr. R. J. Todd, by an intimate friend of the late Arthur N. Randlett, gives some information concerning the deceased young man, who, in his lifetime, was apparently most highly respected. In the letter accompanying the clipping, the writer pays a high tribute to the late Mr. Randlett, who, he says, was a very warm personal friend. The paper referred to says:

Arthur N. Randlett, aged 37 years, died at Peterborough, Ont., Thursday. He was a Canadian agent for the J. C. Ayer Co., and was well known in this city, where he had made many staunch friends during the four years that he was employed at Pearson's drug store at the corner of Central and Appleton streets. He died at the home of a Christian Science healer, at whose house he had been staying for more than three weeks.

While in Lowell Mr. Randlett was stricken with typhoid fever and had a hard siege. The effects of the fever did not leave him, and while his friends here knew that he was in failing health, they had been led by the cheerfulness of his letters to believe he was improving, and were shocked because of the suddenness of the news that he was dead.

Few young men enjoyed a wider and stauncher circle of friends than did Arthur Randlett. He was unselfish and untiring in his efforts to assist others and add to their comfort, and the line of friendship that went out to him extended from the ranks of the newsboys to the most influential of our citizens. There was no reason why Arthur Randlett should have died in a strange land and among strangers.

Dr. Stowell, of the J. C. Ayer Co., said:

"Mr. Randlett was one of the best travelling agents we have ever had. He had been working for us about six months and we had transferred him from Michigan to Canada. I knew he had not been enjoying the best of health, but had no intimation of a serious illness until August 4.

"On that date I received a letter from him. It was typewritten and stated that he was staying with a minister." What purported to be Mr. Randlett's signature appeared at the close of the letter, and when I glanced at it I saw at once that he had been a very sick man. I had all the signs of the handwriting of one suffering from some serious nervous trouble. But, because he stated that he was recovering and would be able to go to work within a few days, I did not worry about his condition. Well, several days passed, and still nothing further from our Canadian agent came. This was a little odd, as we usually heard from him every few days. Wednesday morning I decided to send him some money and did so.

"This morning I received a telegram stating that he had died. Nothing whatever was included in the telegram relating to the manner of his death."

Mr. Randlett's friends in this city did not know that he was at all interested in Christian Science. While in Lowell he lived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Victor H. Meister, 201 Appleton street.

He leaves two sisters, Mrs. E. I. Morse, of Marlboro, and Miss Emma Randlett, of Northboro, and one brother. The body will be removed to his old home in Northboro, where the funeral will take place.

Woman Stunned And A Barn Destroyed

Result of a Thunder Storm in Dummer Yesterday—Mr. John Clysdale's Serious Loss—Barn With Season's Crop and Stack Burned.

Examiner Special.

Warsaw, Aug. 22.—The barn of Mr. John Clysdale on the 6th concession of Dummer, was struck by lightning and totally destroyed last night. Mrs. Clysdale was stunned by the electricity, but hopes are entertained for her recovery. The loss to Mr. Clysdale will be severe. The barn, which contained the greater part of this season's crop of grain and hay was burned, together with one horse, two cows and a number of pigs. The loss will be partly covered by insurance.

Sudden Death Of A Millbrook Lady

Mrs. Hugh Kennedy Expired Suddenly While Visiting In City.

A sudden death occurred last night at the residence of Dr. J. W. Gray, Sherbrooke street, when Mrs. Hugh Kennedy, of Millbrook, Mrs. (Dr.) Gray's mother, who had been in the city visiting her daughter, took suddenly ill, and died from heart failure. The deceased lady had been in good health all day, and until an hour before her death was feeling well. The deceased leaves three daughters ,Mrs. (Dr.) Gray, Peterborough; Mrs. W. R. McQuade, Omemee and Mrs. A. R. Gamsby, of Orono. The body was sent to Millbrook to-day at noon and the funeral will take place on Friday at 2 o'clock, to the Garden Cemetery, Millbrook.

New Gas Holder Will Be Ready In Three Weeks

A Storage Capacity of 150,000 Cubic Feet Instead of 24,000—Many Other Improvements Being Made at the Gas House—Three Miles of New Mains Being Laid.

The immense new gas holder being erected by the Peterborough Light and Power Company at the gas house, Simcoe street, is nearing completion, and it is expected that in about three weeks it will be ready for use. The capacity of the new holder will be 150,000 cubic feet, as compared with 24,000 cubic feet in the old holder, and with its completion, the operation of the gas plant will be very much facilitated. With the present holder it is impossible to make a supply of gas sufficient to meet the demands upon it for any length of time, and the result is that if anything happened to the plant to necessitate its closing down for a short time, the supply of gas is exhausted. With the new holder, however, all this will be changed, for it will hold enough gas to run two days.

The erection of this holder is not the only improvement being carried on at the gas house. A new oil tank with a capacity of 30,000 gallons has been erected, and this will also prove a great convenience. In the past there was storage capacity for only about one car of it, and if anything occurred to delay the shipments there was anxiety upon the part of the manager. About three miles of new gas mains are being laid, while a considerable quantity of old mains are being replaced with larger pipes. The main pipes from the gas house are 12 inches instead of five inches, and their capacity is increased six times.

A new patent joint on cast iron pipes is being used on the new mains, and with this joint, leaks are practically impossible. This in itself will prove a great saving, and the annoyance of escaping gas will be avoided in future.

Farmers Hang Lanterns On Their Binder Poles

So Anxious are They in Manitoba to Get Wheat Cut—Mr. R. H. Leary, Who Has Just Returned From the West, Tells of the Great Crops There—Trouble is to Get Help.

Mr. R. H. Leary returned last night from a trip up the Yorkton, Sask., branch of the C. P. R., where he took sixteen horses and disposed of them at good prices, to the prosperous farmers of the west. Mr. Leary is just as enthusiastic over the west as are all those who have visited it this summer. The crops there, he stated, are simply indescribable. Everywhere one looks there is nothing but the golden wheat, plenty of it cut, and much yet to be cut. The great cry is for help. Hundreds of acres of wheat have been cut and the sheaves left lying on the ground because it is impossible to get men to stack it. Mr. Leary saw farmers, with lanterns suspended from their binder pole, cutting wheat away into the night.

The farmers are offering $3.00 a day for men to drive binders, but the days, Mr. Leary states, are anywhere from eighteen to twenty-four hours long. During his trip to the west Mr. Leary met a number of former Peterborough people on his trip, among them Messrs. Reg. and Fred Orr, who are farming at Benacarit, Man. This year they have 10 acres of wheat, all standing five feet high; and Mr. George McQuay, also formerly of this city, is doing well too. He will have 18,000 bushels of wheat this year, which will net him about 70 cents a bushel. No words which Mr. Leary could employ were sufficiently strong to describe the great prosperity of the west.

He stayed at the new C. P. R. hotel in Winnipeg, which he declares is the finest on the continent. The great trouble with Winnipeg is the difficulty in securing water. The wells which supply the city are apparently failing, and they are now face to face with a most serious problem.

From a personal standpoint Mr. Leary's trip was successful. He disposed of his carload of horses at good prices.

THE WEATHER

To-day at noon the thermometer was at a higher point than it has been for several months, namely, 90 degrees in the shade. The heat was very oppressive, and the heavy thunderstorm at half past one, had the effect not only of cooling the atmosphere, but of reviving vegetation, which was suffering from the dry spell.

HATS OFF

Facts About the American Indian's Healthy Hair.

The American Indian, accustomed from time immemorial to go bareheaded in all kinds of weather, is never troubled with falling hair or baldness.

The close atmosphere, caused by our "civilized" head-gear, is conducive to the breeding of infinitesimal germs which dig into the scalp and thrive on the nap of the hair-root.

This true cause of baldness is of recent discovery and explains the non-success of all hair-vigours which treated baldness as a functional disorder.

Newbro's Herpicide is a direct exterminator of the germ. "It destroys the cause and permits the hair to grow as nature intended."

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Ormood & Walsh, Special Agents.

Has Taken a Thousand Zutoo

Always Cured Headache. Never Affected her Heart.

Here is a testimonial from the wife of Doctor W. L. Shurtleff, K.C., of Coaticook, Que., who has taken a thousand Zutoo Tablets (the Japanese Vegetable Headache remedy.)

It should convince any doubting one, that while the tablets cure headache, they do not, like the drug cures, affect the heart, nerves or stomach. No one would or could take such a number if they were not perfectly harmless. Mrs. Shurtleff herself had to discard the drug cures.

Here is what she says:

I have always been a great sufferer from headache, and have taken a great many headache cures. I found that after taking them for a time they caused palpitation of the heart. Three years ago I began using Zutoo. I have likely taken over a thousand tablets. I have never yet felt the least ill-effect from using them and they cure my headaches as quickly as any remedy I ever took.

They are Harmless as Soda.

An Absolute Cure For DYSPEPSIA

Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Belching of gas after eating, mean weakness.

By means of its muscles, the stomach should churn the food—changing solids into liquids—mixing in the gastric juice to start digestion.

If the stomach is weak—then food is not properly churned and mixed with enough gastric juice. Then you have indigestion and then dyspepsia.

Fruit-a-tives

OR "FRUIT LIVER TABLETS"

strengthen the stomach—just as juicy beef and eggs and milk strengthen the wasted frame of a patient getting over Typhoid.

FRUIT-A-TIVES contain the elements that give new—vigor new energy—to the muscles lining the stomach—stimulate the digestive glands and assure a copious flow of gastric juice for each meal.

More than that, FRUIT-A-TIVES correct the Constipation which usually attends stomach trouble—and by acting directly on kidneys and liver, put the whole system in healthy condition.

FRUIT-A-TIVES are a peculiar combination of fruit juices and tonics that are known all over Canada for their wonderful cures in all stomach, liver and kidney troubles.

GOVERNMENT IS RESPONSIBLE

Galt Reformer.

The responsibility for the inaction of the Ontario Railway Board of Commissioners, and its sidestepping of the duties which should properly come under its jurisdiction, will be laid at the doors of the Whitney administration.

The Whitney Government cannot expect to evade responsibility for this or any other commission appointed by it.

The people cannot look to the Commission for redress, but the people will look to the Government.

In appointing these commissions, thus relieving itself of a large volume of work formerly conducted by the Government, and incidentally handing out fat offices to party favourites, the Whitney administration may have expected to be relieved of responsibility for the actions of these commissions.

But the mistake of such an assumption will be made manifest by the people.

WHY CANADA PROSPERS.

The Philadelphia Record says: — "It is to be observed that (without Trusts to develop them) the industries of Canada are in their comparative infancy; that its lively immigration is chiefly drawn from the United States, and that it has a system of canal transportation that is rapidly increasing its commerce. While Canada has expended millions upon its ship canals, this country has already sunk $700,000,000 in the Philippines without return or reasonable prospect of return. Canada has no spoliatory tariff and no Trusts; and neither its 'stand-patters,' nor its Jingoes, nor it Nativists (for it has types of all these) are able, all combined, to interfere with its liberal, commercial and industrial policy. Thus, free from obstructions that harass our own, and some other nations, there is no predicting the rapidity of the march of Canada to its place in the front rank of the world's empires, though bound by nominal ties to the Mother Country."

POWER COMMISSION.

The Whitney Government, which inclines to shoulder a great deal of its responsibility upon commissions, was to exploit the power possibilities of the Province in a wonderful manner. So far there has not been any brilliant degree of success. In one instance, the arbitrary cancellation of permission to a development company at Niagara Falls, retards, instead of encourages, power development, ties up capital, checks enterprise and in every way, operates in a hostile manner against the interests of electric power development. It seems that the Beck power commission is a doubtful benefit, a sort of wooden horse of Troy, to the municipalities. Speaking of the relation of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission to the question of power as it affects municipalities, the Brantford Expositor, in reply to the Toronto World, says:

"The Expositor will gratify the World to the extent of expressing the belief that the Liberal party in general is anxious for cheap power, and will aid in any proper campaign to secure it. It does not follow, however, that it should accept (without question manifest inaccuracies in the report of the Hydro-Electric Commission, or should give unstinted praise to the Whitney Government for a measure which has every appearance of being a gold brick. The Beck programme is not what the people have a right to expect, and falls a long way short of fulfilling the pledges made by the Conservative party when in opposition, as to Government control of electric energy developed at Niagara Falls and elsewhere. We will have more faith in the Beck programme when it is carried out as per ante-election promise, and the Government assumes a fair measure of the financial risk which it now throws entirely upon the municipalities."

ONTARIO AND THE WEST.

Hon. James McMullen, of Mount Forest, writing a letter to the Toronto News, indicates his opinion that the press of this Province devotes too much attention to the affairs of the West of the Dominion. There is some force, and also little force, in this objection. The fact he points out is only important from other conditions which it indicates. Newspapers are newspapers, and are published to furnish news to their readers. It is therefore inevitable that the West of Canada, which is looming up so largely in the world's eye, should fill a great deal of space in the press. The press of Ontario, in its course in this regard, is only demonstrating the unity of Dominion interests and the absence of sectional feeling. Ontario is not jealous of the West, but desires to aid in a development and growth which are bound to react beneficially upon the Province. As compared with the Western Provinces, Ontario is an industrial Province. The chief want of an industrial community is a market for its products, and, if a home market, all the better. In this respect, it is to the interest of Ontario to help build up the West. But it is not to be denied that the development of the West is not so desirable from the point of view of our Provincial interests, if that is effected at our expense. As Hon. Mr. McMullen points out, the press of Ontario is very active in booming the West in regard to the unlimited field for occupation. That is proper; but when this field for occupation is filled with the best blood of Ontario, the matter assumes a different aspect. The name that has been made for the West is largely responsible for the withdrawal of the more enterprising people of Ontario, and the transference of their interest and industry to the new country. There are homes for millions in the Golden West, and there are millions outside of Ontario who want homes. It is very doubtful, in the main, whether the average farmer or farmer's sons in the Province cannot make as good a living in Ontario as he can in the Northwest. Everything considered, climate, soil and home comforts, such as will long be wanting in the West, the average Ontario farmer, who is industrious and thrifty, will, with the same degree of exertion, make a happier and more comfortable home in this Province than in any of the new Provinces of the plains. This matter will no doubt in time adjust itself; the novelty of the West will wear off, and the patriotic feeling in the older Provinces as to the duty of assisting to develop the new country, and in this way add to the greatness of the Dominion, will have less reason for exercise as time goes on and the West grows. The scarcity of harvest help is an accidental condition. The activity of railway construction makes an unusual, and, what will be at a later period, abnormal demand upon labour. The scarcity of farm labour in the West has its counterpart in Ontario, and, to a certain extent, it is as reasonable for Ontario to demand harvest help for the West as mand harvest help from the West as it is for the latter to make a similar demand on this Province. It is not to be denied that in regard to attracting our best young men, the West is in this way detrimentally affecting the East. But we must remember that it is all in the family, that these young men are not lost to Canada—non mutat genu solum. They are still Canadians and still an element in the development of the country at large.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube, when this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

Ottawa Free Press.

The Whitney Government has had bad luck with its commissions, for the appointment of which it took so much credit a short time ago.

The new Temiskaming Railway Commission has completely lost public confidence by its partizan administration of Cobalt mining properties, the Hydro-Electric Power Commission is already in difficulties, and likely, if reports are true, to come to grief, before many moons; and now the Railway and Municipal Board has been tried, and found wanting.

The Toronto News, which so strongly supported the Whitney Administration, that Conservatives were growing to regard it as their staunchest friend, has followed its erratic contemporary, the Toronto World, in hitting the Railway Board a bat over the head. By the activity of the last named newspaper a Toronto suburban electric line has been compelled to reduce its schedule of tolls to the legal rate of two cents per mile, which leads the News to say:

"Neither is it edifying to observe that a public body, such as the Railway and Municipal Board, appointed by the Provincial Government, has been content to stand by and see its work done by private parties seeking legal redress. The Railway Board has begun badly. The Board was appointed to apply the act and guard public interests, not to wait until complaints were made and the courts invoked by private citizens. The only member of the Railway Board who seems to have been at all times interested in the matter is Mr. Ingram, the vice-chairman. And Mr. Ingram's concern was not exactly violent.

"The new Railway Act went into force on July 15th last. The Metropolitan Railway was aware of this; the Railway Board was aware of it. The railway had plenty of time to arrange and put into effect a new schedule of rates if it had meant to obey the law. Any other contention is absurd. The trouble was that there was nothing to show that the Metropolitan had any intention of obeying the law, until clubbed into it. The facts certainly back up such an assertion. And the notoriously contemptuous attitude of the company towards both law and contract should have been warrant for the exercise of special vigilance. The Board had power to employ assistance, and had every facility for carrying out its appointed work. It is not unfair to say that the Board has disappointed those who entertained great expectations as to its usefulness. The fact seems to be that the Board has been negligent and derelict in its duty, and that the credit for the defeat of the Metropolitan belongs to Mr. W. F. McLean and the World. There is a languid and enervating atmosphere which seems to pervade many departments of the public service. In some instances it amounts to a state of coma or stupor — we had nearly said stupidity. It is rather too soon for the Railway Board to surrender to the enervating influences of public office. The Board had a chance to begin its work with the prestige of a victory over an arrogant and arbitrary corporation. The Board, through mere inaction and lack of energy, lost the chance and the which it might have won. The World, with initiative and decisive action did the world which the Board is paid to do. The Railway Commission has yet to justify its appointment, and with this example it has no possible excuse for further inaction."

Premier Whitney's spectacular structure of legislation is collapsing, as we predicted it would. He got into power by a campaign of misrepresentation, and he has already exhausted his stock of legislative firecrackers. Watch him slide.

CATARRH OF STOMACH RELIEVED BY PE-RU-NA.

Mde. Joseph Beaudoin, 59 Rue St. Olivier, Quabec, P. Q., Can., writes:

"Peruna is wonderful for indigestion. I eat whatever I want and no longer feel any oppression.

"Having had dyspepsia for a long time and having tried various other remedies, I decided to try Peruna and with the fourth bottle of it I was perfectly cured.

"For this reason I recommend it to all those who are suffering with that terrible malady, dyspepsia.

"I hope that all who are afflicted in this way will take Peruna as I did."

The experience of Mde. Beaudoin ought to be sufficient proof to any one of the value of Peruna in cases of catarrhal dyspepsia. If you suffer from stomach catarrh in any of its various forms, give Peruna a fair trial, avoiding in the meantime all such indiscretions in diet as would tend to retard a cure, and you will soon be rewarded by a normal appetite and healthy digestion.

Judgment Reserved In Charge Against Boy

Sheehy Case Occupied a Lot of Attention at Police Court To-day—Case Has Been Placed Before the Police Commissioners.

The charge against Richard Sheehy, jr., of throwing stones on Sunday last, which was enlarged from yesterday's court, came up again this morning, and, after occupying the attention of the Magistrate for some time, still remains unsettled. The evidence was all in this morning but the magistrate announced that he would reserve his decision for a week. The defence put in as many witnesses this morning as would be seen in a murder trail. Mr. D. O'Connell appeared for the defence.

P. C. Newhall was the only Crown witness this morning, and he did not give any new evidence, merely elaborating some details of his evidence given yesterday. His story was that he saw Sheehy with several other boys at the corner of Rubidge and South Simcoe streets, throwing stones at the wooden part in the rear of the barn on the late Aaron Cox estate. He was at the corner of Rubidge and North Simcoe streets and caught Sheehy as he came up Rubidge street. He told the boy he was an officer and asked him for his name and address, which the boy refused to give. He had then started to take him to the police station and the boy in trying to get away tore his coat and collar.

Katie O'Brien, a little girl, was the first witness for the defence, and stated that she saw Sheehy on Rubidge street. The boy had asked if she had seen any other boys around. She had told him that she had seen one of his chums; whereupon he had walked up Rubidge street. She had not seen any boys throwing stones.

Mary Londerville and another girl who were in the convent yard, stated that they had seen P. C. Newhall there on Sunday. Sheehy had come past the convent gate, and as he did so he picked up a stone there, with which he was playing catch. They saw the officer with his hand on Sheehy's shoulder, but did not hear the latter use the bad language spoken of by P. C. Newhall.

John O'Brien, Separate School Inspector, and Mr. O'Keefe, testified that they had investigated the premises and had found that from the corner of North Simcoe and Rubidge street, people on South Simcoe street could not be seen, on account of trees and hedges.

Thos. Lane, who lives on the corner of Reid and South Simcoe street stated that he was on his verandah on Sunday evening, and did not hear any disturbance.

Several people testified to seeing the trouble between Sheehy and the officer.

Richard Sheehy, the boy's father, in speaking of his visit to the police station on Sunday night, denied that he said it would take six policemen to put him out of the police station.

Mr. O'Connell intimated that Mr. Sheehy desired the fullest investigation of the case, as he felt that his boy had been ill used, and that the case had been laid before the Police Commissioners.

The Magistrate said that he would reserve judgment for a week, and intimated that he believed the officer's statement, as the evidence of the defence was only negative.

An Official Referee Is Considered Desirable

Delegates to Brockville Cheese Meeting Presented Report at Meeting of Cheese Board To-day—Messrs. Riddell and Hawthorne Tell of Business Done at Brockville.

At to-day's meeting of the Cheese Board Messrs. Hawthorne and Riddell, delegates to the recent dairy conference held at Brockville, submitted a report of the meeting. The meeting was called for the purpose of considering the advisability of the appointment of an official referee for cheese and butter at Montreal, and also of having three grades of cheese instead of two as at present. While in Brockville the delegates had a splendid opportunity of observing the workings of the cool curing plant at that place.

Mr. Hawthorne read the report which evoked considerable discussion.

The report stated the appointment of an official referee at Montreal was vigourously discussed and it was decided that the appointment of such an official was desirable. The decision was reached that the best methods of proceeding would be for the individual cheese boards to take action and for these bodies to report to Dominion Dairy Commissioner Ruddick at Ottawa in whose hands would be left the final disposition of the matter. While the appointment of a referee did not materially affect the Peterborough district as cheese was inspected at the factories here, still in the interests of factories that did not have factory inspection, it was recommended that the Board endorse the appointment of a referee at Montreal.

With regard to the grading of cheese the report recommended that there should only be one grade—that the finest—and not more than two grades under any circumstances.

The delegates visited the cool curing plant which is in charge of Mr. Somerville, and found that when the cheese were cool cured there was a marked saving in shrinkage. The report stated that it would be in the interest of the dairymen of the Peterborough district to have cool curing rooms installed.

The report was adopted on motion. This virtually means that the Peterborough Cheese Board endorses the appointment of an official referee at Montreal.

There was considerable discussion regarding the introduction of cool curing rooms. It was pointed out that if they were installed that the cost should be borne by the patrons and not by the manufacturer, as the whole benefit was derived by the patrons and no profit accrued to the manufacturer. This point was emphatically emphasized.

Mr. Warrington, one of the buyers, pointed out that quite frequently as high as 1-4c. per pound more was paid for cool cured cheese over goods cured in the ordinary way.

It is likely that a movement will be started with a view of having cool curing rooms introduced in this district.

"For twelve years I was a great sufferer with eczema on the inside of the leg. There was a raw patch of flesh about three inches square, and the itching was terrible. Dr. Chase's Ointment completely cured me, took away the itching and healed up the sore."—Mr. Alex. McDougall, Postmaster, Broad Cove, Marsh, N.S.

SURPRISE
A PURE HARD SOAP.

ONE OF THE THINGS it is hard to make folks understand is the fact that, with "SURPRISE" Soap, it is not necessary to boil or scald the clothes.

A tea-kettle of hot water is enough—and you don't rub hard. The soap does the work—loosens the dirt and it drops out.

You can use "SURPRISE" Soap any way you wish, but this tea-kettle-of-hot-water way is the best because it's quickest and easiest.

"SURPRISE" is a pure, hard soap of the highest grade. The first cost is n't any more than common soap.

Benefit Society Reports Show Prosperous Year

The Annual Meeting of the C. G. E. Mutual Benefit Society Held Last Night—Last Year's Officers Re-elected—Report Showed a Credit Balance of $1013.26

At the annual meeting of the Canadian General Electric Company Employees Mutual Benefit Society, which was held last night in the Y.M.C.A. building, the report of the officers, which was presented by the Treasurer, Mr. R. E. Layfield, was a most encouraging one. It showed that after paying all claims for benefits and operating expenses there was a credit balance on hand of $1,013.26, compared with $642.04 one year ago. The society now is in better financial condition than it has been at any time in the past and the future is extremely bright. Considering the intense warm weather, the attendance was very good, although it was not by any means representative of the large membership of the society. The president, Mr. R. E. Harding, occupied the chair, and after the minutes of the last meeting had been read, the report of the operations was presented by Mr. Layfield, and is as follows:—

The report was adopted on motion.

After some general discussion the electionn of officers took place and resulted as follows:—

President—R. E. Harding.
Vice President—W. H. G. Armstrong.
Treasurer—R. E. Layfield.
Secretary—F. A. Shannon.
Auditors—Messrs. R. W. Carson and W. Hinchcliffe.

The physician was not elected last night. The matter was discussed and it was decided to postpone the election until one week from last night.

Elected Vice-Resident C. G. E. Employees Mutual Benefit Society.

Committee Appointed To Meet Authorities

Normal School Question Again a Matter of Discussion—Several Good Sites Are Available for the Purpose.

The City Council wrestled with the Normal School site problem, and the heat, at a special session last night. As a result of the meeting a committee was appointed to look over sites, and to place the matter before the Education authorities. The committee will meet to-day, and, if it can be arranged, will go to Toronto on Friday, to meet Dr. Seath and Mr. Colquhoun in an effort to settle the matter. The council have several good sites in view, which they think will meet the approval of the authorities. One of these, the property on the south side of Murray street, and west of the Y.M.C.A., is looked on with favour by many of the council, but the prices asked by the owners make it almost prohibitive.

There were present, Mayor Best, Ald. McWilliams, Mason, Graham, Elliott, Ball, Duncan, McIntyre, and Mr. T. E. Bradburn, M. P.

The Mayor in opening explained that the meeting was called to confer with Mr. Bradburn, with reference to the Normal School question. Mr. Colquhoun's letter saying that the Central Park lots were the best suited for the purpose, and that from the Board of Education, refusing to give up these lots, were read.

Mr. Bradburn said that there was no necessity for bringing the Education authorities here again, unless they had new sites to show them.

Mayor Best said that there were other sites suggested. He referred to the site on the south side of Murray street, west of the Y.M.C.A.

Ald. McWilliams said that there were four lots of half an acre each, making two acres in all, which would be available, but this would be pretty expensive. They found that an acre there, with the buildings on it, would cost $9000. This included the Yelland property on Murray street. The whole property would cost at least $18,000.

Ald. Elliott said that the Water street property between Murray and McDonel streets, could be secured cheaper than that.

Ald. Johnston asked if less than two acres would do for the purpose.

Ald. McWilliams replied that it was the location rather than the extent of the ground.

Mr. Bradburn said the idea was to have a park which would be kept up by the Government.

Ald. McIntyre and Graham thought that if an acre would do, a lot might be selected on the south side of Murray street across from the Central Park.

Ald. Duncan suggested building the Normal School and the Collegiate Institute on the same lot.

Ald. McWilliams thought that two distinct buildings could not be placed on the same property. They might be joined together, however.

Mr. Bradburn said the Government would want the buildings separate and would not agree to anything else.

Ald. Johnston expressed himself as in favour of the Murray street grounds. He thought that a committee should investigate the matter and then lay the question before the Education Department again.

Ald. Mason did not think that an acre would be sufficient.

Ald. McWilliams said that the two sites most favoured by the deputation were the Menzies property and that on Murray street.

It was moved by Ald. Johnston, seconded by Ald. Elliott that the Mayor and Ald. Mason, Adams, Graham and McIntyre, be appointed to confer with the authorities of the department with respect to a site for the Normal School, with authority to go to Toronto, for that purpose. This was carried.

Ald. Graham moved that Ald. Johnston's name be added to the committee. This was also carried.

APPRECIATED WORK OF THE LOCAL PRESS

The Examiner to-day received the following letter from Mr. M. W. Matchett, secretary of the I. O. O.F. Grand Lodge Committee:

"On behalf of the Peterborough I.O.O.F. Grand Lodge Committee, I am directed to thank you for the the great assistance you gave in preparing for the recent session of the Grand Lodge in our city, by frequent and appropriate articles in your paper during the preceding months, and by your publishing such complete and accurate reports of the various sessions. These reports were the subject of much favourable comment on the part of the visiting officers and representatives, and will no doubt prove helpful to the Order in Peterborough, and throughout the province of Ontario.

Bricklayers Were Scarce

Peterborough Contractor Could Not Secure Any in Lindsay.

The Lindsay Post says: The other day a Peterborough contractor visited Lindsay in the hope of being able to secure the services of a dozen bricklayers. He is putting up a row of houses for workingmen in view of the pending increase of the Canadian General Electric Company's staff, and is anxious to have the veneering done before the cold weather sets in. He offered the rate of $7 per 1000 bricks laid but was unable to tempt any of our bricklayers, all of whom have been busy all season.

Generous Offer Was Submitted

Dr. W. E. Smith's Appeal Not Long Unanswered.

Rev. W. E. Smith, M.D., representative of Peterborough District, in West China, made an appeal through the Christian Guardian last week for $1,000 to build a church at Yuinhsien, and on Saturday morning Dr. Sutherland, the general missionary secretary, received a cheque for the required amount from a generous supporter of the church, who desired that his name should not be published. It was only last year that a missionary was appointed to the city of Yuinhsien, but the Chinese have, during the year, raised among themselves the sum of $630 to rent and repair places used for preaching. When it is borne in mind that money has nearly ten times the value there that it has on this continent, the contribution is a high testimony to the success of the work.

To Erect Exhibit At Toronto Fair

J. J. Turner, Jr., Left To-day to Superintend Work.

Dufferin Rifles Shy On Uniforms

But None Accompanied the 57th to Peterborough.

The Dufferin Rifles, of Brantford, are face to face with a shortage of uniforms. At a meeting of the officers on Saturday night the problem was discussed thoroughly. It seems there are a number of men throughout the city who have not yet returned uniforms they are not at present entitled to. Steps will be taken to obtain them. A number of uniforms somewhat undersized will be exchanged at headquarters. Four hundred leggings in store will not be issued this fall as proposed.

Rev. A. J. Brace Going In The Y. M. C. A. Work

Son of Pastor of Park Street Church to be Director of Y.M.C.A. at Victoria, B.C.—Resigned From Pastorate of New Westminster Methodist Church to Take Up New Work.

The New Westminster, B. C., Daily Columbian, of recent date, publishes the following article in reference to Rev. A. J. Brace, a son of Rev. A. H. Brace, pastor of the Park Street Baptist Church here:—

"Rev. A. J. Brace, pastor of the West End Methodist Church, has resigned to take charge of the Y.M.C.A. work in Victoria. His resignation will go into effect September 1, and he will enter on his new duties October 1. In the interval he will spend two weeks in Seattle, studying Y.M.C.A. work and equipping himself for his new duties.

The resignation was considered last evening by the quarterly official board. Rev. Mr. Brace has been pastor for two years, and he and Mrs. Brace have worked themselves into the hearts of all. The board, while deeply regretting the loss of Mr. Brace, generously decided not to stand in his way and released him as requested. The conference special committee had previously endorsed the change and has promised to assist the board in getting a suitable supply.

"West End was Rev. Mr. Brace's first church, he having come here direct from Toronto University. But for ten years' previously he had done work as a student and for two years was travelling evangelist in connection with the Y.M.C.A. He also was one year in South Africa. Work among young men is what he is most happy in doing and all who know him know how admirably he is fitted for it. Genial, athletic, full of energy and enthusiastically in earnest, he can be counted on to give a great impetus to Y.M.C.A. work in Victoria. The present director, Mr. H. W. Northcote, is leaving Victoria to take a year's course in the Y.M.C.A. training school in New York."

Rev. Mr. Brace has been in the city frequently and is known to a large number of citizens, who will be interested in this reference to his new position.

The Dairymen Smile Now; Cheese Prices Still Go Up

12 7-8c., the High Price for the Season, Was Obtained To-day—Only Small Decrease in Make for First Half of August—4144 Boxes Boarded—Good Demand at High Prices for Peterborough Cheese.

Cheese reached the top-notch price of the season at this morning's meeting of the Peterborough board, sales being made as high as 12 7-8 cents per pound. About 1,000 boxes sold at this figure and the remainder went at slightly lower figures. The total registration was 4144 boxes. There was a large attendance of buyers and salesmen and sales were quickly made.

Cook opened the bidding at 12 cents. Kerr raised to 12 1-16 cents and Morton made it 12 1-8 cents. This was increased to 12 1-4 by Wrighton and Mr. Kerr advanced to 12 3-8 cents. Wrighton raised to 12 1-2 cents and Mr. Kerr countered with 12 9-16 cents. Squires raised to 12 5-8 and Gillespie advanced to 12 11-16. Kerr again raised, making the bid 12 3-4 cents. Mr. Gillespie advanced to 12 13-16 cents. Kerr advanced to 12 7-8 and at this figure got the first sale and took the following:—Norwood, Brickley, Ormonde, Shamrock.

Rollins bid 12 7-8 cents for the next selection and got the call, taking the following:—Wamminster, Selwyn, Pine Grove, Young's Point.

Gillespie got the next selection at 12 7-8 cents. He secured Buckhorn, Westwood, Central Smith. Mr. Cook got the next lot at 12 13-16 cents and called the following:—Lang, Indian River, Shearer, Trewern.

Mr. Gillespie took the next lot at 12 13-16 cents. The following factories were called and sold:—Keene, Villiers, Bensfort, Fleetwood, East Emily.

At 12 3-4 cents Mr. Squires took the next selection as follows:—Warsaw, Oakdale, Cedardale, Peterborough.

The next selection went to Mr. Rollins at 12 3-4 cents. The following sold:—North Dummer, Lakefield, Maple Leaf and Myrtle.

At 12 5-8 cents Mr. Cook called Crown and South Burleigh but they refused to sell.

At the same figure Cavanville and Mt. Pleasant refused to sell to Mr. Warrington, making four factories that did not sell.

The Board adjourned for two weeks.

Mrs. Boyd Again Looms Into Court Prominence

For the Fourth Time in Four Days One of the Pair is in Court—Several Cases at This Morning's Police Court.

For the fourth time in four successive police courts, one of the Boyd pair faced Magistrate Dumble this morning. Mrs. Boyd was the one who upheld the dignity of the clan this morning. She was supposed to have gone to Toronto, but was in the city yesterday, and was arrested in an out-building in East City on a charge of vagrancy. Mr. Boyd and his wife have each appeared twice in the last four days, and are becoming as familiar looking to the magistrate as the police court furniture. The charge against the woman was dismissed on the condition that she leave the city immediately.

Vicious Dog Case.

To have a police court case on his hands an hour before he was due to leave to seek his fortune in the West, was the luck of Nassiu Nelson this morning. He was charged with possessing and harbouring a vicious dog. A dapper little Englishman named Puffer, with a pronounced Cockney accent, was the complainant. It appears from his story that the dog rushed at him and bit him on the hand as he was passing.

A neighbour of Mr. Nelson's volunteered the information that the dog had not molested Constable Adams when he entered the yard.

"A dog would be a fool to bite a policeman," was the magistrate's way of looking at it. Nelson's dog was ordered to be destroyed.

Offence not Proved.

Jas. Gorman and Chas. Stevens, the two boys charged with throwing stones at John Wicker, were discharged. They had several witnesses who swore that none of the crowd threw stones at Wicker, although the latter says they did, and put in as exhibit "a" the marks made by the missile on his leg.

An Old Charge.

Fred Baker was charged with an offence alleged to have been committed five years ago, that of stealing kegs of beer from Arthur Rountree. Baker has been away from Peterborough practically ever since. He was allowed to go on guaranteeing to appear next week. In the meantime his Toronto record will be investigated.

"Rod and Gun" Of Current Month

An Interesting Number of a Popular Magazine.

Even to a wider field than sportsmen—though in Canada that field is very wide and ever widening — will the September number of "Rod and Gun and Motor Sports in Canada" commend itself. The leading article is the first and only complete narrative covering the whole of the visit of Prince Arthur of Connaught to Canada, stress being naturally laid upon his fishing experiences. The story is fully illustrated, and is likely to be widely read throughout the English-speaking world. A specially written and exclusive account of the first Summer Camp of the Alpine Club of Canada in the Selkirks is also a marked feature of the number, and as the magazine is the official organ of the club, it is what one expects to see it, the first and foremost in the field in its accounts of the camp and the performances of the members. Readers with other tastes, however, are not forgotten and fishing, hunting, and exploring stories are given in such profusion as to cover the whole of the broad Dominion. What our neighbours are doing in game and bird protection is an article that should be read by every sportsman as showing how much is being done in the direction of protection across the border, and how the educational work of rousing public opinion on these matters is going forward. There is again something for every taste in the September number of this fine magazine which, in its general get up and appearance, reflects great credit upon its publisher, W. J. Taylor, of Woodstock, Ont.

Alexander Nicholls Considered Insane

A Methuen Township Man Who Thought He Would Get $10 for Each Man He Killed.

Examiner Special.

Havelock, August 22.—Alex. Nichols, a farmer living in Methuen township, sixty years of age, with a wife and eight children was tried before Magistrate Joyce and Matheson this afternoon on a charge of insanity. He will be sent to Toronto to be taken care of until he shows signs of returning sanity. Nichols has been an employee of the Rathbun Company and recently developed a sudden insanity. He is raving on the question of money, and was considered dangerous because of the fact that he believed he would be paid $10 for each man he killed. After his arrest yesterday he raved all night but is some quieter to-day.

Eyes Worth Having

Did you ever stop to think that with the exception of the heart, the eye is the hardest worked part of the body.

As long as you are awake and your eyes are open they are working in your service.

Three pairs of muscles control the movement of each eyeball.

The two eyeballs move exactly together. Would you know the effect of their not working together—press your finger against one, so that it's position does not exactly correspond with the other.

How important it is that if these muscles tire and you have headaches and require Glasses, that your Glasses suit your eyes—our long experience makes us experts and able to fit you correctly.

Two Scholarships Won By Miss Laura Smithson

Triumphs of a Peterborough Girl at University Examinations—Wins Edward Blake Scholarship in Classics and Moderns, and Mulock Scholarship in Classics—Long List of First-Class Honours.

It is always a pleasure to record the individual success of pupils, which attests at once to the excellence of the educational equipment of the Collegiate Institute, as well as to the cleverness and industry of the pupils themselves.

Miss Laura Smithson, a native of Otonabee, daughter of Mr. Joshua Smithson, and a pupil for five years of the Collegiate Institute, has scored a brilliant success at the special University Scholarship Examinations, whose results were first published to-day. Among a long list of rivals from every part of the province, Miss Smithson succeeded in winning rank for the Edward Blake scholarship in Classics and Moderns, and in winning the award of the Mulock Scholarship in Classics.

Miss Smithson also won first class honours in Classics, in Greek and Latin, in Modern Languages, in English, in German and in French. Miss Smithson might have stood a very good chance for a General Proficiency Scholarship, had not her completed examination papers, by some unfortunate accident, been lost by the examiners after they had been written.

Throughout her whole course in the Institute Miss Smithson occupied a prominent place, not only in the routine of institute subjects, but she had a prominent place in the Philomathean Literary Society, having won the prize in elocution. Her literary ability was attested by her contribution of an excellent tale of pioneer life, to the short story competition between Collegiate Institute pupils conducted last autumn by the Examiner, which here begs to heartily congratulate her upon the brilliant close of her local scholastic life, and her equally brilliant entry into the higher realm of University achievement, where, there is no doubt, her future will demonstrate that there is something more than an etymological relation between her Christian name and the laurels of success which she is sure to win.

WIFE'S STONY LAKE LETTER TO HER HUSBAND AT HOME

The summering season at our local resorts represents, as a rule, a holiday for the wife and "kids," but the head of the house has to keep pegging away in the city making ammunition to be fired off at summer resorts, and he has to do this under sometimes trying conditions. He sleeps at home in comfort until he has occupied all the beds in the house in turn. He gets his own breakfast and does fairly well till he exhausts all the clean dishes in the house. But perhaps the most trying experience is that of a husband, recently, in trying to understand a letter he received from his wife at Stony Lake. She wanted some article sent to her, and this is the way she helps the husband find it. This is an extract from her lucid letter of instructions:

"You will find it hanging on the wall of the attic stairs or in the box on the sewing machine in Mary Ann's room—the green box or the red box, I forget which. Perhaps though, it is in our room—in the closet, the top shelf, left hand side, if I remember right. If you don't find it there or on the lower shelf, it will likely be in the bottom drawer of the cabinet in the upper hall. That's where I keep my bundles, and don't untie the bundles, and be sure to shut the drawer to keep the moths out. It's somewhere upstairs, anyway, so don't rummage downstairs and muss up the whole house.

P.S.—Come to think, I may have lent it to Mrs. Jones, and be sure to write me if you find it, and, anyway, be sure and send it out tomorrow by Mrs. ——, who is coming out to McCracken's to stay for a week, though I don't see how her husband, who owes everybody now, can stand the expense."

Note.—The husband has not yet taken to drink.

Many Peterborough People Left For The West To-day

C. P. R. Farm Labourers' Excursion Passed Through on its Way to Toronto—One Hundred and Fifty People of This County Left Local Station.

At least one hundred and fifty people of Peterborough county, left the city this morning on the C. P. R. farm labourers' excursion, in answer to the cry of "Help! Help!" that is coming from the harvest fields of the Northwest. Many in the crowd will not return to the East. They have, as they believe, gone to make their fortune in Canada's golden western heritage, and if the good luck of those who have gone before continues, there seems to be no doubt that some of the contingent who left this morning will succeed beyond their fondest expectations.

The C. P. R. station this morning was a scene of great activity, long before the departure of the train, which was due to leave at 10.15 but which did not leave until 11.35. The crowd was typical of the eastern population that is pouring into the Northwest. The bronzed and sunburnt faces of the majority proclaimed the fact that they were not new to the soil—that they are just what the farmers of the West are clamouring for just now. Most of them were young and all were cheerful and confident of meeting with success in the west. They are encouraged by the wonderful stories of progress that are coming in, and believe that they will have no trouble in doing likewise.

They were not all farm labourers. Some, as their clothes and appearance showed, were accustomed to a gentler life. There were city people in the crowd, some going to settle on the land, others to try their chances in the busy western centres. Newcomers from the old world were there in the persons of a number of Englishmen and Scotchmen. These had their wives and families with them and had no intention of returning.

Some tearful partings were observed as the train pulled out, but for the most part they were one-sided. The new westerners were too full of hope and good spirits, too optimistic in their outlook, to be saddened by departing from their old friends. The glamour and the lure of the west was before them and they had little time to be sorry at leaving the scenes of their childhood days. Mothers, sisters and sweethearts there were, to whom the parting seemed to mean more. For them there was no wonderful west, with its golden possibilities, awaiting; all that remained was the recollection of the distance that would soon separate them from their dear ones.

The train, which was made up at Sharbot Lake, was crowded throughout the great part of its ten coaches when it arrived at the local station. Here extra coaches were added to accommodate the crowd. One got an idea of what the rush into the west means when he gazed at the hundreds of faces in the car windows. Many women were in the cars, going with their husbands to seek their fortunes in the land of promise. A long journey is before them, and a very uncomfortable one, too, judging by the temperature of the cars and their crowded condition.

At 11.35, one hour and 20 minutes late, the train bearing Peterborough county's contribution to the harvest fields of the West, pulled out, amid the cheers of those on board.

Among those who left Peterborough this morning, were the following:

Wm Green, J J Byers, C T Butcher, H Moore, Miss Bessie Young, George Simpson, Robt. Stark, G W Weir, Wm Hales, Rich. Parris, Chas Sneeth, Alice Parris, J T Allen, Stuart Donaldson, M A Sneeth, W J Shaw, Miss N Weir, Ed B Weir, J Walsh, A Bell, Sherman Morrow, F Foote, W Hunter, Wm Irwin, H J Stanton, Miss K Donnelly, W Harper, C Hamilton, Geo Barr, D Davidson, F Roper, Geo McClennan, W Murphy, Mrs. Bell, Beatty, W J Beatty, Geo Barrett, Bert Hubbel, John Neild, Fred Miles, Estelle Bell, Leir Taylor, Wm Bradbury, John Wright, Geo Scott, Mary A Newton, Jennie Newton, Fred Phraser, Herb Scott, J H Slattery, J Wagner, Wm. Council adjourned to meet at call of reeve.

The New York Stock Market

(Furnished by J. R. Haintz & Co.)

New York, August 22.—Specialty movements in the steel issues was the feature of to-day's trading. The general market backed and filled in a very confusing manner being both strong and weak by turns. The result of the entire day was almost unchanged prices. Heavy buying of the Steel stocks in the afternoon carried Steel Common to a new high record, causing improvement in the minor steel companies and equipment stocks. We advise our friends to get some Steel and hold it for higher prices. Call money was firm, loaning as high as six per cent. This market has had a good reaction and ought to have another move up, especially Union Pac. Excepting Steels, the general market was reactionary in the late trading and closed active and irregular.

Salvation Army Picnic Was A Great Success

A Delightful Day Was Spent at Jubilee Point Yesterday —An Enjoyable Feature Was the Sports—The Prize Winners.

The picnic yesterday of the Salvation Army Sunday School at Jubilee Point was a most delightful affair. The steamer Water Lily, which was engaged for the day, took a jolly crowd of 175 members of the school and their parents and friends to the Point, where a delightful day was spent. Upon arriving at the destination, dinner was served, and after refreshments, the programme of sports was run off. These included races and a baseball game, for which 57 prizes in all were given. The participants, as well as the spectators, greatly enjoyed the sports, the winners in which were as follows:

Boys' Race, under 4—
Willie Wilson, Fred Goodridge.

Girls under 4—
Myrtle McAmmond, Laura Thomas, Reta Gray.

Girls under 5—
Mildred Brooks, Gertie Jones, Reta Chatten.

Boys under 5—
Ivey Wilson, Roy Braund, R. Killonbick.

Boys under 8—
Wesley Miller, Stanley Braund, Bert Bredman.

Girls under 8—
Lunie McAmmond, Ethel Northcote, Mary Swerers.

Boys under 10—
Wilfred Miller, Mandell Braund, Fred Standiford.

Girls under 10—
Alice Carter, Mary Youst, Nellie Standiford.

Boys under 12—
Stanley Richardson, Percy Hill, Gordon Elliott.

Girls under 12—

The officers of the local corps, Brigadier Turner, and the officers from Port Hope, with Ensign Gammage, attended the picnic, and were highly pleased with the outing. Mr. R. C. Braund, the energetic superintendent of the Sunday school, was a very busy man yesterday, and no small degree of credit for the success of the day must be attributed to his work.

The Whole Town Is Swept Over By Serious Fire

Incendiary Nearly Wipes Out the Town of Haileybury.

ENGINE REFUSED TO WORK

New Liskeard Brigade and Apparatus Came to the Rescue and Did Good Work — Over a Score of Business Houses and Ten Residences Burned the Ground —List of the Losses and Insurance.

Haileybury, Aug. 22.—The business portion of the Town of Haileybury was practically wiped out by a fire of incendiary origin at an early hour yesterday morning. The fire started in the McCabe Building in the centre of the business district. The loss is estimated at $150,000. Over twenty business places and ten residences were gutted.

The main business places burned were:

McCabe & Stimson's block, occupied by Paul Cobbald as a general store, Budd & Ramshaw, E. & S. Atkinson, Hudson Bay Co.'s store, Maple Leaf Hotel, Mining Recorder's office, Bank of Ottawa, The Haileyburian, Union Bank, Metabanick Hotel, J. H. Bell & Co.'s hardware store, S. Pierce, dry goods.

No Lives Were Lost.

No lives were lost. Two persons were rescued with difficulty from the third storey of the Maple Leaf Hotel. Sam Singlehurst, mining expert, was found in his room in The Haileyburian building two hours after the fire began, and if the original intention of blowing up the building had been carried out, undoubtedly he would have been killed.

There is no doubt of the origin of the conflagration. Dr. Jackson extinguished a fire in a box of shavings under the McCabe Building at 11 o'clock last night, but it is evident the incendiary returned later and restarted the fire. The names across regular premises of Budd & Ramshaw, and E. & S. Atkinson, and from there crossed the street to the Hudson Bay Co.'s store.

Fire Engine Useless.

The firefighting appliances of the town were practically useless. The gasoline engine would not work, and aid was called from New Liskeard a steamer and company arriving from that town at 7.15. With the assistance of the Liskeard brigade, the fire was stopped at Broadway.

It is a sad blow to the town, but a determination expressed on all sides to rebuild on a more substantial basis. The town's growth may be retarded, but it will not be stopped.

Losses and Insurance.

The chief sufferers are: R. and S. Atkinson, general merchants, loss $30,000, insurance not known; the Maple Leaf Hotel, $15,000, $6,000 insurance; H. Bell & Co., loss $6,000, insurance not known; Metabanick, $16,000; S. Pierce, dry goods, loss $10,000, insurance $6,000; Norfolk & Co., hardware, loss $7,500, insurance $5,000; Hudson Bay Co., $12,000.

The chief companies affected are: Anglo-American, $14,200; Standard, $95,000; Montreal, Canada, $7,200; Ottawa, $7,000; Northern, $6,500; Metropolitan, $5,300; Commercial Union, $3,000; Manitoba, $10,000, and others.

Mining Records Are Saved.

Toronto, Aug. 22.—T. A. Gibson, deputy Minister of Lands and Mines, received a telegram yesterday from Geo. Smith, recorder, saying "disastrous fire here this morning; all books and records saved."

SEVERAL KILLED BY LIGHTNING.

Girl and Man In Eastern Ontario Are Victims of Storm.

Ottawa, Aug. 22.—Monday's electrical storm did considerable damage along the Ottawa Valley, several points being struck in the Ottawa district. Laura Moore, aged 21, was washing clothes in the Ottawa River when the storm burst. With her mother and sister, she sought shelter under a neighboring tree. Miss Moore was killed instantly by a lightning bolt that also prostrated her mother and sister.

At Lanark, William Bradford, aged 65 years, of the Township of Darling, farmer, and postmaster of White, was struck by a bolt of lightning while sitting reading a newspaper at his home.

Heavy Stroke at Galt.

Galt, Aug. 22.—Lightning struck a huge willow tree on the premises of the Victoria Wheel Works. In an outbuilding close by was Thomas Kempthorne, an employe. The violence of the bolt overturned the building and flung Kempthorne to the ground, severely stunned. Ernest Rowe, a fellow-workman, standing nearby, also suffered from the stroke.

More Damage by Lightning.

St. Thomas, Aug. 22.—The fierce electrical storm that raged from four o'clock yesterday morning until seven did much damage to telegraph poles and telephone wires in the city.

The house of Thomas Old of Sparta was struck and two rooms badly damaged. The family are all suffering from the shock.

The house of Geo. Bradley of Orwell was struck, the bolt tearing a large hole in the roof, passing down into the kitchen and into the cellar. The three children of Mr. Bradley had narrow escapes.

The barn belonging to Geo. Jeffries, near Lyndedock, and a barn owned by Geo. Kaufman, Delhi, were struck and burned to the ground, and the fine barn of Geo. Bagnall, a few miles from Aylmer also went up in smoke.

Belleville, Aug. 22.—At West Huntingdon Monday evening, the barn of Lewis Dafoe was struck by lightning and destroyed. It contained the season's crops and farming implements.

Petrolea, Aug. 22.—A terrific storm passed over this place about 2 p. m. yesterday. John Lowery's bookstore was struck by lightning, and John Henry's barn, in the township was totally consumed with the contents.

Deputation Goes On Friday

Will Confer With Education Authorities on That Day.

The deputation appointed by the city council at last night's meeting to confer with the education authorities in reference to the Normal School question, will go to Toronto for that purpose on Friday. Mr. T. E. Bradburn M.P.P., received a telegram to-day from Toronto, to the effect that Dr. Seath and Dr. Colquhoun would be in the city on Friday and the conference has been arranged for that day.

They Mean It.

Noted Actress Staying At South Beach Hotel

Miss Jessie Bonstelle, an American Actress of Prominence, With Her Party at This Resort—Many New Guests Arrive—Wild Ducks Visit Clear Lake—Clear Lake Visitors Complain of the Lack of System in Handling Trains at Peterborough Station—Some Were Put on Wrong Train.

Special Staff Correspondence.

South Beach, Clear Lake, Park Hotel, August 21st. — And still they come! The following additional guests arrived at the Park Hotel yesterday to swell the already overcrowded numbers: Rev S D Dinnick, Toronto; Miss McMullen, Victoria, B.C.; Mrs R Y McCuish Fort William; Mr and Mrs C T Raw, and boys, Rochester, N.Y.; Mr and Mrs Clinton Elwell, Rochester, N. Y.; Lawrence, Grace and Cora Elwell, Rochester; Jas J Withall, Rochester; E. Adams, Rochester; Mr and Mrs Jos H Weis, Rochester; Mr and Mrs Jos E Schenerman, Rochester, N Y; Mrs Jas Hackett, New York City; Mildred Hackett, New York City; Mrs A H Stuart, New York City; P H Vay and wife, Rochester.

An American Actress at Sonth Beach

The arrival of Miss Jessie Bonstelle, (Mrs. A. H. Stuart) at the Park Hotel last night, gave an extra pulsation of interest to the guests at the Beach. Her theatrical company had finished their summer season in Buffalo at the Star Theatre, last Saturday night, and most of the company left for New York, from which centre they go to their various homes or vacation resorts for a well earned rest. Miss Bonstella, however decided to seek rest and recreation in Canada, at Clear Lake, where she will be joined in a few days by her husband, Mr. Stuart, who had received an urgent message to go to New York on important business.

Regarding this actress and her company, the Buffalo Express of Saturday last has the following complimentary references:

"With this evening's performance of Zaza at the Star Theatre, Miss Jessie Bonstelle and her company, will bid farewell to Buffalo for the season. The members of the company will leave on Sunday, most of them for New York, for a well earned rest after the arduous summer.

"Miss Bonstelle and her husband Mr. Stuart, are going to Clear Lake, Canada, for ten days' rest and fishing. 'The black bass are fine there, and as we are both devoted to fishing, we shall spend most of the time on the water. I must confess that I really don't care very much whether I catch any fish or not,' said Miss Bonstelle. Mr. Stuart can have the fish. But I love the water and I want to get as close to Nature as possible in my vacation times.'

"Mr. Stuart will hasten back to New York after the Canada outing, to join the company in which he is to play under Mr. Brady's management. Miss Bonstelle's plans for the winter are not yet matured. She might have been featured in Sunday, the play in which Ethel Barrymore made one of her successes, if she had chosen to accept an offer made to her recently. As the Sunday Company starts out so early this month that she would have had absolutely no rest from her season before joining it, Miss Bonstelle thought it wise to decline the offer. She will take a good vacation before deciding upon further plans.

"The Bonstelle Stock Company, in general, and Miss Bonstelle in particular, will carry away with them more universal regret at their departure, and more friendliness of feeling, perhaps, than any dramatic company that has ever spent a season here. There is a general expression of desire for their return another season."

On the arrival at the hotel of Miss Bonstelle and her party by the 2 o'clock boat, a hearty luncheon was partaken of. Mr. Willimick, a personal friend, had in the meantime engaged guides for the party, who were all eager to open their fishing season on Clear Lake. Without any unnecessary delay the party were comfortable stowed away in a couple of big easy skiffs, and started out for Fiddler's Bay. The result of their first piscatorial performance, after a few hours' "rehearsal," was one ten pound maskinonge, and six fine bass. Miss Bonstelle captured most of the bass, and so elated was she over her success that she decided to respond to a hearty "encore" from her party, and so at quite an early hour this morning the party again started out, with the best wishes of the hotel guests for a successful day's sport with the gamey Canadian bass and maskinonge.

Last Evening's Festivities.

Another enjoyable evening was spent here by the guests. South Beach prides itself on having the material for making things lively from morning until night. Every night there is a crowded house and a long series of laughs. Well known guests get little "knocks," Mr. Justice, Buffalo, comes in for not a few of these complimentary remarks, and he usually gives a "Roland for an Oliver."

Mr. Howe, also of Rochester, is another who keeps things on the buzz. He is as lively an interlocutor as one could find among the end men of a minstrel show. Dancing, singing, elocutionary efforts, side-splitting stories, etc., were run off the reel, while the balmy breeze blew in off the lake upon the merry party. About 10 o'clock all hands turned out on the wide piazzas to witness a brilliant display of fireworks, after which the lights were turned out. The guests continue to be under obligations to Miss Maggie McCabe, of Peterborough, for her generous musical services at the pianoforte.

Wild Ducks at South Beach.

Yesterday a number of wild ducks were observed gaddling in the lake not a hundred yards from shore. And later on during the day a whole string of them could be seen a short distance from the north shore.

The fishing continues good here, and the best indication of this is the great demand for minnows, worms and frogs. All the guides in these parts are engaged, and more would be if they could be obtained. The black bass are unusually plentiful.

Reflections on Grand Trunk Service.

It is quite a common occurrence to hear complaints about missing trunks and baggage, from American tourists. Quite an inexcusable amount of luck of system seems to prevail, especially at the Peterborough station, in connection with tourists' baggage and other impediments and guests have frequently arrived here to find that some piece of their travelling paraphernalia has gone astray.

Another instance of the want of some better system for distinguishing the different trains that leave the Grand Trunk station in the morning occurred on Monday, when Miss Jessie Boustelle, the actress, and her party arrived on the platform to take the Lakefield train. It is stated that one of her party interrogated "a man with a blue coat and brass buttons," who was presumably taken either for a conductor or a train hand, and the question put to him, "Is this the Lakefield train?" The answer came back, "Yes; that's the train for Lakefield." The party got on board, and after the train had left the station a considerable distance behind, and the conductor called for "tickets," it was found that Miss Bonstelle and her party were on board the train for Lindsay instead of their train for Lakefield. Imagine the disgust of these tourists, and the reflections flung in large, hot bouquets at the heads of those who have supervision at the Grand Trunk station in Peterborough. Surely is is time this serious neglect of proper attention to our tourists should stop. The G.T.R. spends thousands of dollars every year advertising their summer resort lines in Canada, with the object of inducing American tourists to come over and patronize them. And when they do come—as they are in gratifying numbers—they are left to take their choice of several different trains starting out from one of their city stations, all within the space of about 10 minutes without any indication of their destination.

finish up his work in this province. On Sept. 1st the brigadier assumes control of the Maritime Provinces and the Bermudas. The field, while not so large, is much better than the one in this province, and it is better adapted for Salvation Army work. In the Maritime Province there is twice the number of corps and officers there are here.

The brigadier's successor will be Brigadier Hargrave, of London, Ont., and he assumes command on Sept. 1st.

At the close of Brigadier Turner's address he presented Deputy Bandmaster Northcott with four instruments for the band. (They are a cornet, bass, baritone and tenor, and were manufactured by the Salvation Army factory, London, Eng.

The meeting was brought to a close by the band playing "God Be With You Till We Meet Again."

Brig. Turner Gave A Farewell Address

Popular Commanding Officer of Eastern Ontario Provinces of the Salvation Army Said Good-bye Last Night to Local Corps—General Regret at His Departure.

Brigadier Turner, who until recently has been officer commanding for the Eastern Ontario Province, but who has been transferred to the Maritime provinces, farewelled last night at the local Salvation Army Barracks. Notwithstanding the fact that the weather was very humid the attendance was large, the barracks being nearly filled.

The proceedings were opened by a band selection, after which a number of representative speakers from the different branches of the work, including Sergt.-Major Braund, Deputy Bandmaster Northcott, Staff-Sergt. McAmmond and friends, as well as Sergt. Smith, of Port Hope, who was present and spoke a few words on behalf of the district officers, gave addresses. All these gentlemen expressed their deep regret at Brigadier Turner passing from their midst, while all of them wished him every success in his future work. The officers from the Cobourg, Port Hope and Manvers corps were also present at the farewell.

After a number of preliminary addresses had been given Brigadier Turner gave his farewell address. He selected as his subject, "Overcoming." The brigadier likened this world to a great battlefield, and the Christians in it are soldiers. War is the aspect of this dispensation. He said that the Bible is our armour and victory our hope. He added that we had to overthrow the allurements and affections of this world, but that we were to love not the world, nor the things of this world, if we are going to be what God expects us to be, and the only way to carry out his commands is by being true Christians. The brigadier said he has had the oversight of Quebec and the Eastern Ontario Province for the past five and half years, and during that time the work had made splendid advancement, especially in Quebec. He said the meeting last night would be his last in this city. He will be in Ottawa on Thursday and in Montreal on Sunday, and this will

Terms Upon Which The City Can Secure The Rapid Tool Co. Works

Secretary of Company Writes Chairman of Manufacturers Committee—$2000 to Purchase Site and Usual Fixed Assessment—Assent of One-Third of Qualified Ratepayers to By-law for Iron Works Only Necessary—Matter Will be Considered at Future Meeting.

A $2,000 cash bonus to assist in purchasing a site for the plant, and a fixed assessment on the property for the usual period of ten years, are the concessions the Peterborough Rapid Tool Company want from the city to induce them to locate their works, employing at the start, twenty-five hands, in this city.

The secretary of the company, Mr. G. L. Hay, has written the chairman of the Manufacturers Committee, stating that the company has now reached a stage where they can negotiate with the city. An option on a suitable location has been secured, but before closing a deal for it, the company would like to meet the council and settle on the terms upon which the works are to be located here. Those terms have been referred to at the head of this article.

It is probable that the Manufacturers' Committee will meet in a few days and deal with it, as well as with the question of the Radiator Works.

It is understood that both of these industries come under the head of iron works, for the establishment of which the Legislature empowered corporations to offer special concessions, the most important of which is that it is not necessary that bylaws bonusing them should have the assent of the usual two-thirds of the qualified ratepayers. The section of the act dealing with them is as follows.

"The council of every municipality may pass bylaws for granting aid by way of bonus for the promotion of iron or other smelting works within or adjacent to the limits of any municipality contributing aid thereto, by granting such sum or sums of money to such persons or body corporate in respect of the said industry, as the council may determine upon; and to pay the said sum, either in one sum, or in annual or other periodical payments, with or without interest, and subject to such terms, conditions and restrictions, as the said council may deem expedient;

"(a) No such bylaw shall be passed until the assent of the electors has been obtained, in conformity with the provisions of this act in respect of bylaws for creating debts, and the assent of one third of all the ratepayers entitled to vote shall be necessary as well as the assent of a majority of the ratepayers voting on such bylaw.."

At a subsequent session the following addition was made, broadening the scope of the Act and including iron works, which may have a wider application:

"The council of any town may pass bylaws for granting aid by way of bonus to promote the establishment of rolling mills and iron works in the same manner and to the same extent, and subject to like terms and conditions, as in the case of bylaws for granting aid in the promotion of iron smelting works, and all the provisions of the last preceding section shall apply to bylaws for granting aid to promote the erection or establishment of rolling mills and iron works."

Accidental Discharge Injures Young Boy

Six-Year-Old Son of John Wood, of Zion, Narrowly Escaped Fatal Injury—A Visitor Was Shooting at Rabbit.

A Port Hope despatch says: The six year old son of Mr. John Wood, of Zion, had a very narrow escape from a fatal injury Wednesday morning. Mr. Demetrius Bebee was at the house at the time, and upon seeing a rabbit he endeavoured to shoot to from a window. The gun refused to work and three times did Mr. Bebee snap the trigger, but without success. The little fellow watched the affair with much interest. As it was remarked that the rabbit was gone he ran across to the door to see if he could see any trace of it. Just as he passed between the gun and the window it discharged, striking him in the left shoulder and inflicting an ugly wound. He was hurried to town as quickly as possible. It was found that the flesh was badly torn, and a portion of the bone knocked off. Had it been a hair's breadth lower it would have cut the axiliary vein and artery, and doubtless the little fellow would have bled to death.

The Fakirs Are Doing Lindsay Up "Brown"

The Methods by Which the Sharp Ones Make Lindsay People Part With Their "Dough."

The Lindsay Post says: — Recently Lindsay as well as other towns and villages has been visited by a couple of sharpers or fakirs. One struck the town just a week ago and after a short stay of a few hours he lit out with about $80 in cash. He, it seems, went among our citizens taking subscriptions for the Toronto World, and wishing to do a strictly cash business he offered as an "appetizer" or premium a large dictionary. In some cases he collected arrear accounts, having in some way got hold of a list of such. He collected $6 from one Lindsay citizen. From this town he went to Bobcaygeon and from Bobcaygeon to Fenelon Falls, where he got about $75. When last heard of he was at Cornwall. He is a hustler and seldom stops long at one place.

The other case was one in which a gypsy was selling cheap rings for the genuine and selling key ring tabs for $1. If you ever lost the article all you had to do was to write to a company and get a refund.

Mistake Caused A Misunderstanding

But Richard Hall & Son Were Not to Blame.

In the Examiner of yesterday a mistake occurred in the advertisement of Messrs. Rich. Hall & Son. A black silk coat, regular price, $20, was advertised to sell at $17.50; but by a mistake of the printer it was made to read $15.50. On Tuesday the right figure, $17.50 was given, but by some mistake of the printer the lower figure was quoted yesterday. This explanation is made in view of the fact that to-day a lady who saw the advertisement in the Examiner last night called at the store expecting to buy the coat at the $15.50, and in order to clear the firm of any attempt to evade their promises the Examiner feels it only fair to explain the circumstance.

East End Cottagers Form An Association

Officers Were Elected at an Enthusiastic Meeting Last Night—Telephone, Better Mail Service, Pavilion and Other Improvements.

Examiner Special.

Crowe's Landing, Stony Lake, Aug. 22.—At a largely attended meeting of the cottagers and campers held here last night, the Upper Stony Lake Cottagers' and Campers' Association was formed under most favourable auspices. The objects of the body are to further the comfort and convenience of the cottagers. The association is not formed in opposition to the Stony Lake Association, but rather to act in conjunction with that body in seeking to boom Stony Lake. Among other things a pavilion will be built at Crowe's Landing, and the association will also endeavour to have daily mail service and telephone communication.

Mr. John Davidson, of Norwood, on motion, took the chair, and Rev. F. P. Roxborough acted as secretary, pro tem.

On motion of Mr. Duffield, Norwood, seconded by Mr. H. P. Gould, Toronto, it was decided to form the Upper Stony Lake Cottagers' and Campers' Association.

The following officers were elected:

President, John Davidson, M. A., Norwood.

First Vice-President, Rev. F. D. Roxborough, Smithville.

Second Vice-President, R. Lees, B. A., Peterborough.

Secretary, Fred Craig, Peterborough.

Treasurer, Mr. Duffield, Norwood.

Board of Directors—Harry Ford, H. G. Buck, Norwood; A. B. Mitchell, Toronto; H. LeBrun, Alex. Gibson, Peterborough.

It was moved by Mr. Young, of Toronto, seconded by Mr. McKelvie, of Norwood, that the officers of the association, with the exception of the directors, should be a committee to draw up the constitution and strike the standing committees.

On motion, the membership fee was placed at $1.

Mr. Duffield moved, seconded by Mr. Gould, that five members of the association constitute a legal meeting.

Mr. Robb, of Clarma, stated that if the association took steps to bring in a telephone line to the lake he would contribute 25 poles.

The Executive Committee will draw up three committees, (1) Mail, Boat and Telephone; (2) Regatta; and (3) Building Committee. A meeting of the Executive will be held on Friday night.

Deputations Will Go To Toronto To-morrow

To Confer About the Normal School Site Question and to Inspect the Street Lighting System of North Toronto.

The Normal School site question will in all probability be settled tomorrow when a deputation from the city council will wait upon Mr. Colquhoun, the Deputy Minister of Education, and Dr. Seath, Superintendent of Education at Toronto, in an effort to decide upon a site that will solve the problem which has been causing the council so much worry. Peterborough's deputation will consist of Mayor Hoet, Ald. Mason, Adams, Graham, Johnston and McIntyre.

The deputation while in the Queen City will also transact some other business. The members of the Fire, Water and Light Committee will inspect the lighting system of North Toronto, and the information gained will be used in improving the conditions here.

Stanley Fife's Good Record

In the Honour Matriculation Examination at Queens.

Honours for Peterborough students in the educational institutions of the province are coming thick and fast. Mr. Stanley Fife, son of Mr. J. A. Fife, B.A., formerly of the Collegiate Institute staff, in the Honour Matriculation examinations in Queen's University, Kingston, took first-class honours in English, French and German. He obtained pass standing in Botony and Physics and third class honours in Zoology. Mr. Fife is to be warmly congratulated on the splendid showing made by him.

Peterboro' Lady The New Teacher

Engaged to Teach in the Hastings Separate School.

The Hastings Star says: In our last issue we announced that the trustees of the Hastings Public School had engaged Mr. Gatfield, of Castleton, as principal, but since then he has resigned, and Mrs. Green, of Athens, has been engaged to take the position. Miss Cashman, of Orillia, teacher in the junior room of the Separate School for the past year, has resigned. Miss V. Donohue, of Peterborough, has been engaged to fill this vacancy.

The Round Trip Car will run To-night.

LIVELY RUNAWAY ON GEORGE STREET

One of the delivery horses belonging to E. F. Mason & Co., created a diversion on George street this afternoon by running away from the upper store. Its flight down George street was watched with interest by a big crowd, and continued uninterrupted to the corner of George and Charlotte street, where it was stopped. The rig was badly damaged.

FIELDING WILL NOT STAY OUT

Sir John A. Macdonald was wont to say that the most sticks and stones would be found under the best apple tree in the orchard. Hon. Mr. Fielding is finding heaps of vituperative clubs and stones of calumny about him these days. He is a strong man, in every sense of the word — as an administrator, as Finance Minister, and as a public man. A concerted and energetic effort is being made by Conservative journals to destroy him, if possible. The Kingston News has an article, "Let Fielding Stay out." It says:

No one who wishes well to Canada but will rejoice that Mr. Fielding, Prime Minister of the Dominion, has been unseated, and indulge the hope that he may never again represent Queen's and Shelburne, or any other constituency in this country. Mr. Fielding has been one of the worst elements in our political life. From being a secessionist, and annexationist, he has come to be a leading corruptionist. For no one will believe that he knew nothing of the large sums of money being spent to secure his own election and those of his fellow candidates in Nova Nova Scotia.

It has been pointed out that the judges who heard the petition completely absolved Mr. Fielding of any knowledge of, or complicity in, the corrupt acts committed by private persons, without his knowledge, that led to the voiding of his election. They said that "Mr. Fielding was absolutely innocent of any violation of the law, and, in fact, had done what he could to see that no breach of law was committed during the election." The party journals are trying Mr. Fielding themselves, furnishing their own evidence, and drawing their biassed conclusions from the tortured evidence they present. The object is to destroy him, but they will hardly succeed. He is at once too strong a man to be endured by his political opponents, and too strong a man to be set aside by a policy of abuse and calumny. The organs will have hard work to bring sane public opinion in line with their own cankered opinions.

DROWNING AND SWIMMING.

It is perhaps rather late in the season to insist upon the importance of acquiring a knowledge of swimming, as one of the most effective preventives of drowning accidents. But the frightful frequency of these accidents should arouse reflection, and stimulate to action. They are called accidents, but it is questionable if this is a proper term to apply to what is in most cases, preventible. It is true to the extent of axiom that the majority of accidents of all kinds, is due to carelessness, and disregard of the most elementary precautions that will appeal to persons of prudent proclivities. A general knowledge of the art of swimming is the first condition tending to insure against drownings. This is not always sure, however, and a knowledge of how to act in case of seizure by cramps, and also a better general knowledge, should be imparted of the best methods of resuscitation, in case of apparent death by drowning. As to a knowledge of swimming there is no excuse in Peterborough for lacking it. We are in close contact with water, and this very fact increases the danger from drowning, for it conduces to frequenting the water and, consequently, increasing danger. There is no excuse for not teaching a child to swim, any more than there is for not training a child to walk. Under proper conditions of management, one is about as easy as the other. A gentleman a few days ago, mentioned to the Examiner that his daughter, between nine and ten years of age, was taught swimming so effectively that within three weeks after her first lesson, she actually swam across the river and back, at a wide point, near Crawford's Grove.

If the art of swimming was generally acquired; if a knowledge of how to act in case of cramps, became general; if a knowledge of the best way to restore suspended animation, after submersion in water, of skill in handling a boat, became more general; if people were taught to be always careful, on or near, the water, and not commit the criminal folly of fooling in boats — then there would be a greatly lessened crop of funerals, a lessened waste of valuable lives, fewer saddened homes, and an increasing popularity of a greater enjoyment, greater benefits to health, and altogether more happy and untroubled sojourn, at our near-by summer resorts, incomparable for accessibility and general attractiveness to any others in Ontario.

MILK INSPECTION.

The discussions at the meetings of the British Medical Association in Toronto call attention to the necessity of purity in our milk supply. Desirability of cleanliness in every detail of milk handling from the cow to the consumer has been emphasized, as well as the vital importance of preventing the use of disgusting drugs to preserve the sweetness of milk. A Woodstock milk dealer who has retired after years, declares that all the time he was in business he used formaline— the substance used by undertakers to preserve dead bodies, to prevent the souring of his milk. The various speakers insisted upon the necessity of the rigid inspection of milk. Yet in Peterborough where there are forty or fifty milk dealers supplying a universal article of use—not only of ordinary domestic use—but for the nourishment of invalids or children, we have absolutely no check by way of inspection, upon the methods of dealers, who in the desire for gain may resort to unscrupulous methods, detrimental to the purity and the wholesomeness of our domestic milk supply. No honest dealer will object to the most rigid inspection, and as in other occupations there may be found dishonest members, so in the milk business there may be some who need watching. This is so important a matter that it is surprising that the city authorities have not taken some practical steps to provide for inspection of milk. The local Board of Health are showing great concern as to the purity of our water supply, while they are utterly neglecting a much more important matter, the purity of our milk supply. The city water may have some impurities, but there is no danger of the Water Commissioners using poisonous fluids such as are used for embalming corpses, to prevent the city water from turning sour.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Free trade, remarks the Globe, will never be dead while men demand their own, and protection will never be dead while men demand that which is their neighbour's.

Destructive distribution of the anatomies of Chiefs of Police and Grand Dukes in Russia have became so common that newspaper paragraphs recording such an event attract no more atteniton than the taking off of a man, woman or child by an automobile.

The Russian revolutionists are pursuing Napoleonic tactics—striking the enemy in detail—striking an infinity of deadly blows in countless places in the empire and thus terrorizing the autocracy in a deadly silent way that forbids reprisal as much by the silent swiftness of the blows as by the impossibility of dealing with the violence, which takes such multitudinous form as to require omnipresence, omnipotence and omniscience to cope with them.

A despatch states that a movement has been originated or revived at the "Soo," for the erection of New Ontario into a separate province. It is not probable that such a movement, if it can thus be dignified, has anything like popular sentiment or impulse behind it. It is probably exploited by some few men who would prefer being "big toads in a little puddle" to occupying a less prominent place in broader provincial citizenship, or who would have some prospect of personal benefit from a change. We release the baby from the go-cart when it can stand and walk without help.

The C.P.R. Company has made an arrangement with the Imperial Government for a fast mail service between Liverpool, China and Japan. Special trains will be put on to carry the mails across the continent. When Joseph Howe in 1838 represented, to the Imperial authorities, in his usual forcible way the necessity of establishing steamship connection between Great Britain and Canada, and led Samuel Cunard to found the great steamship line, which bears his sname, he doubtless little thought that in a little more than half a century Canada would be a chief element in an all-British, all-round-the-world mail transport enterprise.

The Brockville Recorder draws attention to the glaring breach of faith on the part of the Ontario Government towards the labour organizations in entering into a particularly vicious contract for the production of woodenware, whereby "the prisoners are farmed out like so many horses at a mere pittance per day, and the contractor reaps a big profit." The Recorder points out that the late Government was endeavouring to free itself altogether from the contract system in its use of prison labour, on humanitarian grounds as well as in the interests of free labour, and had gone so far as to receive offers for the sale of the broom-making machinery at the Central Prison when the change of Government took place. We agree with the Recorder, says the Globe, that there is no meaner or more mercenary method of utilizing the labour of convicts than by the contract system, and it is no wonder the Provincial executive of the Dominion Trades and Labour Council has roundly condemned the Government for returning to it.

Cemetery Men Given Good Time

Mr. Frank Wise Attending the Cemetery Superintendents' Convention.

A Detroit despatch, dealing with the annual meeting of Cemetery Superintendents ,which Mr. Frank Wise, of this city is attending, says:
